The Kalendar,

AND INFORMATION CONNECTED THEREWITH.

PRELIMINARY OBSERVATIONS ON THE KALENDAR.

THOUGH the Astronomical portion of Oliver & Boyd's New Edinburgh Almanac is specially designed for popular use, it may, in the absence of the Nautical Almanac, be found serviceable to the Astronomer and the Navigator.

All the computations are adapted to Greenwich mean time. If we subtract 13 m.* from the time in the tables, the remainder is Edinburgh mean time. Mean Time is that which is shown by a well-regulated clock; Apparent Time, that indicated by a sundial. The column called Equation of Time shows the difference between mean and apparent time: when it is headed "Clock before Sun," the mean is earlier than the apparent noon; and to obtain apparent time, the equation must be subtracted from the mean time: when the column is headed "Clock after Sun," the mean is later than the apparent noon, and to obtain apparent time, the equation must be added to the mean time. To reduce apparent into mean time, add the equation when the clock is before the sun; subtract it when the clock is after the sun.

The rising and setting of the centre of the sun are calculated for the latitude of Edinburgh, at the level of the sea, allowance being made for parallax and refraction. The declination, parallax, semi-diameter, right ascension, and logarithmic distance of the sun, the equation of time, and the places of the principal planets, are computed for the instant of mean noon.

The semi-diurnal arcs of the planets are used in ascertaining the times of their rising and setting: thus, to find the approximate time of rising, subtract the arcs from the times of southing; and to find that of setting, add the arcs to the times of southing.

The time of high water at Leith is computed from manuscript tables deduced from recent observations on the Tides in the Firth of Forth, and the depth from FORMULÆ investigated in the second and fifth volumes of the Mécanique Céleste of La Place. The depths are computed for the Albert and Edinburgh Docks at Leith; the depths for the Victoria Dock will be obtained by subtracting 2 feet from them; and for the Old Dock by subtracting 8 feet 4 inches. The times, though calculated for Leith, will be found sufficiently correct for the other ports on the Firth of Forth, as well as for Berwick, Dundee, Holy Island, and London Bridge, as the winds frequently cause a wider difference than that which exists between the times at those places and Leith; but when greater accuracy is required, recourse should be had to the table at page 24.

The time of high water at Granton may be assumed the same as at Leith; the depth of high water at the Victoria Jetty will be obtained by subtracting 1 foot 10 inches from the depths calculated for Leith; at the two upper jetties by subtracting 4 inches; and at the end of the pier by adding 2 feet.

The rising and setting of the moon, corrected for parallax and refraction, are computed for Edinburgh, at the level of the sea; and her Semi-diameter, Horizontal Parallax, Right Ascension, and Declination, which are given for each day at noon, afford the means of making many useful and interesting Nautical and Astronomical calculations.

All the results have been carefully checked by means of differences and by frequent independent calculations, so that it is hoped no error of importance will be found.

NOTE.—When the time is between noon and midnight, it is indicated by the letter a. or A.; and when between midnight and the following noon, by the letter m. or M.

* The exact difference of longitude between Edinburgh and Greenwich is 12 min. 43.6 sec.,—and the latitude of Edinburgh is 55° 57' 23.2" N.

* In using this Table take from the Kalendar the time of High Water at Leith; add to it the time opposite the place required when the sign + is prefixed; subtract it when the sign — occurs. Thus the time of High Water at Leith on the morning of January 4 is 6h. 11m.; the time in this table opposite Liverpool is—3h. 7m.; and by subtracting this from the former, there is obtained 3h. 4m. Mean Time at Liverpool for the morning tide there on that day.

FARMER'S AND GRAZIER'S KALENDAR.

January.—In fresh weather, where the soil is moderately dry, the plough may be kept in motion.—To make the feeding of cattle remunerative, it is necessary that the most unremitting attention be paid to the animals. Whether they are fed in courts, byres, or boxes, they ought to be kept warm and comfortably littered, whilst their food, of whatever description, ought to be regularly supplied at stated hours. Crushed grains, and artificial food given in addition to stored roots, will be found a profitable mode of feeding, and chopped straw may also be given as a healthy and economical addition to their diet. Cows require succulent roots or food prepared by steam or hot water, to yield milk copiously. Shelter new-dropt lambs, and give their dams roots, hay, and bruised grain, or oil-cake.

February.—Frost being a powerful agent in obtaining mould for covering seeds, plough grass and other lands intended to produce a crop. Whether turnip be folded or carried from the field, plough the land as the crop is removed, and wheat-sowing may follow. Beans and oats may be sown; but it is only rich dry soils which can be seeded so early with prospect of success. In mild weather thorn hedges may be dressed, and new ones planted. Lay up stores of seed-corn, put implements into working trim, and execute many little jobs, that no interruption may be experienced in sowing-time.—Animals about to bring forth merit particular attention,—the supply of milk and strength of offspring being affected by the dam's treatment previous to birth. Keep calves warm, clean, and dry; give hay and sliced roots in addition to liquid food to such as are rearing.

March.—Finish wheat-sowing about the middle of the month. Sow beans, oats, and barley as soon as the weather and soil admit,—reserving cold wet lands till the season advances. The seeds of clover and ryegrass should now be sown amongst autumnal-sown wheats, and the surface lightly harrowed or rolled to ensure the seed germinating. Particular fields intended for barley or potatoes may receive a second ploughing. Prepare composts and manures for turnip. Should the weather be favourable, potatoes may be planted after the middle of this month. This is the best time for planting hedges.—In altering the diet of fattening animals, always let the change be to one more nutritious. Fattening cattle may be allowed bruised grain or oil-cake. If there be a scarcity of turnip for cattle intended for grass, give a small allowance of bruised grain, cake, or hay.

April.—No favourable opportunity should now be lost to sow grain crops. Store the residue of the turnip crop, to preserve the bulbs and prevent the exhaustion of soil. Drain lands intended for green crop where previously neglected. Continue the planting of potatoes in favourable situations. Finish planting thorn hedges.—On store farms, this is the chief lambing season, and the shepherd's utmost attention is necessary. Cease folding turnip, and either feed sheep on stored roots, or restrict them to grass. Should the pastures be late, give sheep grains or prepared cakes. Fattening lamb-hogs require good pasture, being unable to eat turnip freely, from shedding teeth. When there is a scarcity of keep at the homestead, lean cattle may be allowed to roam over permanent pastures. Seedling grasses will seldom admit of being depastured with cattle.

May.—Conclude the sowing of grain crops; and, with the advance of the season, use early varieties. From necessity, barley and pease may be sown up to the end of the month; but full crops cannot be counted upon from such late sowing. Prepare soils for turnip, and use every means to produce a fine tilth. Swedish turnips may be sown from the middle of this month to the end of it. Finish potato-planting. Give a second ploughing to summer fallow, and never allow vegetation to make progress at this season on its surface.—Fattening cattle may be continued on well-kept Swedish turnip and potatoes. When there is a sufficiency of grass, and the soil becomes dry, stock pastures with all descriptions of cattle. In cold and wet evenings, shelter milch cows and fat cattle in courts. Wean early calves, and turn late ones out to pasture.

June.—This is the month for sowing turnips. Where Swedes could not be sown during May, they may still be planted during the first days of June. All other varieties may be sown in course of the month. Drilled crops require attention. Weeds are most easily destroyed when young; and, as a general rule, use hand and horse hoes as soon as the crops admit of the operations. Earth up early-planted potatoes. Haymaking commences in early situations. Mow grasses before the plants seed; remove the crop quickly from the ground, and soon afterwards carry it to the stack.—Sheep-shearing becomes general. Fleeces are proportionate to the treatment of animals; and every progression or falling-off in condition may be traced in the quantity and quality of wool. Cattle may be best soiled this month, and this mode of feeding has many advantages.

July.—Conclude haymaking from artificial grasses. Single out turnip, leaving on rich soils spaces of from ten to twelve inches between each plant, and let hand and horse hoes be in constant requisition, with a view to improving the crops and benefiting succeeding ones. Work fallows thoroughly with plough, harrow, and roller, carefully removing root-weeds by the hand. Execute draining, and apply lime and lime-composts when such operations are necessary. Hand-weed grain crops.—In warm weather fattening cattle and milch cows are the better of sheds, to shelter them from the sun. Throughout summer examine flocks daily, to preserve them from the attack of flies, and use the common remedies for the prevention and destruction of maggots.

August.—Conclude hand and horse hoeing turnip. Apply manure to the fallows, and immediately plough it into the soil, putting the ridges into proper form, and clearing out water-courses, to guard against wet weather. In mountain districts haymaking from natural grasses engages the attention of store-farmers. In low situations corn-harvest will occupy all hands.—Lambs not separated from their dams last month must be weaned and put on the best pastures. On lowly situated arable farms get in ewes for early lambing. In high districts select and prepare the stock to be sent to market in the course of autumn. Prepare ropes, thatch, and every description of store necessary for the harvest, and see that the requisite implements are in proper order.

September.—This may be considered the harvest month. Engage plenty of assisting hands for this important season. Guard against shaking winds by reaping before the juices have left the straw; and to avoid sprouting, keep cut crops always standing in an upright position. When the crop is fit for stacking, carry it by day and by night, and cover the stacks as soon as they are built. Hand-weed turnip where necessary. Finish fallows; and such as are wet and coldly situated may be sown with wheat.—On arable farms, weaned lambs and ewes for early lambing may be allowed to depasture stubbles and seedling grass. The breeders, rearers, and feeders of stock will meet at the different markets, and make arrangements for their customary changes of animals.

October.—Harvest being finished, this month may be considered the first in the agricultural year, as on the carrying of one crop, preparations for the next should be begun. The plough should now be set in motion. Commence wheat-sowing in later situations, and defer only such fields as are very dry, and situated in an early climate. Use the preventives for smut immediately before scattering the seed, and never sow unless there be moisture in the soil to effect germination. Gather potatoes, and carefully secure them from frost.—Unless there is abundance of grass, sheep should get turnip on the pastures. In the beginning of the month remove fattening cattle to the courts, and shelter milch cows during night. Keep weakly calves warm, and allow them nourishing food.

November.—Conclude potato harvest. Finish wheat-sowing, although this grain may be sown any time on rich dry soils up to the middle of March. At this season, sow wheat from day to day as the soil is turned over. Begin to store turnips for winter use; and wheat may be sown where the crop is removed. Form lime-composts for applying in spring and summer. This is the best time for draining soils intended for green crop and fallow. Dress hedges and ditches.—Sheep intended to be fatted should be folded on turnip, and allowed dry fodder. Lamb-hogs will thrive best with an allowance of turnip on pastures. To all flocks apply the salves and lotions in common use. Cattle of all descriptions should receive fodder and shelter during night, and such as are fattening be carefully attended to in the courts or boxes.

December.—Continue to plough stubbles. Store turnip in mild weather. Regulate thrashing, so that there may be straw to last through the season. In mild weather dress ditches and repair fences, drain, and add by every means to the stores of compost and manure. During frosty weather bring forward materials for drains and composts, and remove heavy commodities which require a firm surface for transport.—Cattle of every description should now be in winter quarters, and receive winter fare. Separate the weak from the strong. Have a constant supply of water to store cattle, and apportion their litter and food to last till the arrival of the grass season. Give fattening cattle as much as they can eat, commencing with globe turnip, and proceeding with food of increasing richness.

GARDENER'S KALENDAR.

January.—When the frost is not severe, trench, manure, and turn up in ridges all vacant ground, and prepare hotbeds. In open and dry weather, sow in mild exposures, for a succession, a few early-frame pease, common beans, short-topped radishes, lettuces, carrots, onions, spinach, and curled parsley, protecting them from the frost by mats or straw; and, in hotbeds, sow cauliflowers, melons, cucumbers, small salading, early cabbages, and kidney-beans. Plant, prune, and train standard and wall fruit-trees, gooseberry, raspberry, and currant bushes. Edge beds, form new flower-gardens, and shelter from frost tender evergreens, tulips, ranunculuses, &c. Pot choice dahlias, placing them in a stove or hotbed. Air and keep dry carnations and stage auriculas. Plant snowdrops, crocuses, irises, &c.

February.—Make ready all the ground intended for early crops; and, when the weather is favourable, continue to sow every fortnight pease, beans, onions, spinach, savoy, lettuces, celery, cauliflowers, carrots, parsnips, and radishes, as directed in the kalendar for the preceding month. Start and cut early kidney-potatoes for seed, and put them into the stove or hotbed in order to planting out. Clean shrubberies, roll walks and lawns, and plant out evergreens and shrubs of all kinds, particularly roses. Put cuttings into rich light soil in well-sheltered borders, and plant stocks of the common wild rose for standards on which to bud the Chinese and other fine varieties. Protect all tender plants from the effects of frost, and air greenhouse and stage auriculas and polyanthus frames. Top-dress all fine auriculas and polyanthuses in pots or boxes. Strike dahlias from roots in hotbeds, and sow balsams, cockscombs, tricolors, amaranths, sensitive and ice plants, as well as other tender annuals. Plant carnation-layers, ranunculuses, anemones, and bulbous roots, and divide the roots of herbaceous plants.

March.—The principal crops of vegetables should be put into the ground this month. Sow asparagus, celery, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, beets, brocoli, spinach, onions, Dutch turnips, carrots, pease and beans, savoy, parsnips, and turnip-rooted radishes. Plant red cabbage, sea-kale, kidney-beans, and cauliflowers from frames; and sow cucumbers and melons in hotbeds. Finish pruning, dress borders and strawberry beds. Strike verbenas, calceolarias, heliotropes, senecias, petunias, scarlet geraniums, fuchsias, salvias, Chinese chrysanthemums, &c. Plant gladioluses. This is the best time to graft fruit-trees, and the China, perpetual, moss, and noisette roses, on the common brier or blush China rose, and to propagate them by layers. Pot dahlias that have pushed, and also cuttings from the offsets, placing them in a moderate heat. Protect tender plants and blossoms, and sow polyanthus, auricula, and almost every kind of perennial, biennial, and annual seeds.

April.—Sow whatever was omitted last month, and plant out such of the pot-herbs as are ready for that purpose. Continue to sow brocoli, asparagus, nasturtiums, sea-kale, Dutch turnips, German greens, and savoy, and plant out rhubarb, artichokes, sea-kale, German greens, and small salading. Earth up pease, tie up lettuces, and in very dry weather water seedling beds. Finish the grafting of fruit-trees, and train and clean walks and edgings. Sow annuals, biennials, and perennials. Plant evergreens, and propagate by cuttings jasmine, lavender, sage, rosemary, rue, &c., and all the woody kitchen shrubs. Sow dahlias, carnations, pinks, hollyhocks, Cape, Brompton, and German stocks, China asters, and all kinds of hardy annuals. Pot the flowers struck last month. Destroy the green-fly on roses, and preserve the bloom of stage auriculas from sun and rain. Top-dress all flowers in pots by removing withered leaves, and put in fresh earth. Hoe and rake gravel-walks, cut box-edgings, and mow grass plots.

May.—Sow capsicums, cauliflowers, carrots, lettuces, spinach, pease, cucumbers, red beet for pickling, and a full crop of kidney and French beans. Transplant cabbages, winter-greens, lettuces, cauliflowers, and celery. Hoe and stake pease, water newly-planted crops, and propagate aromatic plants by slips or cuttings. Plant out the flowers potted last month, if there be no appearance of frost; and protect from wind and rain choice tulips, ranunculuses, and anemones. Propagate herbaceous plants by dividing the roots; wallflowers, sweetwilliams, lychnis, and rockets, by slips; and China roses, mimuluses, &c., by cuttings. Put out into the open border pelargoniums, with other greenhouse plants; also Neapolitan violets, and such other hardy annuals as were sown last month. Sow biennials and perennials, if formerly omitted.

June.—Continue sowing the vegetables directed last month, and also turnips for autumn use. Plant out brocoli, cabbages, savoy, celery, cauliflowers in shady borders, leeks, lettuces, cucumbers for pickling, and kidney-beans. Watering is requisite in dry weather both evening and morning; and also the hoeing of potatoes, cabbages, and pease. Thin out onions, carrots, parsnips, and early turnips. Gather and preserve kitchen-herbs. Shade and air melon-plants, and strike by cuttings double-wallflowers, rockets, scarlet lychnis, and stocks. Transplant annuals, biennials, and perennials, and seedling pinks into a bed. Lift all hyacinths, tulips, and other bulbs that have ceased flowering. Cut off the foliage an inch above the stem, and before putting by lay them in sand a fortnight. Re-pot auriculas, polyanthuses, &c. Mow and roll grass walks and plots once a fortnight during this and the other summer months.

July.—In this month prepare all unoccupied plots of ground for autumn and winter crops. Continue to sow turnips, lettuces, and radishes. Plant out brocoli, cauliflower, savoys, leeks, and winter cabbages, and earth up celery. Lift full-grown winter onions, and prepare mushroom spawn. In fine weather, gather medicinal flowers and sweet herbs when in bloom, dressing them in the shade for winter use. Divest wall-trees, espaliers, and standards, of all superfluous shoots. Continue to water in dry weather, and gather all kinds of seeds as they advance to maturity. Propagate evergreens, roses, and other shrubs, by laying the young wood. Inoculate flowering and other shrubs, bud roses in cloudy weather, and divide the roots of double primroses, polyanthus, and auriculas. Lay or pipe carnations and pinks, take up anemones and ranunculuses, and put in cuttings of pansies, calceolarias, dahlias, geraniums, &c.

August.—Sow onions, early cabbages, savoys, German greens, and parsley, for the succeeding year; and lettuces, spinach, and cauliflowers, to stand the winter. Earth celery; hoe and thin turnips; transplant brocoli, savoys, and cauliflowers, and the principal crop of celery into trenches for blanching. Cut those herbs which are adapted for distillation or for winter use. Make mushroom-beds, propagate kitchen-herbs by slips, and take up all onions, garlic, and shalots that are withered in the stem. Continue to bud on fruit-trees, roses, and bushes, so long as the bark rises freely and the weather is cloudy. To obtain new varieties, sow auricula, polyanthus, and anemone seeds, and mignonette to blow in winter; as also the seeds of tulips, hyacinths, irises, and all the other bulbous-rooted flowers. Support and thin dahlias to improve their bloom. Shift tender exotics and hardy greenhouse plants into fresh pots. Keep the ground clear of weeds; and continue to water plentifully.

September.—Sow vegetable seeds for a spring-crop, and plant savoys, German greens, lettuces, celery, and perennial aromatic and pot herbs. Hoe winter-spinach and turnips, earth up celery and cardoons, weed cauliflowers and young onions, prick out cabbage-plants, gather ripe seeds, and make mushroom-beds. Plant cuttings of gooseberries, currants, raspberries, and also strawberries, taking out old stools when necessary. Make cuttings of verbenas, calceolarias, heliotropes, senecias, petunias, scarlet geraniums, fuchsias, salvias, Chinese chrysanthemums, &c., and keep them in boxes during the winter. Continue to divide and transplant biennial and perennial flower-roots; lay almost every kind of shrubs; and put in cuttings of evergreens, China roses, and flowering shrubs. Crocuses, snowdrops, Persian irises, dog's-tooth violets, fritillarias, crown imperials, narcissuses, and most of the other bulbous roots, may now be planted. All the rooted pinks and carnations may be planted out. Sow hardy annuals to stand the winter, and trench up ground in which to plant tulips and hyacinths during October or November.

October.—Plant horse-radishes, lettuces, early cabbages, and other greens neglected last month, in sheltered situations; also cauliflowers, mint, and tarragon in frames, for winter use. Earth up savoys and cabbages as high as the leaves. Take up carrots and parsnips, cut off their tops, and bury them in dry sand. Crop the tops of parsley, to make fresh leaves for winter. Plant all deciduous trees and shrubs. Commence pruning, taking the vertical branches in fruit-trees, and cutting obliquely to prevent rain from lodging; also roses, honeysuckle, and other flowering shrubs. Protect dahlias, young carnations, and layers from sudden frost; and, about the end of the month, begin to plant hyacinths, tulips, ranunculuses, and anemones. In favourable weather, transplant hardy fibrous-rooted plants, intermixing them in the borders, to keep up a succession in the flowering season.

November.—Although hazardous, early pease and beans may be sown in a warm border; if neglected, most vegetables recommended in the last two months may still be planted, earthed up, &c., taking care to protect them from frost. Force sea-kale, rhubarb, and asparagus. Prune and plant fruit-trees and bushes; and finish flowering shrubs and trees. Transplant seedling stocks, and suckers taken from the roots of the pear, codling, plum, and quince trees, to prepare them for budding or grafting different fruits upon; also stocks of the tree-rose, for budding upon them the garden and Chinese varieties. Shelter choice flowers. To make the colours of the tulip distinct, the compost ought to be changed every alternate year; an operation which should be performed this month. Tulip-soil should be one-third of fresh, light, turfy loam; one-third of fine sand; and one-third of sandy peat, or leaf-mould. Take up dahlia roots whenever the bloom is nipped by frost, and keep them in sand free from damp.

December.—Prepare for future operations, by digging, manuring, or trenching vacant ground, and collecting dung, leaves, and turf, to make compost. In mild weather, a few early pease and radishes may be sown in a warm border, and small salads and cucumbers in hotbeds. Cover with fern, straw, litter, or mats, all such plants as are likely to be injured by frost, either in the open ground or in frames, admitting free supplies of air when the weather is favourable. Plant and prune all kinds of trees and bushes, taking care to stake the trees that are newly planted. In pruning roses, remove the old wood, curtail the young straggling branches, adding good store of decayed manure. Fine auriculas, polyanthus, and carnations must now be treated with great care.

PART SECOND.

Information in Commerce, Agriculture, Law, Chronology, and Statistics.

SECTION I.—USEFUL TABLES.

MONETARY SYSTEM OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.

The integer of account is the pound, divided from a remote period into 20 shillings, each of 12 pence; and the circulating medium consists of coins of gold, silver, and bronze, and of bank notes convertible into gold, which is the metallic basis of the monetary system; the silver and bronze coins being available only for small money or change.

COINS.

Gold: Sovereign (or pound) and half-sovereign, coined at the rate of 1869 sovereigns from 40 lbs. troy of the standard fineness of 22 carats, or 916 $\frac{2}{3}$  milliemmes; being minted at 77s. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per troy ounce. The full weight of the sovereign is 5 dwts. 3.274 grains; but it is a legal tender when 5 dwts. 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  grains, and is received at par by the Bank of England at the "current weight" of 5 dwts. 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  grains.

Gold has long been the principal medium of large payments, and since 1816 the sole standard and legal tender. Under the Act 56 Geo. III. c. 68, the mint is open to the public for gold coinage, and standard bullion is converted into an equal weight of sovereigns; but in practice, the bullion is sold at the fixed rate of 77s. 9d. to the Bank of England, in exchange for coin (or its equivalent) at 77s. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per oz., the difference of 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per oz. being compensation to the Bank for delay in coinage.

Silver: Crown of 5s., half-crown, florin of 2s., shilling, and pieces for 6d., 4d., 3d., 2d., and 1d.; but the last two, called maundy money, are not in circulation. All are coined at the rate of 66s. from 1 lb. troy of the fineness of 11 oz. 2 dwts., or 925 milliemmes; and the full weight of the shilling is 3 dwts. 15 $\frac{1}{2}$  grains. Silver is thus minted at 5s. 6d. per oz., an over-valuation at the present value; but the coins are not a legal tender for more than 40s. at one time.

Bronze: Penny, halfpenny, and farthing, coined at rates greatly exceeding their intrinsic value, but not legal tender beyond one shilling.

The Remedy of the Mint is, for gold coins 12 grains per lb. in weight, and  $\frac{1}{8}$  carat in fineness; for silver 1 dwt. per lb. in both weight and fineness.

In England the pound represented at first a Saxon pound of silver, but the coins were successively degraded to about one-third of their original values. The earliest, save the Saxon styca and skeatta, was, A.D. 725, the silver penny, often broken into fourth-things or farthings. Gold was not coined until 1257, and copper not until the 17th century. Of the old gold coins, the chief were the merk of 13s. 4d.; the noble of 6s. 8d.; and later, the guinea, valued after 1717 at 21s.

Scots currency was, when abolished, 1707, of only 1-12th the value of sterling, and £100 Scots = £8, 6s. 8d. sterling, or £1 Scots = 1s. 8d. sterling. The merk = 13s. 4d. Scots, and the plack = 2 bodles = 4d. Scots.

In Irish currency, abolished 1826, £108, 6s. 8d. Irish = £100 sterling.

PAPER MONEY AND BANKS OF ISSUE.

Public banks were introduced shortly after the Revolution of 1688. The earliest and greatest, the Bank of England, founded 1694, advanced its capital, then £1,200,000, to the Government, and acquired important privileges. It was immediately, 1695, followed by the Bank of Scotland, of less pretension, but which led the way to a system which, from its economy and usefulness, especially in attracting and utilizing deposits, and supplying a stable currency, has more than any other cause contributed to the extension and excellence of modern banking. The Bank of Ireland was formed in 1783, on the model of the Bank of England.

The note circulation of the Bank of England was well supported, and save during a short period in 1696, its convertibility into coin was maintained until 1797, when, under adverse circumstances, aggravated by war, the Bank was relieved by Parliament from making specie payments. The notes then became depreciated; but under arrangements consequent on "Peel's Act" of 1819, the exchange of notes for gold was resumed in 1821.

The concessions to the Bank of England from time to time included a restriction, in 1708, of the number of partners in other English banks to six, which limitation continued until 1826, when joint-stock banks of issue were allowed to be formed in places beyond the metropolitan district; and in 1833, when the Bank charter was renewed, and one-fourth of its capital repaid by Government, non-issuing joint-stock banks were also permitted to be established within the metropolitan district itself. The monopoly of the Bank of Ireland was similarly broken up in 1824. The joint-stock banks established in England and Ireland were mainly constituted upon the well-tried Scottish system. No other material change occurred until the introduction of the existing banking regulations in 1844.

Existing Regulations.

The bank issues in England consist of notes for £5 and upwards of the Bank of England (which monopolizes the circulation within 65 miles of London), and of numerous provincial banks; and in Scotland and Ireland of notes for £1 and upwards, all so regulated as to conform to a gold currency. The notes of the Bank of England are legal tender in England, except at the Bank. New banks of issue have been prohibited; and existing banks are limited in their issues except against specie, as in the cases of the Scotch and Irish banks, of which specie one-fifth may be silver; while the publication is required of their circulation and coin, and an annual return of partners for reference and publication.

By the Companies Amendment Act of 1879 it is enacted that banks of issue registered as limited companies shall not be entitled to limited liability in respect of their notes.

The Bank of England has been, from August 31, 1844, divided into two entirely separate departments of issue and banking, and notes for £15,750,000 have been transferred from the former to the latter, against special securities lodged with the Government, including £11,015,000 due by the nation to the Bank, all bearing 3 per cent. interest. Beyond this £15,750,000 no notes can be issued, except against coin or bullion lodged in the issue department. The profit on the note issue beyond £15,750,000, however, goes to the Government. The actual circulation averages £28,500,000, issued about two-thirds from London, and one-third from 11 branches. Notes may be demanded from the issue department in exchange for gold bullion at the rate of 77s. 9d. per oz., and they are payable in coin at the mint rate of 77s. 10½d. per oz. Payment of those issued in London can be demanded there only; but branch notes are payable either at the London office or at the branches where issued. The notes are a legal tender, except in Scotland and Ireland.

The English Provincial Banks of issue have a maximum circulation fixed at the average of the twelve weeks to April 27, 1844. The issues must be at certain licensed places, and no union can take place between a joint-stock bank and a private bank, or between two joint-stock banks of issue, without one of them, at least, losing its circulation. The opening of new branches of issue is also restrained. The aggregate fixed issues, originally £8,648,853, have declined to £6,063,389, and the average actual circulation is only about £3,500,000, spread over 106 private and 49 joint-stock banks. The specie held is not published, for the notes are payable in Bank of England paper, and no power is possessed to issue against specie in excess of the fixed circulation.

In Scotland, banks of issue are confined to those which existed in the year to May 1, 1845; and the issue of each is restricted to the amount of its average circulation in that year; and of the specie held at its head office, where the notes are payable. Should two banks join, the united banks may issue to the amount of their joint circulation. The aggregate authorized circulation, originally £3,087,209, is now £2,676,350. The average amount of specie held is about £4,200,000, and of actual circulation about £5,500,000, issued by ten joint-stock banks, with about 890 branches.

In Ireland, the authorized circulation is arranged as in Scotland; the issues of two banks which unite are also given to the united banks; but if any bank discontinues its issue, and circulates notes of the Bank of Ireland, the circulation of the latter may be to an equal amount increased. The notes are demandable in gold at the branches where issued; but the specie held against the circulation in excess of that authorized must be held at the head office, or certain licensed places. The total authorized circulation is still, as at first, £6,354,494. The average specie held is nearly £3,000,000, and of actual circulation about £6,000,000, issued by six joint-stock banks.

Under four distinct arrangements, a general system is thus established which gives to all these banks a collective action analogous to that of a single national bank, with a privilege of issue limited upon securities, but expansive upon bullion. Placing together the fixed issues gives—

Bank of England, . . .	£15,750,000
English Provincial Banks, . . .	6,063,389
Scottish Banks . . . . .	2,676,350
Irish Banks . . . . .	6,354,494

In all . . . £30,844,233

The authorized issues were adjusted with the knowledge that they must decline; but to the extent fixed, the use of the precious metals (or capital) is economized; while, from the fact of all farther issues being represented by specie,* the whole circulation is rendered conformable to a metallic currency. The actual circulation averages about 44 millions, which, with the metallic circulation, estimating 100 millions for gold and 13 millions for silver and bronze, makes an aggregate of 156 millions. The issues temporarily rise at the money terms, and during the payment of the dividends by the Bank of England, but show little tendency to increase, notwithstanding the growth of trade and wealth. Indeed, notes and coin may now be regarded as the small change of commerce, as, owing to the extension of the deposit system, with the increased use of cheques, transfers, credits, and other expedients of modern banking, mediums of exchange and payment are supplied, which, while as cheap as notes, are in practice more elastic and convenient. The bank clearing system, too, pervades the whole country, everywhere economizing both currency and capital. Local clearings are adjusted by drafts on Edinburgh, Dublin, or London, which merge into greater clearings in those towns, especially in London, where cheques, bills, etc., representing annually about 2000 millions sterling, are settled without either bank notes or coin—the several balances of the clearing banks being settled by cheques on their accounts with the Bank of England. This system could be farther economized by working the London clearing out of a joint account with the Bank of England, a certain sum in consols being always kept as security for the whole Banks.

* This is a prominent feature of the Act of 1844; and it is usually held that the notes of the Bank of England are specially secured by the specie, &c., in the issue department of the Bank. This is not, however, clear (Bank Report 1857, p. 220), and, as respects all other banks, the specie held is not more applicable to their notes than to their deposits and other liabilities.

The Issue Account is credited with the fixed securities ( $b + c$ ) for £15,750,000, and the bullion ( $d + e$ ); and debited with, their constant equivalent, the "notes issued" ( $a$ ) to the banking department and the public. This amount ( $a$ ) is termed the "issue circulation;" while that in the banking department ( $n$ ) is the "note reserve;" and their difference ( $a - n$ ), called the "active circulation," is that in the hands of the public. The action of the issue department is purely passive, having no function beyond that of giving, when required, notes for bar gold at 77s. 9d., and sovereigns (or bars if preferred) for notes at 77s. 10½d. per oz.

The Banking Department separates the business of the public boards from that of commercial or private parties.

The public offices all keep accounts with the Bank, the customs, inland revenue, &c., lodging the revenue as collected, and the pay-office, &c., withdrawing it for public purposes; while, quarterly, the dividends are paid on the national debt, the stocks constituting which are besides recorded and transferred at the Bank. The ( $h$ ) "public deposits" (which include chancery and savings banks' funds) increase through revenue receipts until the dividend terms in January, April, July, and October.

The banking account is separately debited with the fixed capital of £14,553,000 ( $f$ ), and the "rest" ( $g$ ), a variable surplus, increased by accrued profits until April 5, and October 10, when the Bank dividends are paid to the proprietors. The other debits, beside the public deposits ( $h$ ) already noticed, are "other deposits" ( $i$ ), which comprise those of bankers, merchants, and others,—from £3,000,000 to £5,000,000, being those of London bankers. The "seven days' bills" ( $k$ ) includes the outstanding bank post bills.

The credit side embraces "government securities" ( $l$ ), a safe and readily convertible investment; "other securities" ( $m$ ), composed of bills discounted, and stocks, bonds, &c., on which advances have been made; and the reserve of notes and coin ( $n$ ,  $o$ ) immediately available for advances on payments. The note reserve may be viewed as merely an arithmetical expression for the bullion in the issue department available for the banking department, as by consolidating the two accounts, and eliminating the unissued notes, an equivalent sum in bullion or coin will be found in excess of that required by the Act of 1844.

The Government of the Bank is vested in a governor, deputy-governor, and 24 directors. The court or board meets every Thursday, when the weekly account is presented. The two governors have the chief administration, and attend daily, and the court is divided into six regular committees:—1. The Committee of treasury, virtually the governor's council, composed of the two governors, the former governors, and directors elected by the court; 2. The Committee of daily waiting, composed of three directors in rotation, who discount or reject bills, take in or decline bullion, examine securities, &c.; and committees of, 3. Branches and lawsuits; 4. House, clerks, &c.; 5. Inspection of accountants' offices; and 6. Inspection of cashiers' offices. Subject to the court, the three departments of issue, banking, and national debt, are worked by two head officers,—first, the chief accountant, with cognizance of all the accounts; second, the chief cashier, with charge of all money matters. There is also a subordinate control of each office by a principal and deputy principal; besides, in the larger offices, superintendents. The early theory of the Bank was to keep the divisions of accounts and cash entirely separate; and, though now much blended, the distinction is still mainly preserved, and the two check each other.

The Business Regulations, though precise, comprehend little that is peculiar. Any person respectably introduced may keep a drawing account, provided it shall be remunerative to the Bank,—a condition usually fulfilled by maintaining an adequate balance, though in some cases by an annual payment proportionate to the work. No interest is allowed, nor is an over-draft permitted; but the Bank is always ready to discount approved bills for their customers, and to make advances on approved securities. The limit of the échéance of bills discounted is 90 days; but advances on bills of even six months are granted to parties who transact all their business with the Bank. The rates charged are various, yet never below the advertised "minimum rate of discount" by which the Bank's ordinary transactions are regulated.

The General Management of the Bank does not, in principle, differ from that of any other well-conducted bank. The directors must always look to their present liabilities, their present reserve, and the impending demands on the latter. In respect to investments,— the average amount of deposits being known, and due regard paid to their temporary or permanent character,—it is usual to invest all above the amount to which they are likely to be reduced, in discounting bills, short loans, stock, or other convertible securities, care being taken to reserve sufficient cash to meet ordinary fluctuations in the deposits, without disturbing the general nature of the investments. The capital of the Bank is not necessarily kept in the same realizable form, although always available should an emergency arise. The progress of the Bank is shown in the weekly returns. In tracing the action of the law of 1844, the fluctuations of the circulation now attract little notice; but increased importance is attached to the movement of the banking department. An increase of the private deposits (i) indicates increased monetary ease, or in times of distrust a want of confidence in ordinary securities, while a decrease, especially when heavy, attests the necessities of traders and bankers. But the items which chiefly command attention are the two which more immediately determine the value of capital,—the advances on commercial securities (m), and the reserve (n, o); the former indicating the demand, the latter the supply which, with close attention to the foreign exchanges, regulates the bank rate of discount;—which, again, materially influences monetary and business transactions throughout the whole kingdom. When the reserve is high, and advances moderate, the rate of discount is low; but it is raised according as the reserve falls, and advances become in greater request, more especially during an adverse foreign exchange and drain of gold. The efflux of capital abroad is thus restrained, and its influx encouraged. The law of 1844, besides securing the convertibility of the note, operates in this way as a general caution to contract, rather than extend, bill and credit transactions, when bullion is being exported.

Generally gold tends to leave the Bank, and reduce the reserve, when the short exchange of London on Paris falls to 25*l.* 10*c.*; while an opposite effect is produced by the exchange rising to 25*l.* 33*c.* Owing to London being the entrepôt of the mining countries, a foreign demand for gold is often met without disturbing the Bank's reserve. But under exceptional circumstances, political or financial, the Bank is watchful of a diminution of the bullion, and may raise the discount-rate, in anticipation of what is to come, even while the reserve is good, and the foreign exchange not unfavourable; an adequate supply of gold being, in times of doubt or difficulty, peculiarly necessary as a basis of our monetary system.

Since 1844 the reserve stood highest—£22,374,587—on Sept. 24, 1879, when the private securities were £17,326,317, and the discount rate 2 p. c. It stood lowest—£1,552,686—on Nov. 18, 1857, when, with the private securities at £26,113,453, the rate was 10 p. c.

The average discount rate in the 50 years to 1874 was £3, 16*s.* 2*d.* per cent.—(Bank Report, 1875.)

IMPERIAL MEASURES.

This system, introduced 1826, continued the old legal measures of extension and weight, but superseded numerous corn and liquid measures by the "Imperial gallon," a new measure of capacity. The standards fixed were:—

1. Extension.—The "Imperial Standard Yard," or brass "standard yard of 1760," bearing the proportion of 36 inches to 39·1393 inches, the length of a pendulum vibrating seconds in the latitude of London at 62° Fahrenheit, and in a vacuum at the level of the sea.

2. Capacity.—The "Imperial Standard Gallon," containing 10 lbs. avoirdupois, or 277·274 cubic inches of distilled water at 62° Fahr., the barometer being at 30 inches.

3. Weight.—The Old Troy Pound of 1758, containing 5760 grains; one cubic inch of distilled water at 62° Fahr., the barometer being at 30 inches, weighing 252·458 grains; and 7000 of such grains were declared to be equal to the avoirdupois pound.

In 1834 those standards were accidentally destroyed; and a scientific commission having reported in favour of their restoration from material copies rather than by experimental reference to natural constants, the provisions for the latter were repealed in 1855. A standard yard and a standard avoirdupois pound were then constructed from authentic copies of the old standards, and deposited in the Exchequer—copies being at the same time lodged at the Mint, the Royal Observatory, the Royal Society, and the Palace at Westminster.

The following tables exhibit the usual multiples and divisions of these standards, with their equivalents in the metrical system of France:—

I.—LENGTH.*		Metres.
12 Inches	= 1 Foot	0·30479
3 Feet	= 1 Yard	0·91438
2 Yards	= 1 Fathom	1·82877

40 Poles	= 1 Furlong	201·16437
8 Fur. or } 1760 Yards }	= 1 Mile.	1609·31493

The hand = 4 inches; ell = 45 inches; pace = 5 feet; fathom = 6 feet. The degree = 20 leagues, = 60 nautical miles, or 69·121 statute miles.

II.—SURFACE.		Fr. Ares.
144 Sq. inches	= 1 Sq. foot	0·000929
9 Sq. feet	= 1 Sq. yd.	0·008361

I.—GENERAL MEASURES OF SOLIDITY.

1728 Cubic inches	= 1 Cub. foot	Cub. Metre. 0·028315
27 Cubic feet	= 1 Cubic yd.	0·764513

The ton measurement = 8 barrel bulk, or 40 cubic feet.

II.—MEASURES FOR LIQUIDS, CORN, ETC.

8·665 Cubic in.	= 1 Gill	Litres. 0·142
4 Gills	= 1 Pint	0·568
2 Pints	= 1 Quart	1·136
4 Quarts	= 1 Gallon	4·543
2 Gallons	= 1 Peck	9·087
4 Pecks	= 1 Bushel	36·348
8 Bushels	= 1 Quarter	290·781

The peck, bushel, and quarter, are used for dry goods only: 1 last = 10 quarters.

Besides the gallon and its divisions, various other liquid measures, multiples of the gallon, are used for different commodities, as shown under TRADE MEASURES, ETC., NOW OR FORMERLY IN USE.

IV.—WEIGHT.

I.—AVOIRDUPOIS WEIGHT.

27·34375 Troy gr.	= 1 Dram	Kilogrammes. 0·0018
16 Drams	= 1 Ounce	0·0283
16 Ounces, or 7000 gr.	= 1 Pound	0·4536
14 Pounds	= 1 Stone	6·3503
28 Pounds	= 1 Qr.	12·7006
100 Pounds	= 1 Cental
4 Quarters, or 112 lbs.	= 1 Cwt.	50·8024
20 Cwts.	= 1 Ton	1016·0475

II.—TROY WEIGHT.

24 Grains	= 1 Pennyweight	Grammes 1·555
20 Dwts.	= 1 Ounce	31·103
12 Ounces	= 1 Pound	373·242

Troy weight is chiefly used for gold and silver. At the Mint, the troy ounce is divided decimally into 1000ths.

In Jewellery, the ounce is divided into 600 pearl grains, and 151½ diamond carats.

Apothecaries' Weight. †—20 troy grains make 1 scruple; 3 scruples make 1 dram; and 8 drams make 1 troy ounce.

GOLD AND SILVER STANDARDS, ETC.

The fineness of gold is expressed in carats, the unit of reference being divided into 24, and its quality denoted by the number consisting of pure or fine gold. The carat is divided into 4 grains. The British standard for gold coin is 22 carats, i.e., 22 parts are fine, and 2 parts alloy. The fineness of silver is similarly denoted by the number of ounces and pennyweights fine in 1 lb. troy; and the money standard is 11 oz. 2 dwts., i.e., 222 parts are fine, and 18 parts alloy. These standards, often now expressed decimally in 1000th parts or milliemes, as in France, are 916½ and 925 respectively.

Plate, excepting small articles, &c., is of regulated fineness. The standards for gold until 1854 were 22 carats and 18 carats; but, to meet the competition of foreign jewellers, it is now also stamped of 15, 12, and 9 carats (17 & 18 Vict. c. 96). The standards for silver are 11 oz. 2 dwts. and 11 oz. 10 dwts.; the latter, called "new-sterling," is almost in disuse. Provisions are likewise made for five "marks" of verification:—

1. The Standard mark, for plate of the fineness of coin, is, in England, a lion passant; in Scotland, a thistle (6 and 7 Will. IV. c. 69); in Ireland, a harp crowned. But in England, since 1844, gold of 22 and 18 carats is separately distinguished by a crown (7 and 8 Vict. c. 22): the lower standards of 15, 12, and 9 carats bear only the numbers denoting their fineness in carats and milliemes. Silver of 11 oz. 10 dwts. has a Britannia. Articles of all standards likewise bear—2. The Maker's mark or initials; 3. The Date mark, a variable letter; 4. The Hall mark, or device of the district assay office—that of the London Goldsmiths' Company being a leopard's head crowned, of Birmingham an anchor, of Sheffield a crown, of Edinburgh a castle, of Dublin a Hibernia; 5. The Duty mark, of the Sovereign's head.

The date letter of the London Goldsmiths' Company commenced in May 1716 with A in Roman capitals, reckoning on to 20 letters or years, omitting J, and ending with U. Small Roman is then used; next old English capitals; then small Roman; again commencing with a Roman A in May 1796; a small a in 1816; an old English capital in 1836; small old English in 1856; and Roman capitals in 1876.

The assay cuttings are kept, in each assay office, in the Pix or Diet Box, to await the Trial of the Pix, an ancient usage which also exists at the Mint.

OLD MEASURES SUPERSEDED BY THE IMPERIAL SYSTEM.

ENGLAND.—Wine Measure.—Denominations same as imperial, and 1 wine gall. = .83311 imp. gall.; or 6 wine galls. = 5 imp. galls. nearly.
English Ale Measure.—54 galls. = 6 firkins = 3 kilderkins = 1½ barrel = 1 hhd. 1 ale gallon = 1.01704 imp. gall.; or 59 ale galls. = 60 imp. galls. nearly.
English or Winchester Dry Measure.—Denomination same as imperial, and 1 Win. bushel = 7.75558 imp. galls.; whence 32 Win. bush. = 31 imp. bush.
IRELAND.—11 Ir. miles = 14 imp. miles. 30½ Ir. acres = 49 imp. acres.
SCOTLAND.—Measures of Length.—5920 feet = 1920 ells = 320 fells = 8 furlongs = 1 mile = 5929.568 imp. feet; or 10 Scots miles = 11½ imp. miles nearly.—Chain of 100 links = 74.120 imp. feet.
Scottish Measure of Surface.—5760 ells = 160 fells = 4 roods = 1 acre = 1.261183 imp. acre, or 6104 square yards nearly; and 23 Scots acres = 29 imp. acres nearly.

Scottish Troyes or Dutch Weight.—4096 drops = 256 oz. = 16 lbs. = 1 stone = 17.391885 lbs. avoird. The meal boll contained 8 stones, or 139.135 lbs. avoird., but reckoned at 140 lbs., and the Dutch or Lanark stone at 17½ lbs.
Scottish Liquid Measure.—128 gills = 32 mutchkins = 16 chopins = 8 pints = 1 gallon = 3.00651 or about 3 imp. galls.
Linlithgow or Standard Corn Measures.—4 lippies or forpits = 1 peck; 4 pecks = 1 firiot; 4 firlots = 1 boll; and 16 bolls = 1 chald. Two sets were used; the wheat firiot (used also for pease, beans, rye, and salt) = .998256 imperial bushel; and the barley firiot (used also for oats and malt) = 1.4562794 imperial bushel. The barley measure is merely the ancient heaped measure reduced to a definite standard by the Scots Act of 1618. The Linlithgow standards represent precisely those of the counties of Edinburgh, Haddington, Linlithgow, Lanark, Dumfries, Peebles, Perth, and Wigtown, as fixed by the Sheriff-juries under 5 Geo. IV. c. 74, § 18. Elsewhere the measures varied, —though in Berwick, Fife, Kinross, Forfar, Inverness, Ross, and Sutherland, only slightly,—from the Linlithgow standards.

METRIC OR DECIMAL SYSTEM (Act 27 and 28 VICT. c. 117, 1864).

The Metric system, instituted in France, 1795, is founded on the estimated distance from the pole to the equator, the ten-millionth part of which, or Metre, is the unit of length, and equal 39·37079 imp. inches. The Are, unit of surface, = 100 square metres, — the Litre, unit of capacity, = 1 cubic decimetre, — and the Gramme, unit of weight, weighs 1 cubic centimetre of water, or 15·4323487

imp. grains. — The multiples of these units are denoted by prefixing to them the Greek derivatives deca, ten, — hecto, hundred, — kilo, thousand, — and myria, ten thousand; and their subdivisions by the Latin prefixes deci, tenth of, — centi, hundredth of, — milli, thousandth of. Thus the kilometre = 1000 metres, and the decimetre = 1-10th metre.

SECTION II.—FIARS-PRICES OF SCOTLAND.

STATE OF THE FIARS-PRICES

OF THE SEVERAL COUNTIES OF SCOTLAND FOR THE CROPS AND YEARS FROM 1876 TO 1882 INCLUSIVE.

The Fiars are the average prices, yearly ascertained by the Sheriff, with the help of a jury, of the several kinds of grain of the growth of his county, in the preceding crop. Their origin is obscure: it has been referred to the year 1627, when, it is said, they were for the first time ascertained in the county of Haddington; but they appear to have been struck in some other counties in the end of the previous century. The forms of procedure are regulated by the Acts of Sederunt, 21st December 1723, and 29th February 1728.

The Tables have been prepared from official documents in the Teind-Office. The average is that of the period of Seven Years; but in a few cases, distinguished by an asterisk, that of Six Years only. Where blanks of more than one year occur, no average is stated, the Fiars not having been regularly struck.

The Grain is computed by the Imperial Quarter; the Meal by the Boll of 140 Imperial Pounds.

By the Act 28 and 29 Vict. c. 98, British compounded spirits, not more than 11 per cent. overproof, as defined by the Act 23 and 24 Vict. c. 114, sect. 148, may, if compounded from excise-duty-paid spirits, be warehoused, upon drawback of the duties paid, in customs or excise warehouses, for exportation or ships' stores, or for home-consumption (on payment of the duty on plain British spirits, and of 4d. a gallon); and spirits of wine, if rectified from excise-duty-paid spirits, may be warehoused upon drawback of the duties paid in customs warehouses, for exportation or ships' stores, but not for home consumption.

As certain British compounded spirits or British liqueurs are of such a nature that the strength thereof cannot be ascertained by Sykes's hydrometer, § 13 of the Act 32 & 33 Vict. c. 103, enacts that, subject to any regulations which may be from time to time made by the Commissioners of Customs and Commissioners of Inland Revenue respectively, British liqueurs may be warehoused by a licensed rectifier or compounder of spirits in any customs or excise warehouse under the provisions of the said Act, subject to the modifications following:—

(1.) The rectifier or compounder intending to warehouse any British liqueurs shall specify in the warehousing entry or note to be delivered by him under section 4 of 28 and 29 Vict. c. 98, in addition to the matters thereby required to be specified other than the strength of such British liqueurs, the actual number of gallons at proof of the spirits from which the British liqueurs contained in each cask were compounded; and as soon as any British liqueurs are warehoused, the proper officer of customs or excise at the warehouse shall take a sample from each cask containing such British liqueurs, and every such sample shall be examined, under the direction of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, by distillation or otherwise, and the strength of the British liqueurs ascertained by such examination, after making a deduction of five degrees from the degrees of such strength, shall, in the construction of the provisions of the said Act for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be the strength as denoted or indicated by Sykes's hydrometer.

(2.) If the quantity of spirits in any cask of British liqueurs shall, upon such examination as aforesaid, be found to be less than the quantity of spirits as specified in the warehousing entry or note, no drawback or allowance whatever shall be paid in respect of the British liqueurs contained in such cask.

(3.) British liqueurs warehoused in any customs or excise warehouse shall not be removed to any other warehouse or be delivered out otherwise than for exportation or for ships' stores directly from the warehouse on board the vessel in which the same are to be exported or used as stores.

Allowance is now made for the natural waste of spirits in warehouse; it being provided by the Act 27 Vict. c. 12, sec. 7, that duty shall be charged only on the actual quantity of spirits delivered from bond, unless there be reasonable ground for believing that the deficiency either in whole or in part has been the result of fraud.

NOTE.—By the Act 32 and 33 Vict. c. 103, sect. 4, foreign spirits and wine of which an account has been taken by the proper officer of customs may, upon the prescribed bond being given, without payment of duty, be removed to any excise warehouse, and be removed from thence to any other excise or customs warehouse or for exportation, or for use as ships' stores, and may, upon payment of the proper duties of customs, be delivered for home consumption. And by the Act 38 Vict. c. 23, sect. 10, tinctures or medicinal spirits may be warehoused upon drawback by a licensed rectifier or compounder of spirits, in any customs or excise warehouse, under the like provisions under which British liqueurs may be so warehoused.

Rents of Heritage.—If the deceased survive Whitsunday, one moiety of the rents of the crop of that year is personal estate. If he survive Martinmas, the whole rents of that crop fall into the executry. In addition, from and after 1st August 1870, the Act 33 & 34 Vict. 1870, c. 35, would seem to give the executor a proportion of the rents from the term preceding the date of death to the date of death. That Act would also seem to give a proportion of the term's rents of quarries, minerals, and houses, and also feu-duties current at the death. The executor's right to house-rents would not therefore be to the half-year's rents current at death, but to a proportion only to the date of death.

Property taken as a donation MORTIS CAUSA, or by INTER VIVOS Disposition or Transfer within three months before death: Property, the beneficial interest in which accrues by survivorship: Property passing under voluntary settlement, an interest for life or an absolute power of revocation being reserved to the Settlor.—Such property, being that of a person dying on or after 1st June 1881, is liable to stamp duties at the like rates as charged on inventories.—(44 Vict. c. 12, § 38.)

The duties are payable on an account, forms of which and relative affidavit may be obtained at the Inland Revenue Office (Legacy and Succession Duty Department).

MODES IN WHICH DUTY MAY BE PAID.

When deceased domiciled in Scotland.

—In the case of a person dying domiciled in Scotland, having personal property in Scotland, England, and Ireland, and also heritable securities excluding executors, and personal bonds excluding executors, duty in respect of the whole may be paid on the inventory required to be recorded in the Sheriff Court; or inventory duty may be paid on the personal property situated in Scotland, including heritable securities made movable by the Act 31 and 32 Vict. c. 101, § 117, and duty may be paid on a "special inventory" of the heritable securities excluding executors and personal bonds excluding executors, and probate or administration may be obtained in England and Ireland in respect of the personal estate in these countries, and duty paid in respect of such on these instruments.

When deceased domiciled furth of the U. K.—In case of a person dying domiciled furth of the United Kingdom leaving personal estate in Scotland, England, and Ireland, an inventory must be given up in Scotland, probate or administration taken out in England and Ireland, and duty paid on such in respect of the property in each country.

In exhibiting inventories after 1st June 1881, the amount of debts due and owing by the deceased to persons in the U. K., and funeral expenses, may be deducted from the value of the estate, for the purpose of paying the inventory duty. The account of such to be delivered with or annexed to the affidavit to the inventory.

The debts not to include voluntary debts payable on death or payable under instruments not bona fide delivered three months before death. The Commissioners of Inland Revenue within three years may call for evidence of the contents of or particulars verified by the affidavit or inventory.

Where the gross estate of a deceased person dying after 1st June 1881 does not exceed £300, and the estate exceeds £100, if an inventory shall be given up in accordance with the special provisions of the Act, the duty to which the inventory is liable is 30s.—(44 Vict. c. 12, § 34.)

Forms of the inventory and relative affidavit may be obtained at the Inland Revenue Office (Legacy and Succession Duty Department).

Additional and Corrective Inventories.—If there shall be any omission in the inventory, inferring the payment of further duty, an additional inventory is required to be exhibited.—(48 Geo. III. c. 149, § 38; 16 and 17 Vict. c. 59, § 8.) The stamp on the additional inventory is required to be of an amount sufficient to make up the stamp duty in respect of the total amount of all the estate. If the estate shall be over-estimated, or if something shall be improperly included in the inventory, a corrective inventory, duly stamped, requires to be exhibited. Allowance of the original inventory as a spoiled stamp will be obtained within six months after the recording of the second inventory.

The duty on HERITABLE PROPERTY is charged on the annual value, after allowance of the necessary outgoings (§ 22), as an annuity for the life of the successor (§ 21), which is to be valued by tables annexed to Act.

PERSONAL PROPERTY is liable to duty according to the value of the succession; and money charged on heritage—heritable securities—is charged as personalty (§ 1).

Stamps not wanted may be repurchased by the Commissioners.—§ 17. A stamp not spoiled or rendered unfit or useless for the purpose intended, but for which the person has no immediate use, the commissioners may, if they in their discretion think fit, repay the amount in money, deducting the proper discount. ## RATES OF POSTAGE AND CONDITIONS OF TRANSMISSION.

LETTERS.

The rate of postage to be prepaid on Inland (United Kingdom) Letters is—
 For a letter not exceeding 1 oz. .... 1d.
 Exceed. 1 oz. but not exceed. 2 oz. 1½d.

2	4	2d.
4	6	2½d.
6	8	3d.
8	10	3½d.
10	12	4d.

A letter weighing more than 12 oz. is liable to a postage of 1d. for every ounce. Example, 16 oz. would be 1s. 4d. Unpaid Letters are charged double, and deficient postage double the deficiency.

Letters may not exceed in size 18×9×6 inches, unless to or from Government offices.

On re-directed letters the charge for re-direction is the same whether prepaid or collected on delivery.

LATE LETTERS, posted at the provincial offices, are received till within 5 minutes of the despatch of the mails on being prepaid the too-late fee, and posted in the proper box, or handed over the counter. For letters posted at Edinburgh, see p. 144.

Letters, when once posted, cannot be given back upon any pretence whatever, but must be forwarded to the person to whom they are addressed.

Letters containing articles of a perishable or dangerous nature, or anything that might prove injurious to the other letters, are not forwarded, but sent to the Returned Letter Office.

REGISTRATION.—Any letter, book-packet, etc., can be registered on the payment of a fee of 2d. in addition to the postage on such letter or packet, and it must be presented half-an-hour before the closing of the box for ordinary letters, otherwise it is liable to a late fee of 4d. It is recommended that all letters of value should be registered; as any letter discovered unregistered in course of transit, supposed to contain coin, watches, or jewelry, is registered, and charged 8d. on delivery. A letter marked "registered" put into a letter-box, instead of being presented for registration and a receipt obtained, is also charged 8d., any additional stamps on it above the postage being allowed for off that amount. In the event of a registered letter containing an enclosure of intrinsic value, or its contents, being lost while passing through the post, the department under certain regulations makes good the value of the contents up to £2. Letters containing money will, however, only get the benefit of this regulation if enclosed in the Special Registered-Letter Envelopes, sold by the Post Office for the purpose.

NEWSPAPERS.

All newspapers registered at the General Post-Office, London, printed and published in the United Kingdom at intervals not exceeding seven days, may be sent by post, singly or in a packet, within the United Kingdom, for a postage of one halfpenny for each newspaper. Supplements to newspapers must be unstitched. A newspaper packet posted either unpaid or insufficiently paid, will be charged with the unpaid rate applicable to book packets. The title and date of every publication must be printed at the top of every page, and it must be folded in such a manner that the title may be readily inspected. It must either have no cover, or be in a cover open at the ends. It must contain no enclosure, except the supplement belonging to it. A newspaper which has any letter written in it or upon its cover, will be charged letter rate. No packet of newspapers must exceed 14 lb. in weight, 2 feet in length, and 1 foot in width or depth.

Registration for inland circulation includes registration for transmission abroad.

INLAND BOOK POST.

The rate of postage is one halfpenny for every 2 oz. or fraction thereof.

If not sufficiently paid, double the deficiency will be charged; and if sent unpaid, a double rate is charged. All letters or sealed enclosures in a book packet are forbidden. If this rule is infringed, the entire packet will be treated as a letter. If any letter is written on a book or its cover, it will be charged unpaid letter postage. (Entries, however, merely stating who sends the book, etc., or to whom it is given, are not regarded as a letter.)

A book packet may contain any number of separate books, maps, or prints, and any quantity of paper, vellum, or parchment, and may be either printed, written, or plain, or any mixture of the three;—further, all legitimate binding, mounting, or covering of the same, whether loose or attached; also rollers in the case of prints; markers, whether paper or otherwise, in books; in short, whatever is necessary for the safe transmission of literary or artistic matter, or usually appertains thereto; but every packet must be open at both ends, and put up in such a manner as to admit of the contents being easily withdrawn for examination; otherwise it will be treated as a letter.

Circulars, i.e. letters in identical terms being sent to several persons, the whole or greater part of which must be printed, engraved, or lithographed.

A book packet in dimensions must not exceed 6 in. in depth, 9 in. in width, 18 in. in length, and 5 lb. in weight.

It is forbidden to forward by post any indecent or obscene print, painting, photograph, lithograph, engraving, book or card, or any other indecent or obscene article, or any letter, newspaper, publication, packet, or card having thereon any words, marks, or designs of an indecent, obscene, libellous, or grossly offensive character.

PRINTED PARLIAMENTARY PAPERS.

—Same as Book Post rate, but there is no limitation as to weight.

They must be without covers, or in covers open at the ends. The words "Parliamentary Proceedings" must be written or printed on the cover of the packet, otherwise it will be treated as an ordinary book packet. Prepayment is optional. Petitions and addresses forwarded to her Majesty pass free. Members of Parliament may receive petitions and addresses to her Majesty, or petitions to either House, free, if not exceeding 2 lb., and sent without covers, or in covers open at the ends.

COLONIAL AND FOREIGN POST, GENERAL REGULATIONS.

A letter posted unpaid or insufficiently prepaid, directed to go by a route by which prepayment is compulsory, is returned to the sender.

Letters for Australia, New Zealand, Cape Colony, or Natal, posted unpaid or partially prepaid, are forwarded, charged the deficient postage and an additional rate of 6d., and for St Helena, 1s. extra.

Letters to or from countries in the Postal Union, posted unpaid, are charged double rate, and those partially prepaid, double the deficiency.

Letters containing coin, jewelry, articles of value, or anything liable to customs duties, are not permitted to circulate in the countries comprised in the General Postal Union, nor to Costa Rica. Jewelry and precious articles, if dutiable, sent to the Cape of Good Hope and Queensland, are liable to be detained until the duties have been paid, and, if sent to Victoria, are liable to be forfeited.

FOREIGN POST CARDS are issued under the same regulations as for inland circulation, for countries comprised in the General Postal Union, except that when the regulations are not complied with they are not sent.

NEWSPAPERS for foreign countries and the colonies are subject to the same general regulations as for inland circulation; excepting that for foreign transmission a newspaper may be published at intervals of 31 days, and posted within eight days from and including the date of that of publication.

BOOK POST.—To the colonies and most foreign countries printed paper may be sent under the same regulations as the Inland Book Post, and the name and address of the sender may be written on the book; but to some foreign countries there must be no writing or manuscript marks except the name and address of the person to whom it is sent. There is a customs duty on books, etc., to the United States. Nevertheless any book of not more than a dollar in value, and photographs, when sent in limited numbers, and not for sale, are considered exempt from customs duty; as also pamphlets, periodicals, and like publications, and books printed more than 20 years; but such as are considered liable are charged.

COMMERCIAL PAPERS sent under the book post regulations comprise documents written or drawn by hand (except letters or communications of the nature of a letter), documents of legal procedure deeds, drawn up by public functionaries, copies of or extracts from deeds under private seal, way bills, bills of lading, invoices, and such like of a commercial character, documents of insurance and other public companies, all kinds of manuscript music, and of books and literary works.

INDIAN AND CEYLON PARCEL POST.—Parcels can be sent through the Indian Parcel Post Agency to any part of British India.—Offices in London: 122 Leadenhall St., E.C., and 25 Cockspur St., S.W. The maximum weight, size, and value of a parcel, is 50 lb.; two feet long by one foot broad and deep; and £50 in value. Parcels containing jewelry, gold, silver watches, or precious stones, are charged an additional ad valorem rate of 1s. on every £5 or fraction thereof, which must be prepaid. Liquids, or articles of a dangerous or damaging nature, are forbidden. The parcel must be securely closed and packed. Parcels containing books or articles circulating under the Inland Book Post rules are charged at half rates, but the parcel must be advised as books. A letter of advice stating particulars of parcel should be sent to the London office, otherwise the parcel is liable to be charged full rate.

COLONIAL AND FOREIGN PATTERN POST.—The Pattern and Sample Post is restricted to bona fide trade patterns or samples of merchandise.

Patterns or samples, when practicable, must be sent in covers open at the ends, and so as to be easy of examination. But samples of seeds, drugs, and such like articles, which cannot be sent in covers of this kind,—but such articles only,—may be posted enclosed in boxes or in bags of linen or other material, fastened in such a manner that they may be readily opened.

Samples of intrinsic value or liable to customs duty, must not be sent.

There must be no writing or printing upon any packet except the address of the person for whom it is intended, the address of the sender, a trade mark or number, and the price of the articles.

DIMENSIONS AND WEIGHT.—For limitations of letters and packets, see pages 152 and 154.

REGISTRATION OF LETTERS, ETC.—Letters, Newspapers, Book and Pattern Packets may be registered to the colonies and to most foreign countries for a fee of 2d. under the same regulations as for inland letters, etc. To countries in the Postal Union an acknowledgment of delivery may be obtained on payment of 2½d. at the time of posting.

above which sum no single order can be granted. A money order must be presented for payment before the end of the twelfth month, otherwise the order becomes void, nevertheless it may be paid after that period on good reason being shown for the delay in presenting it. Printed forms for making application in case of miscarriage or loss of an order, or when it is desired to stop payment of an inland order, or when alteration in the name of the payee is required, or transfer of payment to another office, or repayment of the amount be required, may be obtained at any money-order office, and full instructions on the subject will be found printed at the back of the money order.

FOREIGN MONEY ORDERS.—The regulations are the same as for inland orders. Money orders are issued on the undermentioned Foreign countries, British Possessions, Agencies, and Colonies, at the following rates of commission, viz.—For sums not exceeding £2—6d.; £5—1s.; £7—1s. 6d.; £10—2s. 0d.:—

Foreign Countries.—Belgium, Denmark, Danish W. Indies, Dutch East Indian Possessions, Egypt, France, German Empire, Holland, Italy, Japan, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, United States.

British Agencies.—Gibraltar, Malta, Constantinople, Smyrna, Panama.

British Possessions and Colonies.—Aden, Belize, British Columbia, British Guiana, Cape of Good Hope, Canada, Ceylon, Cyprus, Falkland Islands, Gambia, Gold Coast, Heligoland, Hong Kong (with an agency at Shanghai), India, Lagos, Mauritius, Natal, New Brunswick, Newfoundland, New South Wales, New Zealand, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Queensland, St Helena, Seychelle Islands, Sierra Leone, South Australia, Straits Settlements, Tasmania, Victoria, West Indies, Western Australia.

POSTAL ORDERS.—Postal orders are issued for fixed sums, for which a poundage is made, viz.:—

Order.	Poundage.
1s. and 1s. 6d. ....	¼d.
2s. 6d., 5s., and 7s. 6d. ....	1d.
10s., 12s. 6d., 15s., 17s. 6d., and 20s. ....	2d.

If a postal order is not presented for payment in three months from the last day of the month of issue, a second poundage is charged, and an additional poundage for every three months or part thereof thereafter.

POST-OFFICE SAVINGS BANKS.—Every money-order office being a post-office savings bank receives deposits of one shilling (or 12 penny stamps on an official form), or any number of pounds and shillings, from any depositor, provided the sums deposited do not exceed £30 in any year, ending 31st December, and the total amount standing in the depositor's name does not exceed £150, exclusive of interest. Interest at the rate of £2, 10s. per cent. per annum allowed on every complete pound. When any depositor's principal and interest amount together to £200, all interest will cease so long as the balance of the account continues to amount to the said sum of £200. Any depositor wishing to withdraw the whole or part of his deposits, must apply on the form which he will procure at any post-office savings bank, and transmit it to the Postmaster-General, who will send him a warrant by post, payable at the post-office named in his application. Further regulations as to details are printed in the book which the depositor receives on making his first deposit, and an abstract of the Act will be found in the Almanac for 1862, p. 143.

INVESTMENTS IN GOVERNMENT STOCKS.—By the Savings Banks Act, 43 and 44 Vict. cap. 36, any depositor in a savings bank who desires to invest a certain sum in Government stock must send to the savings bank, together with his deposit book, an application, signed by him on a form to be obtained at the bank in which he is a depositor, or at any post-office savings bank. The sum invested shall not be less than £10 or the amount of the current price of £10 stock, with the addition of the commission, whichever sum is least. The amount of stock credited to any one account in any savings bank year (whether any stock has been previously sold or not) shall not exceed £100 stock. The whole amount of stock credited to any one account shall not exceed £300 stock. All dividends in respect of stock credited to a depositor in a savings bank shall be carried to the deposit account in like manner as interest on deposits. Any depositor desiring to sell the stock standing to his credit, or part of the stock, must send to the savings bank, together with his deposit book and investment certificate, an application signed on a proper form. A depositor in a savings bank may obtain a stock certificate, with coupons annexed, under the National Debt Act, 1870, for such amount of stock standing to his credit (being either £50 or a multiple of £50). The commission chargeable on investment, including the receipt of dividends and on the sale of stock, is 9d. for stock not exceeding £25, and 6d. for every additional £25.

GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES, ETC.—The Act 27 and 28 Vict. c. 43, empowers the Postmaster-General to insure the lives of persons of either sex between the ages of sixteen and sixty for not less than £20, or more than £100; and also to grant immediate or deferred annuities on the lives of persons of either sex, of the age of ten years and upwards. Certain post-offices have been opened for the receipt of proposals, where full instructions for filling up and delivering the necessary forms may be obtained. See Post-towns, p. 159. For Table of Annuities and Assurance, see p. 92.

POST-OFFICE TELEGRAPHS.

The charge for telegrams throughout the United Kingdom is one shilling for the first twenty words, and threepence for each additional five words or part of five words, the names and addresses of senders and receivers not being counted. If the accuracy of a telegram is doubted, it may be repeated at half the original cost, fractions of 3d. being counted as 2d., but which amount will be refunded should the telegram have been inaccurately transmitted. Copies of a telegram directed to more than one firm or person in the same free delivery will be delivered separately at an additional charge of threepence per copy. When the addressee does not reside within the limit of one mile of the terminal telegraphic office, or within the limit of the town postal delivery of that office, if it is a head office, and when the sender desires to have his telegram delivered by special foot-messenger, sixpence per double mile or any part thereof will be charged. A sum of one shilling per double mile will be charged for the delivery of telegrams by mounted messenger, except in Ireland, where it is usually 8d. per double mile, the charges being reckoned from the office door. If the telegram is to be forwarded by post or train from the terminal telegraph office, it must be so addressed, and if "by train" one shilling must be deposited to cover cost of conveyance.

A deposit of 5s. is required upon all telegrams addressed to persons on board ship (unless lying in dock), to cover any expense incurred in delivery—but the surplus will be refunded on application.

A list of post towns in Scotland, with telegraph offices indicated, will be found at p. 159.

FOREIGN TELEGRAMS.

Foreign telegrams are charged for at so much a word, the maximum length of which, in ordinary European telegrams, is 15 letters, and in extra-European telegrams 10 letters—any additional letters being charged for as extra words. The name and address of the receiver of a message is charged, and must not consist of less than 2 words. The sender's name is also charged if sent; but if not sent, the form must be signed.

* The abstracts have been made on the principle of abridging very considerably such provisions as regulate the conduct of official persons, who may be presumed to look for information to the Acts themselves; while those laws which affect the public in general have been abstracted with much anxiety to give a distinct though brief view of their application. The chapters affecting the appropriation of the revenue, diplomatic matters, etc., though they may be said to apply to the inhabitants of Scotland as much as to the other citizens of the empire, are, for obvious reasons, omitted. The numbers within parentheses refer to the sections of the Acts.

46 AND 47 VICT.

EXPLOSIVE SUBSTANCES.

CHAP. 3. To Amend the Law relating to Explosive Substances. April 10.

(1.) Short title: Explosive Substances Act, 1883.

(2.) Any person who causes, by any explosive substance, an explosion likely to endanger life or property, to be liable, whether injury results or not, to penal servitude for life or imprisonment for two years.

(3.) Any person who within or (being a subject of Her Majesty) without Her Majesty's dominions,—

(a.) Does any act with intent to cause, or conspires to cause, an explosion in the United Kingdom likely to endanger life or injure property; or,

(b.) Makes or has in his possession or under his control any explosive substance, with intent thereby to endanger life or injure property in the United Kingdom, or to enable any other person to do so,

Whether any explosion occurs or any injury results or not, to be liable to twenty years' penal servitude, or to two years' imprisonment, and explosive substance to be forfeited.

(4.) Any person who makes, or knowingly has in his possession or under his control, any explosive substance under circumstances creating a reasonable suspicion that his object is not lawful, shall, unless he can instruct a lawful object, be liable to fourteen years' penal servitude or to two years' imprisonment. The accused and wife or husband, if they think fit, to be admissible as ordinary witnesses in the proceedings.

(5.) Any person who within or (being a subject of Her Majesty) without Her Majesty's dominions, by supplying or soliciting money, providing premises or materials, or in any manner whatsoever, is accessory to any crime under this Act, to be liable as a principal offender.

(6.) 1. The Lord Advocate may order an inquiry by any justice (including Sheriff and Sheriff-substitute) for the county, borough, or place where a crime under the Act has been, or is suspected to have been, committed, although no person may be charged therewith; and the justice thus authorized may examine and bind any witness by juratory caution to appear and give evidence when called on within three months.

2. A witness so examined not to be excused from answering incriminating questions; but his statement not to be admissible in evidence against him, except in a criminal proceeding for perjury.

3. A justice who conducts such examination of a person concerning any crime shall not take part in committing him for trial therefor.

4. A person bound as above to give evidence may, if absconding, be arrested and imprisoned until the time at which he is bound to give evidence, unless he produces sufficient sureties; person so arrested to be entitled on demand to a copy of the information against him.

(7.) 1. No justice to take proceedings beyond those necessary for remanding or securing the accused, without the consent of the Lord Advocate.

3. A crime punishable under the Act, when committed out of the United Kingdom, to be deemed to have been committed where accused is apprehended or is in custody.

4. Persons not to be exempted by the Act from punishment for offences at common law, but not to be punished twice for same criminal act.

(8.) 1. The sections of the Explosives Act, 1875, relating to search for, seizure, forfeiture, and disposal of explosive substances (being secs. 73, 74, 75, 89, and 96), to apply as if a crime or forfeiture under this Act were an offence or forfeiture under the earlier Act.

2. Master or owner of ship suspecting that goods of a dangerous nature, which, if found, he might throw overboard under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1873, are concealed on board, may search for such goods, breaking open, if necessary, packages and receptacles; if he finds any such goods, he may deal with them under that Act, and if he fail, he shall not incur any liability, civil or criminal, should it appear to the tribunal before which the question of his liability is raised, that he had reasonable cause of suspicion.

(9.) The expression "explosive substance" includes any materials for making any explosive substance; also any apparatus, machine, implement or materials used, or intended to be used, or adapted for causing, or aiding in causing, any explosion in or with any explosive substance; also any part of any such apparatus, machine, or implement.

NATIONAL GALLERY LOANS.

CHAP. 4. For Enabling the Trustees and Director of the National Gallery to Lend Works of Art to other Public Galleries in the United Kingdom. April 10.

(1.) Short title: National Gallery (Loans) Act, 1883.

(2.) Empowers trustees and director of National Gallery to lend any pictures or works of art, which can be spared from the national collection, to any public gallery authorized by this Act. (3.) Loan to be for such time and under such conditions as trustees and director may determine. Profits of loan exhibition, after paying expenses, must be devoted altogether to promoting science and art.

(4.) Pictures and works of art acquired by National Gallery under gift or bequest not to be lent until fifteen years after acquisition, extended to twenty-five years where the conditions of gift or bequest forbid or are inconsistent with loan.

(5.) The expression "public gallery authorized by this Act" means any gallery situate in the United Kingdom belonging to or under the control of Government, or of any municipal authority, or of any society or body approved by two or more of the trustees of the National Gallery together with the director. The expression "municipal authority" includes inter alios the Town Council or Police Commissioners of any royal burgh in Scotland, and also any other local authority which may be similarly approved.

CUSTOMS AND INLAND REVENUE.

CHAP. 10. To Grant certain Duties of Customs and Inland Revenue; to Alter other Duties; and to Amend the Law relating to Customs and Inland Revenue. May 31.

(1.) Short title: Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1883.

PART I. CUSTOMS AND EXCISE.

(2.) Import duties on tea of 6d. per pound continued.

(3.) All explosives under the Explosives Act, 1875, on the unloading or landing of which restrictions are imposed, and all explosive substances under the Explosive Substances Act, 1883, to be restricted goods under the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876.

(4.) Game licenses in force, or to be taken out under the provisions of 23 and 24 Vict. c. 90, to expire on 31st July instead of 5th April: 5th April in such provisions to be read as 31st July.

(5.) A game license may be taken out under 23 and 24 Vict. c. 90 for fourteen days, on payment of £1.

(6.) Licenses under Gun License Act, 1870, to expire on 31st July following the date of issue; licenses in force at passing of Act, or granted before 1st August 1883, not to expire until 31st July 1884.

(7.) The expression "any vehicle drawn by a horse or mule, or horses or mules," in sec. 19 (6) of 32 and 33 Vict. c. 14, extended to embrace any vehicle drawn or propelled upon a road or tramway, or elsewhere than upon a railway, by steam or electricity, or other mechanical power.

PART II. INCOME-TAX.

(8.) Income-tax for the year commencing 6th April 1883,—

Under schedules A, C, D, or E, to be 5d. per £.

And under schedule B, for the occupation of lands and tenements—

In England 2½d., in Scotland 1½d. per £.

(10.) 1. Where any dividend, etc., payable half-yearly or quarterly shall have become due and been paid in the course of the said year without deduction of the duty of income-tax granted by this Act, the duty shall be deducted from the next payment.

2. Where any person has not made any deduction for income-tax from any rent, interest, or other annual payment, he may make the deduction at next payment.

(11.) 1. Inspectors or surveyors of taxes to be assessors of income-tax on property under schedules A and B, and of inhabited house duties for year commencing, as respects Scotland, on 24th May 1883, and a poundage of 1½d. to be paid to the collectors of these duties. 2. The sum charged as annual value in the assessment of these duties for the preceding year to be taken as the annual value of any property or inhabited house for the assessment of the duties under this section.

(12.) Acts in force on 5th April 1884 to apply to the duties to be granted for the year commencing 6th April 1884.

SEA FISHERIES.

Preliminary.

(1.) Short title: Sea Fisheries Act, 1883.

Confirmation of Convention.

(2.) Confirms Convention with Germany, Belgium, Denmark, France, and the Netherlands, for regulating the police of the fisheries in the North Sea, outside territorial waters, and incorporates it with this Act, viz.: (I.) Provisions of Convention to apply to the subjects of the high contracting parties. (II.) The fishermen of each country shall enjoy the exclusive right of fishing within three miles from low-water mark, along the whole coasts of their respective countries, as well as of the dependent islands and banks. As regards bays, the three miles shall be measured from a straight line drawn across the bay in the part nearest the entrance at the first point where the width does not exceed ten miles. Ordinary freedom of navigation and anchorage of fishing-boats in territorial waters not to be prejudiced. (III.) Miles in preceding article are geographical miles, whereof 60 = 1° of latitude. (IV.) Defines the limits of the North Sea, viz., North—Parallel of 61st degree of latitude. East and South—1. Coasts of Norway between said parallel and Lindesnaes lighthouse (Norway); 2. Straight line thence to Hanstholm lighthouse (Denmark); 3. Coasts of Denmark, Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium and France, as far as Gris Nez lighthouse (France); West—1. Straight line thence to easternmost lighthouse at S. Foreland (England); 2. E. coasts of England and Scotland; 3. Straight line joining Duncansby Head (Scotland) and southern point of S. Ronaldshay (Orkney); 4. E. coasts of Orkneys; 5. Straight line joining N. Ronald-

Fishing-boat to bear the initial letter and registry number of her port. (VII.) Name and port to be painted on stern, in white oil colour on a black ground, in letters at least 8 centim. (= 3 inches) in height, and 12 millim. (= ½ inch) in breadth. (VIII.) Letter and number to be on each bow of the boat, white on a black ground; and, unless boat of small burden, 8 or 10 centim. (= 3 or 4 inches) below gunwale; dimensions of letters and numbers to be, for boats of 15 tons and upwards, 45 × 6 centim. (= 18 × 2½ inches), and for smaller boats, 25 × 4 centim. (= 10 × 1½ inches). Letters and numbers one-third larger to be painted on each side of mainsail, immediately above close reef, in black on white or tanned sails, and in white on black sails. (IX.) Boats not to have any names, letters, or numbers other than those above prescribed; and (X.) These must not be effaced or concealed in any way. (XI.) All small boats, fishing implements, etc., must bear letter and number of boat, large enough to be easily distinguished. They may also bear private marks. (XII.) Master of boat must have official document establishing her nationality and specifying her letter, number, description, and ownership. (XIII.) Nationality of boat must not be concealed. (XIV.) No fishing-boat shall anchor between sunset and sunrise on grounds where drift-net fishing is actually going on, accidental or compulsory anchorings excepted. (XV.) Boats arriving on fishing-grounds shall not either place themselves or shoot their nets in such a way as to injure each other or to interfere with those already fishing. (XVI.) In drift-net fishing, undecked boats shooting their nets at the same time as decked boats must shoot to windward of the latter, which in turn must shoot to leeward of them. Decked boats shooting to windward of undecked boats already fishing, and undecked boats shooting to leeward of decked boats already fishing, shall be responsible for consequent damage to nets, unless they prove compulsory circumstances or absence of fault. (XVII.) No net or other fishing engine shall be set or anchored where drift-net fishing is actually going on. (XVIII.) No fisherman shall fasten his boat to the fishing-tackle of another fisherman. (XIX.) Trawlers in sight of drift-net or of long-line fishermen must avoid injuring the latter, and shall be responsible for damage caused, unless they prove compulsory circumstances or absence of fault. (XX.) When nets of different fishermen get foul of each other, they shall not be cut save of consent or under necessity. (XXI.) A person hauling lines in which another's long lines are entangled, shall not cut the latter except under necessity, and then the cut line shall be immediately joined together again. (XXII.) Except in cases of salvage and the cases mentioned in the two preceding articles, no fisherman shall, under any pretext, cut, hook, or lift up nets, lines, or other gear not his own. (XXIII.) The use and also the presence on a boat of any instrument or engine serving only to cut or destroy nets are forbidden. (XXIV.) Fishing-boats shall conform to the general rules respecting lights adopted by the Powers. (XXV.) All fishing-boats, gear, implements, etc., marked or unmarked, found at sea, shall be delivered at first port of call to the competent authority, who shall inform the consular agents both of the salvor's and of the owner's countries, and shall restore the articles salvaged to the owner on the salvor's interests being properly guaranteed. Amount of salvage shall be fixed by the tribunals of the different countries, but right is reserved to the Powers to regulate salvage rates by special arrangement. Unmarked fishing implements to be treated as wreck. (XXVI.) The fisheries shall be superintended by vessels of the national navies of the Powers. (XXVII.) The execution of the regulations in articles VI.-XIII., and of that in article XXIII. as to presence on board of forbidden instruments, is entrusted exclusively to the cruisers of the nation of each fishing-boat;

but other cruisers may acquaint these with infractions. (XXVIII.) All cruisers may authenticate infractions of other regulations of the Convention and all fishery offences, irrespective of nationality; and (XXIX.) Any cruiser may require exhibition of the document establishing the nationality of any suspected boat. (XXX.) The commander of a cruiser shall judge of gravity of facts falling under his cognizance, and shall verify any damage sustained by fishing-boats. If necessary, he shall draw up a formal statement of the verification of the facts elicited from the parties and witnesses, and in a serious case may take the offending boat or part of her crew to a port of their own nation. (XXXI.) The formal statement of preceding article shall be in the forms and language of the commander's country, the accused and witnesses being entitled to add thereto signed declarations in their own language. (XXXII.) Resistance to the cruisers of any of the Powers shall be considered as resistance to the authority of the fishing-boat's own nation. (XXXIII.) In cases that are not serious, commanders of cruisers may of consent arbitrate at sea, and fix compensation for damage, causing the parties, where the debtor is unable to settle at once, to sign in duplicate a formal document specifying the compensation, one copy of which shall remain on the cruiser, and the other shall be handed to the creditor, that he may sue on it if necessary. (XXXIV.) Contraventions of this Convention to be prosecuted in name of the State. (XXXV.) Each Power to secure the execution of the Convention by legislative measures. (XXXVI.) (XXXVII.) Procedure in contravention cases to be summary. (XXXVIII.) Convention to be ratified. (XXXIX.) Convention to come into force on a day to be afterwards fixed, and to continue for five years, being terminable thereafter as to any one or more of the Powers on twelve months' notice. Additional The King of Sweden and Norway is empowered to adhere to the Conven-

(7.) The following acts done in promoting an election to be, save in excepted cases, illegal practices:—The making, and also the accepting in knowledge of illegality, of any payment or contract for payment, (a.) for conveyance of electors to or from poll; (b.) to (or by) an elector (save to an advertising agent in course of business), for use of premises for exhibiting addresses, notices, etc.; (c.) for any committee-room in excess of number allowed by Schedule I.

(8.) It is also illegal practice, save in excepted cases, for a candidate or his election agent, knowingly to incur election expenses exceeding the maximum specified in Schedule I.

(9.) The following are also illegal practices; but if committed by an agent other than the election agent, do not affect candidate or avoid his election,—

1. Wilful voting by any prohibited person, or procuring such person to vote; 2. Wilful publishing, to procure one candidate's return, of a false statement of another's withdrawal.

(10.) Person convicted summarily of an illegal practice to be punishable with fine of £100 and incapacity for five years of voting within county or burgh where he offended.

(11.) Section 11 (14.) of Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, to be read as directing the Election Court under an election petition respecting any county or burgh, to report, not only as to corrupt practices, but also as to illegal practices. Candidate, if reported as having committed or connived at any illegal practice, to be for seven years incapable of sitting for such county or burgh, and further incapacitated as if convicted of such illegal practice; if reported guilty by his agents, to be incapable of sitting during the current parliament.

(12.) Election commissioners appointed under the Election Commissioners Act, 1852, as amended, shall inquire and report on illegal, as well as on corrupt, practices.

Illegal Payment, Employment, and Hiring.

(13.) Illegal Payment. Any person knowingly providing money to pay or replace any expenditure incurred contrary to, or in excess of the maximum allowed by, this Act, shall, save in excepted cases, be guilty of illegal payment.

(14.) Illegal Hiring includes, 1, letting, lending, or employing any carriage, horse, or other animal kept for purposes of hire, knowing that it is to be used for conveyance of electors to or from the poll; and also, 2, knowingly hiring, borrowing, or using the same. But, 3, an elector, or several electors jointly, may hire for their conveyance to or from poll; and, 4, no license shall be required for a carriage through its use gratuitously for conveying electors.

(15.) It infers guilt of Illegal Payment to procure a candidate's withdrawal by a payment or promise thereof, and also to withdraw on such inducement.

(16.) It is also Illegal Payment, save in excepted cases, in promoting an election to make, and in knowledge of illegality to accept, a payment or contract for payment on account of bands of music, torches, flags, banners, cockades, ribbons, or other marks of distinction.

(17.) It is Illegal Employment, save in excepted cases, in promoting an election to employ any person for payment or promise thereof in any capacity except as authorized in Schedule I., Parts I. and II., and for any person in knowledge of illegality to accept such employment before, during, or after an election.

(18.) Every bill, placard, or poster having reference to an election must bear on its face the name and address of the printer and publisher. Any person contravening or causing contravention of this rule to be guilty, if a candidate or election agent, of illegal practice, otherwise to be liable on summary conviction to a fine of £100.

(19.) The prohibitions against certain payments and contracts and expenditure in excess of a maximum, are not to affect the rights of creditors ignorant of contravention.

(20.) It is Illegal Hiring to hire or use as election committee rooms, and also to let knowing the intention so to use, (a.) any premises licensed for sale of intoxicating liquor, wholesale or retail, to be consumed on or off premises; (b.) any premises, where such liquor is supplied to members of an association, etc., other than a permanent political club; (c.) refreshment rooms of any kind; (d.) any public elementary school drawing a parliamentary grant. But this prohibition does not apply to any part of such premises ordinarily let as chambers, or for public meetings, if it has a separate entrance and no direct communication with the licensed or refreshment rooms.

(21.) 1. Person convicted summarily of illegal payment, employment, or hiring, to be punishable with fine not exceeding £100. 2. Candidate or election agent personally guilty, to be guilty of illegal practice.

Excuse and Exception for Corrupt or Illegal Practice or Illegal Payment, Employment, or Hiring.

(22.) Election not to be void, or candidate incapacitated, where an Election Court reports his agents guilty of treating or undue influence or illegal practice of a trivial character, but exonerates the candidate personally and his election agent.

(23.) Excepted Cases.—Court of Session or Election Court, if satisfied, on application made and after notice given in the electing county or burgh, that an act or omission of a candidate, election or other agent or person, which would strictly be an illegal practice, payment, employment, or hiring, arose from inadvertence, accidental miscalculation, or other reasonable cause, and not from bad faith, may order such act or omission to be an "exception" from the provisions of the Act, and so relieve the person involved from the statutory consequences.

Election Expenses.

(24.) An election agent, and only one, who may, however, be the candidate himself, must be named for each candidate, and declared in writing to the returning officer on or before the nomination day, and forthwith publicly notified by the latter.

(25.) One sub-agent for each polling district may, in counties, be appointed by the election agent, and declared in writing to the returning officer one clear day before poll, and forthwith published by latter. Sub-agent's acts and defaults to affect himself and candidate as if he were election agent.

(26.) 1. Election agent within his county or burgh, and sub-agent within his district, must have an office published by returning officer. 2. Claims, summonses, etc., delivered there, addressed to agent, shall be deemed served on him, and he may be sued regarding election matters

(28.) 1. Except as permitted by the Act, no payment, advance, or deposit towards election expenses may be made, before, during, or after an election, by a candidate, agent, or other person, save through the election agent or his sub-agent. Money provided in gift, loan, advance, or deposit, must be paid to the candidate or election agent. 2. Contravention hereof to be illegal practice.

(29.) 1. Every payment towards election expenses, unless under 40s., must be vouched by a detailed bill and receipt.

2. Save in excepted cases, every claim respecting election expenses is to be barred and not paid, unless sent to the election agent within 14 days after declaration of poll; and, 3, all election expenses incurred are to be paid within 28 days after declaration of poll. An election agent paying in contravention of either of these provisions to be guilty of an illegal practice. 6. But election not to be void nor candidate incapacitated, if election court exonerates him of sanctioning or conniving at the contravention.

7. Disputed Claims.—If election agent disputes, or refuses, or fails to pay within such 28 days a claim timeously sent in, it may be sued for in any competent court. 9. Also Court of Session may permit candidate or election agent to pay a claim disputed, or not timeously sent in, or sent to candidate and not to election agent. 10. Claims so allowed, and also claims decerned for, to be deemed timeously paid.

(30.) Claim against candidate or election agent the amount whereof only is disputed to be recovered as taxed by auditor of court.

(31.) Personal election expenses of candidate, not exceeding £100, may be paid by himself, and petty expenses, to an amount named, by a person authorized by election agent. Further personal and petty expenses can be paid by latter alone.

(32.) Election agent's remuneration to be treated like other claims, both when disputed and otherwise.

(33.) Return respecting election expenses and relative declaration (in terms of Schedule II.), to be transmitted by election agent to returning officer within 35 days after declaration of poll. Candidate must also transmit a declaration; and supplementary return must be transmitted within 7 days after a payment authorized subsequent to original return. Severe penalties enacted against failure, and also against false declarations.

(34.) 1. "Authorized excuse" may be allowed to candidate or election agent by Court of Session or Election Court, for failure to transmit return and declaration, or for error, etc., therein, on proof that this occurred from illness, inadvertence, or otherwise consistently with good faith. Excuse when allowed to relieve from statutory consequences of matter excused.

(35.) 1. Returning officer, within 10 days after receipt of return respecting election expenses, to publish at candidate's expense, in at least two newspapers circulating in the electing county or burgh, a summary thereof, with notice of time and place where same, and declarations, etc., may be inspected. 2. During two years any person may inspect them there on payment of 1s., copies being furnished at 2d. per 72 words.

These provisions (5 to 8) apply notwithstanding certificate of indemnity.

In case of corrupt practice, court must give option of jury trial; and, 5, where accused elects this or does not appear, or court thinks he should be tried elsewhere, they shall order his trial either on indictment or summarily, and may name a court to try him (which shall have jurisdiction accordingly), and shall take necessary steps to carry out this order.

(44.) Costs of election petition. 1. Election Court, exonerating the respondent from complicity in corrupt practices, may order the whole or any part of the costs to be paid (a.) by the electing county or burgh, if corrupt practices prevailed extensively at the election; (b) by any persons proved to have extensively engaged in or promoted corrupt practices, and failing recovery from them by either party to petition.

(27.) Such court may, on application of official receiver or trustee, after a receiving order has been made, order examination in Scotland of the debtor or his wife, or of any person suspected to possess effects of debtor, or to be indebted to him, or of any person deemed capable of informing about debtor's proceedings.

White-Lead Factories.

(2.) After 31st December 1883 every white-lead factory must be certified by inspector as conform to this Act.

(3.) Such factory shall not be so certified save on compliance with certain conditions (relative to ventilation of stacks and stoves, supply of washing materials, meal rooms, and acidulated drink for employees, and overall suits, etc., for workers at tanks, white beds, dry stoves, or rollers) specified in the Schedule to the Act, or with other conditions substituted by a Secretary of State.

(4.) On written application by occupier to chief inspector of factories, an inspector shall inspect, and, if satisfied, certify the factory.

(5.) An inspector may at any time notify any default to occupier of factory so certified; and if it be not timeously remedied, certificate may be suspended.

(6.) Occupier of factory carried on uncertified after 31st December 1883 to be liable to fine of £2 per day.

(7.) Special rules to be established in every factory by 1st January 1884, for guiding employees as to requirements of Act and preventing injury to health, and to have force of enactment. Failure of employee to observe these rules, and of occupier to secure observance, punishable with fines of £2 and £5 respectively.

(8.) 1. Occupier must, within three months from passing of Act or opening of factory (if later), transmit to chief inspector for approval by Secretary of State proposed special rules. 2. These must, with notice that employees may send objections to chief inspector, be posted up in factory for two weeks before transmission, and must bear certificate to this effect. 3. Secretary of State may thereafter approve the rules, as amended by him, after notice to occupier. They shall then be established.

(9.) 1. Occupier may from time to time propose, and, through chief inspector, secure Secretary of State's approval of new or amended rules. 2. Similarly, Secretary of State may of himself establish such rules, after considering occupier's objections.

(11.) Printed copies of all special rules in force in any factory must be kept posted up in conspicuous places therein, and supplied on application to any person affected by them. Penalty for non-compliance by occupier with this section, a fine of £10.

(12.) Penalty for defacing rules and notices posted up, a fine of £5.

Section 53 of Factory and Workshop Act, 1878, only authorizes overtime employment of young persons or women on forty-eight days in all in any twelve months; in reckoning such forty-eight days, every day on which any young person or woman has been employed overtime is to be taken into account.

(b.) Section 56 of said Act only authorizes overtime employment of women on ninety-six days in all in any twelve months; and in reckoning such ninety-six days, every day on which any woman has been employed overtime is to be taken into account.

(14.) Notwithstanding sections 12 and 14 of said Act, employment of a child in an afternoon set, where dinner-time is not before 2 P.M., may begin at noon, provided the morning set ends then.

Bakehouses.

(15.) No room or place shall be let or occupied as a bakehouse which was not so let or occupied before 1st June 1883, unless the following regulations are complied with:—(I.) No watercloset, earthcloset, privy, or ash-pit shall be within or communicate directly with the bakehouse; (II.) Any cistern for supplying water to the bakehouse shall be separate and distinct from any cistern for supplying water to a watercloset; (III.) No drain or pipe for carrying off faecal or sewage matter shall have an opening within the bakehouse.

Contraventions punishable with fine of 40s., and 5s. per diem for continued contravention after conviction.

(16.) A Court of Summary Jurisdiction, if satisfied on the prosecution of an inspector or local authority, that a bakehouse (whether or not in use before passing of this Act) is unfit on sanitary grounds for use as such, may fine occupier 40s., and on second conviction £5, and order him to remove ground of complaint within a time named, which may be subsequently extended. Failing compliance within such time, occupier to incur fine of £1 for every day that non-compliance continues.

(17.) 1. As respects retail bakehouses, this part of Act, and sections 3, 33, 34, and 35 of Factory and Workshop Act, 1878 (which relate to sanitary conditions), shall be enforced by local authority of the district, acting under Public Health Act of 1867, and not by a factory inspector. Local authority's medical officer of health shall exercise inspector's powers; and, 2. If he finds any child, young person, or woman employed in any retail bakehouse, shall apprise inspector of the district.

(18.) Act to be construed as one with the Factory and Workshop Act, 1878.

NATIONAL DEBT.

CHAP. 54. To make further Provision respecting the National Debt and the Investment of Moneys in the hands of the National Debt Commissioners on account of Savings Banks and otherwise. August 25.

Preamble narrates that, by the Sinking Fund Act, 1875, a fixed annual sum of £28,000,000 was charged on the Consolidated Fund as the permanent annual charge for the National Debt. Various annuities payable out of this charge will expire in 1885, including certain terminable annuities substituted, under the Savings Bank Investment Act, 1866, etc., for perpetual annuities held by the National Debt Commissioners on account of Trustee and Post-Office Savings Banks. The main object of the present Act is to convert into terminable annuities, similarly payable out of the permanent annual charge for the National Debt,—(I.) Additional perpetual annuities held on account of Trustee and Post-Office Savings Banks. The first terminable annuities so created are to amount to £3,600,000 annual value, divided into three sets of £1,200,000 each, terminating within five, ten, and fifteen years respectively from 31st March 1884. On expiration of any terminable annuity, a new annuity for fifteen years is to be, by conversion of perpetual annuities, created of an annual amount equivalent to the expiring terminable annuity and the interest on the permanent annuities newly converted. (II.) A capital stock not exceeding £40,000,000, being a portion of certain perpetual annuities, representing in all over £61,000,000 capital stock, standing to the account of the Paymaster-General of the Court of Chancery in trust for suitors. The annuities thus created are to be terminable within twenty years from 31st March 1884.

(1.) Short title: National Debt Act, 1883.

(9.) The new terminable annuities are to be applied as follows:—

1. Those payable to the National Debt Commissioners shall be applied, so far as representing interest, as the dividends on the perpetual annuities would have been applied, and, so far as representing principal, as moneys received on account of Trustee or Post-Office Savings Banks. 2. Those payable to the Paymaster-General shall be paid to the National Debt Commissioners, who shall thereout pay to him a sum equal to the dividends on the perpetual annuities had these remained unconverted, and shall invest the residue, with dividends and accumulations, in the purchase of perpetual annuities on account of the Supreme Court of Justice. 4. At the termination of the terminable annuities, the original perpetual annuities shall be replaced to the Paymaster General out of the purchased annuities, and, if necessary, other perpetual annuities created by the Treasury; but if the amount so purchased exceeds the amounts to be replaced, the surplus shall be cancelled as the Treasury may direct.

EDUCATION IN SCOTLAND.

CHAP. 56. To Amend the Laws relating to Education in Scotland, and for other purposes connected therewith. August 25.

(1.) Short title: Education (Scotland) Act, 1883. This Act and the Education Acts of 1872 and 1878 to be cited together as the Education (Scotland) Acts, 1872 to 1883.

(2.) Act, save where otherwise provided, to commence 1st January 1884.

(3.) Definitions: In the Education Acts, sheriff includes sheriff-substitute.

A Court of Summary Jurisdiction under this Act shall consist of a sheriff, sitting either in the ordinary Sheriff Court or at any place where small debt circuit courts are held, or one or more justices of the peace sitting in open court, or the provost or bailie of any royal or parliamentary burgh, or a magistrate of police of any police burgh, or a judge of police sitting in the police court.

(4.) Section 69 of the Education Act of 1872 to be read as enacting that every parent must educate his children who are between five and fourteen years of age, and who have not obtained a certificate of proficiency in reading, writing, and arithmetic, under section 73 of that Act as amended.

(5.) 1. Section 70 of the Education Act of 1872 to be read as enacting that the school board officer shall report what parents have failed and omitted (not, as in that Act, "have failed and omitted and are failing and omitting") to educate their children; and that the board shall certify of a defaulter simply that "he has been without reasonable excuse failing" to educate (not, as in that Act, "has been and is grossly and without reasonable excuse failing").

2. Section 22 of the Education Act of 1878 to be read as including the case of parents unable from poverty to pay for the elementary education of children between five and fourteen (not thirteen) years of age, and as empowering the sheriff, in ordering a parochial board to pay fees for such parents, to order further that the education shall be given "at any public or inspected school selected by the parent, or, failing such selection, appointed by the sheriff."

(6.) After 1st September 1885, no one may take into his employment a child of ten and not above fourteen years of age, unless such child, 1, has passed the third standard and is attending a public or inspected school under section 23 of the Factory and Workshop Act, 1878, or under any minute of the Scotch Education Department fixing the number of attendances at school to be required of such children; or, 2, has obtained a certificate for reading, writing, and arithmetic, under section 73 of the Education Act of 1872 as amended in next section. In no case may a child under thirteen be taken into full-time employment in a factory or workshop under the said Factory and Workshop Act of 1878; but a child at service before 1st September 1885, who attends school in accordance with that Act, may be employed after that date.

(7.) A certificate for reading, writing, and arithmetic under section 73 of the Education Act of 1872 shall not be granted to a child unless he has passed the fifth standard.

(8.) Passing a standard, in the two preceding sections, signifies passing in each of the three subjects of reading, writing, and elementary arithmetic as prescribed by the minutes of the Scotch Education Department for 1883 or any subsequent year.

(9.) A school board, after due warning, may complain to a Court of Summary Jurisdiction regarding a parent who, without reasonable excuse, fails to educate his child or to secure his child's regular attendance at school; and the court may thereupon issue an "attendance order," requiring the child's regular attendance at some public or inspected school willing to receive him and named in the order, such school to be selected by the parent, or, failing him, by the court.

(10.) Where an attendance order is not complied with without reasonable excuse, a Court of Summary Jurisdiction, on complaint by the school board, not to be repeated at less intervals than one month, may impose a penalty of 20s., with expenses, or fourteen days' imprisonment.

(11.) Defines "reasonable excuse" under the two preceding sections, and sections 70 and 72 of the Education Act of 1872, namely,—

1. Child's sickness, or other unavoidable cause of non-attendance.

2. His residence more than three miles by nearest road from a public or inspected school.

(12.) A school board informed by any person of any child in their district as not receiving elementary education, must proceed under sections 9 and 10, unless for reasons to be set forth in their minutes.

(13.) The Scotch Education Department may, after inquiry and notice, require two or more school boards, whether of parishes or burghs or parishes and burghs, to combine for providing and maintaining a common school or schools, and, failing timeous compliance by the boards, may compel them by petition and complaint in the Court of Session; the Department may also combine, on such terms and conditions as they approve, any district or districts having no public schools with an adjoining district, whether burghal or landward, or both.

(14.) Repeals section 23 of the Education Act of 1878, and substitutes as follows:—

Prosecutions for penalties or orders under the Education Acts or this Act may take place under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts before a Court of Summary Jurisdiction (whose decision shall be final, subject to the provisions of the Summary Prosecutions Appeals (Scotland) Act, 1875). Any nominee of the school board, or any inspector or sub-inspector of factories, workshops, or mines, as case may be, may prosecute, and no expenses can be awarded against such prosecutor. No member of the school board may act as a member of the court.

(15.) Saves right to proceed against defaulters under other enactments instead of under this Act.

PATENTS, DESIGNS, AND TRADE MARKS.

CHAP. 57. To Amend and Consolidate the Law relating to Patents for Inventions, Registration of Designs and of Trade Marks. August 25.

PART I.—PRELIMINARY.

(1.) Short title: Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883.

(2.) Division into parts. (3.) Act to commence from and after 31st December 1883.

PART II.—PATENTS.

Application for and Grant of Patent.

—(4.) Any person, whether British subject or not, and two or more persons jointly, may apply for patent. (5.) Application must be in prescribed form, sent to Patent Office in prescribed manner, and must declare applicants' discovery and possession of an invention to be patented. It must also be accompanied by a specification, either provisional, describing nature of invention, or complete, detailing nature and mode of performing it, which must commence with title, and, when complete, end with distinct statement of invention, and have drawings attached, if required. (6.) Comptroller General of Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks to have every application reported upon by an examiner. (7.) 1. If report unfavourable to form, etc., of application, comptroller may require amendment, subject to an appeal to the law officer. 4. Comptroller to intimate acceptance of application to applicant. 5. If before patent on one application is sealed, a second application is lodged with a specification similarly titled, and examiner reports that the two inventions are identical, comptroller, after notice to the applicants, may determine the fact, subject to appeal to law officer, and may refuse patent to second applicant.

(8.) Application to be deemed abandoned unless complete specification is lodged within nine months.

(9.) 1. Where complete specification follows provisional one, examiner is to report on its form, and on identity of invention it describes. If report adverse, specification may be refused till amended, subject to appeal to law officer. 4. Failing its acceptance within twelve months after application, application (unless appeal is pending) to become void. 5. Examiners' reports to be private, unless a court orders their production in the interests of justice.

(10.) Complete specification, when accepted, to be advertised by comptroller, and with application and drawings to be open to public inspection.

(11.) 1. Within two months of advertisement any one may intimate at Patent Office opposition to patent, but only on ground that applicant obtained the invention from him or his authors, that it has been already patented, or that it has been reported to comptroller as identical with one in a specification similarly titled and previously lodged. 2. Comptroller to intimate opposition to applicant, and, on expiry of the two months, after hearing parties, to decide the case, subject to appeal to law officer, who may take the aid of an expert.

(12.) Failing successful opposition, patent to be sealed as soon as may be, and not after fifteen months from application, save in case of delay by appeal or opposition, or of applicant's death. Within twelve months of last event, patent may be sealed to his legal representatives.

(13.) Patent to bear date of application; but no infringement to be actionable before publication of complete specification. Also sealing of one patent not to prevent sealing of another on an earlier application for same invention.

Provisional Protection means (14.) Right to use and publish an invention between the date of an accepted application and the sealing of a patent, without prejudice to latter.

Protection by Complete Specification.

—(15.) On acceptance of complete specification, applicant has, until sealing or expiry of time for sealing patent, all privileges and rights of a patentee, save that he cannot sue for infringement unless and until patent is granted.

Patent.—(16.) Patent to extend to United Kingdom and Isle of Man; and (17.) To endure for fourteen years, but to cease on failure to make prescribed payments. In case of accidental failure, comptroller may, for a fee not over £10, grant three months' enlargement of time for payment, but court may refuse damages for an infringement committed after such failure and before enlargement.

Amendment of Specification.—(18.)

1. Leave to amend specification and drawings, by disclaimer, correction, or explanation, may from time to time be requested in writing by applicant or patentee. 2. Request shall be advertised, and within a month any one may intimate at Patent Office opposition thereto, which the comptroller shall notify to person making request. 3. Thereafter, whether there is opposition or not, comptroller shall decide, subject to appeal to law officer, whether and on what conditions amendment should be allowed. 8. Amendment must not enlarge or change invention originally claimed, but, 9, when allowed, to be conclusive save in case of fraud, and to be deemed part of specification. 10. This section is not to apply pending an action for infringement or other legal proceeding.

(19.) In proceedings for infringement or revocation, court may grant delay to enable patentee to amend specification by disclaimer.

(20.) Amendment when allowed to bar damages for use of invention prior thereto, unless patentee instructs that his original claim was honestly and skilfully framed.

(21.) Every amendment to be advertised.

Compulsory Licenses.—(22.) Board of Trade may compel a patentee who refuses licenses on reasonable terms to grant same, where (a.) the patent is not being worked in United Kingdom, (b.) the public's requirements in respect of the invention cannot be supplied, or (c.) any one is prevented from advantageous use of an invention which he possesses.

Register of Patents.—(23.) Register to be kept at Patent Office of names and addresses of patentees, of notices of assignments, licenses, amendments, extensions, revocations, etc., and to be prima facie evidence. Copies of deeds, licenses, etc., must be lodged for filing.

Fees.—(24.) The following scale is prescribed:—

- (a.) Up to sealing.
On application for provisional protection, . . . . . £1
On filing complete specification, . . . £3
Or, on filing complete specification with first application, . . . . £4
- (b.) Further before and of four years from date of patent.
On certificate of renewal, . . . . £50
- (c.) Further, before end of seven years, or, in case of patents granted after commencement of Act, eight years from date of patent.
On certificate of renewal, . . . . £100
Or in lieu of the fees of £50 and £100, the following annual fees:—
Before end of 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th years, £10 a year.
Before end of 8th and 9th years, £15 a year.
Before end of 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th years, £20 a year.

Board of Trade, with consent of Treasury, may reduce these fees, and also exact other necessary fees.

Extension of Term of Patent.—(25.)

1. Patentee, after prescribed advertisement, may, not later than six months before patent expires, petition Her Majesty in Council for extension of term. 2. Caveat against this may be entered by any one. 3. Petition to be referred to Judicial Committee of Privy Council, and should they report that patent has not been adequately remunerative, its term may be extended, or a new patent granted for seven, or in exceptional cases fourteen, years.

Revocation.—(26.) Revocation in Scotland to be by action of reduction at instance of Lord Advocate, or, with his concurrence granted on just cause, of a party interested (i.e., one alleging that he or his authors have been defrauded by the patent, or are true inventors of, or have made prior public use of, the invention). Where patent is revoked for fraud, true inventor may obtain patent for its unexpired term.

Crown.—(27.) Patent to bind Crown, but Crown authorities and their contractors and agents may use invention on terms to be, failing agreement, settled by the Treasury.

Legal Proceedings.—(28.) In infringement and revocation cases, court (including Court of Appeal and Judicial Committee) may call in the aid of a skilled assessor; and action for infringement shall be tried without jury unless court direct otherwise. (29.) Full grounds of action and defence must be disclosed in pleadings. (30.) In action for infringement, court may grant interdict, order inspection, etc. (31.)

If in such action court certifies that validity of the patent came in question, pursuer succeeding in a subsequent action shall get expenses as between agent and client. (32.) Person aggrieved by another's groundless threats (by advertisement, etc.) of action for infringement may obtain interdict and damages.

Miscellaneous.—(33.) Patents to be in prescribed form, and to be granted for one invention only, but may contain more than one claim, and cannot be questioned on ground of comprising more than one invention.

(34.) On death of an inventor, his legal representatives may apply for patent within six months.

(35.) Fraudulent application followed by provisional protection and use and publication not to prejudice patent of true inventor.

(36.) Assignment of patent may be limited to a particular part of the United Kingdom or Isle of Man.

(37.) Duplicate patent may be sealed if loss of original satisfactorily accounted for.

(38.) Law officers to regulate procedure before them.

(39.) Inventor's right to protection and patent not to be prejudiced by exhibition, description, or use of his invention at an exhibition certified as industrial or international by Board of Trade, or by its use without his consent elsewhere during such exhibition, provided (a.) exhibitor gives comptroller prescribed notice of intention to exhibit, and (b.) patent is applied for within six months from opening of exhibition.

(40.) Provides for publicity of patented inventions by sale and circulation of—1, an official illustrated journal thereof and of decided patent cases, etc.; 2, complete printed specifications and drawings of all patents; 3, indexes and abridgments, etc. (41.) Existing Patent Museum to be transferred to Science and Art Department; (42.) Which may require patentees to furnish models on payment of cost.

(43.) 1. Patent not to prevent use of invention in, or for navigation of, foreign vessels within British jurisdiction, except use in manufacturing goods for British sale or export. 2. This privilege to be withheld where a foreign state withholds similar privileges from British vessels.

(44.) Inventor of any improvement in instruments or munitions of war may assign same and patent therefor to Secretary of State for War, who may, if he thinks proper, have them kept secret. Such inventions may, without prejudice to a subsequent patent, be communicated to such Secretary with the view of having their merits investigated.

Existing Patents.—(45.) 1. Application procedure under Act to rule only cases after its commencement. 2. Existing patents and applications to be unaffected by provisions touching Crown and Compulsory Licenses; but, 3, to be subject to all other provisions (including amount and time for payment of fees). 4. Instruments relating to existing patents to be filed at new Patent Office.

Definitions.—(46.) Defines "invention" as any manner of new manufacture, the subject of letters patent and grant of privilege within sec. 6 of Statute of Monopolies (21 James I., c. 3), including an alleged invention.

PART III.—DESIGNS.

Registration of Designs.—(47.) New or original design not previously published in United Kingdom may be registered on application of professed proprietor sent to Patent Office in prescribed form and manner, and stating nature of design and class of goods in which it is to be registered. 4. Same design may be registered in more than one class, the proper class being decided by comptroller. 6. He may refuse registration, subject to appeal to Board of Trade. (48.) Applicant to furnish to comptroller's satisfaction prescribed copies of drawings, photographs, or tracings sufficient to identify design, or, should he prefer, exact representations. (49.) Comptroller to grant certificate of registration and also copies on loss, etc., of original.

Copyright in Registered Designs.—(50.) 1. Proprietor of design to have copyright therein for five years from registration. 2. But registration and copyright may be cancelled if prescribed exact representations are not furnished to comptroller before sale of any articles bearing design.

(51.) Copyright also to cease (unless due diligence proved) if any such articles are sold unmarked with prescribed mark, words, or figures. (52.) 1. During existence of copyright, design can be inspected only by proprietor or person authorized either by him or by comptroller or court, and may not be copied. 2. After copyright expires, design may be inspected and copied by any one paying fee. (53.) Comptroller to inform any inquirer, who identifies a particular design, whether and in what class it is registered, giving date of registration, and name and address of proprietor. (54.) If registered design is used in manufacture abroad and not used in this country within six months of registration, copyright shall cease.

Register of Designs.—(55.) Register to be kept at Patent Office of names and addresses of proprietors, of notices of assignment, etc., and to be prima facie evidence.

Fees.—(56.) Scale to be prescribed by Board of Trade, with consent of Treasury.

Industrial and International Exhibitions.—(57.) Proprietor's right to register design not to be prejudiced by its being exhibited at an exhibition certified as industrial or international by Board of Trade, or by its being, without his consent, exhibited elsewhere, or a description of it published during such exhibition, provided (a.) exhibitor or publisher gives comptroller prescribed notice of his intention, and (b.) registration is applied for within six months from opening of exhibition.

Legal Proceedings.—(58.) Person who (a.), without proprietor's license or written consent, applies a copyright design or any fraudulent or obvious imitation thereof in the class of goods in which it is registered for purposes of sale to any article or substance, or (b.) publishes or exposes for sale any article or substance so treated, knowing that proprietor has not consented, shall forfeit to proprietor for every offence a sum not exceeding £50, recoverable as an ordinary debt. (59.) Reserves proprietor's right to bring action of damages for matters provided for in preceding section.

Definitions.—(60.) "Design" means any design applicable to any article of manufacture, or to any substance artificial or natural, or partly both, whether design is for pattern, shape, configuration, ornament, or two or more of such purposes, and by whatever means it is applicable, manual, mechanical, or chemical, separate or combined, not being a design for a sculpture under Sculpture Copyright Act, 1814: "Copyright" means the exclusive right to apply a design to any such article or substance in the class or classes in which the design is registered: (61.) (65.) Trade mark must be registered for particular goods or classes of goods.

(66.) Several trade marks of one proprietor may be registered as a series in one registration if, while resembling each other in material particulars, they differ in statement—(a.) of goods for which they are to be used, (b.) of numbers, (c.) of price, (d.) of quality, (e.) of names of places. Series to be transmissible only as a whole, but otherwise each mark to be treated as if separately registered.

(67.) Trade mark may be registered in any colour, and shall confer exclusive right of use in that or any other colour. (68.) Application for registration to be advertised by comptroller. (69.) Within two months thereafter any one may intimate opposition at Patent Office, and then applicant must lodge counter-statement within two months further, and opponent give security for costs within fourteen days after that. Thereupon the case shall stand for determination of court.

(70.) Registered trade mark to be transmissible only with, and to be determinable with, goodwill of business concerned.

(III.) Failing such agreement or undertaking, and also failing the landlord's timely implement of such undertaking, tenant may execute the improvement himself and obtain compensation under Act. If for seven days after request from either party, the referees fail to appoint, or renew appointment of, oversman, the Sheriff shall, on application of either party, appoint one within fourteen days.

10. Every appointment, notice, and request shall be in writing. Sheriff may act although not within the county.

(10.) Oversman and his successors shall, on application of either party, be appointed by the Sheriff, if either party at appointing a referee notifies to the other in writing that he will require this.

They may, however, extend the time by writing to forty-nine days. (16.) Failing award within above period, their powers shall cease, and matters stand referred to the oversman. Oversman shall pronounce award within twenty-eight days, or—if time is extended by the Sheriff (acting although not within the county) on application of the oversman or of either party—within forty-nine days at most after notice of devolution has been given in writing by either party or referee.

Award of referees or oversman shall embrace improvements for which compensation is substituted, in terms of sections 3, 4, and 5, for compensation under Act, distinguishing, when necessary, such improvements and the amount awarded in respect thereof, and an award under this section shall be appealable.

(a.) The several improvements, etc., in respect of which compensation is awarded, and the deductions and augmentations taken into account; (b.) The date of each item; (c.) The sum awarded in respect of each item; (d.) Where landlord desires to charge his estate with the amount found due, the time at which each improvement, etc., is to be deemed exhausted.

3. That compensation has been awarded for improvements, etc., in respect of which the claimant was not entitled to compensation;
4. That compensation has not been awarded for improvements, etc., in respect of which he was so entitled.

tated compensation, or on himself defraying the cost of improvements proposed by tenant, may obtain from the Sheriff authority to charge the holding, or the estate comprising it, by bond and disposition in security, or, if he is a lease-holder, by registered assignation of his lease in security, for repayment of the amount paid, or any part thereof, with such interest and by such instalments as the Sheriff may determine.

Where the landlord is not an absolute owner, no such instalment or interest shall be payable after the time when, according to an award, or, if there is no award, according to the judgment of the Sheriff, the improvement charged for has been exhausted. The bond or assignation shall specify the terms of payment of the total amount charged and each instalment.

The charge shall rank after prior heritable securities, and shall not infer contravention of any prohibition against charging or burdening with debt.

Price of entailed land sold under the Entail Acts may be applied by landlord in paying expenditure on, or compensation for, improvements mentioned in Parts I. and II., or in discharging any charge under this Act effected upon the remainder of the entailed estates, or upon other estate entailed upon the same series of heirs.

(25.) Any incorporated company empowered to advance money for improvement, etc., of land, may advance sum to be charged, and assign the charge, etc.

(26.) The charge shall affect the landlord's and all subsequent interests in the estate, but shall not extend beyond his interest if only a leasehold one.

Removing for Non-Payment of Rent.

(27.) Where right of hypothec has ceased, landlord may, on six months' rent being due and unpaid, raise an action of removing before Sheriff against tenant, concluding for his removal at next term of Whitsunday or Martinmas, and unless arrears of rent then due are paid, or caution is found for these and one year's rent further, Sheriff may order tenant's removal at such term, as if his lease were determined and legal warning given,—tenant having the rights of an outgoing tenant at the natural expiry of his lease.

Secs. 2 and 3 of the Hypothec Abolition (Scotland) Act, 1880, are repealed, and sec. 5 of Act of Sederunt anent Removing of 14th December 1756 declared inapplicable where procedure is competent under this section.

Notice of Termination of Tenancy.

(29.) Tenant may bequeath lease to any legatee, subject as follows:—

(a.) Legatee shall intimate the bequest to landlord or his known agent as nearly as possible within twenty-one days after tenant's death.

(b.) This intimation shall import his acceptance of lease.

(c.) Landlord may, within one month after intimation, object to receive legatee as tenant: otherwise the lease shall bind them respectively as from deceased's death.

(d.) Legatee, objected to by landlord, may petition the Sheriff to declare him tenant, and landlord may appear and state his objections; if these satisfy the Sheriff, he shall declare the bequest void; but otherwise he shall sustain the petition.

(e.) Sheriff's decision to be final.

(f.) Legatee to possess holding pending proceedings, unless Sheriff direct otherwise.

(g.) On legatee's non-acceptance, or on voidance of the bequest, the lease shall descend to tenant's heir.

fencing, etc.), and buildings erected by tenant after commencement of Act, not being such as entitle him to compensation, or are erected under obligation, or instead of others belonging to landlord, shall be property of and be removable by tenant before or shortly after termination of tenancy. Provided as follows:—

1. Before removing any of them, tenant shall satisfy all rent and other obligations due to landlord.

2. In the removal he shall not do avoidable damage to the holding.

3. He shall immediately make good all damage thereby occasioned.

4. He must give landlord one month's written notice of intention to remove.

5. During this month landlord may, by written notice to tenant, elect to purchase any fixture or building specified in tenant's notice. Such fixture shall then become landlord's property, and he shall pay tenant the fair value thereof to an incoming tenant of the holding. Difference regarding value to be settled, like compensation, by reference under this Act (but without appeal).

General Provisions.

(35.) Act to apply to holdings either wholly agricultural or wholly pastoral, or in part agricultural and as to residue pastoral, or in whole or in part market garden, but not to any holding let to a tenant so long as in landlord's employment.

(36.) Any agreement by a tenant depriving him of right to compensation under Act, without substituting other compensation as permitted by Act, shall be void.

(37.) Incoming tenant, who with landlord's consent pays compensation to outgoing tenant, shall in turn be entitled, on quitting the holding, to such compensation, if any, as the outgoing tenant would have got, had he remained tenant and quitted then.

(38.) Compensation under this Act to be exclusive; but a tenant not entitled to compensation under Act, may recover under agreement or custom as if the Act had not passed.

(39.) Tenant remaining in a holding during changes of tenancy shall be entitled at quitting to compensation for unexhausted improvements made during his former tenancies.

(40.) General saving of the rights of landlords, tenants, etc.

(41.) Written consents and agreements under Act, signed by parties or by persons authorized by them, to be valid, although not executed with statutory solemnities of deeds.

(42.) Interpretation: "Lease," "determination of tenancy," "holding," etc., are defined in accordance with their popular significations. "Landlord" or "tenant" includes the executors, administrators, assignees, legatees, disponees, or next-of-kin, husband, guardian, curator bonis, or trustees in bankruptcy, of a landlord or tenant. 2. Murray v. M'Dougall, Feb. 7, 1883.

1. An hotel-keeper may lawfully permit guests of his lodgers to remain after 11 P.M.; and, 2, may even after that hour admit such guests and supply liquor for them on his lodgers' order.

LIABILITY OF EMPLOYER TO WORKMAN.

Morrison v. Baird & Co., Dec. 2, 1882.

An injured workman may, under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880, obtain damages from an employer with whom he has no direct contract of service, if hired by a servant who is under direct contract, and authorized to engage subordinates.

1. M'Gee v. Eglinton Iron Co., June 9, 1883.
2. Grant v. Drysdale, July 12, 1883.
3. Rooney v. J. & A. Allan, July 17, 1883.

1. Held (by First Division) that if a workman furnished by his master with defective plant for performing his work continues, after remonstrating, to work with such plant in full knowledge of its defects, and is consequently injured, he is barred from recovering damages, having worked in face of a seen danger. 2 and 3. Held (by Second Division) that a servant who, relying on the sufficiency of his master's plant and machinery, works near it while in operation, and so sustains injury, is not barred from recovering although his duty might have been fully discharged at another place or time. The master is bound to provide safe plant and machinery, and there is no contributory negligence in working where there can be no danger unless there is defect, or even where a remote danger is suspected from plant alleged by the master to be sufficient.

WRONGOUS USE OF DILIGENCE.

Smith & Co. v. Taylor and Others, Dec. 8, 1882.

A law agent employed by a client to enforce a judicial decree charged the debtor to pay within a wrong number of days, and on non-payment petitioned under the Debtors (Scotland) Act, 1880, for cessio of the debtor's estates. Held that, the charge being inept, these proceedings amounted to a wrongous use of diligence, and that the agent as well as the client was liable to the alleged debtor in damages therefor, without malice and want of probable cause being proved against them.

* These Cases are abbreviated from the ordinary Professional Reports, and are strictly limited to points of general interest and practical importance.

TRIENNIAL PRESCRIPTION.

Mitchells v. Moultrys, Dec. 16, 1882.

A writ to prove the constitution and resting owing of a prescribed merchant's account must be unequivocal, either specifying the debt or forming part of a correspondence produced in which it is specified. Observed that in an action against a husband for a debt incurred by his wife after marriage, the resting owing must be referred to his oath, though the constitution may be referred to hers.

Chisholm v. Robertson, Mar. 10, 1883.

Held that a blank order-form issued by a merchant to his customers becomes, when returned to him filled up, a written obligation, to which the triennial prescription does not apply.

LEASE—RIGHT TO ABANDON.

Allan v. Markland, Dec. 21, 1882.

A shoemaker, tenant of several large shops in the same city, had the back part of one of them seriously injured, and the fore part slightly scorched, by an accidental fire. He thereupon at once intimated abandonment of a current lease for seven years, on the ground that the subject had perished. The Court being satisfied that all necessary repairs could have been made in about a week, and business meanwhile carried on, though at some inconvenience, held that he was not entitled to abandon.

SHIP—CONSTRUCTION OF CONTRACT.

Donaldson Brothers v. Little & Co., Dec. 21, 1883.

The charterers of a coasting steamer sued her owners for breach of a contract to convey a cargo to a certain port by a fixed date, "unforeseen circumstances" and "accidents of the sea" excepted. The steamer was several days late in reaching port, owing to detention in the course of a separate short voyage undertaken in the interval between the conclusion of the contract and the endeavour to implement it. The detention arose, however, entirely from excepted causes, and under ordinary conditions both voyages could have been completed within the time allowed. Held that the owners were not liable.

PUBLIC COMPANY—WINDING UP.

Turnbull v. Liquidators of Benhar Coal Co., Feb. 6, 1883.

Held that a creditor of a limited company who uses arrestments against it on the dependence of an action, however shortly before the company resolves on voluntary liquidation or commits any other act of constructive bankruptcy, acquires a preferential right to the assets over other creditors, provided he timeously thereafter constitutes his claim.

HIRE—CONTRACTOR'S LIABILITY.

Pearcey v. Player, Feb. 8, 1883.

Where a person hired a van and two men to remove his luggage from one lodging to another, but gave no list of articles and did not inspect the luggage immediately on the removal being completed, and it was necessary for the men to leave the van unguarded in the street while taking the luggage up and down stairs, held that he had no claim against the removal contractor for the loss of a portmanteau missed within twenty-four hours after the removal.

McLean v. Warnock, June 28, 1883.

Where a farmer, who for hire had taken a horse to graze in his field, failed to examine the field and to fence a subsidence therein, in consequence of which the horse met with a fatal accident, held that he was bound to pay the value of the horse.

FEU—IRRITANCY—SUB-FEU.

Sandeman v. Scottish Property, etc., Building Society, Feb. 21, 1883.

Held that irritancy of a feu ob non solutum canonem (whether conventional or under the Act 1597, c. 250) will not be declared except under reservation of sub-feus granted by the defaulting vassal for a competent avail.

AGRICULTURAL LEASE.

Lamb v. Mitchell's Trustees, Feb. 23, 1883.

A landlord acquiesced for many years in a tenant's departure from a rotation of cropping stipulated in his lease under pain of additional pactional rent for each acre miscropped. He was held barred from recovering such rent in a subsequent year in which miscropping occurred as the necessary consequence of what he had previously acquiesced in.

CONTRACT—TIME OF COMMENCEMENT.

Mackenzie v. Liddell, Feb. 28, 1883.

Held that in a charter-party for hire of a tug for salvage purposes the expression "commencing from 8th September, at which date the vessel is to be at the disposal of the charterer," meant that the vessel should be ready at the earliest moment of the 8th, and that the owner was liable for loss occasioned by some hours' delay.

WRIT—SETTLED ACCOUNT.

M'Adie and Others v. M'Adie's Executors, Mar. 9, 1883.

A document signed by a debtor, but neither holograph nor tested, acknowledging the accuracy of an account against him in his creditor's ledger, does not prove the debt, or, even after the debtor's death, preclude inquiry and the necessity for regular vouchers.

CIVIL IMPRISONMENT.

Tevendale v. Duncan, Mar. 20, 1883.

Held that a person whose father had obtained parochial relief could not be imprisoned under a decree against him at the instance of the parochial board for repayment of the aliment, the sums in the decree not being "decerned for aliment" within the meaning of the Civil Imprisonment (Scotland) Act, 1882.

Bulerno Paper Mill Co. v. Mackenzie, July 11, 1883.

An order of Court to consign a sum of money in the hands of the clerk of Court is a decree ad factum præstandum, and failure to obtemper it may be competently followed by imprisonment under the provisions of the Debtors (Scotland) Act, 1880.

TRADE MARK—INFRINGEMENT.

Dunnachie v. Young, May 22, 1883.

Certain brick-makers stamped their bricks with the word "Glenboig," being the name of the estate whence they obtained their clay, which was of a superior kind. They also registered the word as a trade mark. Brick-makers on an adjoining estate, having struck the same seam of clay in their own lands, began to advertise and sell bricks as "Young's Glenboig." It was held that the original makers were entitled to interdict them from using this word.

BANK CHEQUE.

British Linen Company Bank v. Fergusson's Trustee, June 6, 1883.

A cheque granted for value operates, on being presented for payment at the drawer's bank, an assignation of such funds as are at his credit, although insufficient to meet it in full.

BANKRUPTCY—SECURITY OVER MOVABLES.

Allan & Co.'s Trustee v. Gunn & Co., June 20, 1883.

Held that a transaction whereby, for an advance of £100, a merchant in difficulties sold certain goods "to be returned upon repayment of the above amount," was a bona fide sale, with a right of pre-emption in the seller's favour, and that the purchaser was entitled to the goods, though, while they remained undelivered, the seller became bankrupt.

McCauley's Trustee v. Thomson, June 30, 1883.

A person in difficulties had the price of his household furniture paid by a friend to a private trustee for creditors, but retained possession on a contract to repay his friend by annual instalments. After paying several he became bankrupt. Held that the furniture, having been sold and resold, fell under his sequestration, and that the friend could only rank as creditor for his unpaid instalments.

TITLE TO LAND—ADJUDICATION.

Hinton and Others v. Connell's Trustees.
July 6, 1883.

Held that infestment on a decree of adjudication for debt does not, even as from the date of a decree of expiry of the legal, constitute an "ex facie valid, irredeemable title to an estate in land," sufficient under the Conveyancing Act of 1874 to give a prescriptive title in twenty years.

ARBITRATION—EXCLUSION OF ACTION.

1. Levy & Co. v. Thomson, July 10, 1883.
2. Savile Street Foundry Co. v. Rothesay Tramway Co., Mar. 20, 1883.
3. Beattie v. Macgregor, July 5, 1883.
4. Mackay v. Parochial Board of Denny, June 21, 1883.

Arbitration clauses in executory contracts are of two kinds, the one including only disputes arising in the execution of the contract, the other including every claim and obligation that may arise. A clause which refers disputes as to the true intent and meaning of the contract, the implement of its provisions, and the construction of the work, is of the first kind, and though, 1, it covers a claim for stipulated damages in respect of delay in implement, 2 and 3, it does not exclude an action raised after completion of the work for money due as the contract price, etc. But, 4, a clause referring not only such disputes, but also "any matter, claim, or obligation whatever, arising out of or in connexion with the work," is an absolute bar to action. In deciding case 3, the Lord President urged that contracting parties would keep this distinction in view.

HUSBAND AND WIFE—SUCCESSION.

(House of Lords.)

Held (aff. judgment of the Court of Session) that in virtue of the Married Women's Property (Scotland) Act, 1881, the husband of any woman dying domiciled in Scotland is entitled to the same interest in her separate movable estate as under the previously existing law is taken by a widow in her deceased husband's estate (one-third if there are, one-half if there are not, children), even although the marriage took place before the passing of the Act. The decision implies that the children of a woman married before the Act are entitled at her death to legitim out of her movable estate.

POOR LAW SETTLEMENT—DESERTEED INFANT.

Caldwell v. Dempster, July 20, 1883.

Held that an illegitimate pupil child, born in Scotland of a mother having no settlement, and deserted by her, is chargeable to the parish where it was found destitute, and not to that of its birth.

PUBLIC TRUST—COMPULSORY SALE.

Oswald v. Ayr Harbour Trustees, July 23, 1883.

(House of Lords.)

Held (aff. judgment of the Court of Session) that statutory trustees for a public harbour cannot, in taking land compulsorily under the Lands Clauses Act, limit the nature of the right of property to be acquired, or burden it with any servitude which might subsequently interfere with the trust purposes. Accordingly, they must acquire the land absolutely, and pay the landowner a full price.

The number of vessels built at ports in Scotland in 1882, exclusive of vessels built for foreigners, was 271, tonnage 239,321 tons; of which 79 were sailing vessels, tonnage 73,422 tons (64 of iron, 6 of steel, and 9 of wood); and 192 were steamers, tonnage 165,899 tons (126 of iron, 57 of steel, 8 of wood, and 1 composite). There were built for foreigners, 53 vessels (1 sailing vessel and 52 steamers), aggregate tonnage 49,391 tons.

SEA CASUALTIES.

During the year ended 30th June 1882, the number of British (including colonial) vessels totally lost on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom, and the number of such vessels reported as having been totally lost abroad, was 1303, and their tonnage was 378,424 tons. 906 of those vessels, tonnage 290,287 tons, were of the United Kingdom (755 of them sailing vessels, tonnage 191,796 tons, and 151 steamers, tonnage 98,491 tons); and 397 belonged to the colonies, tonnage 88,137 tons (23 of these steamers, tonnage 4793 tons). The number of sailing vessels lost was 1129, and the number of steamers was 174. Of the 1303 vessels lost, 385, tonnage 229,186 tons, were classed (in Lloyd's Register, the Liverpool Book, or the Bureau Veritas), and 918, tonnage 149,238 tons, were unclassified. 182 vessels belonging to the United Kingdom and 75 colonial (69 classed) were lost through foundering; 419 vessels belonging to the United Kingdom and 238 colonial (175 classed) through stranding; 90 vessels belonging to the United Kingdom and 8 colonial (30 classed) through collisions; 43 vessels belonging to the United Kingdom and 40 colonial (34 classed) through other causes; and 172 belonging to the United Kingdom and 36 colonial (77 classed) were missing vessels, 26 of which were steamers (20 of these classed). of those vessels were of the United Kingdom, tonnage 1,250,114 tons (2076 of them sailing vessels, and 1002 steamers); and 392, tonnage 160,009 tons, belonged to the colonies (37 of them steamers). 2431 were sailing vessels, and 1039 were steamers. 620 suffered damage through stranding; 1079 through collisions; and 1771 through other causes. The whole number of sea casualties to British (including colonial) vessels which occurred on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom, and which were reported to have occurred abroad, during the year 1881-82, was 6834; and the number of vessels lost or damaged was 6395. 1301 casualties involved the total loss of 1303 vessels; 1502 were serious casualties, in which 1622 vessels sustained damage; and 4031 were minor casualties, in which 3470 vessels sustained damage. Of the 1303 vessels lost, 498 were engaged in the coasting trade, 623 in oversea trades, and 182 were fishing vessels; of the vessels damaged in serious casualties 404 were engaged in the coasting trade, 1069 in oversea trades, and 149 were fishing vessels; of the vessels damaged in minor casualties 1333 were engaged in the coasting trade, 1764 in oversea trades, and 373 were fishing vessels.

The total number of sea casualties, excluding collisions, which occurred on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom in the year ended 30th June 1882, was 2974, of which 526 involved total loss, 719 were serious casualties, and 1729 were minor casualties. Of the ships lost 432 belonged to the United Kingdom, 12 to the colonies, and 82 were foreign; of the serious casualties 587 happened to vessels belonging to the United Kingdom, 28 to colonial vessels, and 104 to foreign vessels; of the minor casualties 1485 happened to vessels belonging to the United Kingdom, 79 to colonial vessels, and 165 to foreign vessels. 48 of the vessels belonging to the United Kingdom which were lost were steamers; 186 of the vessels belonging to the United Kingdom, and 8 of the foreign vessels, which sustained serious casualties were steamers; 357 of the vessels belonging to the United Kingdom, 1 of the colonial vessels, and 10 of the foreign vessels which sustained minor casualties were steamers. Of the total losses 111 occurred through foundering, 353 through stranding, 10 through other causes, and 52 were missing vessels; of the serious casualties 406 occurred through stranding, and 313 through other causes; of the minor casualties 556 occurred through stranding, and 1173 through other causes. Of the 444 British (including colonial) vessels lost, 276 were lost through causes connected with the weather, 20 through causes connected with the ship's equipment or stowage, 55 through causes connected with navigation and seamanship, 3 through causes connected with machinery or boilers, 22 through other causes, and 68 from unknown causes. 24 of the serious casualties and 104 of the minor casualties occurred from causes connected with the ship's equipment or stowage.

The total number of collisions which occurred on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom in the year 1881-82 was 686; and of these 80 involved the total loss of one or both vessels, and 606 partial damage. 525 of the collisions occurred between British vessels, 137 between British and foreign vessels, and 24 between foreign vessels.

On the average of the ten years ended 30th June 1882, the annual number of collisions on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom involving total loss was  $68\frac{1}{10}$ , and the annual number of other casualties involving total loss was  $427\frac{3}{10}$ ; the annual number of collisions involving partial damage was  $595\frac{1}{10}$ , and the annual number of other casualties involving partial damage was 2101.

The whole number of wrecks, casualties, and collisions on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom in 1881-82 which involved total loss was 606; and the number which involved partial damage was 3054. On the average of the ten years ended 30th June 1882, the number of such wrecks, casualties, and collisions which involved total loss was  $495\frac{3}{10}$ , and the number which involved partial damage was  $2696\frac{1}{10}$ .

The number of lives lost by sea casualties to British vessels on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom during 1881-82 was 1021, of which 1000 were lost on 211 vessels belonging to the United Kingdom (748 on 181 sailing vessels, and 252 on 30 steamers, 15 of those lost on sailing vessels and 49 of those lost on steamers being passengers), and 21 on 4 colonial vessels (all sailing vessels). The number of lives reported during the same year as having been lost on British vessels abroad was 2957, of which 2277 were lost on 234 vessels belonging to the United Kingdom (1380 on 178 sailing vessels, and 897 on 56 steamers, 15 of those lost on sailing vessels and 184 of those lost on steamers being passengers), and 680 on 110 colonial vessels. Taking together the loss on British vessels on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom and the loss on such vessels abroad, 3277 lives were lost, or reported to have been lost, in 1881-82, on 445 vessels belonging to the United Kingdom (2128 on 359 sailing vessels, and 1149 on 86 steamers, 30 of the former and 233 of the latter being passengers), and 701 lives on board 114 colonial vessels (all of these but 13 being sailing vessels, and 103 of those lost being passengers). Total loss of life in British vessels reported in 1881-82, 3978.

The number of lives lost in foreign vessels on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom in 1881-82 was 76, lost on 20 vessels, all of which were sailing vessels; and 39 lives were lost on 8 foreign sailing vessels on the coasts of British Possessions abroad.

The total number of lives lost on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom in 1881-82 was 1097 (1021 on 215 British, including colonial, vessels, and 76 on 20 foreign vessels).

The number of lives lost, or reported from abroad as having been lost, on vessels belonging to the United Kingdom (445 in number) in 1881-82, being 3277, 445 were lost on 74 vessels by foundering; 592 on 66 vessels by stranding; 107 on 29 vessels by collisions; 200 on 104 vessels through other causes; and 1933 in 172 missing vessels. Of the 3978 lives lost as aforesaid on British (including colonial) vessels, 2042 were lost on 304 classed vessels, and 1936 in 355 unclassified vessels; 3688 were lost in 415 vessels which were totally lost, and 290 on 144 vessels which were not lost.

The number of lives saved from shipwreck on the coasts of the United Kingdom in 1881-82 was 4066; the number saved from British and foreign vessels on the coasts of British Possessions abroad was 2950; the number saved from British vessels on the coasts of foreign countries was 3755; and the number saved from British vessels at sea was 2368. Of the 4066 lives saved on the coasts of the United Kingdom, 407 were saved by rocket and mortar apparatus and assistance from the shore; 475 by lifeboats; 441 by luggers, coast guard boats, and small craft; 1153 by ships and steamboats; 1452 by ships' own boats; 7 by life-buoys and appliances kept on board; and 131 by other means.

The whole number of sea casualties which involved the total loss of vessels reported in 1881-82 to British vessels on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom and abroad, and to foreign vessels on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom, and on or near the coasts of British Possessions abroad, was 1447, tonnage of vessels lost 420,454 tons. 906 vessels belonging to the United Kingdom were lost, tonnage 290,287 tons; 397 belonging to the colonies, tonnage 88,137 tons; and 144 foreign vessels, tonnage 42,030 tons.

HARBOUR ACCOMMODATION.

The Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons appointed to inquire into the Harbour Accommodation on the Coasts of the United Kingdom, having regard to the laws and arrangements under which the Construction and Improvement of Harbours may now be effected, is dated 13th July 1883. The Committee was appointed on the 10th May 1883, and consisted of Mr Marjoribanks (Chairman), Mr Stevenson, Sir Thomas Brassey, Viscount Baring, Mr Arthur Arnold, Sir Donald Currie, Mr Hanbury Tracy, Mr Hastings, Mr Heneage, Sir G. Balfour, Colonel Nolan, Mr Blake, Mr Charles Ross, Mr Salt, Sir Earledey Wilmot, Sir Edward Watkin, Colonel Walrond, Mr Akers Douglas, Lord Arthur Hill, Sir Charles Mills, Colonel Milne-Horne, Lord Rendlesham, and Mr Guy Dawnay. The Report states that, owing to the late period of the session at which the Committee commenced the inquiry, and the extent and importance of the subject, they had found it impossible to complete their investigation. They thought it desirable to report the evidence at the stage arrived at, to briefly refer to certain facts which appeared to them to deserve immediate attention, and to make recommendations on some matters which seemed to be of an urgent character.

While the question of national harbours of refuge, to be constructed by means of convict labour, was not, strictly speaking, referred to the Committee, it had been impossible wholly to ignore it. They had been obliged to take into consideration what works of this description were likely to be undertaken, as the construction of such works would necessarily greatly modify the general requirements of the country. They had, for the purposes of this inquiry, assumed that three great national harbours of refuge were to be constructed by means of convict labour, at places to be carefully selected between Beachy Head and Duncansby Head. From evidence that had been incidentally given to the Committee, they were deeply impressed with the increasing importance of such harbours, alike for purposes of national defence, for the commercial development of the country, for the extension of sea fisheries, and for the safety and protection of life and property. They strongly recommend that three such works as they had indicated should, without delay, be undertaken, and they beg further to suggest for consideration a fourth harbour of a similar character, but of somewhat smaller dimensions, on the north coast of Cornwall. The same observations, they add, would apply to the need of a similar harbour on the west coast of Ireland.

The Committee proceed to draw attention to three points connected with the administration of the Harbours and Passing Tolls Act, 1861:

(a.) The Act as originally passed sanctioned loans to harbours for periods not exceeding 50 years at  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. interest. By the Public Works Loans Act, 1879 (42 & 43 Vict. c. 77), and the Treasury Minute thereunder, the following sliding scale was substituted for the  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., viz.:— $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on loans repayable within a period not exceeding 20 years;  $3\frac{3}{4}$  per cent. on loans repayable within a period exceeding 20, not exceeding 30 years; 4 per cent. on loans repayable within a period exceeding 30, not exceeding 40 years;  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on loans repayable within a period exceeding 40, not exceeding 50 years. The effect of this change, they say, has been to cause a material increase in the rate of interest, as it is in most cases impossible to repay out of the harbour rates the capital expended on harbour works within a short period. They suggest for consideration that these loans should be made at a rate of interest of  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., and should be made repayable by means of a sinking fund, extending over 50 years.

(b.) During the first years after the passing of the Act, the Board of Trade made all inquiries respecting proposed works, and reported as to their expediency or otherwise, and the Public Works Loan Commissioners granted the loans on the authority of the recommendation of the Board of Trade, provided they were satisfied as to the security offered by the applicants. The evidence taken has shown, they observe, that the Board of Trade report and recommendations have become a mere formality, and that the Public Works Loan Commissioners decide both as to the policy of the works, and as to the value of the security offered by the applicants, but do not necessarily exercise supervision over the execution of the works. The Committee suggest a return to the original practice under the Act; that the powers of the Harbour Department of the Board of Trade should be increased, and its authority enlarged; that it should be its function to decide all questions of the policy of harbour works proposed to be executed by the aid of loans of public money under the Act of 1861, and that it should be responsible for their execution in conformity with the plans which have received its sanction, while the functions of the Public Works Loan Commissioners should be confined to judging as to the value of the security offered by applicants for loans, and whether the object proposed to be attained is one which the terms of the Acts of Parliament which govern their action would admit.

(c.) Under Clause 7 of the Public Works Loans Act, 1882, a valuable provision is made, enabling localities to give the local rates as collateral security to the Public Works Loan Commissioners for harbour loans. The rating authority is strictly defined and limited by that clause. In the case of small places, the additional security to be gained by mortgaging such rates is not great; and the Committee suggest that, when willing to do so, larger areas as, e.g., counties or divisions of counties, should be empowered to give their rates as such collateral security for such a portion of the required loan as they may decide.

THE FISHERIES.

By the Act 45 and 46 Vict. cap. 78, the Board of British White Herring Fishery was dissolved on the 16th of October 1882, and a new Fishery Board was established under the title of the Fishery Board for Scotland. The new Board consists of the following members:—Sir Thomas J. Boyd, Chairman; Mr John Guthrie Smith, Sheriff of Aberdeen, Kincardine, and Banff, Deputy-chairman; Mr G. H. Thoms, Sheriff of Caithness, Orkney, and Shetland; Mr A. Forbes Irvine, Sheriff of Argyll; Sir J. R. Gibson-Maitland, Bart.; Mr Stephen Williamson, M.P.; Professor Cossar Ewart, M.D.; Mr J. Maxtone Graham, and Mr J. Johnstone Grieve. Mr Archibald Young, advocate, has been appointed Inspector of the Salmon Fisheries of Scotland, and Mr Dugald Graham, Secretary to the Board. The first Annual Report of the Board is for the year ended 31st December 1882, and therefore embraces statistics which were in great part collected by the former Board; but it also includes some matters which came under consideration subsequently to the above date.

The former Fishery Board had divided the coasts of Scotland into 26 districts, at each of which it stationed a fishery officer, and, at some, an assistant officer also. The general duties of the officers were to collect statistics relating to the herring, cod, and ling fisheries; to affix the government brand for herrings in the proper cases; to examine and brand the standard cran measure for the sale of fresh herrings, and see that all barrels used for white herrings were of the standard size; to restore to the owners fishing property lost at sea and recovered; to aid in keeping order at the fishery stations, and settle disputes referred to them; to aid in carrying out the provisions of the Sea Fisheries Act; and to furnish for the Scottish Meteorological Society returns of the fishing and weather during the herring fishing season. A general inspector, stationed at Leith, and an assistant inspector, stationed at Greenock, inspected the fishery districts; superintended and checked the fishery officers in the performance of their duties; and, from the returns made by these officers, prepared abstracts of the statistics of the herring and of the cod and ling fishings for presentation to Parliament. The vessels employed in the superintendence of the fisheries were H.M.S. "Jackal" and the "Vigilant" cruiser belonging to the Board. These were assisted during the great summer herring fishings by other vessels, the use of which had been granted by the Admiralty. Their duties consisted in preserving order, enforcing conventions with foreign countries, preventing encroachments by foreign fishermen upon the three-mile limit, and compelling observance of the fishery regulations in regard to carrying lights by, and the registering, numbering, and lettering of fishing boats. The Board had also administered, from the year 1828, the expenditure of an annual grant of £3000—£2500 of which were applied to the building or repairing of piers or har-bours, and £500 towards the repair of boats of poor fishermen. The application of the latter sum ceased in 1850, and the amount was consolidated with the general grant for harbours. Upwards of 30 piers and harbours had been constructed, repaired, or improved, at a cost of £248,651, of which £72,118 had been contributed by persons interested in the several works.

All the duties and functions of the old Board were transferred to the new Board. The services of the staff employed by the old Board were continued. The new Board was further empowered to take cognisance of (1) the coast and deep sea fisheries; and (2) the general superintendence of the salmon fisheries of Scotland; and was (3) directed to make an annual report to the Secretary of State for the Home Department, to be laid before Parliament. The new Board at once applied itself to the consideration of questions connected with the regulation and improvement of the fisheries, which embraced the revision of the existing regulations as to the herring brand, the herring close time, the herring mesh, beam trawling, fishery police, oyster and mussel fisheries, besides other matters. It collected much valuable information, by which it was enabled to ascertain to what extent future legislation was desirable.

The attention of the Board was prominently directed to the great want of suitable harbour accommodation for fishing boats, especially on the east coast. The herring fishery has in recent years been carried on much further out at sea than formerly, large shoals being found at fifty or sixty miles distance from the shore or even more, and the open boats formerly used are being gradually superseded by decked boats—the tonnage of the first-class deck boats, 5101 in number, having been, in 1882, 82,318 tons, and that of all other fishing boats (9872 in number), only 34,423 tons, while the number of the decked boats has even since then been increased. It is most important, the Report observes, that boats should be able to get into harbour at all states of the tide, especially on their return from distant fishing-grounds, that the herrings may be at once landed and the curing proceeded with. In fact, during sultry weather or with calms prevailing, herrings are often tainted and deteriorated in value, while large quantities sometimes become unfit for food and can only be thrown into the sea or sold for manure. In bad weather there is danger to the boats in their not being able to run into harbour at any time; and the fear of this frequently prevents their going to fish—the loss from this cause in a single season at Peterhead, while that station had insufficient harbourage, being estimated to have been £60,000. The herring fishery of Scotland, it is further observed, has become one of the greatest fishing industries in Europe, and of great value to the country, and is still a growing industry. 90,185½ barrels of herrings only were cured in 1809; in 1882 the number of barrels cured was 1,282,973½; and the average yearly cure, which was 462,326 barrels in the ten years 1833–42, was 641,855 in the ten years 1853–62, and 994,398 barrels in the ten years 1873–82. Again, the value of the boats employed in the fishery was estimated at £272,960 in 1862, at £381,338 in 1872, and at so much as £646,883 in 1882; the value of the nets at £407,237 in 1862, and £521,327 in 1872, while it had risen to £711,039 in 1882. And since the number of persons employed in the fisheries in 1882 was estimated at 99,396, there may be, it is added, somewhere about half a million people dependent upon the fisheries. All this being so, instead of there being, as might have been expected, the necessary harbour accommodation, there are, it is stated, only four really good harbours for fishing boats on the east coast—those at Aberdeen, Peterhead, and Fraserburgh, and the Cluny harbour at Buckie; while on the north coast there is no good harbour between Scrabster, near Thurso, and Loch Erribol, fifty miles away on the west. On the west coast and in Orkney and Shetland there are many large bays indented with natural creeks suitable for boats, so that the need of harbours is less urgent than elsewhere, but in some localities on the west coast too the construction or improvement of harbours is highly desirable. The importance of increasing the number of piers and harbours was acknowledged by Parliament when, in 1828, the grant of £3000 a year for this purpose, which is still continued, was first made. Between 1828 and 1882 there has been, it is observed, a complete revolution in the number and size of the boats employed in the fishing. There should, it is added, be a corresponding revolution in the size and depth of the harbours. Since 1881 the surplus profits of the herring brand (£3000 in 1881 and £2300 in 1882) have been available for the improvement of harbours, but of this £1000 a year may be applied to telegraphic extension in remote fishery districts. This and the annual grant of £3000, however, are all the funds at the command of the Board for the building or improvement of harbours.

The old Fishery Board gave assistance for harbour works on condition that they were carried out on the plans and under the supervision of its own engineers, and that fishermen or others interested contributed not less than a fourth of the cost. The new Board has proceeded on the same principles. The old Board had assisted in constructing or improving 28 harbours or piers. Two of these, Roseheart in Aberdeenshire and Findochty in Banffshire, were unfinished when the old Board was dissolved, and were being completed by the new Board—the estimated cost of the former being £2300, and that of the latter £10,000. The new Board had received thirteen applications for assistance—from Eyemouth, in Berwickshire; Port Errol, in Aberdeenshire; St Andrews, in Fifeshire; Fair Isle, between Orkney and Shetland; Crovie, in Banffshire; Stonehaven, in Kincardineshire; Port Knockie, in Banffshire; Scoraig, in Little Lochbroom, Ross-shire; Waternish, in Skye; Stromas, in the Pentland Firth; Buckhaven, in Fifeshire; Kinlochbervie, in Sutherlandshire; and Ness, on the north-east coast of Lewis. The application from Eyemouth had been declined. A harbour of refuge for fishing boats at that place would be of manifest advantage, but the plans proposed would have involved an expenditure of £80,000—which was beyond the resources of the Board—and the Board, moreover, is precluded from assisting works not designed and carried out by its own engineers. The applications from Scoraig and Kinlochbervie had also been declined, but the Board had arranged for the construction of a harbour at Ness at a cost of £6000, of which Lady Matheson was to contribute a fourth. The Report goes on to express a hope that, in view of the great and increasing value of the fisheries, and the absolute necessity, for their full development, of enlarging and deepening existing harbours and building new ones in suitable places, the funds at the disposal of the Board for such purposes should be largely increased. It was thought advisable that the Chairman of the Board should give evidence on this subject before the House of Commons Committee on Harbour Accommodation, and this he had done, supplying all the statistical information in his power.

The Board had resolved, as soon as it was provided with the necessary appliances, to institute investigations into the habits and life-history of some of our more important food-fishes, such as the herring, cod, ling, haddock, mackerel, sole, plaice, and flounder; but for such investigations a steam-vessel, dredging apparatus, etc., were required. An application it had made to the Lords of the Admiralty for the use of a steam-pinnace had for the time been declined, but communications were going on, and a hope is expressed that the application should yet be granted, important results being confidently looked for, even in the current season, if the investigations could be set on foot at once. The Board was also impressed with the importance of testing new methods of fishing, such as the Seine purse net and the Cod gill net—both used successfully on the American coast—and had no doubt that, with increased Government assistance, much might thus be done for the development of the fisheries.

The Treasury authorized the expenditure by the Board of £1000 out of the herring-brand surplus to assist in extending the telegraphs to remote fishery districts. Such extension, it is said, would be most beneficial, both as it might enable fishermen to learn at once where shoals of herrings were to be found and to proceed thither, and as enabling fishermen, when a large catch had unexpectedly been made, to procure supplies of salt and barrels quickly. A list of nine stations to which the telegraph should be extended in the first instance was accordingly prepared and sent to the Post-Office—the stations selected being Castle Bay, Island of Barra; Carloway, Island of Lewis; Port of Ness; St Margaret's Hope, Westray; Orkney; Reawick, Shetland Islands; and Vaila Sound, Hillswick, and Whalsay, also in the Shetland Islands—but the guarantee which the Post-Office required for such extension amounted to £4523 for each of seven years, whereas the Board had at its disposal only £1000 a year. Communications had been opened with a view to ascertaining what assistance could be got in the localities interested, and such communications were going on. In the case of Castle Bay, for which a guarantee for £1244 for seven years was demanded, the owner of the land, Lady Gordon Cathcart, had expressed her willingness to assist if the guarantee were somewhat reduced; but an application to this effect made to the Treasury had for the time been declined.

The Scotch herring fishery of 1882 was, with the single exception of that of 1880, the largest upon record. The results of it were, 1,282,973½ barrels cured, 825,982½ barrels exported, 462,612½ barrels branded, and £7710, 4s. 2d. of brand fees. The fishing of 1881 yielded 1,111,155½ barrels cured, 745,879½ barrels exported, 494,182½ barrels branded, and £8236, 7s. 6d. of brand fees. There was therefore an increase in 1882, as compared with 1881, of 171,818½ barrels cured, and of 80,103 exported, but a decrease of 31,570 barrels branded, and of £526, 3s. 4d. in the brand fees. The number of barrels cured in 1880 was 1,473,600½. Comparing the fishing of 1882 with the average of the ten years 1872–81, the former showed an increase above that average of 339,486½ barrels cured, 175,087½ barrels exported, 9350½ barrels branded, and £155, 16s. 10d. of brand fees. The increase in 1882 of 171,818½ barrels cured over 1881 was made up thus: East Coast, increase 73,872½ barrels; West Coast, increase 97,945½ barrels. The weather in the season of 1882, on the East Coast more especially, was not favourable for fishing, being alternately too calm and too rough. A good deal of fishing property was destroyed by gales during the year. The loss of life, it is believed, was not above the average of previous years.

Of the East Coast districts, 17 in number, extending from Eyemouth to the Shetlands, 9 showed an increase over the returns of 1881, amounting in all to 126,488½ barrels cured, and 8 a decrease of 52,615½ barrels, so that on the East Coast there was a net increase in 1882 over 1881 of 73,872½ barrels. The number of barrels cured in 1882 showed an increase of 8·1 per cent. over 1881; an increase of 19·3 per cent. over the average of the previous 10 years; an increase of 51·7 per cent. over the average of the previous 25 years; and an increase of 77·8 per cent. over the average of the 50 years 1833–82. The average number of barrels cured on the East Coast was 388,045 in the 10 years 1833–42, and it was 978,226 in 1882. The herring fishing continues to be much more extensively prosecuted on the Aberdeenshire coast than in any other part of Scotland. The number of boats engaged in 1882 in the Aberdeen, Peterhead, and Fraserburgh districts was 482, 822, and 900 respectively, making together 2204, which, however, was a falling off of 153 from the corresponding total for 1881. This decrease was chiefly owing to the successful fishing in Shetland having attracted fishermen to that district. The gross number of boats engaged at Wick was 600, an increase of 30 over the preceding year. 266 large decked boats were engaged in the Shetland herring fishing, to which were added about the middle of August about 106 small boats, and the prosperity which attended the fishing on the east coast of that district was extraordinary. At Balta Sound, Unst, 11 boats fished, and their average catch for the season was 440 crans per boat; and the 266 decked boats averaged 362 crans each. The average at Aberdeen was 166 crans; at Peterhead, 151; at Fraserburgh, 155; at Wick, 116.

The fishing on the West Coast in 1882 was far more productive than it had been in any previous year. The number of barrels cured was 304,747, being 97,945½ more than in 1881, and 32,252 more than in 1880, the year in which, on the whole, the fishing was the largest recorded. The number of barrels cured showed an increase of 47·3 per cent. over 1881; an increase of 74·4 per cent. over the average of the previous 10 years; an increase of 92·6 per cent. over the average of the previous 25 years; and an increase of 158 per cent. over the average of the 50 years 1833–82. The number of barrels cured was 64,280 on the average of the 10 years 1833–42, and was 304,747 in the year 1882. Of the 9 West Coast districts all showed an increase except Loch Broom and Ballantrae, which together showed a decrease of 7294 barrels. The increase at the other 7 districts amounted to 105,239½ barrels, and was mainly due to 3 localities—Loch Hourn, Kilbrannan Sound, and Loch Fyne. At these places there had never been known such fishing before. Loch Fyne, so long famous for its extraordinary productiveness and for the rich flavour of its herrings, more than maintained its former reputation. No fewer than 780 boats were engaged in the fishing at Loch Hourn, while about 80 vessels were occupied in curing the herrings on board, and 10 steamers were employed in carrying them to market. About half the gross catch was sent to the home markets, either fresh or slightly salted. Between Kilbrannan Sound, in the Campbeltown district, and Otter Spit, in the Inveraray district, there was a denser shoal of herrings than the oldest fisherman had ever known, and the fishing was carried on from June to December with great success, both by drift and seine-trawl nets—the success of the latter mode of fishing being most marked.

On the whole, the fishing of 1882 showed, in the number of barrels cured, an increase of 15·4 per cent. over 1881; an increase of 29 per cent. over the average of the previous 10 years; an increase of 59·5 per cent. over the average of the previous 25 years; and an increase of 91·9 per cent. over the average of the 50 years 1833–82. The average number of barrels cured was 462,326 in the 10 years 1833–42, and was 1,282,973½ in 1882. Nearly all the herrings caught on both the East and the West Coasts were of good quality. The diminution of 31,570 barrels in the herrings branded in 1882, as compared with 1881, was chiefly due to the boats with their cargoes being kept at sea in calms, and to the almost complete failure of the fishing at Helmsdale and Lybster, both of which are branding districts. Of the increase of 80,103 barrels in the herrings exported, Ireland got 6917½ barrels, and places out of Europe 2057; so that the great bulk of the increased export, 71,128½ barrels, went to the German and other Continental ports.

The results of the Cod, Ling, and Hake fishing of 1882 were, 121,337 cwts. cured dried, and 7737 barrels cured in pickle, while the quantity exported was 56,497 cwts. cured dried, being an increase upon the preceding year of 5823½ cwts. cured dried, and 3661½ barrels cured in pickle, and a decrease of 4929 cwts. cured dried in the quantity exported. 23,846 cwts. cured dried were sent to Ireland in 1882; 23,326 cwts. to the Continent; and 9325 cwts. to places out of Europe. There was a decrease in the quantities exported to Ireland and the Continent, caused by an increased demand in the home markets.

The number of fishing-boats employed in 1882 was 14,973, an increase of 164 over the number for 1881; the number of fishermen and boys employed was 48,296, or 175 more than in 1881; the number of fishcurers was 1072, 9 more than in 1881; the number of coopers 2564, or 166 more; while the number of other persons employed about the fishing was estimated at 47,464, or 2173 more than in 1881. There had been an increase in the number of fishermen and boys of 990 in 1881 as compared with 1880. The amount of capital employed in boats, nets, and lines was greater in 1882 than in 1881. The value (estimated) of the boats was £646,883, as against £622,452; that of the nets £711,039, as against £663,572; and that of the lines £114,278, as against £112,437. The total estimated capital thus employed, £1,472,200, was £73,739 more than it had been in 1881. The tonnage of British vessels and boats employed in connexion with the fisheries of Scotland in 1882 was 275,592½ tons—an increase of 6100½ tons upon the preceding year. The tonnage of foreign vessels so employed also increased, being 36,318 tons, against 31,388 in 1881.

In 1882 the number of applications made through the Board's officers to register fishing-boats under the Sea Fisheries Act, 1868, was 925; the number of registers issued was 925; and the number of registers examined and endorsed was 5294. These numbers, as compared with the corresponding numbers for 1881, showed a decrease of 317 in the applications to register and of 315 in registers issued, but an increase of 54 in registers examined and endorsed. The decrease in the applications to register and in registers issued nearly all occurred in the case of small boats classed as third class.

The number of boats detained for non-compliance with the Act was 189, being an increase of 75 over the preceding year. Boatbuilders, it is said, were busily occupied in 1882 in fulfilling orders for boats of the first class, costing, when equipped for sea, from £220 to £300 each.

The following Table shows the number of boats, decked or undecked, employed in the shore curing herring, and cod and ling fisheries, in the several districts of Scotland in the year 1882; the number of fishermen and boys by whom manned; the number of fishcurers and coopers; with the estimated value of boats, nets, and lines:—

Besides the 51,932 fishermen, curers, and coopers employed in 1882, it is estimated (as already stated) that 47,464 other persons were employed in the fisheries in the same year. The tonnage of the boats was 116,741 tons. 5101 of the boats were of the first class (30 feet keel and upwards), 4423 of the second class (from 18 to 30 feet keel), and 5449 of the third class (under 18 feet keel).

The number of barrels of herrings salted or cured in the several districts during the year 1882 was as follows:—Eyemouth, 64,458; Leith, 2475; Anstruther, 8752; Montrose, 39,199; Stonehaven, 18,579; Aberdeen, 110,971; Peterhead, 185,704; Fraserburgh, 233,297½; Banff, 31,261; Buckie, 13,518; Findhorn, 5959; Cromarty, 1645; Helmsdale, 7994; Lybster, 3458; Wick, 96,723; Orkney Isles, 20,046; Shetland Isles, 134,187; Stornoway, 52,231; Loch Broom, 1126; Loch Carron and Skye, 77,783; Fort-William, 5858; Campbeltown, 53,241; Inveraray, 85,352; Rothsay, 11,806; Greenock, 3949; Ballantrae, 13,401.

The number of cod, ling, or hake taken, whether by vessels or by open boats, in 1882 (3,666,596), was distributed between the several districts as follows:—Anstruther, 222,785; Montrose, 110,392; Stonehaven, 12,382

Aberdeen, 32,982; Peterhead, 44,597; Fraserburgh, 141,504; Banff, 28,758; Buckie, 51,911; Findhorn, 29,076; Cromarty, 3994; Helmsdale, 7504; Lybster, 6200; Wick, 54,024; Orkney Isles, 339,525; Shetland Isles, 2,039,174; Stornoway, 358,951; Loch Broom, 53,273; Loch Carron and Skye, 22,160; Fort-William, 67,935; Campbeltown, 38,308; Inveraray, 1148.

A report by Mr Young, Inspector of Salmon Fisheries, on the salmon rivers on the east coast of Scotland, from the Forth to the Kyle of Sutherland, both inclusive—a district which includes all the principal salmon rivers in Scotland with the exception of the Tweed—is appended to the Report of the Fishery Board, which conveys a general approval of it. It is stated that when Mr Young has inspected and reported upon the remaining salmon rivers of Scotland, the Fishery Board will submit a definite report on the whole subject of the salmon fisheries in Scotland.

INLAND REVENUE.

The Twenty-sixth Report of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Inland Revenue on the Inland Revenue is for the year ended 31st March 1883. The net receipts for the year 1882-83 amounted to £53,683,572, being a net increase of £1,410,095 upon the previous year. There was a decrease of £187,882 on excise; a decrease of £657,125 on stamps; an increase of £3755 on the land tax; an increase of £89,774 on the inhabited house duty; and an increase on the income-tax of £2,161,573. The decrease on stamps, however, was not a true decrease, but arose from the fact that the fee and patent stamps are now paid over to the Treasury as miscellaneous revenue. The amount derived from these stamps was £856,532, so that the total stamp revenue showed an increase of £199,407.

I. EXCISE DUTIES.

The following Table exhibits the net receipts of the duties of excise in the United Kingdom in the years (ended 31st March) 1882 and 1883. The duty on railways was levied in Great Britain only, and the duty on chicory in England only:—

Spirits.—The number of gallons of spirits charged with duty in the United Kingdom in the financial year 1882-83 was 29,770,721 (viz., England, 13,587,389; Scotland, 8,729,169; Ireland, 7,454,163); in the year 1881-82 it was 29,680,560 gallons (viz., England, 13,868,006; Scotland, 8,620,225; Ireland, 7,192,329). In the year 1882-83 there was, therefore, a decrease of 280,617 gallons in England; an increase of 108,944 gallons in Scotland; an increase of 261,834 gallons in Ireland; and in the United Kingdom an increase of 90,161 gallons. [These figures show the quantities of spirits used for all purposes in respect of which duty was paid.] The number of gallons consumed as beverage in the United Kingdom in 1882-83 was 28,529,330 (viz., England, 16,655,808; Scotland, 6,496,070; Ireland, 5,377,452); in the year 1881-82 it was 28,624,187 (viz., England, 16,950,078; Scotland, 6,542,324; Ireland, 5,131,785). The decrease of consumption in the year

1882-83 in the United Kingdom was therefore 94,857 gallons, or .33 per cent. In England it was 294,270 gallons (1.73 per cent.); in Scotland it was 46,254 gallons (.70 per cent.); while in Ireland there was an increase of 245,667 gallons (4.79 per cent.) Though the decrease in the consumption in England and Scotland was comparatively small, it was, considered in connexion with the natural increase of population, the report observes, significant of altered habits; and there could not be any doubt that in some localities the spread of temperance principles had caused a marked diminution in the consumption of intoxicating liquors. It was remarkable, on the other hand, to find in Ireland, with a decrease of population, an increased consumption of 245,667 gallons. The stock of British spirits in bonded stores in the United Kingdom rose from 49,354,510 gallons at the close of 1881 to 51,436,936 gallons at the close of 1882 (an increase of 2,082,426 gallons), and was equal to rather more than a consumption of a year and three-quarters. This showed that the demand of consumers for matured spirits continued. The quantity of spirits distilled in the year ended 31st March 1883 in the United Kingdom was 38,442,814 gallons; in the year preceding it had been 39,339,722 gallons. The number of distilleries at work during the year 1882-83 was 171-13 in England, 125 in Scotland, and 33 in Ireland, and it is estimated that there was consumed in making spirits 859,363 quarters malt, 1,064,081 quarters raw grain, and 165,529 cwt. of molasses. The quantity of British spirits exported in the year ended 31st March 1883 was 2,551,466 gallons; in the year preceding it had been 2,815,644 gallons. The diminution thus shown was chiefly due to dulness of trade in Australia. The quantity of spirits methylated continued to increase, but it is believed (one attempt at defrauding the revenue was detected, however) that this arises solely from a legitimate demand. In the United Kingdom it was 2,100,765 gallons in 1882-83, while it had been 1,991,765 gallons in the year preceding. The quantity of plain foreign spirits imported (which competes with plain British spirits in the home market) was 697,253 gallons in 1882-83; it had been 445,851 gallons in the year preceding. The number of detections of illicit distillation in 1882-83 was 910 (11 in England, 16 in Scotland, and 883 in Ireland). In the year preceding it was 894 (5 in England, 8 in Scotland, and 881 in Ireland). The amount of duty received in the financial year 1881-82, in respect of foreign spirits and wines stored in excise warehouses, was, in the United Kingdom, in 1882-83, spirits £775,237, wines £162,967. The amount received in the United Kingdom in the preceding year was, spirits £615,675, wines £135,104, so that there was an increase of £159,561 on spirits, and an increase of £27,862 on wines.

Chicory.—The quantity of chicory charged with duty in the year ended 31st March 1883 was 2803 cwt.; it was 2869 cwt. in the year ended 31st March 1882—decrease in 1882-83, 66 cwt. The quantity of chicory brought to charge continues to decrease, and has been still further affected by the Act 45 and 46 Vict. cap. 41, which repealed the duty chargeable on vegetable substances prepared under the general name of chicory, substituting a system of affixing labels—carrying a duty of a halfpenny for every quarter of a pound—to every package containing ingredients other than coffee or chicory to be used with or instead of coffee.

Coffee Mixture Labels.—The number of coffee mixture labels issued in the year 1882-83 was—½d. labels, 1,440,305; 1d. labels, 802,434. The net amount received for them was £6344—£5462 in England, £125 in Scotland, and £756 in Ireland.

Beer.—The number of barrels of beer charged with duty in the year ended 31st March 1882 was, in England, 24,738,113; in Scotland, 1,088,000; in Ireland, 2,044,413; and in the United Kingdom, 27,870,526. In the year ended 31st March 1883 the number of barrels charged with duty was, in England, 23,874,632; in Scotland, 1,122,360; in Ireland, 2,143,899; in the United Kingdom, 27,140,891. The gross receipts from the beer duty in 1882-83 amounted to £8,570,746, and, deducting the sum repaid in respect of beer exported, the net receipt was £8,400,368. This was £130,450 less than the net receipt in the year preceding, and was £149,632 below the net receipt† as estimated. As in the case of spirits, the decrease in duty may to some extent be due to the influence of temperance societies, but the failure of the hop crops, both at home and abroad, was a great discouragement to brewers. That hops could not be got at a moderate price was also a sufficient explanation of a falling off which occurred in the number of persons brewing for domestic use. The total number of licenses issued in 1882-83 was 96,676; in the preceding year it was 110,025. The quantity of beer charged with duty in 1882-83 was 27,140,891 barrels, and 539,188 barrels were exported on drawback—so that the quantity retained for home consumption was 26,601,703 barrels. In the preceding year the quantity charged with duty was 27,870,526 barrels; the quantity exported, 499,353 barrels; and the quantity retained for home consumption, 27,371,173 barrels. As regards the import of beer, 1665 barrels spruce and 17,223 barrels beer were imported in 1882-83, as against 1932 and 12,013 respectively in the year preceding.

Licenses.—The numbers of licenses issued in Great Britain in the year ended 31st December 1882 were as follows:—Male servants, 181,994 (Scotland, 15,920), duty, £136,495; carriages with four wheels and weighing four cwt., 154,556 (Scotland, 15,446), duty, £324,568; carriages with less than four wheels or weighing less than four cwt., 305,020 (Scotland, 27,071), duty, £228,765; armorial bearings on carriages, 18,055 (Scotland, 1505), duty, £37,915; armorial bearings otherwise used, 39,246 (Scotland, 2943), duty, £41,208; dogs, 908,360 (Scotland, 84,363), duty, £340,635. The whole revenue from the establishment licenses in 1882, £768,951, showed an increase upon the previous year of £3348. The increase was due entirely to carriages (which showed an increase of nearly £5000), there being a decrease in each of the other branches of the revenue. There was a large decrease in the revenue from dog licenses (over £10,000) which is attributed to the higher rate of license duty. The number of game licenses issued in the United Kingdom in the year 1882-83 was 60,028 (Scotland, 7121), duty, £167,731; the number of licenses to deal in game was 3161 (Scotland, 353), duty, £6322; and the number of gun licenses was 155,565 (Scotland, 14,856), duty, £77,782. In the preceding year the duty from game licenses was £167,694; from licenses to deal in game, £6320; and from gun licenses, £76,824.

II. STAMPS.

The net receipts from stamps in the year ended 31st March 1883 was £11,691,025; in the previous financial year—including patents for inventions, £197,475, and fee stamps, £679,007, both now paid to the Exchequer as miscellaneous revenue—it was £12,348,150—decrease, £657,125. The principal items in the year 1882-83 were as follows:—Probate, inventory, and account duty, £3,759,391 (Scotland, £354,429); legacy duty, £2,714,778; succession duty, £821,760 (legacy and succession duty, Scotland, £360,639)—total probate, legacy, and succession duty, £7,295,929; deeds and other instruments, £2,043,711; bills of exchange and promissory notes, £757,918; receipt, draft, and other penny Inland Revenue stamps, £915,045; bankers' notes and composition for do., £131,416 (Scotland, £24,757); licenses and certificates, £152,546 (Scotland, £29,439); patent medicines, £154,439; marine insurances, £153,690. Taking the probate, legacy, and succession duties together, there was an increase in 1882-83 of £239,960—£7,295,929 against £7,055,969. There was an increase of £244,007 in probate duty, a decrease of £89,463 on legacy duty, and an increase of £85,416 on succession duty. All the items of the general stamp revenue showed an increase, with the exception of the deed duty, which showed a decrease of £77,050. The increases in inland revenue penny stamps, £25,525, in marine insurances, £11,997, and in the composition for bankers' bills and notes, £3,373, were evidence of greater activity in business. On bills of exchange and promissory notes there was only a slight increase, £1441, which, it is said, probably shows the growth of a practice of entering into fresh transactions by telegrams and settling balances by a Dr. and Cr. account, instead of drawing bills in connexion with each particular venture. It is stated that the working of the provisions of the Act of 1881, regarding estates not exceeding £300 in gross value, has proved eminently satisfactory. In 1881-82 about 5510 estates were dealt with under these provisions. In 1882-83 the number increased to nearly 11,000.

III. LAND TAX AND HOUSE DUTY.

The produce of the land tax was £1,055,188 in the year 1882-83; it was £1,051,433 in the year 1881-82. The produce of the inhabited house duty was £1,787,966 in 1882-83; it was £1,698,192 in 1881-82. The total produce of land tax and house duty in 1882-83 was £2,843,154; in 1881-82 it was £2,749,625; net increase in 1882-83, £93,529. The annual value of houses charged with house duty was, in Great Britain, £56,351,292 in 1880-81 (year ended 5th April), and £57,658,178 in 1881-82. In the latter year there was an increase in the annual value of houses charged of £1,306,886, and an increase in the gross amount of duty charged of £46,415. The number of houses charged with duty was 1,111,386, as against 1,080,983 in the previous year—consisting of 232,223 shops, 81,979 beer-houses, and 33,316 farm-houses, all charged at 6d. per pound, and 763,868 dwelling-houses charged at 9d. per pound. Of the increase in the annual value charged to house duty in 1881-82 (£1,306,886), the sum of £855,321 occurred in the metropolis, partly owing to the new valuation of property in 1881-82. It is observed that the result of a new valuation in the metropolis, as affecting the yield of taxes, is not so marked now as it was formerly.

IV. PROPERTY AND INCOME TAX.

The net receipts from property and income tax in the years (ended 31st March) 1882 and 1883, appropriated to schedules, are shown in the following Table:—

Schedule A .....	£3,563,403	£4,246,177	£682,774	..
.. B .....	330,932	371,383	40,451	..
.. C .....	850,804	1,040,492	189,688	..
.. D .....	4,674,735	5,805,466	1,130,731	..
.. E .....	585,030	702,959	117,929	..

The rate of tax was, in 1881-82, at 5d. per pound, with arrears of the prior year at 6d., and, in 1882-83, at 6½d. per pound, with arrears of the prior year at 5d. The assessments for the year ended 5th April 1882 showed an increase of £16,227,087 in the gross annual value, and an increase of £13,191,776 in the net annual value—the gross annual value having been £601,450,977, and the net annual value £504,158,462. In the net annual value there was an increase of £11,284,165 (2·71 per cent.) in England, an increase of £1,854,277 (4·17 per cent.) in Scotland, and a decrease of £46,666 (0·18 per cent.) in Ireland. Under schedule A there was an increase in the gross assessments of £2,933,333, distributed as follows:—England, £2,794,057, or 1·80 per cent.; Scotland, £91,750, or 0·47 per cent.; Ireland, £47,526, or 0·36 per cent. Under schedule B the gross assessments showed a decrease of £387,652—a decrease of £324,193 in England, a decrease of £63,024 in Scotland, and a decrease of £435 in Ireland. The decreases under schedule B were due to the continued agricultural distress. In addition the sum of £3600 had been repaid, and the sum of £5902 included in schedules of discharge, both in respect of claims arising out of agricultural depression. These represented a total reduction in assessment equal to £1,059,373 in value, in addition to the £387,652 above mentioned. In the three years from 1879–80 to 1881–82 the total decrease in the assessments (including repayments) amounted to £2,242,566. Schedule C showed a trifling increase—from £39,846,473 to £39,992,771. Under schedule D there was an increase in the gross assessments of £12,046,275—an increase of £10,080,703, or 4·58 per cent., in England, an increase of £1,963,594, or 7·67 per cent., in Scotland, and an increase of £1978, or ·02 per cent., in Ireland. So large an increase in the profits of trades and professions had not occurred since the year 1874–75. The gross amount of salaries assessed under schedule E showed an increase of £1,488,833 as compared with 1880–81, and the number assessed increased by 3080—from 168,609 to 171,689.

In 1881–82 the abatement of £120 allowed on incomes under £400 a year was claimed by 390,296 persons (336,559 in England, 37,130 in Scotland, and 16,607 in Ireland); and the amount exempted from taxation in consequence of the abatement was £45,570,518 (£39,048,685 in England, £4,623,956 in Scotland, and £1,897,877 in Ireland). It is stated that 12,087 persons obtained repayment of duty under the same provision of the law, and that this makes an addition of £2,025,792 to the amount of income relieved from duty. The result of the allowance of £120 on incomes under £400 on the assessments for 1881–82 was therefore to afford to 402,383 persons relief from the incidence of the income tax to an amount of about £47,596,310, which was 9·44 per cent. of the total amount charged in that year. It appears, too, that during the year 55,354 persons had the benefit of allowance on premiums for life insurance to the amount of £1,296,299, while 6616 obtained repayment of duty on account of insurances, the amount allowed being £1,022,112.

In 1877–78, the income tax (then at 3d. per pound) produced £1,894,721 for each penny. In 1880–81 (at 6d. per pound) it produced £1,849,000 for each penny. In 1875–76 (the rate per pound being 2d.) it produced £1,935,712 for each penny.

The net receipt of property and income tax levied in Scotland was £886,610 in 1881–82, and £1,193,967 in 1882–83. The total obtained from land tax, inhabited house duty, and property and income tax in Scotland was £1,038,859 in 1881–82, and £1,348,792 in 1882–83.

The next Table shows the amount of property and income charged under each schedule of the Income Tax Act in Scotland and in the United Kingdom for the years (ended 5th April) 1881 and 1882, and the amount of duty in the United Kingdom:—

THE POST-OFFICE.

The Twenty-ninth Report of the Postmaster-General on the Post-office is for the year ended 31st March 1883.

The number of post-offices in the United Kingdom at 31st March 1883 was 920 head and 14,486 sub-offices, being an increase of 488 offices on the number reported in the previous year. In the number of road letter-boxes during the year there was an increase of 770. Thus the whole number of postal receptacles in the United Kingdom was about 30,100 at 31st March 1883.

Letters, Post-cards, Book-packets, and Newspapers.—In the year ended 31st March 1883 the estimated number of letters delivered by the post-office was 1,280,636,200 (England, 1,077,647,200; Scotland, 116,509,800; Ireland, 86,479,200); of post-cards 144,016,000 (England, 121,243,300; Scotland, 15,541,800; Ireland, 7,230,900); of book-packets and circulars 288,206,400 (England, 244,713,800; Scotland, 28,896,000; Ireland, 14,596,600); and of newspapers 140,602,600 (England, 108,613,500; Scotland, 15,784,600; Ireland, 16,204,500). As compared with 1882, there was an increase of 4·2 per cent. in letters, of 6·4 per cent. in post-cards, of 6·3 per cent. in book-packets and circulars; while there was a slight decrease in newspapers—attributable probably to increased facilities for their carriage offered by railways. In letters there was an increase of 3·9 per cent. in England, of 6·1 per cent. in Scotland, and of 5·2 per cent. in Ireland; in post-cards there was an increase of 6·1 per cent. in England, of 6·1 per cent. in Scotland, and of 12·5 per cent. in Ireland; in book-packets and circulars, an increase of 6·9 per cent. in England, of 3·7 per cent. in Scotland, and of 3·1 per cent. in Ireland; in newspapers an increase of 2·0 per cent. in Scotland, and trifling decreases in England and Ireland. The average number of letters delivered to each person in the population in 1882–83 was 41 in England, 31 in Scotland, 17 in Ireland, and 36 in the United Kingdom. The average yearly number of letters for each individual in the population of the United Kingdom was 3 in 1839 (before the introduction of penny postage); 7 in 1840 (after such introduction); 28 in 1872; and 35 in 1882. Taking the latest returns available with respect to foreign countries (those of 1881), the average number per head was, in the United States, 21; in France, 15; in Germany, 13; in Italy, 6; in Spain, 5. The number of registered letters in the United Kingdom in 1882–83 (excluding the official remittance letters) was 11,264,926, an increase of 3·3 per cent. upon the previous year. The number of letters received in the Returned Letter Offices in the year ended 31st March 1883 was 5,651,443, while in the previous year it had been 5,454,885. 82,082 letters were reissued to correct addresses, 4,829,218 were returned to the senders, 177,852 were returned unopened to foreign countries, and 562,291 could neither be delivered nor returned to the senders. 596,614 post-cards were received at the Returned Letter Offices in 1882–83, as against 559,409 in the previous year; 4,988,990 books, as against 4,701,394; and 477,978 newspapers, as against 414,794 in the previous year.

Telegraphs.—The telegraph business continued to increase during the year, but the increase in the number of messages was 746,155 only, as compared with 1,933,879 in 1881–82. The diminution in the rate of increase was partly accounted for by there having been two Easters, involving four holidays in the financial year. The number of messages was 32,092,026, viz., England, provinces, 14,455,015; London, 12,374,707 (an increase of 306,673); Scotland, 3,244,202; Ireland, 1,919,102. These figures include the number of certain press messages. 102 additional post-offices and 45 railway stations were opened for telegraph work during the year, making the total number of telegraph stations 5742. The revenue from private wires at the close of the financial year was £101,523, as compared with £88,736 in 1881–82. Although the minimum charge for inland telegrams was to be reduced from a shilling to sixpence as soon as the necessary increase of plant could be effected, the form the new tariff was to take had not been decided upon at the date of the report. Additional telephor exchanges had been established by the post-office in ten large towns, and the nine companies to whom licenses had been granted for the establishment of telephone exchanges had 47 exchanges in operation—37 in England, 8 in Scotland, and 2 in Ireland.

Post-office Savings Banks.—On November 22nd, 1880, there came into operation an Act by which any person desiring to invest any sum between £10 and £100 in government stock can do so through the agency of a savings bank, at a trifling expense varying from 9d. to 2s. 3d., and have the dividends collected free of further charge. The purchase can be effected either by transferring money from the purchaser's account or by means of a sum specially deposited for immediate investment. Government stock to the amount of £1,143,717 was held by 16,609 persons at the close of 1882, as against £738,968 held by 11,812 persons at the close of 1881. The continued high price of government stocks had affected investments to a considerable extent. Thus, stock to the amount of £694,957 was purchased during 1881, while the amount sold was £75,868; and during 1882 the number of investments was only 12,153, the amount of stock purchased £588,211, and the sales were 4355 in number and to the amount of £177,122. The average amount of stock held by each person at the end of 1882 was £68, 17s. 3d., as compared with £62, 11s. 3d. in 1881. The number of ordinary depositors in post-office savings banks (2,607,612 at the end of 1881) was 2,858,976 at the end of 1882. The amount due to depositors (£36,194,495 at the end of 1881) had risen to £39,037,821 at the end of 1882, and was £40,087,000 on 31st March 1883. The increase in the amount of deposits in 1882 (£2,843,326) was the largest annual increase there had been since the establishment of the post-office savings banks. The number of depositors in post-office savings banks and old savings banks combined (4,140,098 at the end of 1881) was 4,411,958 at the end of 1882. The number of ordinary deposits made in post-office savings banks during 1882 was 6,110,208, and the amount deposited was £12,227,528 (an average per deposit of £2). The amount of interest credited to depositors at the end of the year was £891,629. There were besides 10,047 deposits, amounting to £382,847 (an average of £38, 2s. 1d.), made for immediate investment in government stock; and there was received for sales of government stock and stock certificates obtained £184,322, and from dividends on stocks £26,533, so that the total amount received by the post-office savings banks during the year was £12,821,230. The number of withdrawals (not including those relating to stock) was 1,918,544, and the amount withdrawn was £10,094,974; and the total number of withdrawals (including those made for investment in stocks and also sales of stocks and stock certificates obtained) was 1,935,129, and the amount withdrawn was £10,839,534. The average amount of each ordinary withdrawal was £5, 5s. 3d. The average amount at the credit of each depositor at the close of the year was £13, 13s. 1d. The charges of management in 1882 amounted to £221,653, being 11s. 4½d. per cent. on the funds in possession of the banks; and the average cost of each transaction was 6½d. The total sum standing to the credit of the post-office savings banks on the books of the National Debt Commissioners at the close of 1882 was £40,862,640, and the balance in the hands of the Postmaster-General at the same date, after making provision for the amount required to meet interest warrants issued but not cashed, was £145,924; and the total sum applicable to the payment of depositors at the close of the year was £41,128,564. The number of post-office savings banks in the United Kingdom at the end of 1882 was 6999, and was at 31st March 1883, 7081; the number of post-office and old savings banks, taken together, at the end of 1882, was 7429. The proportion of the depositors in post-office savings banks at the end of 1882 to the population was 1 to 10 in England, with an average sum of £13, 14s. 10d. to each account, 1 to 35 in Scotland, with an average of £7, 3s. 9d. to each account, and 1 to 48 in Ireland, with an average of £18, 1s. 7d. to each account. The funds of the post-office savings banks increased in Ireland during the year 1882, as they had done in the three previous years. The total amount of the deposits in Ireland at the end of 1882 was £1,925,460, as against £1,723,596 in 1881—an increase of £202,065. This did not include the amount of government stock standing to the credit of depositors in Ireland, which was estimated at £125,000.

Money-orders.—By an arrangement commenced on 1st April 1882 the payment of army and navy pensions and of reserve pay is now made by means of money-orders. The amount thus paid within the year was £2,562,256, the number of orders being 552,029. This addition of business has checked the decrease which had occurred in inland orders in recent years. The total number of inland money-orders in 1882 was 14,306,297, as against 14,692,328 in the preceding year (a decrease of 386,531, or 2·8 per cent.), and the amount for which they were issued was £25,223,763, an increase upon the preceding year of £1,855,091. The returns for 1881–82 had shown a decrease of 1,636,648 in number and £861,091 in amount as compared with 1880–81. It is estimated that about 50 per cent. of the total number of inland orders are for sums over £1. The number of colonial money-orders in the year ended 31st March 1883, counting the issues both in this country and abroad, was 277,052, and the amount for which they were issued was £1,043,158, being an increase of 13 per cent. upon the number and of 17 per cent. upon the amount in the preceding year. The number of foreign money-orders, counting the issues both in this country and abroad, was 507,509, and their value £1,330,962, an increase of 14 per cent. upon the number and 17 per cent. upon the amount in the preceding year. The proportion of inland money-orders to population was, in England 46·2 to 100 persons, in Scotland 33 to 100 persons, in Ireland 16·6 to 100 persons, and in the United Kingdom 40·5 to 100 persons. The rates of commission upon foreign money-orders were reduced on 1st January 1883 by one-third, which will, it is believed, tend to an increase of this class of business. The postal-order returns in 1882–83 showed a large increase. About £3,451,000, as compared with £2,000,000 in 1881–82, were transmitted by means of those orders during the year, and no less than 7,980,328 orders were used. The 1s., 5s., 10s., and 20s. orders continued to be most in request. Proposals for the improvement of the system and its extension to the colonies were under consideration.

Post-office Annuities and Life Insurances.—The Act of 1882, designed to facilitate this class of business, had not, when the report was issued, been brought into operation, owing to the necessity of preparing new actuarial tables. The number of immediate annuities subsisting at the close of 1882 in the United Kingdom was 8793, and the amount of the annuities was £130,644. The number of immediate annuities granted during the year was 799, the purchase-money was £155,528, and the amount of the annuities £13,435. The whole number of immediate annuities granted from 17th April 1865 to 31st December 1882 was 12,455; the amount of the purchase-money of those annuities was £1,845,354; and the amount of the annuities, £170,041. The number of deferred annuities and monthly allowances, money not returnable, subsisting at the end of 1882 was 267, and their amount £4827; the number of deferred annuities and monthly allowances, money returnable, was 313, and their amount £6799. Of the former 31, the amount of which was £561, of the latter 41, the amount of which was £941, were granted in 1882. The amount of purchase-money and instalments of premiums received in 1882 was £6449. The whole number of deferred annuities, etc., money not returnable, granted from 17th April 1865 to 31st December 1882, was 299, and the amount was £5498. The whole number of deferred annuities, etc., money returnable, granted in the same period was 562, and the amount was £12,000. The number of contracts of life insurance entered into with the post-office, current at the end of 1882, was 4615; the amount insured was £371,540. The amount received during the year on contracts was £11,069. The number of payments made on account of contracts during the year was 141, and the amount paid on death or surrender was £5694. The number of new contracts entered into during the year was 234, and the amount insured by them £8,446. The whole number of contracts of life insurance entered into by the post-office, from the commencement of business on 17th April 1865 to 31st December 1882, was 6758, and the amount insured was £533,525.

Licenses.—The number of licenses issued in the year ended 31st March 1883 by the post-office, on behalf of the Board of Inland Revenue, was 1,243,457, of which 658,660 were for dogs. The revenue produced was £774,117. The number of licenses was greater than the number in the preceding year by 66,623, and the revenue increased by £64,936.

Force, Expenditure, and Revenue.—The following Table shows the expenditure in relation to postage, money orders, and postal orders, in each of the years ended 31st March 1881, 1882, and 1883:—

Year.	Cost of Collection, Delivery, Management, and Money-Order and Postal-Order Business.		Cost of Conveyance of Mails.				Total Cost of Post-office Service.
	Salaries, Wages, Allowances, etc.	Total Cost of Collection, etc.	By Coaches, Carts, & Omnibuses.	By Railways.	By private Ships and by Packets.	Total Cost of Conveyance.
	£	£	£	£	£	£	£
1880-81	2,281,551	2,572,336	184,416	707,436	665,446	1,602,075	4,135,659
1881-82	2,433,676	2,737,835	186,976	714,124	637,875	1,587,436	4,286,596
1882-83	2,613,951	2,978,777	190,342	732,821	633,879	1,602,253	4,545,398

In the year ended 31st March 1883 the cost (included in the totals given above) of the manufacture of postage stamps, post-cards, and stamped newspaper wrappers was £117,765; of stationery, £39,789; of buildings and repairs, rents, rates, taxes, fuel, and light, £207,202; of supply and repair of mail-bags and boxes, tolls and ferryage, and other charges, £30,495; of the conveyance of mails over the Isthmuses of Suez and Panama, and in other foreign parts, £14,716. From the total cost of conveyance given above is to be deducted the cost of conveyance of savings bank correspondence—£35,632 in 1882-83—so that the net cost of conveyance in that year was £1,566,621.

The next Table shows the gross and net revenue of the post-office, from postage, money-orders, and postal orders in the years ended 31st March 1881, 1882, and 1883:—

Year.	Gross Revenue from Letters, Newspapers, Books, etc.	Money-Order Commission.	Postal Orders.	Total Postal Revenue.	Total Cost of Post-Office Service.	Net Revenue.
	£	£	£	£	£	£
1880-81	6,478,696	246,033	3,750	6,733,427	4,135,659	2,597,768
1881-82	6,770,232	226,947	25,657	7,027,600	4,286,596	2,741,004
1882-83	7,034,982	217,686	44,492	7,300,960	4,545,398	2,755,562

The gross postal revenue as given above includes the amount of unclaimed money-orders, which for 1882-83 was £3800. The net revenue of the year 1882-83 showed an increase of £14,558 upon the previous year. During the five years 1873-77 the average net revenue of the post-office was £1,833,368; and during the five years ended 31st March 1883 it was £2,605,279.

The gross earnings of the Telegraph Service in the year ended 31st March 1883 amounted to £1,740,063—an increase of £109,620 upon the previous financial year. It was made up as follows:—From messages and wires rented by cable companies, £1,781,617; news produce and special wire rentals, £97,989; private wire rentals, £84,429; miscellaneous, £29,517; extra receipts, £15,515—total revenue collected, £2,009,067; from which there had to be deducted—payments to cable companies, £265,860; and on account of portorage and message-money refunded, £3144; balance, being the total telegraph revenue, £1,740,063. The expenditure during the year charged to the Telegraph vote was £1,504,493. This gives as the net revenue from Telegraphs in 1882-83, £235,570. Adding to the total telegraph revenue, as given above, £27,997, the value of old stores, etc., sold by other departments, and, on the other hand, adding to the telegraph expenditure expenses incurred on account of the telegraphs by other departments, the total telegraph revenue for the year 1882-83 is found to be £1,768,060, and the total expenditure to be £1,585,013, which shows the net telegraph revenue for the year to have been £183,047.

Taking together the net revenue of post-office and money-order business (£7,300,960), the savings banks profits (£344,792), and the total revenue of the telegraph business (£1,768,060), it appears that the gross revenue of the Post Office Department for the year 1882-83 was £9,413,812. On the other hand, taking together the total expenditure for the postal and money-order services (£4,545,398), the expenditure on savings banks (£221,653), and the total expenditure for telegraph business (including expenditure by other departments, £1,585,013), it appears that the total expenditure of the Department in the same year was £6,352,064. The net revenue of the post-office in the year 1882-83 is therefore found to have been £3,061,748, being a decrease of £38,727 on the previous year. From this there has to be made a further deduction of £326,417, the interest on £10,880,571, the amount raised by the Government for the purchase of the telegraphs not provided for out of the post-office votes, but charged upon the Consolidated Fund. There was again, during 1882-83, a large increase of expenditure. Much of it was due to the development of business, but special items of outlay—for instance, the improvement of the letter-carriers position, the improved remuneration of sub-postmasters, and the improvement of telegraphic communication with Ireland—account for a considerable portion of it.

COALS, CINDERS, AND PATENT FUEL.

The following Table shows the estimated population, the number of births, deaths, and marriages registered, the excess of births over deaths, and the proportion of the births, deaths, and marriages to the population, in Scotland in each of the years 1880, 1881, and 1882:—

The number of births (distinguishing legitimate from illegitimate), of deaths, and of marriages, and their proportion to the estimated population, in each of the five registration groups of districts, viz., the principal towns (each of which has above 25,000 inhabitants); the large towns (each of which has from 10,000 to 25,000 inhabitants); the small towns (each of which has from 2000 to 10,000 inhabitants); the mainland-rural districts; and the insular-rural districts (the last two groups comprising all the population not included in towns of 2000 inhabitants and upwards), in the year 1882, is shown in the following Table:—

The births registered in 1882 (126,182) were at the rate of 3·33 per cent. of the estimated population. In the principal towns the birth-rate was slightly greater than that of 1881; in the other districts it was less. It was highest in the large towns, being 3·64 per cent. In the principal towns it was 3·57 per cent.; in the small towns, 3·39; in the mainland-rural districts, 2·93; and in the insular-rural districts, 2·46 per cent. Of the 126,182 children born, 64,572 were males, and 61,610 females, and the proportion of boys to girls was therefore 104·8 to 100. The proportion of male births was greatest in the insular-rural districts, and least in the large towns. Births were most numerous in May, when 383 per day were registered; least numerous in August and December, when 329 were registered daily.

The following Table shows the proportion of illegitimate births to every 100 births in each county, and in each registration group of counties, in each of the three years 1880, 1881, and 1882:—

The death-rate in 1882 (193 for every 10,000 of the estimated population—an unusually low rate) was almost the same as that for 1881. The average number of deaths was greatest in December, when 241 per day were registered; in September only 178 per day were registered; and the daily average throughout the year was 200.

The marriage-rate in 1882 was 70 for every 10,000 of the population. It was 78 per 10,000 in 1873. In 1879 it had sunk to 64 per 10,000. Since then it has been gradually rising. In 1882 in the principal towns it was 88 per 10,000; in the large towns, 75; in the small towns, 64; in the mainland-rural districts, 54; and in the insular-rural, 42. 120 marriages per day were registered in June; and in May so few as 40.2 per day—the daily average throughout the year being 72.8.

The following Table shows the number of births, of deaths, and of marriages in each of the eight principal towns of Scotland during the year 1882, with their proportions to the estimated population at the middle of the year; also the estimated number of unmarried women and widows between 15 and 45 years of age, the illegitimate births, and their proportion to the total births, and to the number of possible mothers:—

Of the children born in the eight towns (43,549 in number), 22,285 were males, and 21,264 were females, so that 104·8 boys were born for every 100 girls. The highest birth-rate was that of Greenock, the lowest that of Edinburgh. 8·0 per cent. of the births were illegitimate. If the relative numbers of illegitimate births among possible mothers be considered, the towns ranked as follows in respect of illegitimacy in 1882:—Edinburgh, 1·49 per cent. of illegitimacy; Paisley, 1·62; Perth, 1·67; Greenock, 1·85; Leith, 1·87; Dundee, 1·97; Glasgow, 2·19; and Aberdeen, 2·77 per cent.

The death-rate of the eight towns in 1882 (228 per 10,000 of estimated population) was lower than that recorded in any previous year except 1881. Leith had the lowest death-rate—186 per 10,000 persons, and Paisley the highest—257 per 10,000. Of the persons who died in the eight towns, 13,897 were males and 13,862 were females.

Out of every thousand children under five years of age at the middle of 1882, there died—in Leith, 53·5; in Aberdeen, 55·7; in Edinburgh, 56·6; in Perth, 64·1; in Dundee, 67·1; in Greenock, 68·2; in Paisley, 74·5; and in Glasgow, 84·8. The proportion of deaths at ages under five to the deaths at all ages was 33·9 per cent. in Perth; 35·4 in Edinburgh; 37·8 in Aberdeen; 39·0 in Paisley; 42·7 in Dundee; 43·3 in Leith; 44·6 in Greenock; and 45·8 per cent. in Glasgow.

The estimated population of the eight towns being 1,219,586, and the number of marriages 10,753, there were, in 1882, 88 marriages per 10,000 persons. In 1879 the marriage-rate in the eight towns had sunk to 80 per 10,000; since that year it has been gradually rising. In Edinburgh and Paisley it was lower than in 1881; in Aberdeen it was the same; in the other towns it was somewhat higher.

The following Table (in continuation of similar Tables in the Almanac for former years) shows the number of births, of marriages, and of deaths registered in the eight principal towns of Scotland in each month of the year 1882 and in each of the first ten months of the year 1883, together with the mean temperature of those towns in each month (having for their mean position 56° 12' N. lat., 3° 30' W. long., and 123 feet above the sea-level). The aggregate population of these eight towns was 889,133 at the middle of 1861, 1,073,608 at the middle of 1871, and 1,206,057 at the middle of 1881.

Appended to the Report on Births, Deaths, and Marriages is the Eighteenth Report by the Registrar-General on Vaccination in Scotland. The Report shows what proportion of the children whose births were registered in 1881 were vaccinated in terms of the Act 26 and 27 Vict. c. 108. From the vaccination returns it appears that of 126,277 children whose births were registered in 1881, 87,908 per cent. were successfully vaccinated; 1.256 per cent. had their vaccination postponed from ill health or other causes, 0.119 per cent. were found insusceptible of vaccination from constitutional insusceptibility, and 0.279 per cent. insusceptible from their mothers or nurses having previously vaccinated them. 8.384 per cent. died under the age of six months unvaccinated, while 2.054 per cent. (2594 persons) were removed from the districts before vaccination could be enforced, or were otherwise unaccounted for. Deducting from the children born during the year the number who died under the age of six months, it appears that, of the living children (115,690 in number), 95.953 per cent. (111,008 persons) were successfully vaccinated, while 1.371 per cent. had their vaccination postponed. Adding the number of those known to have been irregularly but successfully vaccinated (352), it appears that 96·257 per cent. of the children born in 1881 who attained the age of six months had received the protection which vaccination affords. The number of cases in which a certificate of insusceptibility from some constitutional peculiarity was given was 150. The number of children who, by being removed from the district of their birth, or from any other unknown cause, were not vaccinated, or not known to be vaccinated (2594), was 2·242 per cent. of children alive at the age of six months. On the average of the ten years 1871-80 it was 2·242 per cent. (2522 persons). The proportion of cases in which vaccination is postponed has been increasing, and was greater in 1881 than that recorded in any previous year.

The number of deaths from smallpox was 1309 in 1855; 1306 in 1856; 845 in 1857; 332 in 1858; 682 in 1859; 1495 in 1860; 766 in 1861; 426 in 1862; 1646 in 1863; 1741 in 1864; 383 in 1865; 200 in 1866; 100 in 1867; 15 in 1868; 64 in 1869; 114 in 1870; 1442 in 1871; 2446 in 1872; 1126 in 1873; 1246 in 1874; 76 in 1875; 39 in 1876; 38 in 1877; 4 in 1878; 8 in 1879; 10 in 1880; and is estimated at 12 in 1881, and 4 in 1882.

The next Table shows the population of England and Wales, estimated to the middle of each year, for the years 1880-82 (exclusive of the army and navy and merchant seamen abroad), and the number of births, deaths, and marriages registered during each of these years:—

Years.	Estimated Population.	Births.	Deaths.	Marriages.	Years.

1882	26,406,820	888,940	516,783	203,905	1882

The next Table shows the estimated population of Ireland, estimated to the middle of each year, for the years 1880-82 (exclusive of the army, navy, and merchant seamen abroad), and the number of births, deaths, and marriages registered in Ireland in each of these years:—

1882	5,097,730	122,715	88,737	22,058	1882

The population of the United Kingdom, as estimated to the middle of the year 1883 (exclusive of the army and navy and merchant seamen abroad), was 35,631,290, viz., England and Wales, 26,762,974; Scotland, 3,825,744; Ireland, 5,042,572.

THE CENSUS OF 1881.

The second volume of the Census of Scotland shows the ages of the people, their civil condition, occupations, birthplaces, and also the number of persons receiving instruction at each year of life. [For an account of the first volume, see the Almanac for 1883, pp. 237-251]. The tables in this volume are made for registration counties and districts, not for civil counties and parishes, because otherwise they would not be comparable with the Registrar-General's Returns of Births, Deaths, and Marriages. In the case of the principal burghs, however—that is, those with a population of 10,000 and upwards—the returns are prepared to afford information relative to the inhabitants resident within their municipal or parliamentary boundaries. The differences between the populations of the registration and civil counties are not inconsiderable, which is a consequence of parishes which extend to more than one county being held, for the purposes of the Registration Act, to be within the county in which the parish church is situated. As in former censuses, Scotland is, for convenience in presentation of facts, divided according to the density of the population in various parts, locality, etc., the whole country being, on this occasion, divided first into two great portions, Northern and Southern, which are subdivided into eight divisions, five in the Northern, and three in the Southern, the counties being grouped geographically in the divisions; and, again, into the five groups of districts of the Registrar-General's Returns, viz., principal towns (with populations over 25,000), large towns (populations between 10,000 and 25,000), small towns (populations from 2,000 to 10,000), mainland-rural districts (embracing the remaining districts on the mainland), and insular-rural districts (embracing the remaining districts on the islands).

AGES OF THE PEOPLE.

The male population of Scotland in 1881 (1,799,475) showed an increase of 196,332, or 12·2 per cent., and the female population at the same date (1,936,098) an increase of 179,223, or 10·2 per cent., as compared with 1871, the total increase, 375,555, being 11·7 per cent., so that the increase of the males in the 10 years was at the rate of 2 per cent. more than that of the females. The greatest rate of increase during the 10 years among both males and females, taking periods of 5 years from birth, was between the ages of 20 and 25, when there was, in the case of the males, an increase of 28,121 persons, or 20·3 per cent., and in the case of the females 23,149 persons, or 15 per cent. Taking Scotland on the whole, males preponderated over females between birth and 20 years of age, the numbers being, in the case of the males (0-5 years) 258,425, (5-10) 227,783, (10-15) 205,748, (15-20) 189,673, and, in that of the females, (0-5) 252,166, (5-10) 222,241, (10-15) 199,243, and (15-20) 188,597. At all ages after this the females were greatly in excess of the males. The proportion for all Scotland was 107·6 females to every 100 males in 1881; in 1871 it had been 109·6 females to every 100 males. In England the proportion in 1881 was 105·5 females to every 100 males, and in Ireland it was 104·3 females to every 100 males. While there had been a steady increase of both males and females at all earlier ages, the census of 1881 showed for both males and females a diminution of the numbers towards the end of life. In the males above 85 years of age there was a diminution of 83, from 2601 to 2518, and in the females above 90 a diminution of 71, from 1279 to 1208. While in the whole of Scotland the sexes were most nearly equal in number between 15 and 20 years of age, the excess of males being then 1076, that occurred in the same quinquennium in the large town districts, the excess of males being 545, in the small town districts, the excess of males being 734, and in the insular-rural districts, the male excess being 82; while it occurred in the principal town districts between 5 and 10 years of age, the excess of males being 544, and in the mainland-rural districts between 20 and 25, with a male excess of 783. After the age named in each case the numbers of the female sex was greater than that of the male in every quinquennial period.

Between 1871 and 1881 the population of the eight principal towns increased by 217,596, of which 133,394 was due to excess of births over deaths, so that 84,202 persons must have immigrated into those towns from other places; the population of the large town districts increased by 61,063, the excess of births over deaths being 55,597, so that 5466 persons must have immigrated into those districts. On the other hand, in the same period, the population of the small town districts increased only by 93,838, while the excess of births over deaths was 121,735; the population of the mainland-rural districts increased by only 4674, while the excess of births over deaths was 145,529; and the population of the insular-rural districts actually decreased by 1616, though the births exceeded the deaths by 12,628. In these last cases respectively, 27,897 persons, 140,855 persons, and 14,244 persons must have left the districts to seek a living in other parts of the kingdom or of the world. The number of Scotch emigrants who left the United Kingdom during the ten years for places out of Europe was 170,686.

The following Table shows the percentage as well of males as of females at five different periods of life in each county and registration division of Scotland, and in the principal towns, large towns, small towns, mainland-rural districts and insular-rural districts respectively in the year 1881:—

Taking the males between 20 and 40, the average for all Scotland was 28·543 per cent.—that is, there were 28,543 males between 20 and 40 in every 100,000 males in the population. The counties most under this average were Wigtown with 23·815 per cent.; Kincardine with 23·415 per cent.; Shetland with 22·717 per cent.; Banff with 22·712 per cent.; and, lowest of all, Kinross with 22·209 per cent. The counties most above the average were Dumbarton with 30·182 per cent.; Renfrew with 30·400 per cent.; Edinburgh with 31·643 per cent.; and Lanark with 32·505 per cent. The proportion of males between 40 and 60 years of age to the total male population was pretty uniform, varying from 14·644 per cent. in Selkirk to 18·141 per cent. in Sutherland, the mean for all Scotland being 15·652 per cent. The proportion of males at and above 60 to the whole male population—the percentage for all Scotland being 6·811—exhibited marked variations, varying from 4·385 per cent. in Lanarkshire to 12·405 per cent. in Shetland and 12·613 per cent. in Kinross. In the case of females between 20 and 40, the mean for all Scotland was 29·314 per cent., while the percentage fell so low as 25·141 in Banff and 25·019 in Kinross, and rose to 32·230 per cent. in Edinburgh and 32·666 per cent. in Selkirk. Females between 40 and 60, again, were 17·434 per cent. of the whole female population of Scotland; while they were only 15·719 per cent. in Linlithgow and 16·081 per cent. in Ayr, and were as much as 21·020 per cent. in Sutherland and 22·371 per cent. in Shetland. The females of 60 years of age and above were 8·717 per cent. of the whole female population of Scotland. In Lanark they were only 6·058 per cent.; while, on the other hand, they were 16·315 per cent. in Sutherland and 16·417 per cent. in Shetland. In the burghs having a population of 10,000 and upwards, the males between 20 and 40 were 31·517 per cent. of the whole male population; those between 40 and 60, 15·477 per cent.; and those 60 years of age and above, 4·946 per cent.; while the females between 20 and 40 were 31·758 per cent. of the whole female population; those between 40 and 60, 17·240 per cent.; and those 60 years of age and above, 7·029 per cent.

THE BLIND AND THE DEAF AND DUMB.

The number of the blind in Scotland in 1881 was 3158 (1556 males and 1602 females), being 1 in 1182 of the population; of males, 1 in every 1156 was blind; of females, 1 in 1208. Otherwise put, there were 86 blind in every 100,000 males, and 83 blind in every 100,000 females. Only 280 of the 3158 blind were blind from birth (134 males and 146 females). Only 1 in every 13,341 of the population, therefore, was blind from birth; while 1 in every 1298 became blind from disease or accident afterwards. In 1871 the number of the blind in Scotland was 3019, or 1 in every 1112 of the population. There were 406 blind under 20 years of age in 1881 (245 males and 161 females), or 1 in every 4295 of the population under that age. There were 1359 blind under 50 years of age (811 males and 548 females); or 1 person in every 2342 under that age was blind. The males over 50 years old returned as blind numbered 745, and the females 1054, together 1799; or 1 in every 306 persons over 50 years of age was blind. The number of blind males exceeded the number of blind females until the age of 60 was reached, after which the female blind were the more numerous. The number of blind males increased gradually from birth until the sixtieth year of life, after which they began to fall off; in the case of the other sex, the numbers went on increasing (putting aside a falling away between 30 and 40) until the age of 80 was reached, after which they also declined in number. There were 845 persons blind per million in the whole population of Scotland. The average was exceeded in the north-eastern registration division, where the proportion of blind was 848 per million; in the south-eastern, where it was 982; in the north-western, where it was 1404; and in the northern, where it was no less than 1726 per million. In the southern division this proportion was 754; in the south-western, 748; in the west-midland, 705; and in the east-midland, 703 per million. The average was greatly exceeded in the northern counties—the blind being at the rate per million of 1311 in Orkney, 1497 in Ross and Cromarty, 1519 in Sutherland, 1731 in Caithness, and 2323 in Shetland. In Selkirk, on the other hand, they were only 76 per million. The largest numbers of blind, however, were found, among the counties, in Forfar, 196; Aberdeen, 250; Edinburgh, 450; and Lanark, 735; which is accounted for to a great extent by the existence of charities in the chief towns of these counties. The number of deaf and dumb persons in Scotland in 1881 was 2142 (1149 males and 993 females). 1078 (560 males and 518 females) were returned as deaf and dumb from birth; but the Report suggests that it is improbable that so many were deaf and dumb from the first. 1064 deaf and dumb persons (589 males and 475 females) were returned as not born deaf and dumb. The deaf and dumb were 573 per million of the population in all Scotland, or 1 in every 1744 persons. In 1871 they were 1 in every 1610 persons, so that an improvement took place in the decennium, and it extended to all the divisions except the south-western, in which there was an increase from the rate of 528 to the rate of 546 per million. The greatest numbers of the deaf and dumb occur at early ages of life. 826 persons (456 males and 370 females) under 20 years of age were deaf and dumb, or 1 in every 211 persons under that age—of whom 487 were between 10 and 20; 423 persons between 20 and 30; 290 between 30 and 40; 240 between 40 and 50; 163 between 50 and 60; 124 between 60 and 70; and only 76 above 70. The largest proportion of the deaf and dumb, as of the blind, were found in the northern and north-western divisions, while the smallest was in the southern division. The proportion of the deaf and dumb to a million persons, being for all Scotland 573, was 589 for the northern division; 609 for the north-western; 502 for the north-eastern; 549 for the east-midland; 550 for the west-midland; 546 for the south-western; 772 for the south-eastern; and 439 for the southern. The greatest numbers of deaf and dumb occurred, taking the counties, in Aberdeen, 126; in Forfar, 144; in Renfrew, 220; in Edinburgh, 363; and in Lanark, 427; which, as in the case of the blind, is to be accounted for by the existence of charities in the chief towns of these counties.

THE INSANE AND THE IMBECILE.

8406 persons (3939 males and 4467 females) were returned as lunatics in Scotland in 1881, which was in the proportion of 2250 per million, or 1 in every 444 of the population. In 1871 the proportion was 2021 per million, or 1 in every 494 of the population. Lunatics are comparatively few in the early years of life; but they increase rapidly after 20, attaining their maximum at 50, the largest numbers appearing between 30 and 60. Up to the age of 20 there were but 152 lunatics (92 males and 60 females), or 1 in every 11,473 of the population of the same years. Between 20 and 30 there were 1403; between 30 and 40, 1890; between 40 and 50, 2060; between 50 and 60, 1629; and the number over 60 was 1632, or 1 in every 163 of the population over that age. Up to the age of 40 the male lunatics outnumbered the female, there being 1673 of the former, or 1 in every 834 males of the same age, and 1412 of the latter, or 1 in every 1012 females of the same age. After 40 years the female lunatics outnumbered the males, numbering 3055, or 1 in every 165 of the female population over 40, while there were only 2266 male lunatics, or 1 in every 178 males over 40. The number of imbeciles returned in 1881 was 5991 (2896 males and 3095 females), or 1 in every 623 of the population, or 1603 per million of the population. In 1871 there had been 1 idiot in every 727, or 1375 per million of the population. Under five years of age there were comparatively few idiots—only 75 (45 males and 30 females); but between 5 and 10 years there were 400; and between 10 and 20, 1266 (724 males and 542 females). After this they gradually diminished—the number between 20 and 30 being 1103; the number between 30 and 40, 822; between 40 and 50, 672; between 50 and 60, 563; between 60 and 70, 525; and above 70, 565, 24 of whom were over 90. Up to the age of 30 the males outnumbered the females—the male idiots under 30 being 1579, and the female 1265. The number of male idiots over 30, on the other hand, was 1317, and that of the females 1830. Of the total number of the imbecile, 1128 (595 males and 533 females) were returned as imbecile from birth.

EDUCATIONAL STATISTICS.

Of the total population of Scotland in 1881 there were 510,591 under 5 years of age, 855,015 between 5 and 15 years, and 2,369,967 above this age. There were in receipt of education 14,152 infants under 5 years of age, 675,314 children between 5 and 15, and 30,633 above 15. 720,099 children, therefore, were being educated—2·77 per cent. of the population under 5 years; 78·98 per cent. of those between 5 and 15; and 1·29 per cent. of those over 15; and the total percentage of all receiving instruction to the whole population was 19·28 per cent. In 1871 the total number receiving instruction was 574,121—10,025 under 5 years; 541,995 between 5 and 15; and 22,101 above 15—being 2·19 per cent. of those under 5 years, 69·77 per cent. of those between 5 and 15, and 1·04 of the population above 15 years; and the total percentage of all receiving instruction to the population was 17·09. The total of both sexes under 15 years receiving education in 1881 was 689,466, or 18·45 per cent. of the population. The corresponding percentage in 1871 was 16·42 per cent. Of the children under 5 years receiving instruction in 1881 there were 11,203 between 4 and 5 years of age. In the burghs with over 10,000 inhabitants, which had a total population of 1,640,360 in 1881, there were 227,052 under 5 years, 358,792 between 5 and 15, and 1,054,516 over 15 years. There were receiving instruction 6092, or 2·68 per cent., of those under 5 years; 270,950, or 75·52 per cent., of those between 5 and 15; and 13,972, or 1·32 per cent., of those above 15 years—the total number receiving education in the burghs being 17·74 per cent. of their total population. The percentage of persons in receipt of education (including persons above 15) to the total population of each county in 1881 was 16·98 in Shetland; 19·66 in Orkney; 21·91 in Caithness; 18·43 in Sutherland; 20·43 in Ross and Cromarty; 20·97 in Inverness; 21·58 in Nairn; 21·80 in Elgin; 23·18 in Banff; 21·81 in Aberdeen; 21·91 in Kincardine; 18·83 in Forfar; 19·59 in Perth; 20·97 in Fife; 18·54 in Kinross; 22·53 in Clackmannan; 20·34 in Stirling; 17·98 in Dumbarton; 20·04 in Argyll; 16·62 in Bute; 17·98 in Renfrew; 20·01 in Ayr; 17·19 in Lanark; 21·49 in Linlithgow; 19·30 in Edinburgh; 19·41 in Haddington; 20·23 in Berwick; 18·90 in Peebles; 18·30 in Selkirk; 19·95 in Roxburgh; 20·53 in Dumfries; 20·95 in Kirkcudbright; and 20·98 in Wigtown. At ages between 5 and 15, the average percentage of those in receipt of education to the population of the same years, which was for all Scotland 78·98, was most exceeded in Orkney with 85·59 per cent., Ross and Cromarty with 85·88 per cent., Kirkcudbright with 85·90 per cent., Elgin with 85·98 per cent., Banff with 86·04 per cent., Nairn with 86·53 per cent., Caithness with 87·71 per cent., and Inverness with 87·86 per cent.; while most under the mean were Forfar with 76·49 per cent., Renfrew with 75·40 per cent., Bute with 74·89 per cent., Dumbarton with 74·87 per cent., and Lanark with 72·69 per cent. Of the 30,633 persons above 15 receiving instruction in Scotland in 1881, 16,716 were males and 13,914 were females; 655 were divinity students; 366 were law students; and 2342, including 7 females, were medical students. 13,972 persons above 15 were receiving instruction in the burghs with populations over 10,000, including students in divinity, law, and medicine.

CONJUGAL CONDITION OF THE PEOPLE.—HUSBANDS AND WIVES.—

WIDOWERS AND WIDOWS.—BACHELORS AND SPINSTERS.

Of the 1,799,475 males in Scotland in 1881, there were 1,192,713 single, 547,772 were husbands, and 58,990 were widowers; of the 1,936,098 females 1,216,921 were single, 560,630 were wives, and 158,547 were widows. Taking those only of marriageable age—that is, above 15—of a total of 1,107,579 males, 500,757 were single, 547,772 were married, and 58,990 were widowers; and of 1,262,488 women 543,271 were single, 560,630 married, and 158,547 widows. The marriageable women exceeded the marriageable men in number by 154,969, or 12·3 per cent. Moreover 45·2 per cent. of the men were single. The following Table shows the proportion of single, married, and widowed, as well to the whole of each sex as to the proportion of each sex above 15 years for Scotland, and also for England and Ireland:—

		Percentage to Total of each Sex.			Percentage to Total of each Sex above 15 years.

This Table shows that Ireland has, of the three kingdoms, by far the largest proportions of single men and women in the population, and the smallest proportions of married persons. At the same time there is about 2 per cent. more widows in Ireland than in Scotland in proportion to the female population,—14·470 per cent. against 12·559. The average number of marriages in Scotland is 72 per 10,000, and in Ireland only 47.

There were 547,772 husbands in Scotland at the census, and 560,630 wives; 49·459 per cent. of the marriageable men were married, and 44·408 per cent. of the marriageable women. The difference between the number of husbands and wives, 12,858, represents the excess of husbands over wives who were absent from Scotland when the census was taken. Of every 100 men above 15 years of age 41 were husbands in Argyll; 42 in Inverness and Sutherland; 43 in Nairn; 45 in Perth; 46 in Bute, Caithness, Dumfries, Ross and Cromarty; 47 in Dumbarton, Elgin, Kirkcudbright, and Wigtown; 48 in Aberdeen, Banff, and Berwick; 49 in Edinburgh, Haddington, Kincardine, Linlithgow, Peebles, and Roxburgh; 50 in Kinross, Lanark, Renfrew, and Stirling; 51 in Ayr, Clackmannan, and Orkney; 52 in Selkirk; 53 in Forfar and Shetland; and 54 in Fife. Of every 100 females above 15, 33 were wives in Shetland; 35 in Sutherland; 36 in Bute; 37 in Inverness and Nairn; 38 in Ross and Cromarty; 39 in Argyll, Caithness, Dumfries, Perth, and Wigtown; 40 in Elgin and Kirkcudbright; 41 in Berwick and Orkney; 42 in Aberdeen, Edinburgh, Forfar, Kinross, Peebles, and Roxburgh; 43 in Banff and Haddington; 44 in Clackmannan, Dumbarton, and Selkirk; 45 in Fife, Kincardine, and Renfrew; 48 in Ayr; 49 in Lanark; 50 in Stirling; and 55 in Linlithgow. In the burghs, of every 100 males above 15 years of age, nearly 51 (50·909 per cent.) were husbands, the proportion varying from 44 per 100 in Inverness to 58 in Dysart. In Edinburgh the proportion was 48 per 100; in Glasgow, Greenock, and Perth it was 49; in Aberdeen and Paisley 51, in Leith 53, and in Dundee 54. The largest proportions occurred in Arbroath, Dunfermline, Kinning Park, and Kirkcaldy, each with 55, in Forfar with 56, and in Dysart with 58; the smallest in Hamilton and Maryhill, with 47 each, Dumbarton with 45, and Inverness with only 44. Of every 100 females above 15 in the burghs, 45 were wives, the proportions varying from 38 in Edinburgh and Dumfries to 66 in Motherwell. In Aberdeen and Dundee the proportion was 41 per 100; in Paisley it was 42; in Perth 44; in Glasgow 47; in Leith 52; and in Greenock 53. Next to that of Motherwell, the largest proportion occurred in Govan, Kinning Park, and Wishaw, in each of which it was 59, and the smallest, next to Edinburgh and Dumfries, in Inverness and Montrose, in each of which it was 40.

The following Table shows the proportion of married persons at each of the three periods of life undernoted, for Scotland, and also for England and for Ireland:—

In Scotland 318,712 men between 15 and 45 years were husbands, and 369,442 women between the same limits were wives; while there were between 45 and 65 years 184,318 husbands, and only 163,684 wives; and of 65 years and upwards, 44,742 husbands, and only 27,504 wives.

The proportions of husbands and wives to the males and females respectively of the like age were much the same for those between 15 and 45 (40.142 per cent. for the men, and 42.864 for the women), but varied much at the later periods, the husbands between 45 and 65 being 77.953 per cent. of the men between those years, and the wives only 56.116 of the females, while at 65 and over there were 58.030 per cent. of husbands against 25.264 per cent. of wives. The mean age of husbands was greater by 3.0 years than that of wives, the former being 43.8 years and the latter 40.8.

Of the persons above 15 years of age in 1881, 500,757 males, or 45.214 per cent. of the males above 15, were bachelors, and 543,271 females, or 43.033 per cent. of the females above 15, were spinsters. For every 100 bachelors there were 108 spinsters, whereas in 1871 there had been 114 (and in 1861, 120). Of the males above 15 years in 1881, 39.180 per cent. were bachelors in England, and 50.814 per cent. in Ireland. Of the females above 15 years, 36.738 per cent. were spinsters in England, and 44.793 per cent. in Ireland. The proportion of unmarried men and women was, therefore, much smaller in England than in Scotland, and much higher in Ireland, where rather more than half of the male population of marriageable age were single.

The widowers in Scotland in 1881 numbered 58,990, and the widows 158,547; of the marriageable males 5.327 per cent. were widowers, while of the marriageable females 12.559 per cent. were widows. There were 268 widows in the population to every 100 widowers. Between 15 and 45 there were 11,425 widowers—1.439 per cent. of the men between those years—and 27,523 widows, being 3.193 per cent. of women between those years. Between 45 and 65 there were 23,508 widowers and 71,470 widows; and at 65 and above there were 24,057 widowers and 59,554 widows. In 1881 Scotland had 53 widowers for every 1000 males above 15, and 125 widows for every 1000 females above 15; while the corresponding numbers for England were, 55 widowers and 116 widows, and for Ireland 59 widowers and 144 widows. In the burghs with over 10,000 inhabitants, 5.031 per cent. of the males over 15 were widowers, and 13.368 per cent. of the females over 15 were widows.

BIRTHPLACES OF THE PEOPLE.

Of the 3,735,573 persons in Scotland when the census was taken, 3,397,759 (90.957 per cent.) were born in Scotland; 218,745 (5.856 per cent.) were born in Ireland; 90,017 (2.410 per cent.) were born in England; and 1806 (0.048 per cent.) in Wales; 949 (0·025 per cent.) were born in the Channel Islands; 12,874 (0·345 per cent.) were born in British Colonies; 7024 (0·188 per cent.) were British subjects born abroad or at sea; and 6399 (0·171 per cent.) were foreigners. Of the foreigners, however, 1125 were on board of 162 foreign vessels as crew, etc., and 773 were emigrants on board of three vessels going to America, so that the true resident foreign population numbered 4501 (0·120 per cent. of the population). In the burghs having populations of 10,000 and upwards, of the total population, 1,640,360, 87·116 per cent. were native-born, and 8·634 per cent. were born in Ireland, and 3·134 per cent. in England.

The percentage of persons born in Scotland, but not in the division of it in which they resided at the date of the census, was 5·828 in the northern registration division (Shetland, Orkney, Caithness, and Sutherland); 8·742 in the north-western (Ross and Cromarty, and Inverness); 6·371 in the north-eastern (Nairn, Elgin, Banff, Aberdeen, and Kincardine); 12·388 in the east-midland (Forfar, Perth, Fife, Kinross, and Clackmannan); 29·593 in the west-midland (Stirling, Dumbarton, Argyll, and Bute); 16·484 in the south-western (Renfrew, Ayr, and Lanark); 26·342 in the south-eastern (Linlithgow, Edinburgh, Haddington, Berwick, Peebles, and Selkirk); 12·108 in the southern (Roxburgh, Dumfries, Kirkcudbright, and Wig-town).

Of the persons in each of the eight principal towns who were born in Scotland, the proportion who were natives of the town was, in Glasgow (parliamentary burgh), 62·063 per cent., Glasgow (municipal burgh), 61·886 per cent.; in Edinburgh, 53·664 per cent.; in Dundee, 61·839 per cent.; in Aberdeen, 58·972 per cent.; in Greenock, 63·232 per cent.; in Paisley, 69·358 per cent.; in Leith, 47·525 per cent.; and in Perth, 51·352 per cent.

OCCUPATIONS OF THE PEOPLE.

The general plan followed in exhibiting the occupations of the people in Scotland, as they were disclosed by the census of 1881, was that recommended by the Registrar-General of England. The people were divided into six classes—professional, domestic, commercial, agricultural, industrial (or manufacturing), and unoccupied and non-productive (or indefinite). These classes were again subdivided into 25 orders, and the orders were still further subdivided into 81 sub-orders, which embraced 432 occupations or groupings of occupations. In 1871, wives, children, and scholars were treated as dependants on the various orders or sub-orders to which their husbands or fathers belonged. In 1881 this arrangement was departed from, and they were placed in the sixth class with those who have no specified occupation. Paupers, who were included in the sixth class in 1871, were in 1881 included under the occupation or trade at which they used to work. The following Table shows the total number of persons of each sex, distinguishing persons under 20 years from persons above 20 years, engaged in each of the six great classes of occupations:—

The following Table shows the number of persons following each class of occupations in 1871 and 1881, with the percentage of each class to the total population in each of these years:—

The total number returned as engaged in some occupation in 1881 was 1,606,984, or 43·018 per cent. of the population (3,735,573). The males returned as workers numbered 1,108,713, and were 61·613 per cent. of the male population (1,799,475); and the females returned as workers numbered 498,271, and were 25·736 per cent. of the female population (1,936,098). In 1871, out of a population of 3,360,018, there were 1,468,585 persons at work, or 43·707 of the total population. The male workers then numbered 977,980, and were 61·003 per cent. of the whole male population (1,603,143); and the female workers numbered 490,605, and were 27·925 per cent. of the whole female population (1,756,875). The proportions of the professional, commercial, and industrial classes to the total population increased, and those of the domestic, agricultural, and unoccupied decreased between 1871 and 1881.

EMIGRATION AND IMMIGRATION.

The total number of emigrants from the United Kingdom to places out of Europe, including foreigners, in the year 1882 was 413,288—an increase of 20,774 on the number in 1881 (392,514), which was itself an increase of 60,220 on the number in 1880 (332,294). The number of emigrants of British and Irish origin in 1882 was 279,366—an increase of 36,364 over the number of such emigrants in 1881 (243,002), which was an increase of 15,460 over the number of such emigrants in 1880 (227,542). The total emigration for 1882 was the largest ever recorded, and the increase occurred mainly in the emigration of persons of British and Irish origin, the number of foreigners emigrating being less than in the previous year. The emigration of persons of British and Irish origin in 1882 was larger than in any year since 1853, when the nationality of emigrants began to be distinguished. The character of the emigration of natives from the United Kingdom is now much more largely English and Scotch and less Irish than it was thirty years ago. It is said to be not improbable that the diminution in the number of foreign emigrants who passed through the United Kingdom which occurred in 1882 (about 15,000) implies rather a change in the route of the European emigration than any falling off in the amount. Besides the emigration recorded by the Board of Trade, it appears that in 1882 about 5000 persons proceeded from the United Kingdom to the Continent, and were thence shipped in foreign vessels as emigrants to the United States.

The number of immigrants into the United Kingdom, including foreigners, in 1882 was 78,268—an increase of 1163 upon the number in 1881 (77,105); but the number of immigrants of British and Irish origin, 50,599, showed a decrease of 2108 as compared with the number in 1881 (52,707). The excess of the total emigration, including foreigners, in 1882, over the total immigration was 335,020; and taking the emigration and immigration of persons of British and Irish origin, it was 228,767—the figures in both cases being unprecedentedly large. The loss of population to the United Kingdom by emigration in 1882 was very nearly half the total excess of births over deaths. As already noticed, the loss is more largely than it was thirty years ago a loss of English and Scotch as distinguished from Irish population. But the Irish emigration continues large in proportion to the population of Ireland, and it increased in 1882.

The increase of emigration in 1882 was not so marked in the numbers going to the United States as in the numbers going to other places. The increase in the excess of emigrants of British and Irish origin to the United States in 1882, as compared with 1881, was 7000 only, while the increase in the excess of emigrants to British North America was no less than 16,000, and to Australasia about 14,000. It is remarked that the Canadian Government has been making great efforts to have its north-western provinces settled; and that the increase to Australasia is not improbably due to renewed efforts of the colonial governments to obtain emigrants. The United States still receives much the largest share of the emigration to North America.

Taking the total emigration (413,288), it was made up of 56,739 cabin passengers and 356,549 steerage passengers, against 54,270 cabin passengers and 338,244 steerage passengers in 1881. In 1882 the increased emigration of persons of English origin was 23,000, the total being 163,000; the increased emigration of persons of Scotch origin about 5400, the total being 32,000; and the increased emigration of persons of Irish origin about 8000, the total being 84,000. There were about 195,000 English and Scotch emigrants, as compared with 84,000 Irish; and the circumstances determining emigration in 1882 may be considered to have been general, and not very specially connected with the condition of Ireland. The Irish emigration, however, contains only 13 per cent. of children, while they are 20 per cent. of the English emigration and nearly 23 per cent. of the Scotch; and among the single adults emigrating from Ireland there is only a small excess (about a fourth more) of males over females, while in the corresponding class of emigrants from England and Scotland there are about three males to one female—so that the Irish emigration is proportionately far more effective in retarding the growth of population at home than is the English or Scotch emigration. During the three years 1880–82 the number of Irish emigrants from the United Kingdom exceeded the excess of births over deaths in Ireland by about 160,000.

Of the 5,085,799 emigrants of British origin who left the United Kingdom in the 30 years 1853-82, 2,333,120 were English, 494,331 were Scotch, and 2,258,348 were Irish.

EDUCATION.

The Tenth Annual Report of the Committee of Privy Council on Education in Scotland is for the year ended 30th September 1882. The Report states that in the year ended at that date the inspectors visited 3073 day-schools in Scotland to which annual grants were made, containing 3380 departments under separate teachers, and furnishing accommodation, at 8 square feet of superficial area per child, for 619,086 scholars, or about one-sixth of the estimated population. There were on the registers the names of 555,660 children, of whom 115,907 were under seven years of age; 399,344 were between seven and thirteen; 26,155 were between thirteen and fourteen; and 14,254 were above fourteen. Of these scholars, 490,372 were present on the day of the inspector's visit to their respective schools, while 421,265 were, on an average, in daily attendance throughout the year; 413,266, having made the requisite number of attendances, were qualified to be examined, 57,731 (under seven) collectively, and 355,535 (above seven) individually, in reading, writing, and arithmetic; 54,207 were actually presented for collective and 320,750 for individual examination, and while of these last 243,814 passed the prescribed test without failure in any one of the three subjects, 92·31 scholars out of every 100 examined passed in reading, 89·28 in writing, and 85·13 in arithmetic. Each scholar examined made on an average 2·67 passes. These figures showed a remarkable improvement upon the results of the administration of the department up to 1872, the year in which the Education Act was passed. In ten years the accommodation had increased by 337,418 school-places (or 119·79 per cent.); the scholars on the register by 288,612 (108·08 per cent.); those present at inspection by 265,072 (117·65 per cent.); and the average attendance by 207,716 (97·27 per cent.); while the number of children individually examined increased by 190,828 (or 146·88 per cent.) During the year 1881-82, the accommodation had increased by 6,603 places, the scholars on the register by 16,678, those present at inspection by 15,351, the average attendance by 11,299, and the number of children individually examined by 9522, or 3·06 per cent. The local effort which resulted in this improvement was to be measured by the continued support derived from voluntary contributions (£30,128 from 4198 subscribers), and by the contributions from rates to the maintenance of public schools, which had, however, decreased from £196,563 to £191,797. The school pence had increased by £8717 during the year 1881-82, and amounted to £269,218. The government grant rose in the year from £359,903 to £372,901, or from 17s. 6½d. to 17s. 8½d. per scholar in average attendance. The night-schools examined during the year were 221 in number; 11,094 scholars above twelve years of age were, on an average, in attendance each night; and 13,542 scholars were qualified for examination by having made the required number of attendances during the night-school session. Of these, 10,664 were actually examined, and out of every 100 scholars so examined 95·46 passed in reading, 83·56 in writing, and 73·57 in arithmetic. The inspectors found 5728 certificated teachers at work in the aided schools which they visited, while the seven training colleges, from which the supply of such teachers is mainly recruited, were attended in 1882 by 850 students. These students (with very few exceptions), and 242 acting teachers, were examined for certificates in December 1882. At midsummer 1883, 1150 candidates for admission to the training colleges were examined; and of these 932 passed creditably, and 416 were, at the date of the Report, in their first year of residence, along with 442 students of the second year.

In connexion with school-supply, the Report states that the aided schools, which in 1872 provided for 281,668 scholars, or for 8·3 per cent. of the population, were in 1882 sufficient for 619,086 scholars, or 16·4 per cent. of the population. Of the total increase of 337,418 seats, some 63,260 were required to meet the growth of the population during the ten years. The rest, or upwards of 274,000 seats, was to be taken as the measure of the deficiency in inspected schools at the passing of the Education Act. The accommodation now in existence has been supplied in various ways. The returns made to the Committee show (1) that between 1839 and 31st December 1882 grants to the amount of £677,063 had been paid in aid of building 987 residences for teachers, and of building 1384 new schools for 281,001 scholars, and enlarging or improving 497 schools for 53,475 scholars, or for 334,476 scholars in all. For 72,081 of these scholars accommodation was provided by voluntary effort in 422 new and 128 improved schools, at a cost to the promoters of £230,122, and to the State of £109,411, or at the rate of about £4, 14s. 2d. per scholar. Since the passing of the Act of 1872, provision had been made for 262,395 scholars in 962 new and 369 improved public schools, and for 749 teachers' residences, at a cost to the rates of £2,057,274, and to the State of £567,672, or at a cost of £7, 16s. 10d. per scholar from the rates, and of £2, 3s. 3d. from the Parliamentary grant—that is, at the rate of £10, 0s. 1d. per scholar. (2) The Board of Education had sanctioned applications of School Boards for leave to borrow to the amount of £2,398,802. The Department, since succeeding to the functions of the Board, had authorized further loans amounting to £422,647. The returns show (3) that the number of schools to which annual grants were made was, in 1872, 1902 (many of these schools have been discontinued, or transferred to school boards); in 1880, 3056; in 1881, 3074; in 1882, 3073. Of the 1902 schools to which grants were made in 1872, 1311 (including the parish schools) belonged to the Established Church, 523 to the Free Church, 46 to the Episcopal Church, and 22 to the Roman Catholic Church. Of the 3073 schools aided in 1882, 2477 were public schools, 123 Church of Scotland schools, 82 Free Church schools, 77 Episcopal schools, and 137 Roman Catholic schools, and there were 227 undenominational and other schools (included with Church of Scotland and Free Church schools in former years). (4) By the 31st December 1873, when the time for applying for building grants expired, 1685 applications for such grants had been received, the applications relating to the provision of school-room for about 250,000 children, and of 1083 residences for teachers. At 1st April 1883, 1419 of these applications had been granted, 54 refused, and 213 withdrawn by the school boards; and in 1412 cases grants had been announced to the amount of £573,519, and 1402 grants, to the amount of £568,955, had been paid. In 6 cases the amount of the grant to be awarded had not been fixed; in 10 more the awards had been made but not paid. Coming to the question, how far the existing school-supply (619,086 seats) provides for the wants of the country, the Report points out (the age statistics of the census of 1881 had not been published when it was written) that about 23·1 per cent. of the population are between 3 and 13 years of age; that, assuming that six-sevenths of that population are of the class whose children may be expected to be in State-aided schools, about 19·8, or say 20 per cent., of the whole population should be found on the registers of aided schools; that, making due allowance for absence on account of sickness, weather, distance from school, and other reasonable causes, school seats should be provided for one-sixth of the whole population; and, therefore, the estimated population of 1882 being 3,775,364, there is need for 629,227 school places. The actual school-supply, therefore, was somewhat defective; and, moreover, it was not evenly distributed. It is stated, however, that when the outstanding building grants should have been paid, and several schools in course of erection without State aid have been completed, the school-supply of the country would be virtually complete.

While with the population of Scotland in 1882 there might be 755,072 (1 in 5) on the registers, and 629,227 (1 in 6) in average daily attendance, there were only 555,560 children on the registers, and 421,265 in attendance. In other words, for every 100 children of school age, for whom 82 school seats had been provided, there were only 74 scholars on the registers and 56 in daily attendance. Making still further deductions for the absence of children under five, of half-timers, and of those who had passed the standards exempting them altogether from school attendance—on the calculation that every child should go to school for seven years, there should have been at least a hundred thousand scholars more on the registers of aided schools, and a further increase of the same amount in the average attendance. That, nevertheless, had risen from 213,549 in 1872 to 421,265 in 1882, or from 6·29 to 11·16 per cent. of the population, and the increase in the average attendance in 1881-82 (2·17 per cent.) had been fairly satisfactory, for it was slightly in excess of that (1·06) of the population generally. It was obvious, however, that there had been great neglect on the part of many boards in putting their compulsory powers into operation—the number of children under seven in the schools being too small, and there being a disproportion between the registered scholars and the number found qualified for examination—and it appeared from the inspectors' reports that illegal employment prevailed in the northern and other districts. The total number of children on the registers of schools in Scotland in 1882 (528,990) was 67·66 per cent. of the total number of children in the population between five and fourteen years of age; and assuming that a seventh of the children between these ages receive instruction in schools of higher grade than those aided by the Department, it was 78·94 per cent. of the remainder. Taking the children between six and thirteen only, the returns show that the school registers contain the names (465,085) of 77·01 per cent. of the whole number of such children, and 89·84 of the number of those who would naturally be found in aided schools. If the number in attendance approached closely to the number on the registers this might be regarded as satisfactory. But that was not the case. There had been neglect especially with regard to children below seven. Only 114,267 such children (out of 290,000 between four and seven years of age) were on the registers; and of these the average attendance was not more than 81,087. And of these only 25,987 were taught in infant schools proper; 10,454 were in the lower classes of mixed schools under schoolmistresses; and as many as 44,646 were in similar classes under male teachers, who, it is said, are obviously unsuited for such a charge. It is stated that the Department had brought in a Bill to give school boards further powers for procuring the attendance of children who were withheld from the schools.

The counties in which the school registers contained the names of the largest proportion of the children who ought to be at school were, in order of merit, Linlithgow, Banff, Kincardine, Aberdeen, Elgin, Stirling. The counties which secured the best attendance on the part of the scholars on the registers were, Bute, Peebles, Berwick, Dumfries, Fife, Edinburgh. The counties in which the average attendance approaches most closely to the number who ought to be daily at school were, Linlithgow, Banff, Aberdeen, Kincardine, Berwick, Fife.

While there was an increase of 10,678 scholars on the registers, of 11,299 in average attendance, and of 9522 individually examined, in 1882, as compared with 1881, the Report notices, with an expression of regret, the large number (34,785) of scholars who, though qualified by attendance for individual examination, were not presented to the inspectors; and the small number (114,699) of scholars above ten presented in the upper standards out of the total number on the registers (220,694) qualified by age for examination in those standards, of whom as many as 89,799 were over twelve, and 14,354 above fourteen years of age. Out of 320,750 scholars examined, 162,057, being over ten years of age, ought to have been presented in Standards IV.-VI. while only 114,699, or 70.78 per cent., were so presented; and the others 47,358, were presented in standards suitable to children of seven, eight, and nine years of age. There had, however, been a gradual improvement, probably due to the payment of certain grants being made dependent upon the proportion of scholars examined in the higher standards. Since 1875 the proportion of children examined in the higher standards had risen from 18.77 to 36.69 per cent. It is noticed with regret that the education of so many children of ten years old and upwards is discontinued as soon as, by passing the prescribed standard, they are freed from the obligation to attend school, and become entitled to go to work.

The statistics of the year show the following results, the corresponding results in England being, for purposes of comparison, given in brackets:—For every 100 scholars in average attendance—i. 54 (53) were boys, 46 (47) were girls; ii. 19 (29) were infants, i.e., below seven years of age, 40 (37) were between seven and ten, 41 (34) were above ten; iii. 14 (23) infants had attended 250 times and upwards, of whom 13 (22) were presented to H.M. inspectors; iv. 84 (75) scholars above seven had made the requisite number of attendances, and 76 (70) were presented to H.M. inspectors, of whom 38 (35) were above ten years of age, while of these only 27 (19) were presented in Standards IV.-VI.; v. 78 (62) secured grants under Art. 19, c.; vi. 14 (6) were presented for examination under Art. 21 (specific subjects); and vii. each scholar presented to H.M. inspectors made, on an average, 2.67 (2.48) passes in the standard examination. Of the children above seven there were 77 (75) in daily attendance, and 80 (78) qualified for examination; of whom 72 (73) were presented to the inspectors, being 90 (94) per cent. of those qualified. It is noted that, of 58,210 scholars presented, under Article 21 of the Code, in subjects beyond the standard examination, 3798 were examined, and 2805 passed in three such subjects; 35,034 were examined, and 24,190 passed in two such subjects; and 23,088 passed in one subject. This, it is said, showed a satisfactory advance upon the numbers of the preceding year. Considering the number of new schools, that in 1863 out of 3081 departments (the number exclusive of infant schools) scholars were examined in specific subjects showed a greater rate of progress than could reasonably have been anticipated.

The number of certificated teachers in the schools inspected in 1882 (5728) gave 1 certificated teacher to every 74 of the average attendance. Assuming that there should be not less than 500,000 children in daily attendance, between 6000 and 7000 certificated teachers would be required to meet the wants of the country; but, owing to the limitation of the staff of pupil-teachers, and the disposition to form separate departments for girls and infants, and the number of small schools required in country districts, it is anticipated that a greater number will eventually be required. The training colleges at present are furnishing a yearly supply of 430 teachers who have been trained for two years, which would of itself be sufficient to fill up the waste (calculated at 6 per cent.) in a staff of 8000 teachers.

The expenditure from the parliamentary grant in Scotland during the year ended 31st December 1882 was—on public schools, £312,047 (a decrease of £2240); on schools connected with the Established Church, £28,206 (a decrease of £235); on schools connected with the Free Church, £18,215 (a decrease of £122); on undenominational and other schools, £26,207 (an increase of £595); on schools connected with the Episcopal Church, £9393 (a decrease of £473); on Roman Catholic schools, £25,642 (an increase of £1887); on administration (viz., inspection and poundage on Post-office orders only), £31,641; grants to school boards under section 67 of the Education Act, £6332—total, £457,687, being an increase of £2690 upon the previous year. The expenditure from the Parliamentary grant on Normal Schools in Scotland in the year ended 31st December 1882 was £26,073.

The returns received from inspected schools show that the average cost of the maintenance of the schools per child in average attendance in the year ended 30th September 1882 was—in board schools, Scotland, £2, 2s. 1d.; in board schools, England, £2, 1s. 6½d.; in voluntary schools, Scotland, £1, 16s. 5½d.; in voluntary schools, England, £1, 14s. 6½d. The charges were met in board schools—by the ratepayers, Scotland, 11s. 6d.; England, 17s. 0d.; by the children, Scotland, 12s. 8½d.; England, 9s. 4d.; by endowment, Scotland, 7½d.; England, ¾d.; by miscellaneous receipts, Scotland, 4d.; England, 6½d. The charges were met in voluntary schools—by subscribers, Scotland, 6s. 3½d., England, 6s. 10½d.; by the children, Scotland, 12s. 2d., England, 11s. 0d.; by endowment, Scotland, 2s. 1d., England, 1s. 4½d.; by miscellaneous receipts, Scotland, 4d., England, 4½d.

The Report of the Committee of Council on Education in England and Wales, for the year ended 31st August 1882, shows that in England and Wales, in that year, 18,289 day-schools to which annual grants were made were visited by Her Majesty's Inspectors of Schools. These schools contained 26,779 departments under separate teachers, and furnished accommodation for 4,538,320 scholars. There were on the registers of those schools the names of 4,189,612 children, of whom 1,314,609 were under seven years of age, 2,670,480 were between seven and thirteen, 158,956 were between thirteen and fourteen; and 45,567 were above fourteen. 3,542,742 scholars were present on the day of inspection, while 3,015,151 were, on an average, in daily attendance throughout the year; 2,943,114, having made the requisite number of attendances, were qualified to bring grants to their schools, 690,660 without individual examination, and 2,252,454 on passing a satisfactory examination in reading, writing, and arithmetic. 661,056 were presented for collective, and 2,119,374 for individual examination; and while, of these last, 1,378,175 passed the prescribed test without failure in any one of the three subjects, 89·22 scholars out of every 100 examined passed in reading, 81·92 in writing, and 77·27 in arithmetic. These figures showed some improvement upon those for the preceding year—an increase in accommodation of 3·39 per cent. (the increase in the population being estimated at 1·35 per cent.), in scholars registered of 3·57 per cent., in the average attendance of 5·29 per cent., while the number of children individually examined increased by 6·2 per cent. (123,676). The night-schools visited during the year were 1015 in number; 33,135 scholars above twelve years of age were, on an average, in attendance each night; 34,492 scholars were qualified for examination by having made the required number of attendances; 25,370 were actually examined, and out of every 100 scholars so examined, 89·68 passed in reading, 69·07 in writing, and 49·27 in arithmetic.

The government grant to elementary day schools was 15s. 10½d. per scholar in average attendance, as against 15s. 8½d. in the previous year. The statistics of results of instruction, as compared with those obtained in Scotland, have been given above.

At 31st August 1882 there were in England and Wales 3868 board schools, with accommodation for 1,248,746 children, and attended on the average by 945,231 scholars. The population under school boards in 1883 is stated at 15,980,403, the whole population of England and Wales in 1881 having been 25,974,439. Under the Education Act of 1876, school-attendance committees have been appointed in all the municipal boroughs (109) which are not under the jurisdiction of school boards, and in all those unions (579) of which any portion was not under the jurisdiction of a school board, while 71 urban sanitary authorities had been authorized to appoint school-attendance committees for parishes under their jurisdiction. The population under school-attendance committees in 1883 was 9,994,036. Bye-laws for enforcing attendance at school have now been sanctioned for all the districts in which provision has not otherwise been made for the compulsory attendance of children at school. The bye-laws, it is stated, differ in respect of the limits of age between which attendance is made compulsory, and still more in respect of the conditions on which attendance from school is dispensed with. Some slight progress towards uniformity was made in 1882, but it is stated that a general measure dealing with the educational conditions of employment is desirable for removing the hindrances which obstruct the efficient administration of the law.

The expenditure from education grants in England and Wales, in the year ended 31st December 1882, was as follows:—On schools connected with the Church of England, £1,317,803; on British, undenominational, and other schools, £221,933; on Wesleyan schools, £111,956; on Roman Catholic schools, £137,244; on board schools, £813,408; on parochial union schools, £120; on administration (including part of the cost of administration for Scotland), £196,929; on organization of districts under the Education Act of 1870, £383; grants to school boards under section 97 of the Education Act of 1870, £2325,—total, £2,802,005. The whole expenditure from education grants in England and Wales, from 1839 to 31st December 1882, was £33,068,349.

The expenditure by the Commissioners of National Education in Ireland from parliamentary grants and rates, in the year ended 31st March 1883, was £719,535. The number of schools in operation at the close of the year 1882 was 7705. The average daily attendance of children for the year was 469,192; while the total number of children at any time on the rolls for the year was 1,083,298 (but this was greater than the number of individual pupils enrolled—children who had left school and gone back again being counted more than once), and the number who had made any attendance within fourteen days of the school examinations was 678,970. Of the number last mentioned, 9.5 per cent. were Episcopalians, 10.5 per cent. were Presbyterians, 78.9 per cent. were Roman Catholics, and 1.1 per cent. of other persuasions. The average attendance in 1882 was greater by 15,625 than in 1881. There were, at the end of 1882, 1333 schools vested in trustees, and 823 vested in the Education Board, but 162 of these were not yet in operation, and 102 were on the "suspended list." There were 5813 non-vested schools. The teaching staff at the end of 1882 consisted of 7497 principal teachers, and 3035 assistant teachers, making 10,532 persons, of whom 8491 had been trained in the Normal establishment. There were, besides, 208 work-mistresses, 74 junior literary assistants, 81 temporary assistants, and 4 temporary work-mistresses. These numbers do not include the conductors of 202 convent and monastery schools paid by capitation.

THE SCIENCE AND ART DEPARTMENT.

The Thirtieth Report of the Science and Art Department of the Committee of Council on Education is dated 21st May 1883. The Report states that 1402 science schools, comprising 4881 different classes, were examined in 1882, and that the number under instruction in those schools was 68,581; while 43,331 of the students, and in addition 7290 others, came up for examination in May. 1492 candidates came up in honours, and 102 passed in the first class, and 425 in the second. The number of science schools examined in 1881 was 1360, and the number under instruction in them was 61,177, and the whole number examined 44,461. The number of papers worked by the 50,621 students examined in 1882 was 76,063, as against 72,300 in the previous year. The number of papers passed was 50,741, and the number of first classes granted in elementary and advanced stages was 13,568. The examinations were held at 1025 centres in the provinces, and at 92 centres in London. The total amount paid to teachers on results in 1882 was £45,376, being at the rate of 13s. 3d. for each person under instruction, and it averaged £24, 10s. 3d. each to 1851 teachers. In 1881 the payments made were at the rate of 14s. 2d. for each scholar. The grants made towards the purchase of apparatus, diagrams, and examples in 1882 amounted to £1170. The distribution of the schools was as follows:—1064 in England and Wales, 155 in Scotland, and 184 in Ireland.

Ten new schools of art were established in the United Kingdom during 1882; and the total number of schools of art in operation throughout the kingdom was 169, with 13 branch classes. The number of students in these schools and their branch classes was 33,729. There had been 160 schools of art with 11 branch classes and 31,592 students in 1881. At the annual examination in April 1882, 21,291 students submitted 211,748 drawings or models; the corresponding numbers in 1881 having been 19,940 students and 197,048 works. 18,745 of the students, on account of whose instruction payments were made, were of the industrial classes. The examinations in second-grade drawing were attended by 11,716 students of schools of art, of whom 5501 were successful, and 1517 obtained prizes. The amount of fees paid in schools of art was £36,467 in 1880; £35,452 in 1881; and £39,198 in 1882; while the payments on results were £17,091 in 1880; £16,415 in 1881; and £16,978 in 1882. The number of art classes in 1882 was 545, and the number of students was 21,215; the corresponding numbers having been, in 1880, 632 classes and 26,646 students, and, in 1881, 584 classes and 23,026 students. The decrease in 1881 and 1882 is attributed to a rule requiring a higher certificate to be held by teachers of art classes, and to some of the larger art classes having been each year converted into schools of art. The number of elementary day schools in which drawing was taught in 1882 was 4812; 842,100 children were taught drawing in them, and 572,188 children and 12,373 pupil teachers were examined at the annual examination in March 1882. These numbers, compared with those of 1881, showed a decrease of 285 schools, 8463 children taught, and 59,520 children and 1255 pupil teachers examined. The grants in aid of instruction in drawing in elementary schools in 1882 amounted to £31,304—a decrease of £322 on the previous year. At the examination of 48 training colleges in November 1882, 939 students in training, teachers and pupil-teachers, obtained certificates for drawing. The amount granted to the training colleges in 1882 was £1188—£26 less than in 1881.

The grand totals of persons taught drawing, painting, or modelling through the agency of the department were 837,308 in 1880; 917,101 in 1881; and 909,216 in 1882.

The schools of art in Scotland in 1882, and the numbers of those who attended each in 1882, were as follows:—Aberdeen, day classes, 82; evening classes, 222; Dollar, evening classes, 13; Dumfries, day classes, 186; evening classes, 48; Dundee, day classes, 577; evening classes, 186; Edinburgh, male, day classes, 130; evening classes, 467; Edinburgh, female, day classes, 264; evening classes, 96; Elgin, day classes, 20; evening classes, 91; Falkirk, day classes, 17; evening classes, 76; Glasgow, day classes, 154; evening classes, 545; and at five branches, 46 in day classes and 124 in evening classes; Inverness, day classes, 21; evening classes, 76; Kilmarnock, day classes, 55; evening classes, 91; Perth, day classes, 164; evening classes, 46; Stirling, day classes, 125; evening classes, 56.

REFORMATORY AND INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

The Twenty-sixth Report of the Inspector appointed to visit the certified Reformatory and Industrial Schools is for the year 1882.

REFORMATORY SCHOOLS.

The number of reformatory schools in Great Britain at the close of 1882 was 61 (49 in England and 12 in Scotland), of which 52 were for Protestants (29 for boys and 13 for girls in England, and 7 for boys and 3 for girls in Scotland), and 9 for Roman Catholics (4 for boys and 3 for girls in England, and 1 for boys and 1 for girls in Scotland). One reformatory, that at Carlisle, had been closed during the year. The numbers under detention in reformatories in Great Britain at the close of 1882 were 6601—5454 boys and 1147 girls (in England, 3412 boys and 731 girls, Protestants, and 1021 boys and 239 girls, Roman Catholics; in Scotland, 758 boys and 100 girls, Protestants, and 33 boys and 77 girls, Roman Catholics). But, of those, 887 boys and 122 girls were out on license, 26 boys were in prison, 64 boys and 13 girls had absconded, and the numbers actually in the schools only amounted to 5489—4477 boys and 1012 girls. The number actually in the schools at the close of 1881 was 5635—4569 boys and 1066 girls. The admissions to reformatory schools in 1882 were 1674, viz., 1412 boys and 262 girls, which showed an increase of 197 boys and a decrease of 10 girls on 1881, when there were 1487 admissions—1215 boys and 272 girls. The number of new admissions in the Scotch schools in 1882 was 248 (boys, Protestant, 163, Roman Catholic, 61; girls, Protestant, 16, Roman Catholic, 8). Of the 1412 boys received in 1882, 14 were under 10 years of age, 205 between 10 and 12, 537 between 12 and 14, and 656 from 14 to 15 years of age. Of the 262 girls received, none were under 10, 24 were between 10 and 12, 95 between 12 and 14, and 143 between 14 and 15 years of age. 632 boys and 218 girls had not been convicted before; 518 boys and 32 girls had been once previously convicted, 178 boys and 9 girls twice, 56 boys and 3 girls three times, and 28 boys four times and upwards. Inquiries and proceedings were taken in 1176 cases in England, with the following results:—Excused by the magistrates on the score of poverty, 353; placed under contribution, from 6d. to 5s. a week, 823. In about 91 cases parents had been put under contribution in Scotland, and 90 had been excused on the ground of poverty. The number of discharges in 1882 was 1810 (boys 1478, girls 332); 748 were placed in service or employment in Great Britain, and 633 were placed with the aid of relatives, 89 emigrated, 209 went to sea, 32 enlisted, 38 died in the schools, 27 were discharged on account of disease, and 7 as incorrigible, 27 had absconded and had not been recovered.

The total admissions to reformatory schools to 31st December 1882, excluding transfers from one school to another, amounted to 41,049, viz., 33,307 boys and 7742 girls. The total discharges to the same date amounted to 34,444, viz., 27,853 boys and 6591 girls.

Of 3666 boys and 814 girls discharged from reformatories in the years 1879–81, 85 boys and 14 girls had died, leaving 3581 boys and 800 girls to be reported on (2910 boys and 627 girls discharged from English, 671 boys and 173 girls from Scotch, reformatories). 2728 boys and 551 girls were doing well, 83 boys and 73 girls were of doubtful character, 528 boys and 66 girls had been convicted, 242 boys and 110 girls were unknown. Of those discharged from Scotch Protestant schools, 84 per cent. of boys and 67 per cent. of girls were doing well, and 10 per cent. of boys and 9 per cent. of girls had been reconvicted. Of those discharged from Scotch Roman Catholic schools, 64 per cent. of boys and 81 per cent. of girls were doing well, and 26 per cent. of boys and 14 per cent. of girls had been reconvicted. The number of persons in prison in 1882 who were found to have been trained in a reformatory school was, in England, 551 (505 males and 46 females), and in Scotland, 121 (102 males and 19 females)—total, 672.

The total expenditure upon reformatories in Great Britain for 1882 amounted to £134,204. This included rent £3466, cost of disposal £5397, building expenses £10,024, and loss on industrial departments £682. The average net cost per head for maintenance, including rent and expenses on disposal, and setting off the profit from labour, was, boys' reformatories in England, £20, 3s. 3d., and in Scotland, £18, 15s. 4d.; girls' reformatories in England, £21, 4s. 3d., and in Scotland, £20, 14s. 4d.

The total receipts of reformatory schools in Great Britain in 1882 amounted to £133,209, made up as follows:—Treasury payments, £87,241; subscriptions, legacies, etc., £5956; contributions from rates, county, £13,882, and borough, £9828; from voluntary associations, £170; sundries, £1793; profit on industrial departments, including hire of labour (£3101), £14,337. The amounts received from parents of juvenile offenders in reformatory schools were, England and Wales, £5596; Scotland, £322—total, £5918; an increase of £112 upon the previous year's receipts.

The following Table shows, for each of the reformatories certified in Scotland, the date of its certification, and the average number of inmates, the average cost of the inmates per head for maintenance and management, and the net cost per head, including rent and expenses of disposal, ardeducting industrial profit or adding industrial loss; also the total receipts of each, with the amount received by it from Parliamentary grants and the amount paid to it from rates, in the year 1882:—

In the girls' schools, the industrial profit was £105 at Aberdeen, £108 at Glasgow, £116 at Dalry, and £202 at Dalbeth.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

The number of certified industrial schools on 31st December 1882 was 138. Five new schools were certified in 1882, all in England. There had been no changes in mixed schools during the year. The Inspector reiterates the opinion expressed in former reports, that it is desirable that boys and girls should not be received in the same school. There are now only four mixed schools in England—Newcastle, Gateshead, Chester, and Birkenhead. The mixed schools remaining in Scotland are, Leith, Kilmarnock, Bute, Greenock, Paisley, and Falkirk. In the Falkirk School, the Inspector says, the separation of the sexes is not sufficiently attended to, and the accommodation is not satisfactory. In the others the separation is better.

Of the 138 schools in operation at the close of 1882, 104 were in England and 34 in Scotland. In England there were 51 Protestant and 14 Roman Catholic schools for boys; 27 Protestant and 8 Roman Catholic schools for girls; and 4 Protestant schools for boys and girls. In Scotland there were 12 Protestant and 2 Roman Catholic schools for boys; 10 Protestant and 2 Roman Catholic schools for girls, and 6 Protestant schools for boys and girls, making, with the Burghal school, Edinburgh, and Govan Parochial school, 34. (The United Industrial Schools in Edinburgh, most of the school ships, and two or three others, receive children of both denominations.)

The number of children under order of detention at the close of 1882 was 17,614—14,074 boys and 3540 girls (in England, 8523 boys and 1612 girls, Protestants, and 2137 boys and 629 girls, Roman Catholics; in Scotland, 3005 boys and 1037 girls, Protestants, and 409 boys and 262 girls, Roman Catholics). But, of those, 1696 boys and 150 girls were out on license, and 74 boys and 6 girls were absent from the schools, having absconded and not been recovered. The number actually in the schools at the close of 1882, therefore, was 15,688 (12,304 boys and 3384 girls), with 41 boys and 26 girls whose sentences were expired, and who were retained until employment could be found for them. The number actually in the schools at the close of 1881 was 15,336—12,086 boys and 3250 girls. The admissions for the year 1882, excluding transfers, were 4640—3909 boys and 731 girls. In 1881 the admissions were 4250. The admissions in the Scotch schools in 1882 were 940 (boys, Protestant, 675, Roman Catholic, 82; girls, Protestant, 132, Roman Catholic, 51). The discharges for the year amounted to 3993—3360 boys and 633 girls. 1084 boys and 390 girls were placed in service or situations, 1342 boys and 183 girls were assisted to employment through their relatives; 79 boys and 13 girls emigrated, 523 boys were sent to sea, 130 enlisted, 54 boys and 13 girls were discharged on account of disease, 49 boys and 3 girls were committed to reformatory schools, 58 boys and 27 girls died, and 41 boys and 4 girls had absconded and not been recovered. Of the 4640 children admitted in 1882, 78 boys and 77 girls were from 6 to 8 years old; 539 boys and 156 girls between 8 and 10; 1810 boys and 265 girls between 10 and 12; and 1482 boys and 233 girls between 12 and 14 years old. 204 of the children were illegitimate; 191 had lost both parents; 1111 had lost the father, and 694 the mother; 196 had been deserted by their parents; and one or both parents of 58 were destitute or criminal; 2186 had both parents alive and able to take care of them.

The total number of admissions to industrial schools up to the close of 1882 was 56,058—44,619 boys and 11,439 girls; and the total number of discharges up to the same date was 38,377—30,504 boys and 7873 girls.

The number discharged from industrial schools during the three years 1879–81, omitting deaths, transfers, and committals to reformatory schools, was 8858, and deducting those since dead, there were 7068 boys and 1580 girls to be reported on. 5624 boys and 1247 girls were doing well, 284 boys and 118 girls were doubtful, 355 boys and 27 girls had been reconvicted or recommitted, and 805 boys and 188 girls were unknown. Of those discharged from Scotch Protestant schools, 83 per cent. of the boys and 89 per cent. of the girls were doing well, 3 per cent. of the boys and 4 per cent. of the girls were doubtful, 4 per cent. of the boys and 1 per cent. of the girls had been reconvicted or recommitted, and 10 per cent. of the boys and 6 per cent. of the girls were unknown. Of those discharged from Scotch Roman Catholic schools, 81 per cent. of the boys and 95 per cent. of the girls were doing well, 6 per cent. of the boys and 2 per cent. of the girls were doubtful, 5 per cent. of the boys and 2 per cent. of the girls had been reconvicted or recommitted, and 8 per cent. of the boys and 1 per cent. of the girls were unknown.

2559 children were sent to industrial schools in England in 1882 at the instance of school boards—which was about 69 per cent. of the total admissions for the year. Of these, 1151 were sent for vagrancy or petty theft, 101 as uncontrollable, and 1307 under the provisions of the Elementary Education Act, 1876, section 12. In the previous year, 1125 were similarly committed for vagrancy or petty theft, 115 as uncontrollable, and 1192 under the provisions of the Elementary Education Act, section 12.

The total expenditure upon industrial schools in 1882, including rent, disposal, cost of building, and industrial loss (£378), was £338,200. The receipts amounted to £340,046, of which £170,472 was derived from the Treasury, £42,726 from rates, £30,918 from subscriptions, legacies, etc., £59,583 from school boards, £1172 from parochial authorities, £5956 as payment for voluntary inmates, £5358 from sundries, and £23,857 from industrial profit, including hire of labour (£5232). The net average cost per head for maintenance, allowing for the results of the industrial departments, was, in English schools for boys only (on 59 schools), £19, 2s. 2d.; in English schools for girls only (on 31 schools), £18, 14s. 5d.; in mixed English schools for boys and girls (on 5 schools), £15, 7s. 3d. In Scotland the average cost per head was, for boys' schools (on 12 schools), £14, 2s. 7d.; girls' schools (on 10 schools), £12, 19s. 9d.; and mixed schools (on 8 schools), £13, 12s. 10d.

The sums received by the Treasury during the year from the parents of children under detention in industrial schools, and for Scotch industrial schools from parents and parochial boards, were—England and Wales, £10,640; Scotland, £6353—total, £16,993—£188 more than the amount in the previous year.

There are now 12 day industrial schools in operation, 2 in Scotland, at Glasgow. The total cost of these schools for the year was £13,494, of which £2592 was contributed by the Treasury, £5890 by the Local Authority, and £2183 by the parents of children attending. The average cost per head for the English schools was £13, 8s. 1d., and for the Glasgow schools, £10, 12s. 8d. At the close of 1882 there were 1440 children under order of attendance in the English schools—1022 boys and 418 girls—and 252 in the Glasgow schools—163 boys and 89 girls. The Inspector says that the majority of the schools have been doing well, but that the considerable cost of such schools makes itself felt when the area of operation is limited, and this gives rise to efforts to get rid of them. No one, he says, can visit the schools in Liverpool, Wolverhampton, or Glasgow without acknowledging their utility.

LUNACY.

The Twenty-fifth Annual Report of the General Board of Commissioners in Lunacy for Scotland is dated 24th February 1883, and is for the year 1882.

The numbers and distribution of insane persons in Scotland at 1st January 1883 (exclusive of unreported lunatics maintained in private dwellings from private sources, of whom the Commissioners have no official cognizance or control), is shown in the following Table:—

	Male.	Female.	Private.	Pauper.	Total.

In Training Schools for Imbeciles.....	120	83	120	83	203
Totals.....	4904	5606	1654	8793	10510

It appears from this Table that of the insane of whom official cognizance was had at 1st January 1883, 1654 were maintained from private sources, 8793 by parochial rates, and 63 at the expense of the State. In course of the year 1882 there was in royal and district asylums an increase of 17 private and a decrease of 15 pauper patients; in private asylums, a decrease of 7 private patients, while no pauper patient was provided for in any private asylum; in parochial asylums, an increase of 27 pauper patients; in lunatic wards of poorhouses, a decrease of 2 pauper patients; in the lunatic department of the General Prison, an increase of 1 inmate; in training schools for imbeciles, an increase of 2 private and an increase of 3 pauper inmates; and in private dwellings, an increase of 4 private and of 125 pauper patients. The whole increase of registered lunatics (not including the inmates of training schools for imbeciles and of the lunatic department of the General Prison, these being registered separately) during 1882 was 149, made up of an increase of 14 private and an increase of 135 pauper patients. These figures show (1) that the increase of the number of pauper lunatics in asylums and other establishments during that year was only 10, which was the smallest increase during any year since the establishment of the Board; (2) that there was an increase of 125, which was the largest increase during any year since the establishment of the Board, in the number of the pauper lunatics accommodated in private dwellings; and (3) that all pauper lunatics continued to be provided for in public establishments.

The number of lunatics placed in establishments (other than the schools for imbecile children and the lunatic department of the General Prison), excluding transfers, was, in 1858, 1448—406 private and 1042 pauper; in 1881 it was 2540—439 private and 2101 pauper; on the average of the five years 1875-79 it was 2317—486 private and 1831 pauper. In the year 1882 it was 2390—415 private and 1975 pauper. The number of private lunatics placed in establishments in 1882 was 24 less than in 1881, and 71 less than the average for the five preceding years; while the number of pauper lunatics so placed was 126 less than in 1881, but 144 above the average of the five years 1875-79. The number of transfers from one establishment to another in 1882 was 438—24 of private and 414 of pauper patients. Of the transfers 50 were authorized by sheriffs, and 388 by the Board.

While the admissions to establishments in 1882, excluding transfers, were 2390 (415 private and 1975 pauper), the number removed, recovered, was 1112 (150 private and 962 pauper); the number removed, not recovered, was 582 (123 private and 459 pauper); the removals by death were 673 (107 private and 566 pauper)—total removals, 2367 (380 private and 1987 pauper). [The training schools for imbeciles and the lunatic department of the General Prison are not included in this statement.] In the five years 1875-79, while the average annual number of admissions into establishments was 2317, the average annual number of removals was 2062,—excess of admissions over removals, 255. There was an increase of 10 in the number of private patients in establishments caused by the changes of 1882; and an increase of 10 in the number of pauper patients in establishments. This increase was remarkably small in comparison with the increase in the previous year, which was 285, and also in comparison with the average annual increase of the five years 1875-79, which was 240.

The number of voluntary patients (who are not registered as lunatics) admitted into asylums in 1882 was 42. The average number for the five years ended in 1880 had been 49, and the number in 1880 was also 49, and the number in 1881 had been 38. The number in asylums at 1st January 1883 was 29.

At 1st January 1882, 46 patients had been absent from asylums on probation. Of these, 19 had been finally discharged as recovered, 9 sent back, 18 remained under the care of friends. In the course of 1882, 192 patients were discharged on probation. Of these, 41 were finally discharged as recovered, 26 remained under the care of friends, 35 had been returned to asylums, and 90 remained on probation.

The total number of probationary removals since their authorization in 1862 to the close of 1882 had been 2480, and of this total 440 had been replaced in asylums before the expiry of the period of probation. The number of discharges on probation in 1882, 192, was higher than the number for any previous year, and 115 above the number for the year 1881. The increase was entirely accounted for by an increase of discharges from four asylums—the Argyll, Fife, and Inverness District Asylums, and the Crichton Royal Institution—in which there was a considerable accumulation of chronic patients, whom it was thought desirable to transfer to private dwellings. The report observes that in such cases probationary discharge is of special use.

The subjoined Table (in continuation of similar Tables in former Almanacs) shows for each county, and for the whole of Scotland, the number of pauper lunatics chargeable on the 1st January 1883, and the total expenditure on account of pauper lunatics, and the average daily expenditure (exclusive of the cost of medical certificates, of transport to asylums, etc.) for each pauper lunatic during the year ended 14th May 1882:—

Of the £210,550 spent upon pauper lunatics in the year ended 14th May 1882, £79,711 was contributed by the imperial exchequer, and £10,211 was contributed by relatives. £168,448 was cost of asylum treatment, £13,958 was for maintenance in lunatic wards of poorhouses, £21,830 was for boarding in private dwellings, and £6314 for certification, transport, and other expenses. The total number of pauper patients relieved during that year was 10,593 (4834 males and 5699 females), and the number of days for which relief was granted was 3,135,964; of which 73·4 per cent. was given in asylums, 8·3 per cent. in licensed wards of poorhouses, and 18·3 per cent. in private dwellings. Between 1858 and 1882, the total expense for maintenance alone increased 161 per cent., the expenditure for patients in asylums having increased 198 per cent., and that of boarding in private dwellings 53 per cent.

The daily cost of maintaining a pauper lunatic in royal, district, and parochial asylums averaged 1s. 5½d. in the year ended 14th May 1882, and varied in different asylums from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 8d., which would give for the year £19, 15s. 5d. and £30, 8s. 4d. respectively. In licensed wards of poorhouses it averaged 1s. 1d., and varied from 10½d. to 1s. 5½d., or from £15, 11s. 9½d. to £26, 4s. 8½d. per annum. It averaged 9½d. in private dwellings, and varied from 5½d. to 11½d., or from £8, 7s. 3½d. to £17, 2s. 2½d. per annum. The general average daily rate for all modes of providing for pauper lunatics in 1881-82 (1s. 4d.) was the same as in the three preceding years. Between 1858 and 1882 the average cost per annum for each patient increased, in asylums and lunatic wards of poorhouses, from £20 to about £26; and in private dwellings, from £8 to about £13—while the average expenditure for establishments and private dwellings taken together, with all other costs, increased from about £16 to about £24.

The number of persons sent to asylums at the instance of the procurator-fiscal as dangerous lunatics in 1882 was 10. In the preceding year it had been 13. 54 pauper lunatics were removed from Scotland in 1882, as having no settlement in the country. All were removed from asylums.

Between 1st January 1858 and 1st January 1883, the number of lunatics officially known to the Board rose from 5823 to 10,510. There was an increase of 3809 in the numbers in royal and district asylums, a decrease of 596 in the private asylums, an increase of 1254 in the parochial asylums and lunatic wards of poorhouses, an increase of 9 in the number left in private dwellings, an increase of 37 in the lunatic department of the Central Prison at Perth, and an increase of 174 in the schools for imbecile children. These figures show that, of the increase of 5283 which took place in the number of patients in public establishments, 596 may have arisen from the decrease in private asylums; leaving an increase of 4687, or 80 per cent. (the increase of the population during the same period having been only 26 per cent.), which is probably due in a large measure to an increasing readiness to place persons as lunatics in establishments. Comparing the numbers at 1st January 1858 and 1st January 1883, there had been an increase since 1858 of 4064 in the number of pauper patients placed in establishments, and of 402 in the number of private patients similarly disposed of; a decrease of 91 in the number of pauper lunatics in private dwellings; and an increase of 100 in the number of private lunatics in ordinary dwellings.

The ratio of lunatics officially known (pauper and private) to the general population at the 1st of January in each year was, per 100,000 of the population (at the middle of each year), 192 in 1858, 223 in 1870, 231 in 1875, 258 in 1880, 267 in 1881, 270 in 1882, and 271 in 1883—the ratio for 1883 being made up of 222 (37 private and 185 pauper) in establishments, and 48 (3 private and 45 pauper) in private dwellings. The number of private lunatics in asylums was 34 per 100,000 of the population in 1858, and 37 per 100,000 in 1883. The number of pauper lunatics in establishments was 98 per 100,000 of the population in 1858, and was 185 per 100,000 in 1883. The number of private lunatics in establishments increased 9 per cent. between 1858 and 1883, while the number of pauper lunatics in establishments increased 89 per cent. The proportion of pauper lunatics in establishments to the population decreased, however, between 1st January 1882 and 1st January 1883, from 188 to 185. This is the first time since its establishment that the Board has had such a decrease to report.

The proportion of pauper lunatics to paupers was 6800 per 100,000 in 1861, and was 14,244 per 100,000 in 1883. While the proportion of registered paupers to population was 2630 per 100,000 in 1858, and was only 1615 per 100,000 in 1883, the proportion of pauper lunatics to population had risen between the same years from 157 to 230 per 100,000. In 1858 the pauper lunatics formed only about 6 per cent. of the total number of paupers. They formed more than 14 per cent. of the total number of paupers in 1883.

At 20th November 1882 the number of unpaid officers of those banks was 431 (Scotland, 51). The number of paid officers was 1603 (Scotland, 217), and the salaries and allowances of those officers amounted to £119,634 (Scotland, £19,015). The expenses of management for the year then ended amounted to £151,954 (Scotland, £22,972), being at the rate of 6s. 9d. per cent. (Scotland, 6s. 5d.) per annum on the capital of the banks. The total amount invested with the National Debt Commissioners at 20th November 1882 was £44,459,562 (Scotland, £7,073,090). The balances in the hands of treasurers at the same date amounted to £315,260 (Scotland, £40,884). The average rate of interest paid to depositors was £2, 14s. 5d. The total amount of the separate Surplus Fund in the hands of the Commissioners was £398,109 (Scotland, £4124). The total amount of Government stock standing to the credit of depositors was £242,524 (Scotland, £26,436).

The number of Savings Banks which, under the provisions of 26 Vict. c. 14 or otherwise, had been closed in the United Kingdom, and had transferred their funds or any part thereof to Post-Office Savings Banks, up to 20th November 1882, was 224 (193 in England and Wales, 7 in Scotland, and 24 in Ireland). The number of accounts transferred to Post-Office Savings Banks from such closed banks was 111,706. The amount of the accounts transferred (viz., by transfer certificates, excluding £254,371 estimated to have been paid in cash by about 13,449 of the depositors in these closed banks to the Post-Office Savings Banks) was £2,787,759. The amount of compensation paid to officers of these closed banks, under the Act 26 Vict. c. 14, was £37,166.

POLICE.

The Twenty-fifth Annual Report upon the Constabulary of Scotland is for the year ended 15th March 1883. The Inspector of Constabulary reports the police forces of all the counties of Scotland, and of 33 burghs, as efficient in numbers and discipline, though he considers the force in some places somewhat weak in proportion to population. He had, as before, to refuse a certificate of efficiency to the burgh of Pulteneytown; and with respect to the three burghs with population under 5000 which still maintain separate police forces, he has to report that, were they eligible for the government grant, he could not certify the force of any of them as sufficient. The clothing of the forces had generally been good; and the maximum of cost prescribed by the Secretary of State had been exceeded in only one instance, that of the burgh of Hamilton. The Secretary of State's circulars had, as regards alterations in the number of the force or the scale of pay, again been in a few instances disregarded owing to the misunderstanding or carelessness of officials.

During the year 1882-83, 71 men had been added to county forces and 30 to burgh forces. The principal increase had been in the county of Inverness, where 54 men had been added; but the additional duties thrown on the police by the closing of local prisons had made additions to county forces necessary in other cases. There were 160 changes during the year in county forces and 395 in burgh forces as against 169 and 414 in the previous year. Most of the counties and burghs now pay their men liberally (except in some cases the head of the force). Lanarkshire and Ayrshire, the two counties with the largest police forces, practically adopted the model scales of pay suggested by the Secretary of State during the year, but the Inspector did not think these would be largely used by burgh forces until Edinburgh and Glasgow had led the way in resorting to them.

Police Force in Counties.—The following Table shows the numbers of the police force in each county of Scotland, the amount of population to each constable, and the yearly pay of the chief constable:—

In addition to the numbers of the police given above, the River Tweed Commissioners pay for constables in the county of Berwick, and some constables are paid for by other fishery boards. Including these, there were 49 constables in counties paid for by companies and private persons, in terms of the 7th section of the General Police Act. In the burghs there were 172 constables employed by Harbour Boards (including the Clyde division of the Glasgow police), and 45 employed by companies or individuals.

The total number of vagrants, tinkers, and unlicensed hawkers reported by the police in the Scotch counties during the year 1882 was 88,692, an increase of 1191 as compared with the previous year. The total number of pedlars' certificates for the year 1882 was, in counties, 3042 (the number refused being 41), and in burghs 3125 (the number refused being 27). 621 fewer pedlars' certificates were granted than in the previous year.

PRISONS.

The Fifth Annual Report of the Commissioners appointed under the Prisons (Scotland) Act, 1877 (being in continuation of the Reports of the late General Board of Prisons and the managers appointed under the Prisons Act of 1860, the Forty-fourth Annual Report on Prisons in Scotland) is for the year ended 31st March 1883.

In the year ended 31st March 1883 the accommodation at the disposal of the Commissioners in the several prisons was as follows:—In prisons, cells for 1945 males and 989 females—2934 persons, including cells for 64 civil prisoners (50 males and 14 females); and in legalized police cells, cells for 63 males and 31 females—94 persons. The number of criminal prisoners at the commencement of the year 1882–83 was 2558—1742 males and 816 females; and the number of civil prisoners was 17—all males. The number of criminal prisoners at the end of the year was 2365—1634 males and 731 females; and the number of civil prisoners was 2—both males. The daily average number of prisoners during the year was, civil prisoners 9 (all males), and criminal prisoners 2513 (1730 males and 783 females).

Since the Prisons Act of 1877 came into force there has been, the Report points out, a continuous and steady decline in the daily average number of criminal prisoners in confinement, which, between the year ended 31st March 1879 and the year ended 31st March 1883, fell from 3052 to 2513. While this daily average was 3052 in 1878–79, it was 2940 in 1879–80; 2862 in 1880–81; 2671 in 1881–82; and 2513 in 1882–83. In 1882–83, when compared with the previous twelve months, the decrease of the daily average number was continuous and progressive, there being a decrease from 2622 to 2579 in the June quarter, and from 2754 to 2596 in the September quarter; from 2654 to 2455 in the December quarter; and from 2659 to 2419 in the quarter ended 31st March. In the year the decrease in the daily average amounted to 159, or 5·9 per cent. The daily average number of civil prisoners was 13 in the year ended 31st December 1882, but (as stated above) only 9 in the year ended 31st March 1883.

It is stated that the pressure on the accommodation in Scotch prisons has now so far ceased that convicts under sentence of penal servitude, who since 1878 have passed the probation period of their sentences in England, might now be retained for that period in Scotch prisons; but the whole question of the employment of male convicts being under the consideration of a Treasury Committee, the Commissioners had not proposed that this, the old arrangement, should be recurred to. Female convicts are still detained in the General Prison at Perth during the whole term of their confinement. The probation period served in separation is twelve months, instead of nine as in England, but the Commissioners have seen no reason to recommend that the period should be reduced to what it is in England. It is pointed out, as showing that the longer period of probation has had no prejudicial effect, that the number of female convicts in Scotland in 1871 was 323, while at 31st March 1883 it only was 141. The number of female convicts in the General Prison at 1st April 1882 was 149. 37 were received during the year—29 on new sentences, and 8 on revocation of license; and 45 were removed during the year, 10 by expiry of sentence, and 31 by order of license, while 4 died.

There is now accommodation in the lunatic department of the General Prison at Perth for 88 persons—58 males and 30 females. At 1st April 1882 there were 66 inmates—45 males and 21 females; at 31st March 1883 there were 57 inmates—37 males and 20 females. The daily average number of inmates throughout the year was 63—43 males and 20 females. The number of males admitted to this department during the year had been raised by the transference of 8 male convicts from English prisons, who had become insane whilst in prison in England, and had been detained there after the expiration of their sentences. One of these, shortly after his reception, was certified to be of sound mind. The others, being fit subjects for ordinary treatment, had been disposed of by removal to the prison to which they had been originally committed, in order that, when discharged, they should be cared for by the local authorities. No inmate was conditionally discharged during the year, but it is stated that there are several females in the department who have recovered their sanity, and could be discharged if suitable guardians were found to become responsible for them. The prisoners discharged into the guardianship of friends in previous years were all conducting themselves properly. Four inmates of the lunatic department died during the year—3 from natural causes, and 1 from self-inflicted injuries.

The following is an abstract of the earnings in all the prisons of Scotland in the year ended 31st March 1883:—Value of work sold, £6130, 2s. 3d.; value of work done for prison use, £3693, 4s. 0d.; total, £9723, 6s. 3d.

Five prisons were closed during the year—those of Lanark, Airdrie, Hamilton, Rothesay, and Forfar. The first block of 200 cells of the Barlinnie prisons were already in use, and a second block, of similar accommodation, was expected to be ready in the summer of 1883. The number of the prisons had been reduced to 30. The number of legalized police cells was 12, cells at Dunoon having been added in course of the year. The new prison for the south-western district at Maxwelltown, near Dumfries, was to be ready for occupation in August 1883.

The daily average of criminal prisoners in the prisons of Scotland, which in 1840 (year ended 31st December) had been 1940, rose to 3143 by 1849, fell again to 2083 by 1861, was 2742 in 1870, and was 3112 (2050 males and 1062 females) in 1878—only 31 short of the number returned in 1849. In 1879 it fell to 2876 (1911 males and 965 females), but this was partly accounted for by the removal of the male convicts—143 in number—to England. In 1880 it was 2977 (1940 males and 1037 females), and in 1881 it was 2642 (1752 males and 890 females). In 1882 it was 2572 (1761 males and 811 females). The daily average during the first quarter of 1883 (as given in the quarterly returns issued by the Prisons' Board) was 2426 (1696 males and 730 females), being a decrease of 242 on the corresponding period of 1882; in the second quarter of 1883 it was 2401 (1617 males and 784 females), a decrease of 185 on the corresponding quarter of 1882; in the third quarter of 1883 it was 2505 (1654 males and 851 females), being a decrease of 98 on the corresponding quarter of 1882.

The expenditure under the charge of the Commissioners in the year ended 31st March 1883 was as follows:—Expenses of management, £6473; expenses of prisons, £66,271; expenses of new buildings, £45,627: total, £118,372. The outlay for materials and implements for the manufacturing department was £10,938, and the amount received for manufactured goods was £17,068.

The principal sums to be recovered from local authorities in Scotland, for deficient cell accommodation, in terms of the 18th section of the Prisons Act, 1877, amounted to £87,722, of which £32,946 had been paid previous to the commencement of the year 1882-83. £38,215, with interest at 4 per cent. from 11th April 1880—£42,216—had been received during the year. The remaining outstanding sum of £16,560 was due by the prison authority of North Lanarkshire, and was not payable until the work of reconstructing the east and west wings of Glasgow prison should be commenced.

THE POOR LAW AND THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

The Thirty-eighth Annual Report of the Board of Supervision for the Relief of the Poor, and of the Public Health in Scotland, is for the year ended 14th May 1883.

At August 1883, the number of parishes in Scotland in which assessments were levied for the relief of the poor was 825; and in 61 parishes the poor were relieved by means of voluntary contributions. Two parishes, which previously had raised the funds for the relief of the poor by voluntary contributions, resolved during the year to raise the funds by assessment. In 19 of the assessed parishes the assessment was made according to local usage. In 617 parishes, the assessment was made equally upon owners and occupants respectively, and in 189 parishes there was a classification of occupants, in terms of the 36th section of the Act 8 and 9 Vict. c. 83.

Poorhouses.—The number of poorhouses on 1st August 1883 was 63 (with accommodation for 15,548 inmates) for 436 parishes, having a population of 2,843,935. When the poorhouses in progress or the erection of which had been resolved on were completed, 452 parishes, having a population of 2,882,826, would be provided with poorhouses. The Board during the year approved of the rates for boarding paupers belonging to 243 parishes in the poorhouses of other parishes or combinations. The approval of such rates has to be asked for every year. The population of the 243 parishes which have a right to send paupers to poorhouses belonging to other parishes was 584,512. The total population to which poorhouse accommodation was available was 3,428,447. The total population of the parishes to which poorhouse accommodation was still not available was 307,126. The number of poor (and their dependents) receiving in-door relief was 10,504 at 1st January 1881, 10,155 at 1st January 1882, and 9915 at 1st January 1883; 9040 at 14th May 1881, 8964 at 14th May 1882, and 8722 at 14th May 1883; 8945 at 1st July 1881, 8683 at 1st July 1882, and 8600 at 1st July 1883. The total average weekly expenditure per head of ordinary inmates of all the poorhouses of Scotland was 4s. 11d. in the half-year ended 31st December 1882, and 4s. 11½d. in the half-year ended 30th June 1883.

The Parliamentary Grants.—The number of parishes which, in the year 1882–83, complied with the conditions annexed to participation in the Parliamentary grant of £20,000 in aid of medical relief of the poor was 762. 16 more made claim to a share in the grant, but failed to show that the conditions of the grant had been fulfilled. The total amount distributed was £19,993, 2s. 2d. The whole sum expended on medical relief in all parishes in Scotland during the year was £40,419, which is equal to 2·59 pence per head of the population of Scotland in 1881. The population of the 778 parishes which resolved to comply with the conditions of the grant was 3,660,074, and that of the 108 parishes that did not so resolve was 75,499. The sum expended by the former parishes was £39,881, or about 2·61 pence per head of the population, and that by the latter parishes was £538, or about 1·71 pence per head of the population.

The aggregate amount distributed from the Parliamentary grant in aid of the cost of maintenance of pauper lunatics in the year 1882–83 was £81,495; in the year 1881–82 it was £79,711. 897 parishes participated in the grant in the year 1881–82, and 806 in the year 1882–83. The number of pauper lunatics in respect of whom claims were allowed was 10,180 in 1881–82, was 10,366 in 1882–83, and the total cost of their maintenance in the latter year, exclusive of the amount recovered or recoverable from relatives or other sources, was £194,094.

Receipt and Expenditure.—The sum received from all sources for the relief and management of the poor in the year 1882–83 was £958,844, of which £810,139 was raised by assessment, £100,316 was contributed by Her Majesty's Treasury, in aid of expenditure on medical relief of the poor and maintenance of pauper lunatics, and in lieu of rates on Government property; and £48,389 was received from voluntary contributions, church collections, mortifications, and all other sources. In addition to the above, £10,665 was borrowed during the year on security of the rates. The sum expended for the relief and management of the poor (including £3777 expended on buildings not being authorized poorhouses, £20,224 expended on authorized poorhouse buildings, and £13,219 on repairs and furnishings) was £871,878. In the year 1881–82 the expenditure for the same purposes was £898,002. There was thus a decrease in the expenditure of £26,124. The decrease was chiefly under the head of buildings (£15,999), the decrease in the cost of relief to registered and casual poor being £10,638. A return of the cost of collection of the poor-rate (included in the total expenditure given above) was again procured in the year 1882–83. For that year it was £20,725, or 2·56 per cent. on the amount of assessment received. In 1881–82 it was £21,251, or 2·58 per cent. In addition to the expenditure of £871,878 stated above, £6684 was expended in 1882–83 in payment of feu-duties, interest, vaccination, etc., and £36,660 in repayment of money borrowed, of which £20,134 represented the annual instalments of loans incurred for the erection or enlargement of poorhouse buildings.

The following Table shows the expenditure for the relief and management of the poor (exclusive of the cost of buildings, but including every other charge), the estimated valuation based on parliamentary returns, the rate of expenditure per cent. and per £ of valuation, and the rate of expenditure per head of the population (estimated from the census returns), for the years 1880–81, 1881–82, and 1882–83:—

In the following Table are shown the amount and details of the poor-law expenditure in each of the three years, ended 14th May, 1881-83, and also the averages of the same items for the ten years ending in 1883:—

It is stated that the cost of maintaining the lunatic poor continues to increase. In 1886-87 it amounted to £108,172, and in 1882-83 it was £215,832, an increase of £107,659. The cost of maintaining the lunatic poor is included in the expenditure upon registered and casual poor—the amount of which would have been considerably less had there been no increase in the cost of the lunatic poor. The increase in 1882-83 over the previous year was £4151.

Number of Paupers, etc.—The following Table exhibits the number of paupers of all classes in receipt of relief on the 14th of May in each year, the ratio per cent. of persons in receipt of parochial relief to population, and the average annual cost of each individual and of each registered pauper to the parish, for the three years ended 14th May 1880-81, 1881-82, and 1882-83:—

Year.	No. of Paupers, including dependants, at 14th May.	Estimated Population.	Ratio per cent. of all Paupers to the Population.	Total Expenditure on Relief and Management.	Average Annual Cost for each Person, Registered or Casual.	Average Annual Cost for each Registered Pauper at 14th May.

The averages stated in the last column cover the expenditure on pauper lunatics. Excluding from the calculation for 1882-83 the lunatics as at 14th May, and their cost during the year, the average annual sum expended on the maintenance of each registered ordinary pauper at 14th May 1883 was £8, 18s. 3d. The average annual cost of each pauper lunatic on the roll at that date was £23, 12s. 11½d.

The following Table gives the results obtained from returns of the number of both registered and casual poor relieved on the 14th of August, the 1st of January, and the 14th of May, in each of the same three years:—

The number of paupers of all classes, including dependants, in receipt of relief at 14th May 1883 was 97,097, being 2244 less than on the same day in the preceding year, and being in the proportion of 2·5 per cent. of the estimated population, instead of 4·1 per cent., as in 1868 and 1869.

In 1882-83, 56 paupers, having 38 dependants, were, either voluntarily or by warrant of the Sheriff or Justices, removed to England; and 181, having 77 dependants, were similarly removed to Ireland; 913 paupers, having 555 dependants, were, either judicially or otherwise, removed from one parish to another in Scotland; 3972 persons were refused relief during the year; and the number of poor relieved under order (final or interim) of the Sheriff was 183. The number of applicants for relief, who were offered relief in the poorhouse only, and who declined that offer, and thus did not become chargeable to the poor's fund, was 7105. 7074 paupers and 1044 dependants died during the year.

The number of lunatic poor relieved in the year 1882-83 was 10,897. 2016 of them died or were cured, or ceased to receive relief; so that the number at 14th May 1883 was 8881, being an increase, as compared with the number at the same date in the preceding year (8717), of 164. Of these 6408 were in asylums, 720 in licensed wards of poorhouses, and 1753 were in private dwellings.

The number of orphan and deserted children chargeable during 1882-83 was 7387; but the number on one day (14th May) was only 5623. Of these 3668 were orphans, and 1955 deserted.

23,616 pauper children were receiving education during 1882-83, at a cost for the year to the parishes of £16,742. 14,654 other children, for whom application had been made under section 69 of the Education Act, were also receiving education during that year, at a cost to the parishes of £7970. The expenditure from the poor's funds on account of education, exclusive of the cost of education in industrial schools, deaf and dumb institutions, and other similar places, was therefore £24,712. 6653 applications were made to parochial boards under the 69th section of the Education Act during the year; 5115 were granted, 1122 refused, and 416 had not been disposed of when the return was made up, or had been withdrawn.

Church Collections, Voluntary Contributions, and Mortifications.—The whole sum derived from church collections in assessed parishes during the year ended 14th May 1883 was £36,197, of which £8250 is stated to have been expended on relief of the poor. Of this sum £27 was handed over to the parochial boards. It would appear, therefore, that the sum of £8223 derived from church collections was actually applied in 1882-83 by the kirk-sessions to the relief of persons in their parishes who required assistance.

In the year ended 30th June 1883 the total number of applications to sheriffs, on the ground that relief had been improperly refused, was 420 (but defects of registration have to be allowed for). Interim orders of relief were granted in 234 cases, and final orders in 47 cases. The average annual number of such interim orders in the ten years ended at the above date was 271, and of such final orders 55. The number of prosecutions under the 79th and 80th sections of the statute in the year ended 30th June 1883 was 94, and the number of convictions 54. The average annual number of such prosecutions in the ten years then ended was 108, and of convictions 53.

Number of Poor and Amount of Expenditure in each County.—The next Table shows the number of permanent and casual poor in each county (distinguishing the number of assessed and unassessed parishes) relieved during the years ended on 14th May 1882 and 14th May 1883; and the amount of money expended in each county for the relief and management of the poor during the same periods, distinguishing the cost of maintaining the registered poor:—

Of the 84,856 poor on the roll or registered during the year 1882-83, 29,019 were males and 55,837 were females.

Paupers in the United Kingdom.—The following Table shows (1.) the number of paupers (exclusive of vagrants) in receipt of relief (distinguishing out-door from in-door) in the unions and parishes under boards of guardians in England and Wales, on the 1st of January in each of the three years 1881-83; (2.) the number of paupers in receipt of relief (distinguishing out-door from in-door) in unions in Ireland at the close of the first week of January in each of the same years; and (3.) the number of paupers and their dependants (exclusive of casual poor) in receipt of relief in parishes in Scotland, on the 14th of May in each of the three years 1880-82:—

The total amount of poor-rates received in England in 1882 (year ended Lady-day), including receipts in aid of poor-rates, was £14,918,273 (the annual value of rateable rental having been, in 1882, £139,636,307), and the amount expended in actual relief of the poor was £8,232,472. The total amount of poor-rates received in Ireland in 1882 (year ended Lady-day), including receipts in aid of poor-rates, was £1,240,638, and the amount expended in the relief and management of the poor was £1,237,389.

The Public Health Act.—The number of parishes in which, during the year ended 14th May 1883, money was received or expended under the Act was 694; in the year preceding it was 672. The total receipts were £152,925; of which £139,890 was derived from assessment, £281 from penalties and from authors of nuisances, and £12,754 from other sources. The total expenditure under the Act amounted to £249,711. £26,967 had been expended upon drainage; £92,228 on water supply; £5075 on removal of nuisances; £41,668 on hospital accommodation; and £83,773 on other purposes. The "other purposes" include interest on money borrowed, vaccination, burials, disinfectants, salaries, and heads of miscellaneous expenditure. The sums stated do not represent the whole receipts and expenditure in Scotland for sanitary purposes, as in many places important sanitary operations have been carried on under the provisions either of local Acts or of the General Police Acts, and none of these operations are embraced in the returns under the Public Health Act. In addition to the above, £163,411 was received during the year from loans on the security of rates, and £31,171 was expended in repayment of money borrowed in former years. The total expenditure under the Public Health Act, from the passing of the Act (15th August 1867) to the 14th May 1883, amounted to £1,835,583; of which £258,053 was expended upon drainage, £732,530 upon water supply, and, within the last ten years, £323,686 upon hospital accommodation. The aggregate amount of loans proposed by local bodies for the approval of the Board from 11th August 1875 was £1,190,027, and the total amount of loans recommended by the Board was £1,129,574. Of this amount, £802,427 was for the construction of water-works, £159,277 for sewage and drainage works, £115,450 for the erection of hospitals, and £52,420 for water and drainage.

THE CUSTOMS.

Owing to changes in the Customs Department, the annual Report of the Commissioners of the Board of Customs for the year 1882 was not presented to Parliament during the session of 1883, and therefore could not be issued as a Parliamentary paper during that year.

The subjoined Table exhibits the gross amount of revenue collected for Customs (after deducting repayments and drawbacks), distinguishing the

AGRICULTURAL RETURNS.

The publication of the Agricultural Returns was much delayed in 1883—in consequence, it is believed, of the transfer of the duty of preparing the Returns from the Board of Trade to the (newly created) Agricultural Department of the Privy Council. The subjoined summary of the Returns was issued by the Agricultural Department on the 17th of August. The returns were collected on June 4th in the year 1881, and on June 5th in 1882 and in 1883.

The net estimated charge for the reserve forces was distributed between the forces as follows:—Militia pay and allowances, £520,000; yeomanry cavalry pay and allowances, £69,000; volunteer corps pay and allowances, £562,800; army reserve force pay and allowances (including enrolled pensioners), £278,000. The estimate for the volunteer corps was made up as follows:—Pay, etc., of 276 adjutants of volunteer corps, £60,000; allowance to them in lieu of servants, £5020—total (with £180 added for leap-year) £65,200; pay, etc., of sergeant-instructors, £66,000; capitation grants to volunteer corps, etc. (36,591 artillery volunteers, 210 light horse, 8551 engineers, 38 mounted rifles, 153,983 rifle volunteers—in all, 199,373 men, at 30s. each), £299,060; travelling allowance, for attendance at united drill or gun practice, £32,000; special capitation allowance of £2, 10s. for proficient officers and sergeants, £44,540; £376,000; miscellaneous charges for volunteer corps, £56,000.

The numbers present at the training of 1882 were, 2035 officers, exclusive of the permanent staff; 112 adjutants, 113 quartermasters, 2537 sergeants, and 881 drummers of the permanent staff; and 1223 sergeants, 3428 corporals, and 70,662 privates—or 80,991 men of all ranks. There were 14,422 men of all ranks (including 321 officers) wanting to complete the establishment of the regiments as authorized by army circulars of 1882; and there were 280 men of all ranks supernumeraries in certain regiments. Of the numbers enrolled of all ranks, 10,773 men were in artillery regiments (7863 in English, and 2910 in Scotch regiments); 1229 in regiments of engineers (all in England); and 80,092 in infantry regiments (69,758 in English, and 10,334 in Scotch regiments). There were 78,850 men in English, and 13,244 in Scotch regiments. The total number of men of the militia reserve effective at inspection, and included in the foregoing numbers, was 23,019, viz., in England 19,711, and in Scotland 3308; 3054 were in artillery regiments, 268 in engineer regiments, and 19,697 in infantry regiments. The number of men enrolled for the militia reserve during the year was 6068. Under an order in council, the training of the Irish militia was not carried out in 1882. The establishment of the Irish militia, as authorized by army circulars of 1882, consists of 857 officers, exclusive of the permanent staff; of the permanent staff, consisting of 45 adjutants, 34 quartermasters, 853 sergeants, and 298 drummers; and of 596 sergeants, 1192 corporals, 28,900 privates—being 32,777 men of all ranks.

The Colonies and Army Expenditure.—The amount included in the Army Estimates for 1883–84 for military purposes in the Colonies was £1,825,446. In the previous financial year it had been £1,907,876. These sums, however, do not include the cost of arms, accoutrements, stores, etc., nor any proportion of recruiting and administrative expenses and non-effective charges. The amount of Colonial contributions in aid of military expenditure to be received in 1883–84 was estimated at £205,000; viz., Honduras, £5000; Natal, £4000; Mauritius, £18,000; Hong Kong, £20,000; Ceylon, £103,000; Straits Settlement, £50,000; Malta, £5000.

The Navy Estimates.—The number of officers, seamen, boys, and marines proposed to be voted for the service of Her Majesty's Navy for the year ending 31st March 1884 was 57,250 (or 56,290, deducting 960, the number of the officers and crews of Indian troop ships), viz., 44,850 officers, seamen, and boys for the fleet and coastguard service, and 12,400 marines. The estimated charge was £10,757,000, made up as follows:—For effective services, £8,549,300; for non-effective, £2,071,400; for conveyance of troops, £136,300. On the 1st November 1882, the number of ships in commission effective for general service was 114, viz., 6 line-of-battle ships, first class, and 7 line-of-battle ships, second class, 3 cruisers, first class, and 2 special ships, all armour-plated; 23 frigates or corvettes (2 third class, and 21 fourth class) not armour-plated; and 73 sloops and small vessels not armour-plated, of which 67 were steamers and 6 were sailing vessels. There were also in commission 9 first reserve ships (all armour-plated, and all steamers). Of gunnery and training ships, stationary, receiving, and depôt ships (including royal yachts), surveying vessels, troop ships, store ships, and drill ships for the royal naval reserve, there were 50 (32 sailing vessels and 18 steamers), exclusive of Indian troop ships; and of tenders (including late coastguard cruisers) there were 73 (34 sailing vessels and 39 steamers). There were in all 246 vessels (72 sailing vessels and 174 steamers, 27 of the latter being armour-plated) in commission.

The Ordnance Survey.—The year 1882 marked a very definite stage in the operations of the ordnance survey, inasmuch as the survey of Scotland was brought to a conclusion in that year, the last man employed upon it having left Scotland in November 1882. The publication of some of the one-inch maps remained incomplete. This was being proceeded with at Southampton. The survey of the whole of Great Britain and Ireland, as originally contemplated, may therefore be said to be completed—the work now in progress being the re-survey on the 25-inch scale of that portion of England, to the south of Yorkshire and Lancashire, which had previously been published on the one-inch scale, and the revision of the six-inch map of Ireland. The whole of Scotland has now been published on the six-inch scale, but on the  $\frac{1}{1135}$  scale there are the following exceptions—the counties of Edinburgh, Fife, Haddington, Kinross, Kirkcudbright, and Wigtown, and the Island of Lewis, which were all published before the  $\frac{1}{1135}$  scale was adopted, and the uncultivated portions of the Highlands and of some of the islands, for which the six-inch scale was considered sufficient. The one-inch map of Scotland, which is still in progress, is to consist of 131 sheets, of which 91 have been published in outline with contours and 73 with hills. The area published on the  $\frac{1}{1135}$  scale for Scotland in 1882 was 171 square miles, and the total area published on that scale at the close of that year was 12,687 square miles. The area of Scotland published on the six-inch scale in 1882 was 1935 square miles, which made a total area of 30,902 square miles published on the six-inch scale. The area of Scotland published on the one-inch scale at the close of 1882 was, in outline, 27,013 square miles, and with hills, 20,538 square miles—of which areas 1386 square miles in outline were published in 1882. The survey of the towns in Scotland is completed. With a few exceptions, the maps of the towns of Scotland are on the  $\frac{1}{1135}$  or ten-foot scale;

Parliamentary Constituencies.—The total number of electors on the register in force in 1883 (before the registrations of that year) was, in England, counties 966,631, cities and boroughs 1,651,761, universities 13,831—total 2,632,223; in Ireland, counties 164,679, cities and boroughs 57,784, university 4048—total 226,511; in Scotland, counties 99,346, burghs 210,858, universities 12,763—total 322,967.

Irregular Marriages in Scotland.—The number of irregular marriages registered in Scotland (the bulk of them by warrant of the Sheriff) in the five years 1877–1881 was 1847, and the amount of fees charged by registrars in connexion with such marriages was £1304, 7s.

Drunkenness on Sunday in Scotland.—The number of convictions of persons arrested for drunkenness on Sunday in Scotland (omitting Orkney and Shetland, which have no police forces), in the six years from 29th September 1876 to 29th September 1882, was, in counties 1639, and in burghs 12,072—total 13,711. But there is not uniformity of practice throughout the country either in dealing with this offence or in compiling statistics, and the provisions for dealing with the offence are to a large extent inoperative in the landward parts of some counties—so that the return from which the figures are taken (as is stated in a note prefixed to it) cannot be said to show correctly the number of persons arrested for drunkenness on Sunday, and as regards many districts it gives no idea of the number of persons chargeable with the offence.

Coal and Metals.—The estimated value at the place of production of coal and metals produced in the United Kingdom was, in 1868, £41,521,705 (coal, £25,785,289); in 1878, £64,712,332 (coal, £46,429,210); and, in 1881, £88,082,670 (coal, £65,528,327).

The Coinage.—The total value of gold, silver, and copper (bronze) monies coined at the Royal Mint was £2,896,091 in 1878; £628,755 in 1879; £4,930,824 in 1880; £1,036,477 in 1881; and £252,440 in 1882. The value of gold coined was, in 1878, £2,265,069, and, in 1880, £4,150,052. No gold was coined in 1881 and 1882.

CHRONICLE, 1883.

January 10. Newhall House, the chief hotel in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, U S., destroyed by fire, and upwards of 90 lives lost.

13. By the burning of a circus in Berditscheff, Russian Poland, 280 persons lost their lives.

16. Prince Napoleon issued a manifesto in Paris, proclaiming himself the representative of the Napoleonic idea, and denouncing the Republic. He was subsequently arrested by order of the Government, but liberated on 9th February.

19. During a thick fog off the island of Borkum, opposite the mouth of the river Ems, the Hamburg-American Company's steamship Cimbria collided with the steamer Sultan, when the former vessel foundered, and about 400 lives were lost.

24. The Court of Queen's Bench, Ireland, gave judgment in the application of the Crown authorities against Messrs Healy, Davitt, and Quinn, for using seditious and treasonable language at public meetings. They were bound over, on heavy sureties, to be on their good behaviour for twelve months, or otherwise to suffer six months' imprisonment.

Having elected to go to prison, they were arrested on 8th February, and liberated on 8th June.

February 1. A Bill to expel from French territory the Bourbon and Bonaparte families passed the Chamber of Deputies, France. The Senate, however, on 12th February, declined to pass it, but adopted a proposal submitted by M. Waddington, to the effect that any prince committing any act in furtherance of his pretensions to the throne of France, or engaging in manifestations tending to affect the safety of the State, shall be punished by banishment from French territory.

15. The fourth session of the tenth Parliament of the present reign opened by Royal Commission. The debate on the Address in answer to the Queen's Speech extended over several sittings. In the course of the discussion on an amendment to the Address moved by Mr Gorst, having relation to the Government's Irish policy, the Right Hon. W. E. Forster sought to bring home to Mr Parnell and his associates of the Land League the responsibility for the outrages and murders that had in recent times brought disgrace upon Ireland. During Mr Forster's speech, Mr O'Kelly, Member for Roscommon County, conducted himself so offensively that he was suspended from the service of the House. Towards the close of the sitting on the 24th February the House divided on Mr Gorst's amendment, when there voted for it 176; against it 259. An amendment proposed by Mr Parnell, on the 26th February, was negatived by 133 votes to 15. The debate closed on 1st March.

February 16. The Attorney-General moved in the House of Commons for leave to bring in a Bill to amend the Parliamentary Oaths Act. After considerable discussion, the Bill was introduced and read a first time on 19th February. The motion that the Bill be read a second time was moved by the Attorney-General on 23rd April. The debate was adjourned from time to time, and at last brought to a close on the morning of 4th May, when there voted for the second reading 289; against, 292.

26. The Lord Chancellor brought before the House of Lords a Bill having reference to the election of Representative Scottish Peers. It was read a first time. Since then members for Boston, Canterbury, Chester, Gloucester, Macclesfield, Oxford, and Sandwich have been unseated on petition; and on account of the prevalence of corrupt practices in these places, the right to elect members is suspended.

† The numbers of electors given are those of England, Wales, and Ireland in 1882-83, and Scotland in 1883-84.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Alphabetically arranged according to the Places represented.

In the subjoined lists, the figures following the names of places denote the number of Electors on the Roll (England and Ireland for 1882-83, and Scotland for 1883-84); those after the names of Candidates in elections during 1883 show the number of votes polled by each, the names of unsuccessful Candidates being printed in italics. n. c. indicates there was no contest. The political parties to which Members and Candidates belong are distinguished by L for Liberal, C for Conservative, H R for Home Ruler, and I for Independent.

For statistical particulars of the Elections which took place in 1880, see pp. 349-366 of Almanac for 1881; of those in 1881, see pp. 353-362 of Almanac for 1882; and of those in 1882, see pp. 370-378 of Almanac for 1883.

THE VICTORIA CROSS, OR ORDER OF VALOUR.

This naval and military decoration was instituted by an instrument under the sign-manual of the Queen, dated the 29th of January 1856, "for the purpose of rewarding individual instances of merit and valour." It is ordained that the distinction shall be styled "The Victoria Cross;" that it shall consist of a Maltese cross of bronze, with her Majesty's royal crest in the centre, and, on an escroll underneath, the inscription "For Valour;" that the Cross shall be suspended from the left breast by a blue riband for the navy, and by a red riband for the army; that the names of those upon whom her Majesty may be pleased to confer the decoration shall be published in the London Gazette; that any one who, after having received the Cross, shall again perform an act of bravery, which if he had not received such Cross would have entitled him to it, shall have such farther act recorded by a Bar attached to the riband by which the Cross is suspended, an additional Bar being added for every additional act; that the Cross shall be awarded to those officers or men only who have served the Queen in the presence of the enemy, and have there performed some signal act of valour or devotion to their country; that with the view of placing all persons on a perfectly equal footing of eligibility for the decoration, neither rank nor long service nor wounds nor any other circumstance or condition whatsoever, save the merit of conspicuous bravery, shall be held to establish a sufficient claim to the honour; and that every warrant officer, petty officer, seaman, or marine, or non-commissioned officer or soldier who shall have received the Cross shall be entitled to a special pension of ten pounds a year, each additional Bar carrying with it an additional pension of five pounds a year.

THE MOST EXALTED ORDER OF THE STAR OF INDIA.

This order of knighthood was instituted by the Queen, in February 1861, and enlarged and remodelled in March 1866, by letters patent under the Great Seal, in order to afford to the princes, chiefs, and people of the Indian Empire, a public and signal testimony of Her Majesty's regard; to commemorate Her Majesty's resolution to take upon herself the government of the territories in India; and to enable Her Majesty to reward conspicuous merit and loyalty. The order is to be called "The Most Exalted Order of the Star of India." It is now to consist of the Sovereign, a Grand Master, and two hundred and forty-six Ordinary Companions or Members, divided into three classes: 1. Thirty Knights Grand Commanders; 2. Seventy-two Knights Commanders; 3. One hundred and forty-four Companions; together with such Extra and Honorary Knights as the Sovereign may appoint. The Sovereign shall be the King or Queen regnant of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. The Grand Master, first and principal Knight Grand Commander of the Order, shall be the Viceroy and Governor-General of India for the time being. The Sovereign may confer the dignity of a Knight Grand Commander of the Order upon such native princes and chiefs of India as shall have entitled themselves to the Royal favour, and upon such British subjects as have, by important and loyal services rendered by them to the Indian Empire, merited such Royal favour. No person shall be nominated a Knight Commander, or a Companion, who shall not, by his conduct and services in the Indian Empire, have merited the Royal favour.

THE MOST DISTINGUISHED ORDER OF SAINT MICHAEL AND SAINT GEORGE

Was instituted in 1818, for natives of the Ionian Islands and of Malta, and for such other British subjects as should be distinguished in connexion with the said islands, or with H.M. service in the Mediterranean. By certain statutes, bearing date 4th December 1868, Her Majesty was pleased to enlarge and re-organize the Order, so as to extend it to such natural-born subjects of the Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland as might be persons of conspicuous merit, or have rendered important services to the Crown, within or in connexion with any of Her Majesty's colonial possessions; and a supplementary statute, bearing date 3d April 1869, ordains that naturalized foreigners may be admitted in like manner as if they were natural-born subjects of the British Crown. A supplementary statute, of date 6th May 1879, increased the number of Members of the Order, which consists of the Sovereign, of a Grand Master (being a Prince of the Blood Royal descended of the body of King George I., or other exalted personage named by the Sovereign), and of four hundred and sixty Members, divided into three classes, viz.: 1st, Knights Grand Cross, fifty in number, in addition to such Extra or Honorary Members as the Sovereign may appoint; 2d, Knights-Commanders, one hundred and fifty in number; 3d, Companions, two hundred and sixty in number, and provides for admission into the Order for important and loyal services in relation to the foreign affairs of the Empire.

ENTRY OF OFFICERS TO THE ROYAL NAVY.

Every flag officer or commodore, first class, appointed to the chief command of a station or a separate command, will have one nomination to a naval cadetship. Every captain, on his first appointment to command a ship, will have one nomination, but the privilege will be given only once during the time he holds the rank of captain, and must be exercised at the time of the appointment. No captain at present on the list who during his service in that rank has had a nomination will be entitled to this privilege. Captains who have not yet had a nomination will be allowed one upon their next appointment to command a ship.

Appointments to naval cadetships will be made by limited competition, with the following exceptions:—Four cadetships given annually to sons of gentlemen in the Colonies, on the recommendation of the Secretary of State for the Colonies. Service cadetships, the total number of which is not to exceed five, given by the Board of Admiralty to (a) sons of officers of the army, navy, or marines who have been killed in action, or who have been lost at sea on active service, or killed on duty, or who have died of wounds received in action or injuries received on duty within six months from the date of such action or injury; (b) sons of officers of the navy who have performed long or distinguished service, and who hold or have held rank or relative rank on the active list not lower than that of commander; not more than two such service cadets to be nominated annually. Colonial and service cadets will be entered on passing a test examination.

The examination of candidates nominated to compete, and also of service cadets, will be conducted by the Civil Service Commissioners. Except in special circumstances, not more than one-third of the number of candidates actually presenting themselves before the Civil Service Commissioners will be entered. Nominations for naval cadetships will take place half-yearly, as soon as convenient after the report of the last examination has been received. Examinations of the young gentlemen who have obtained nominations will be held in London, and will commence on the second Wednesday in June and the last Wednesday in November in each year, and the appointments will date from the 15th July and 15th January following respectively. No candidate will be eligible for examination in June whose age will not be within the following limits on the 15th July following, viz., not less than twelve nor more than thirteen and a half years of age, nor in November whose age will not be within those limits on the 15th January following. Every candidate must be in good health, free from any physical defect of body, impediment of speech, defect of sight or hearing, and also from any predisposition to constitutional or hereditary disease or weakness of any kind, and in all respects well developed and active in proportion to his age. Before being examined by the Civil Service Commissioners he will be required to pass the medical examination according to the prescribed regulations, and must have been found physically fit for the navy; rejection at such examination will finally exclude him from the navy.

A candidate who passes the test examination, but does not succeed in the competition, will be entitled to compete at the next examination, provided he is within the regulations as to limits of age at that time. No candidate will be allowed to compete more than twice. A candidate who fails to pass the test will not be entitled to another trial, but he will be allowed to compete at the next examination if he receives a fresh nomination and is still within the limits of age.

For all cadets entered under the regulations, the payment will be at the rate of £70 per annum for the period in the "Britannia," to be paid half-yearly in advance to the Accountant-General of the Navy. But the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty reserve the power of selecting, from among the cadets entered at each half-yearly examination a number, not to exceed ten, being sons of officers of the navy, army, or marines, or of civil officers under the Board of Admiralty, with respect to whom the annual payment will be £40 only. In this selection their Lordships will have regard solely to the pecuniary circumstances of the cadets. The period of training on board the "Britannia" will be four terms; there will be two terms in each year. The first term of each year will be from February to July, the second from September to December. There will be examinations in seamanship and study at the end of each term. Cadets who pass unsatisfactory examinations, or who are reported for unsatisfactory conduct, will be "warned," and they will be liable to be discharged at the end of the following or any subsequent term, should they again be reported as failing to attain the proper number of marks at the examinations, or for unsatisfactory conduct. If a cadet is reported for unsatisfactory conduct during his final term, he will be discharged without being allowed to present himself at the examination for passing out of the "Britannia." Any cadet who shall appear to their Lordships for any reason to be unfit for the service will be removed from the "Britannia." Cadets will, on passing out of the "Britannia," rank according to the amount of sea time they obtain at their final examination, and those who obtain equal amounts of sea time will rank in the order of merit in which they pass out of the "Britannia." The parent or guardian of every cadet will be required to provide outfit under the regulations in force.

Education.

UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD.

This ancient University consists of a union of Colleges and Halls devoted to the purposes of study and education, and incorporated under the style or title of "The Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Oxford." There are at present twenty-one Colleges, each having a mansion for the residence of members of the foundation, and for the reception of students. These Colleges may be said to be an institution peculiar to England, as none exist in foreign universities, nor even in Scotland. They are bodies corporate, independent of the University, being governed, as to their own concerns, by their respective statutes; and each has in connexion with it numerous valuable fellowships, scholarships, and exhibitions. The three remaining Academical Halls at Oxford are places in which students reside, under discipline and instruction, and pass through the curriculum to their several degrees in precisely the same manner as the student inmates of the Colleges. The term Hall, however, implies also a Society, and in this sense there is an important difference between Halls and Colleges, inasmuch as the former are not incorporated, have no endowments for fellows, and have all their property held in trust for them by the University. Magdalen Hall was constituted Hertford College in 1874, and St Alban Hall was absorbed into Merton College in 1883. The recent foundation of the Keble College was established in 1870 from funds collected by private subscription, and suitable buildings have been erected. In pursuance of the Oxford University Act, 1854, Private Halls have been instituted for the purpose of affording a cheaper education than is to be had at the Colleges. The scholars are subject to the laws of the University, partake of its privileges, and are admissible to its degrees in the same way as the other students.

By a statute passed in the year 1868, students may be admitted members of the University without belonging to any College or Hall. Such students are called Scholares non ascripti, or unattached students, and keep terms by residing at Oxford, either with their parents or in licensed lodging-houses. They are under the control of certain delegates.

There are four terms for academical exercises in each year, but for many Professors' lectures and some other purposes, the third and fourth together count as only one. Two of the four can be kept by six weeks' residence, and two by three weeks'. The ordinary residence in the College extends to twenty-six weeks in the year. Candidates for admission to the University are required to pass a preliminary examination at their respective Colleges or Halls.

The degrees conferred by the University upon students are those of Bachelor and Master in Arts, and of Bachelor and Doctor in Music, and in the three superior faculties of Civil Law, Medicine, and Divinity. Twelve terms of residence are required for the degree of B.A. No further residence is necessary for any degree. Thus the education of a young man at Oxford is spread over about three years; but in the case of candidates for the higher honours, a degree is seldom taken in less than four years.

Candidates for the degree of B.A. are required to pass three distinct examinations—viz., 1. Responsions before the masters of the schools; 2. First Public Examination before the moderators; 3. Second Public Examination before the public examiners. For this last there are now six schools of honours, called the schools of Literæ Humaniores, Scientiæ Mathematicæ et Physicæ, Scientia Naturalis, Jurisprudentia, Historia Moderna, and Theologia, and one mixed school for passmen, divided into several groups of subjects. At the responsions, candidates are examined in Latin and Greek grammar, one Latin and one Greek author, arithmetic, and either Euclid or algebra. The examination is conducted partly in writing, partly viva voce.

Candidates at the first public Examination are examined either in logic or in algebra, together with three books of Euclid, in the four Gospels in Greek, and in portions of three classical authors, there being a higher examination both in Classics and Mathematics for candidates for honours.

All candidates at the second public Examination are required to offer themselves in Divinity also; but candidates not members of the Church of England may substitute an equivalent amount of other matter for examination. The term "Divinity" comprises the four Gospels and the Acts of the Apostles in Greek, the Old and New Testaments, the Thirty-nine Articles, and the Evidences of the Christian Religion. In the mathematical school candidates are examined either in the first six books of Euclid or in the first part of algebra. In the school of natural science they are examined in the principles of mechanical philosophy, chemistry, physiology, and further in some one of the particular sciences dependent on mechanical philosophy. In the school of law and modern history every candidate must offer himself for examination in English history and law. In all the schools there are examinations for honours as well as the ordinary or "pass" examination. A fifth school of theology was instituted in 1870, and the school of law and modern history was, in 1873, separated into two distinct schools.

For the degree of M.A., no further examination or exercise is required; a B.A. may proceed to the degree of M.A. on the expiry of the twenty-sixth term from his matriculation, provided he has had his name on the books of some College or Hall during that period. For degrees in the superior faculties there are annual examinations.

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE.

This University, like that of Oxford, is a union of Colleges or Societies devoted to the study of the liberal arts and sciences. There are seventeen such Colleges at Cambridge, each being a body corporate, maintained by the endowments of benefactors, and governed by its own laws, but controlled by the paramount statutes of the University.

The terms of the academical year are three,—viz., 1. Michaelmas, beginning on the 1st of October and ending on the 19th of December; 2. Lent, extending from the 8th of January to 27th March, if Easter* falls between 30th March and 16th April; and 3. Easter, commencing on 18th April, and closing on the 24th of June. Students are admitted, either by a personal examination before the tutor and some of the College officers, or by sending to the tutor a recommendatory certificate from some M.A. of the University stating the qualifications, etc., of the person applying for admission, and at the same time transmitting the caution-money, which is £15 in the case of an ordinary student intending to join a college, and £2 in the case of a non-collegiate student. If this certificate be deemed satisfactory, the student is admitted, and his name placed on the boards which hang in the butteries of the several Colleges. The day after the division of any of the terms is the time fixed for matriculation, i.e., enrolment of the student's name in the University books. At Cambridge, as at Oxford, persons may be admitted as students, and have degrees conferred upon them, without the necessity of their being members of any College or Hall.

Undergraduates are required to give a constant attendance on lectures, and, yearly or half-yearly, undergo an examination in those subjects to which their attention has been devoted. By this course they are prepared for those public examinations which must be passed before the degree in Arts can be obtained. What is called "The Previous Examination" is held towards the end of the Michaelmas and Easter terms, and is open to students in their first term of residence. Exemption from this examination may be gained by students who have shown sufficient merit in the University Local Examinations, or in an examination at school conducted by the Oxford and Cambridge Schools' Examination Board. The subjects of this examination are, one of the four Gospels in Greek, Paley's Evidences of Christianity, Latin and Greek Grammar, one Greek and one Latin author, the Elements of Euclid, Algebra, and Arithmetic. No student can be examined for the degree of B.A. who has not previously kept nine terms; and a B.A. "may be admitted ad incipiendum in artibus at any time after three academical years have passed from the completion of his Bachelor's degree. The inceptors in every year become complete Masters of Arts by creation on the Commencement Day, i.e., on the last Tuesday but one in June." No one has a vote in the Senate until after creation.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON.

Unlike other universities, this confers its degrees upon the results of its examinations only. It was founded in 1836 "for the purpose of ascertaining, by means of examination, the persons who have acquired proficiency in literature, science, and art, and other departments of knowledge," by the pursuit of a regular and liberal education at University College and King's College, London, or at any of the other colleges and houses of learning named in the royal charter; "and of rewarding them by academical degrees and certificates of proficiency, as evidence of their respective attainments, and marks of honour proportioned thereto." But by later charters, students from any or no college are admissible to all examinations but those in Medicine and Surgery. All Examinations for degrees, with the prizes, scholarships, etc., attached thereto, are open to women on precisely the same conditions as to men.

There are two examinations for matriculation in each year; one commencing on the second Monday in January, and the other on the third Monday in June; they are held at the new University Buildings, Burlington Gardens, London, and also, under special arrangement, in various cities, towns, and colleges, of the United Kingdom and the Colonies. Candidates must produce a certificate showing that they have completed their sixteenth year. The subjects of the examination which they must pass are—Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Latin, English, two of the languages, Greek, French, German, and Arabic or Sanskrit, and Outlines of English History and Modern Geography. The matriculation fee is £2.

For each of the degrees of B.Sc. and B.A., two examinations besides the one at matriculation require to be passed—the intermediate on the third Monday in July, and the B.Sc. on the third, and B.A. on the fourth Monday in October. The fee payable at each examination is £5. No candidate is admitted to the examination for the degree of M.A. until after the expiration of one academical year from the time of his passing that for B.A., nor unless he can show evidence that he has completed his twentieth year. A fee of £10 is exacted for the M.A. examination.

The highest degree in the Faculty of Arts in this University is D.Lit., or Doctor of Literature. A candidate who is only B.A. must pass two examinations at an interval of at least a year; but Masters of Arts who have taken their degree in classics need pass only the second examination. The former of these is in the Greek and Latin classics generally, with prose composition in Greek, Latin, and English, and in history to the end of the eighteenth century; the second examination is in the English language, literature, and history, and in any two of the following subjects, provided that either French or German be one of these:—French; German; Anglo-Saxon, with Icelandic; Sanskrit; Arabic; Hebrew, with Syriac. These examinations are conducted by means of printed papers. A fee of £10 is payable at each examination.

The degree of D.Sc. (Doctor of Science) is open to all Bachelors of Science of two years' standing; who may elect to be examined in any one or more of sixteen branches of science. The fee is £10.

By the late Reform Act, the University of London returns one member to serve in Parliament; the constituency (above 2200) is composed solely of "Members of Convocation;" which comprises all graduates of certain standing who have chosen to secure their privileges by payment of a trifling fee.

KING'S COLLEGE, LONDON,

Was founded in 1828, upon the following fundamental principle:—"That every system of general education for the youth of a Christian community ought to comprise instruction in the Christian religion as an indispensable part, without which the acquisition of other branches of knowledge will be conducive neither to the happiness of the individual, nor to the welfare of the state." The subjects taught are enumerated below, and are comprised under the following departments:—I. General Literature and Science; II. The Applied Sciences; III. Theology; IV. Medicine; V. The Evening Classes; VI. The School. In the first-named department, new students are subjected to an examination, that it may be ascertained whether they are competent to take advantage of the College classes. The course of study pursued in Department II. is practical in its nature, and is designed "for the large class of young men who, in after life, are likely to be engaged in commercial and agricultural pursuits, or in professional employments, such as civil and military engineering, surveying, architecture, and the higher branches of manufacturing art." The whole course occupies three years. Candidates for admission as students in theology must be twenty-one years of age, and be recommended by the clergyman of their parish; they must also pass an examination in Greek, Latin, English literature, the Church Catechism, etc. The course must be continued for at least six terms (two years) before students can offer themselves for final examination. No degrees are conferred by King's College, but its students are privileged to graduate at the University of London.

The academical year consists of three terms, as at Cambridge; and students are admitted at the commencement of each term.

There is accommodation within the walls of the College for only a limited number of matriculated students.

Classes for evening instruction are conducted from October to March and from April to July in each year.

King's College School (for boys from eight to sixteen years of age) consists of two divisions—viz., the division of Classics, Mathematics, and General Literature; and the division of Modern Instruction.

THE UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

This University was founded in 1832, and incorporated by royal charter in 1837, for the purpose of securing to the inhabitants of the north of England a sound, yet not expensive education. The system of uniting domestic discipline with efficient lectures and instruction is maintained here in somewhat the same manner as at Oxford and Cambridge. With the view of placing the advantages of such a system within the reach of persons of limited means, a Hall, named after Bishop Hatfield, was opened in 1846. All the arrangements of this Hall are made on an economical scale, and students in each Faculty are received in it as in University College, are subject to the same discipline, under the same tutors, and, for the most part, are eligible to the same endowments. In the year 1870 a regulation was passed by which students are admitted to be members of the University without becoming members of any College, Hall, or House. The house or lodging in which they reside must be approved by the Warden and Proctors, and in all matters of University discipline, tuition, and eligibility to endowments, they are placed upon the same footing as students of the College or Hall.

The academical year at Durham consists of three terms, viz., Michaelmas, Epiphany, and Easter. The qualifications of students to enter on the course of education pursued in the several Faculties of Arts, Theology, Physical Science, and Medicine, are ascertained by examination before admission.

For the degree of B.A., or the license in Theology, a residence of two years is required, the period of residence in the year being six months in both cases. A graduate may proceed to a license in Theology after one term's residence, and a Licentiate may proceed to a Degree after one term's residence, the term, in either case, being of eight weeks; but this may also be done by keeping two short terms of five weeks each. Terms kept by students in Theology are allowed to count in part towards the degree of B.A., and vice versa. A graduate may proceed to the degree of M.A. when he is of the standing of nine terms from his admission to that of B.A.

No student is obliged to attend the services of the Church of England unless he belongs to that Church; and no religious test or subscription is required from any member of the University except he be studying in the Faculty of Theology.

The College of Medicine at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, which has for many years been in connexion with the University, is now a college of the University.

A College of Physical Science was founded at Newcastle-upon-Tyne in 1871 by the joint co-operation of the University and the leading landed proprietors and employers of skilled labour in the north of England. Professors of Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Geology, and Biology have been appointed. All information respecting the college may be obtained from the Secretary, Theo. Wood Bunning.

VICTORIA UNIVERSITY, MANCHESTER.

Created by Royal Charter granted in 1880. The constitution of the University, which has its seat in Manchester, contemplates its (ultimately) becoming a federation of Colleges. The Owens College, Manchester, is constituted by the Charter a College in the University, and at present it is the only one. The University has power to grant and confer all such degrees and other distinctions as now or at any time hereafter can be granted and conferred by any other University in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland to and on all persons, male or female, who shall have pursued a regular course of study in a College in the University, and who shall submit themselves for examination. In order to secure its national character, the governing body consists partly of persons nominated by the Crown, and partly of representatives of the governing and teaching bodies of the Colleges, and of the graduates of the University; and with a view to the due independence of the examining functions of the University, "external" examiners are appointed, and all examinations are conducted jointly by such external examiners and examiners representing the teaching body. The statutes of the University, concerning studentship, examinations and degrees, are published in the "Victoria University Calendar for 1883-4." The degrees which, for the present, it is proposed to grant are those of Bachelor, and Master of Arts, Bachelor, and Master of Science, Bachelor of Laws, Doctor of Literature, Doctor of Philosophy, and Doctor of Science, Bachelor of Medicine, Doctor of Medicine, Master of Surgery.

LIST OF THE PEERAGE OF SCOTLAND,

AS IT STOOD ON THE 1ST MAY 1707, ORDERED TO BE LAID BEFORE THE HOUSE OF LORDS 22ND DECEMBER 1707.

[By this document, commonly called The Union Roll, it is understood that the order of precedence among the Peers of Scotland is regulated; and, with certain amendments, it is that called at all elections of their representatives, though it cannot be looked on as a complete list, such as should exclude claims to Peerages not entered in it. By the Act 10 and 11 Vict. c. 52, it is ordered that, until otherwise directed by the House of Lords, the Lord Clerk Register, or the Clerks of Session officiating at elections in his name, shall not call the title of any Peerage on The Union Roll in right of which no vote has been received or counted since the year 1800. It is farther provided by the Act 14 and 15 Vict. c. 87, that after every election the titles of Peerages in right of which no vote has been received or counted for fifty years or upwards, shall be transmitted to the Clerk of Parliament, and on an order to that effect being issued from the House of Lords such titles shall not be called at future elections, until the House of Lords shall otherwise direct.

The Roll, as originally framed, contained 154 Peers; namely, 10 Dukes, 3 Marquesses, 75 Earls, 17 Viscounts, and 49 Barons; and there have been subsequently enrolled 11 Peers; namely, 1 Duke, 2 Marquesses, 2 Earls, and 6 Barons. These are distinguished by the letters ad. and a date (that of their enrolment) placed after their names. The dates of the creations have been prefixed; Peerages which are attainted, extinct, or dormant, are printed in italics; the date of the attainder, extinction, or abeyance, being added; and an asterisk * has been placed after the names of those who are likewise Peers of England, of Great Britain by special creation (all Peers of Scotland being, in terms of the Act of Union, Peers of Great Britain), or of the United Kingdom.]

REGULATIONS FRAMED AND ENACTED IN 1883 BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND, TO BE OBSERVED IN THE ELECTION AND APPOINTMENT OF MINISTERS.

I. Upon Vacancy occurring, Moderator of Kirk-Session to be appointed.—Upon a vacancy occurring in any parish, a meeting of the presbytery shall be held as soon as possible and within ten days of the vacancy coming to the knowledge of the moderator or clerk, at which meeting the presbytery shall appoint a minister to declare the vacancy, and shall appoint one of their own number to be moderator of the kirk-session; provided that in collegiate charges, and in cases for the appointment of an assistant and successor, such appointment of a moderator shall be for the purposes of these Regulations only, and shall not be made if the minister of the parish should intimate that he desires to perform the duties. At all meetings of the congregation in connexion with the vacancy, the moderator of the kirk-session, whether appointed or minister of the parish as above provided, shall preside, and the roll of the congregation, as hereinafter defined, shall be in his hands. In case of the unavoidable absence of the moderator, he may in writing authorize a member of the presbytery to act for him, and shall specify the occasion on which that member is to act.

II. Procedure in case of Appointment of Assistant and Successor.—The presbytery shall not take any step toward the appointment of an assistant and successor in any parish until they have cited from the pulpit the parishioners and all concerned to a meeting of the presbytery, to be held not less than seven free days after the citation, and have thereafter come to a finding that, in consequence of the mental or bodily incapacity of the minister, or other lawful and sufficient cause, to be specified in the deliverance, it is necessary that steps be taken for the appointment of an assistant and successor. The Presbytery shall not pronounce any such finding unless they are satisfied that such appointment would be in accordance with the general wish of the parties interested. The date of such finding by the presbytery shall be held to be the date of the occurrence of the vacancy. The procedure thereafter shall, subject to the qualification in Regulation I., be the same as if the parish had become vacant, provided that in the event of the death of the minister before an election has been made, the date of the vacancy shall in that case be held to be the date of the death of the minister, and procedure shall begin de novo. But if the death of the minister occur after the election, but before induction, this shall not affect the procedure.

III. Intimations to be made on occurrence of Vacancy.—The minister appointed to declare the vacancy shall be furnished by the presbytery with the declaration, which may be in the form of Schedule A 1. He shall at the same time make the intimations provided for in Schedule A 2. The kirk-session shall appoint the meetings therein specified, and shall furnish him with the intimations of the Schedule complete. The time allowed for giving in certificates as communicants and claims to be enrolled as adherents shall be not less than seven nor more than eleven free days; and the time during which the roll of the congregation, as proposed by the kirk-session, shall be open for inspection shall be not less than three free days. The claim for enrolment as an adherent shall be in the form of Schedule B.

IV. Roll of Congregation.—The roll of the congregation shall include—
1. As communicants, all persons not being under church discipline, whose names are upon the communion roll at the date of the occurrence of the vacancy, as the same shall be adjusted in manner hereinafter provided, or who are, and at that date were, parishioners in communion with the Church of Scotland, and have given in certificates within the time intimated in terms of Schedule A; it being hereby provided that communicants who have received certificates of transference shall be held as removed from the roll; 2. As adherents, only such other persons, being parishioners not under twenty-one years of age, as have claimed to be enrolled as members of the congregation, and have shown to the satisfaction of the kirk-session that they desire to be connected with the congregation, and in regard to whom no reason appears to the kirk-session for refusing to admit them to the communion if they should apply. Declaring that as regards adherents the decision of the kirk-session shall be final.

V. Making up Roll of Congregation.—The kirk-session, at the meeting appointed for the purpose, shall hear any party having an interest, and shall prepare a list of the names and designations of those persons whom it is proposed by the kirk-session to place on the roll as communicants and adherents respectively, and the list shall be open for inspection for such time as shall have been appointed. Thereafter at the meeting appointed for the purpose, any party having an interest shall be heard, and the list shall be revised and adjusted. It shall then be attested by the moderator and clerk, and shall thereafter be held to be the roll of the congregation for the purposes of these Regulations, and a certified copy shall be forthwith transmitted to the clerk of the presbytery. If, after the roll has been attested, any communicant, on his own application, receives a certificate of transference, the session-clerk shall give intimation of such transference to the moderator, and the name of that communicant shall thereafter be removed from the roll of the congregation.

VI. Appointment of Committee by Congregation.—When the roll of the congregation has been made up, the moderator of kirk-session shall summon a meeting of the congregation by intimation from the pulpit, in the form of Schedule C, given not less than seven nor more than fourteen free days before the meeting. At this meeting the congregation shall appoint a committee of their own number for the purpose of nominating one or more persons to the congregation with a view to the election and appointment of a minister. Before proceeding to the appointment of this committee, or of a new committee as hereinafter provided, a resolution shall be passed that the number of members constituting the committee shall not exceed a certain number specified in the resolution. At the close of the meeting the committee shall meet, and shall appoint one of their number to be convener.

VII. Contents of Committee's Report.—The report of the committee shall state the name of one or more persons whom they have resolved to nominate to the congregation with a view to the election and appointment of a minister; and, on the demand of any member of committee, it shall also state the name of any person or persons as having been proposed and seconded for nomination and voted upon in the committee. Any member of the committee may also require that the report shall give the state of the vote in the committee upon any or all of the names mentioned in the report.

VIII. Giving in of Committee's Report.—When the committee has resolved to report, the convener shall communicate with the moderator of the kirk-session, who shall call a meeting of the congregation, to be held not less than seven free days after intimation from the pulpit, in terms of Schedule D. The report of the committee shall be read from the pulpit when the meeting is intimated. If such intimation has not been given within three months after the appointment of the committee then in office, any six persons whose names are on the roll of the congregation may require the moderator to call a meeting of the congregation. On receiving the requisition, he shall give notice to the convener of the committee of the time at which intimation of the meeting is to be given. If the committee should lodge their report with the moderator or clerk of the kirk-session before the day on which the meeting is to be intimated, the intimation shall be in the manner hereinbefore provided; but otherwise it shall be in terms of Schedule E, such meeting to be held not less than three free days after the intimation. The committee may at any time have a meeting of the congregation called by the moderator, to be held not less than three free days after intimation from the pulpit, in order to give information or explanation or to obtain instructions.

IX. Congregational Meeting on Report of Committee, or on their Failure to Report.—At any meeting of the congregation held for the purposes of Regulation VIII.:—1. If no report is submitted as hereinbefore defined in which at least one person is nominated, or if all the persons nominated in the report have withdrawn, or if from any cause an election and appointment as hereinafter provided for are not effected, the matter shall be remitted, with or without special instructions, to the same or to a new committee. 2. In order to making an election and appointment, any elector present may propose that any person mentioned in the report, either as nominated or as having been voted upon in committee for nomination, shall be elected and appointed. (a.) If only one person is thus proposed and seconded, the moderator shall put the question, "Shall the Rev. A. B. [naming him] be now elected and appointed—yes or no?" If the number who vote "Yes" exceed the number who vote "No," a minute to that effect, bearing the signature of the moderator attested by two witnesses, shall be held to be a minute of election and appointment by the congregation to the effect of being laid before the presbytery of the bounds as hereinafter provided, and adjudicated upon by the courts of the Church in ordinary course. (b.) If more persons than one are thus proposed and seconded and not withdrawn, their names shall be simultaneously put to the vote, and the name having fewest votes shall be struck off; and this method shall be followed till, by names being struck off or withdrawn, the name of only one person remains. His name shall then be put to the meeting in the same form, and the same course shall be followed as if he had been the only person proposed and seconded, as hereinbefore provided. In the event of the two names having fewest votes being supported by equal numbers, a vote shall be taken between these to ascertain which shall be struck off. 3. At any meeting, when such an election and appointment has been made, a call previously prepared, in the form of Schedule F, with the name left blank, shall be filled up with the name of the person so elected and appointed. The call shall be left for not less than seven nor more than eleven free days with the session-clerk, or other suitable person named by the meeting, to receive additional signatures of members of the congregation and of parishioners.

X. Adjourned Meetings of Congregation and Failure to Meet.—Any meeting of a congregation may resolve to defer any part, or the whole, of the business of that meeting to an adjourned meeting; and when any meeting, as provided for in these Regulations, remits a matter to the same or a former or a new committee with or without instructions, it may require the committee to give its report, or to give an account, at an adjourned meeting or within a specified time. The time of holding any adjourned meeting, and the intimation to be given of it from the pulpit (if intimation is resolved on), may be fixed by the adjourning meeting, or may be left wholly or partially to be afterwards fixed by the moderator. If the adjournment is for more than twelve days, intimation shall be given of the meeting; in every case in which the time of the meeting is left in any measure to be fixed by the moderator, intimation of it shall be given not less than three free days before the meeting. If any congregational meeting which has been called should not be held, another shall be called in like manner by the moderator; and if a meeting which has been appointed by adjournment without being also called should not be held, another shall be called by the moderator, to be held not less than three free days after intimation from the pulpit. Provided always that no election and appointment of a minister shall take place at any meeting of which at least seven free days' intimation has not been given from the pulpit, accompanied by the reading of the report upon which the appointment is to proceed.

XI. *Transmission of Documents to Presbytery.—The congregational minutes, the report of the committee, and the minute of election and appointment, shall be forthwith transmitted by the moderator of the kirk-session to the moderator or clerk of the presbytery, along with information of the address of the person in whose hands the call has been left for additional signatures, and of the length of time for which it has been so left. At the expiry of that time, the person with whom the call has thus been left shall transmit it to the moderator or clerk of the presbytery.

XII. *In case of Presbytery giving Judgment against a Settlement.—If the presbytery should resolve not to sustain the appointment, or if, having sustained it, they should afterwards from any cause resolve not to proceed with the settlement, or find that it cannot be proceeded with, the moderator of the kirk-session shall as soon as possible call a meeting of the congregation (that is, the congregation on the roll made up on the occurrence of the vacancy as aforesaid), to be held not less than three free days after intimation from the pulpit. This meeting, having heard the deliverance of the presbytery, shall, with or without instructions, either re-appoint any former committee or appoint a new committee, to proceed again as committees are directed to do in these Regulations.

XIII. *Appeals.—No complaint or appeal against any judgment or any step of procedure affecting the appointment or settlement of a minister shall make it incompetent to continue the proceedings; and no complaint or appeal against a judgment of the presbytery refusing to sustain an appointment or to proceed with a settlement shall make it incompetent for the congregation to proceed to the appointment of another person. Provided that, pending any complaint or appeal, the proceedings shall not in any case include the fixing of a day by the presbytery for the admission of a minister.

XIV. *Counsel and Agents.—It shall not be competent for any one to be represented by counsel or agents at any of the meetings of the congregation referred to in these Regulations.

XV. *Proviso as to Instructions.—Nothing hereinbefore contained shall be held as authorizing a congregation to give instructions to any committee to nominate a particular person or persons in their report.

XVI. *Direction for Existing Vacancies.—In cases where proceedings for supplying a vacancy have been commenced before the date of the enactment of these Regulations, the proceedings, after such date, shall be by the Regulations now enacted, so far as the same may be applicable.

SECT. III.—EDUCATIONAL AND LITERARY ESTABLISHMENTS.

THE UNIVERSITIES OF SCOTLAND.

The four Scottish Universities—at St Andrews, Glasgow, Aberdeen, and Edinburgh—were in 1858-62 reorganized by an Executive Commission, and as far as possible assimilated. The Universities (Scotland) Act of that year made "provision for the better government and discipline of the Universities of Scotland, and improving and regulating the course of study therein." Since then the four Universities have possessed a constitution and arrangement nearly uniform. Each is now governed by three internal bodies, called respectively the General Council of the University, the University Court, and the Senatus Academicus. The official Heads of each University are:—the Chancellor (who nominates a Vice-chancellor for conferring degrees in his absence), chosen for life by the General Council; the Rector, chosen every three years by the matriculated students; and the Principal (at St Andrews, Senior Principal) or resident Head of the University, who is President of the Senatus.

The General Council consists of the Chancellor, who is President of the Council; the Rector, who is President of the University Court; the Principal, and the Professors; the Graduates of the University; four Assessors nominated to sit in the University Court respectively by the Chancellor, Rector, General Council, and Senatus. Failing the Chancellor, the Rector presides; whom failing, the Principal; whom failing, the senior Professor present.

The University Court is a court of appeal from the Senatus, and consists of the Rector, Principal, and Assessors. In Edinburgh, two additional members of the Council and Court are, the Lord Provost of the city, and an Assessor nominated by the Town Council; and in Glasgow, one additional member is the "Dean of Faculties"—an extra representative of the Senatus.

The Senatus Academicus, which consists of the Principal and Professors, is entrusted with the control of the teaching and discipline, and, subject to review of the University Court, with the administration of the revenues and property of the University.

Two members of Parliament are returned by the four Universities. One of these represents Edinburgh and St Andrews; the other Glasgow and Aberdeen. The electors are the members of the General Councils. The Vice-Chancellor is empowered to superintend the election. The Vice-Chancellors at Edinburgh and Glasgow are the Returning Officers.

Each University has considerable endowments for its distinguished students and graduates. They are applied in the form of Prizes (Class and University), Bursaries, Scholarships, and Fellowships. Edinburgh possesses a great number of valuable Scholarships and Fellowships; Glasgow also is rich in Exhibitions, Scholarships, and Bursaries; and there is a good Bursary organization in Aberdeen. The Scholarships and Fellowships are for the most part confined to those who have passed the examinations necessary for the degree of Master of Arts.

Open to all the Scottish Universities are—

I. THE FERGUSON SCHOLARSHIPS,

Founded in 1860 by the Trustees of the late John Ferguson, Esq. of Cairnbrock. They are six in number, of the value of £80 each per annum, and tenable for two years. Three are offered for competition every year,—one in Classics, one in Mathematics, and one in Mental Philosophy. The competitions take place in Glasgow in the month of October, and are open to all who have passed the examinations required for the degree of M.A. in one of the Universities of Scotland within the two years immediately preceding the competition. Candidates are enrolled, not later than 1st September in each year, at the office of the Trustees, 94 Bath Street, Glasgow, where all necessary information may be obtained.—Secretary, M. S. Taft.

II. SHAW FELLOWSHIP IN MENTAL PHILOSOPHY,

Founded in 1867 by contributors to a Memorial of Sir James Shaw, Bart. It is of the annual value of £170, tenable for five years, and is in the patronage of the Senatus Academicus of the University of Edinburgh. It is destined for the encouragement of the study of Psychology, Logic, Metaphysics, Moral Philosophy, and the History of Philosophy,—studies for which the Scottish Universities have long been celebrated in Europe. It is awarded after competitive examination on these subjects, open to all who have passed the examinations for the degree of Master of Arts in any of the Scottish Universities not more than five years before the time of competition. The present Shaw Fellow was elected in December 1883.

III. GUNNING THEOLOGICAL SCHOLARSHIPS AND FELLOWSHIP.

Founded by Dr Gunning of Rio de Janeiro. Designed to encourage the study of—(1) The Natural Sciences among students of Theology; (2) and open to students preparing for the Ministry of the Churches of Scotland holding the Confession of Faith without modification.

The Scholarships are three in number, of the annual values of £50, £30, and £20, each tenable for three years; open to students who have completed a three years' course in the Faculty of Arts in any Scottish University, and are on the point of commencing their studies in theology.

The subjects of examination are Natural History, Botany, Geology, and some Department of Natural Theology or Christian Apologetics having special reference to the connexion between religion and science. The Scholarships were awarded for the first time in May 1880. The Fellowship, of the annual value of £100, open to students or licentiates of the Church of Scotland, or of some other Scottish Church holding the Confession of Faith without modification, was awarded for the first time in May 1883. Examination will be in Natural History, Botany, Geology, and the subjects of Theological study. The examination for Scholarships and Fellowships to be held in Edinburgh.

The Degrees conferred by each of the Universities are the following:—Master of Arts (M.A.); Bachelor of Medicine (M.B.), Master in Surgery (C.M.), Doctor of Medicine (M.D.); Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.), Bachelor of Law (B.L.);* Bachelor of Divinity (B.D.); and the two honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws (LL.D.) and Doctor of Divinity (D.D.);—together with some which are confined to Edinburgh, viz., Bachelor and Doctor in Natural and Physical Science; in the Department of Public Health; and in Engineering (B.Sc. and D.Sc.); Doctor in Mental Science (D.Sc.); Doctor in Philological Science (D.Sc.) The Degree of B.Sc. in the three departments of Biological, Geological, and Engineering Science, is also conferred by Glasgow.

A Certificate conferring the title of Literate in Arts is granted by Glasgow and Edinburgh. A Certificate of Proficiency in Engineering Science is conferred by Glasgow.

The Professorships are distributed (except at St Andrews, where Law is not taught) under four Faculties—Arts, i.e., Literature, Science, and Philosophy; Theology; Law; Medicine.

The Professorships in the Faculty of Arts are concerned with the leading branches of liberal education required for general culture; the Curriculum in Arts is also the preparatory discipline for the three professional Faculties. The province of the Faculties of Theology, Law, and Medicine is special, namely, to train in professional studies.

The Faculty of Arts is, accordingly, the basis of University education. It embraces three departments:—viz., (1) Classical Languages and Literature; (2) Philosophy, including Psychology, Logic, and Metaphysics; Moral Philosophy; Rhetoric, with which English Literature is associated. (3) Mathematics; the various branches of Experimental Physics comprehended in Natural Philosophy. A degree in Arts is a pass to any of the other three Faculties. The possession of it exempts from preliminary examination on general subjects any one desirous of entering the Church or the Medical or Legal professions, and the principal departments of the Public Service.

To obtain the degree of Master of Arts a University course of Four Winter Sessions is necessary; or (if an entrance examination in Latin and Greek is passed) a Course of Three Winter Sessions. Attendance on the classes of Humanity (Latin), Greek, Logic and Psychology, Moral Philosophy, Rhetoric and English Literature, Mathematics, and Natural Philosophy, is required of all candidates for this Degree. The examinations to be gone through for the M.A. degree are in the three Departments, viz., Classics; Mental Philosophy; and Mathematics and Experimental Physics. These three examinations may be passed at the conclusion of the curriculum; or any one (or two) of them at an earlier period—provided that the classes corresponding to the subjects of examination have been previously attended. When a student has passed all the necessary examinations, he may either at once proceed to take his degree, or, with a view to presenting himself in the Honours examinations, he may pursue his studies further for a year before graduating. The names of those who graduate with Honours are published in alphabetical order, in Classes of the First and Second rank. Honours may be taken in each of the three Departments—Classics; Mental Philosophy; Mathematics and Experimental Physics; also in Natural Science.

The degree of B.D. is given to candidates who have completed their Theological Curriculum with a view to the ministry in the communion to which they belong. The degree has this peculiarity, that candidates are not required to attend any classes in the Faculty of Divinity; but those who are not Masters of Arts of the University in which they apply for B.D. must have attended two classes in one or more of the Faculties of the University. The subjects of examination are Apologetics, Hebrew, Church History, Divinity, and Biblical Criticism.

In the University of St Andrews the title of LL.A. is conferred upon women who pass in any four of the following subjects, or who pass in any two and take Honours in a third, one of the three being a Language—viz., Latin, Greek, Mathematics, Logic and Metaphysics, Moral Philosophy, English Literature, Natural Philosophy, Education, Political Economy, French, German, Italian, Comparative Philology, History, Chemistry, Mineralogy, Physiology, Botany, Zoology, Geology, Theology, Biblical Criticism, Church History, and Hebrew. The standard of attainment is the same as that required for the M.A. degree, the books prescribed, the questions set, and the hours of examination being identical. In the event of the several subjects necessary for the M.A. degree being passed successfully the University indicates the fact in the certificate granted.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ST ANDREWS,

The most ancient of the Scottish Universities, was founded in 1411 by Wardlaw, Bishop of the diocese. Two years later, on petition of James I., the Bishop, and others, the foundation, with benefactions annexed to it, was sanctioned, and privileges and immunities were secured to it, by Papal bull of Benedict XIII. From the first there existed the Faculties of Arts, Theology, and Canon Law. In 1430, a pedagogium was erected for the Faculty of Arts. The University has undergone numerous changes of constitution. In the sixteenth century it came to comprise three distinct corporate colleges:—1. St Salvator's College, founded in 1455; 2. St Leonard's College, founded in 1552; 3. The College of St Mary, founded in 1537.

In 1747, the colleges of St Salvator and St Leonard were united by Act of Parliament, and called the United College of St Salvator and St Leonard. The University now "consists," to quote the Calendar, "of three distinct corporations, viz.:—The United College of St Salvator and St Leonard, with its Principal and nine Professors; St Mary's College, with its Principal, who is also Primarius Professor, and three Professors; and the University, comprising the members of both colleges, and of which the senior Principal (senior according to priority in office) is also president."

The session in the United College opens in the first week of November, and closes towards the end of April. In St Mary's College, it commences about ten days later, and closes in the end of March.

The General Council meets twice a year, on the last Thursday of March and the last Friday of November. The election of Rector takes place every third year.

The aggregate annual value of the prizes, bursaries, and fellowships at St Andrews is about £2500.

In 1883 the number of students who matriculated was 194; the number who graduated was 31—viz.: in Arts, M.A., 19; in Medicine, 11; in Divinity, B.D., 1; in Science, 0. Members of the General Council, 1583. The number of those who voted for the M.P. returned in April 1880 was 1351.

THE UNIVERSITY OF GLASGOW

Was founded by bull of Pope Nicholas V., obtained by King James II. at the instigation of Bishop Turnbull in 1450. From the beginning it taught Canon and Civil Law, Theology and the Arts, and was empowered to confer degrees in all Faculties. In its earlier days, its educational labours are said to have been carried on near the cathedral, in a building afterwards known as the "Old Pedagogy," now swept away by the operations of the City Improvement Trust; while the General Congregations of the University and of the Faculties met in the chapter-house of the cathedral. In 1459, James, first Lord Hamilton, granted to the Faculty of Arts, which thenceforward grew in importance, the site occupied by the buildings abandoned in 1870.

In 1577, King James VI. granted increased funds in a charter called the Nova Erectio.

By this charter provision was made for the support of a Principal, who was to teach Theology, and three Regents in Philosophy. From this small beginning the University continued to make progress till the era of the Restoration, at which time it had, besides the Principal, eight Professors and Regents in Theology, Medicine, and Arts. The restoration of the Episcopal Church deprived it of a considerable portion of its revenues, and in consequence several of the Professorships fell into abeyance, but after the Revolution it began again to prosper. In the first twenty years of last century, five new Professorships were founded, and another in 1760. The remaining fourteen Professorships have been founded during the present century.

Among the eminent men who have adorned this University during the last and present centuries, may be mentioned the names of Hutcheson, Adam Smith and Reid, Black and Cullen, Robert Simson, John Millar, Moor, and Sandford.

The University occupied the site which it quitted a few years ago for upwards of four hundred years, and its late buildings for upwards of two hundred years. In 1864 these buildings and adjacent lands were sold, and extensive and handsome new buildings, designed by Sir G. Gilbert Scott of London, have been erected on an admirable site in the west end of Glasgow. The new buildings, of which the foundation-stone was laid by the Prince and Princess of Wales in October 1868, and which were formally opened for the purposes of the University on the 7th November 1870, are estimated to cost, when completed, upwards of £470,000; and in aid of their erection subscriptions have already been received, chiefly in Glasgow and the neighbourhood, to the amount of above £165,000.

The winter session commences on the first Tuesday of November, and ends on May 1st. The Medical classes open a week earlier, and close in the beginning of April. There is also a Medical summer session from the beginning of May till the end of July.

The Exhibitions, Scholarships, Bursaries, and Prizes, founded in this University, amount in annual value to about £8000. The most valuable of these are the George A. Clark Scholarships, four in number, each about £200 in annual value, the Black Theological Fellowship (£140), the Luke Fellowship (£120), the Metcalfe Fellowship (£100), two Eglinton Fellowships (each £100), and the Snell Exhibitions, ten in number, and each £110 in annual value, the object of which is to assist Scottish students in prosecuting their studies in Oxford University. These exhibitions have been held by not a few who afterwards became distinguished, among whom may be mentioned Adam Smith, Sir William Hamilton, Archbishop Tait, and the present Lord President of the Court of Session. The Bursaries in connexion with the Faculty of Arts are 159 in number, and are of the aggregate annual value of £3553; there are 36 in the Faculty of Theology, worth annually about £840, 2 in the Faculty of Law, worth annually £43, and 14 in Medicine, with an annual value of £347. Besides these there are 48 bursaries, worth annually above £1205, which are not restricted to any one of the Faculties. Competitive examinations for the Bursaries in Arts, Theology, and Medicine are held in the University at the beginning of each winter session.

University Certificates, conferring on those who obtain them the title of Literate in Arts (L.A.) are open to those who, in the course of two sessions, have given attendance at not less than five of the classes included in the curriculum of study for the degree of Master of Arts, and who may undergo satisfactory examinations at the standard of those necessary for that degree.

Local Examinations are held by the University annually in May, at Glasgow and at various centres throughout the country.

For students desirous of entering the Army, the University holds an Examination which the War Office accepts as equivalent to the examination at the English and Irish Universities for similar candidates. It consists of three out of the seven examinations required for the degree of Master of Arts.

The University Library contains an extensive and valuable collection of books, which is always increasing by donations and by a grant of £707 per annum from the Treasury as compensation for the loss of the Stationers' Hall privilege.

The Hunterian Museum was founded by the eminent William Hunter, M.D., who, by his will dated 1783, bequeathed to the University his valuable collection of books, manuscripts, coins, paintings, anatomical preparations, zoological and mineral specimens, and archæological relics.

The number of matriculated students in the session 1882-83 was:—In the Faculty of Arts, 1307; Divinity, 98; Medicine (summer, 107), 624; Law, 197; in Arts and Medicine, 20; in Arts and Law, 16; in Arts and Theology, 10; in Medicine and Theology, 3: total, 2275.

Matriculated Students, in voting for the Rector, are divided into four nations:—

Natio Glottiana (those born in Lanarkshire); Natio Transforthana (those born in the counties lying north of the Forth); Natio Rothseiana (those born in the counties of Renfrew, Bute, or Ayr); Natio Loudoniana (those not already included).

This election takes place every three years on the 15th (or 16th, if the 15th be a Sunday) of November.

The number of Degrees conferred in session 1882-83, after examination, was 301—viz., in Arts (M.A.), 92; Science (B.Sc.), 8; Law, 18 (LL.B. 5, B.L. 13); Medicine and Surgery, 170 (M.D. 10, M.B. 79, C.M. 81); Theology (B.D.), 13. Twenty-three Honorary Degrees were conferred, viz., D.D., 5, LL.D., 18.

The General Council meets twice a year, on the Wednesday immediately preceding the opening, and on the Wednesday immediately preceding the closing, of the winter session.

Members of the General Council on the Register for 1883, 3717; the number who voted for the M.P. at the election in April 1880 was 2579.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ABERDEEN

Was, until 1860, two Universities and Colleges. The one, the University and King's College of Aberdeen, was founded in 1494 by Elphinstone, Bishop of the diocese, and sanctioned by a Papal bull obtained by James IV.; the other, Marischal College and University of Aberdeen, was founded in 1593, under a charter ratified by Parliament, by George Keith, Earl Marischal.

The Universities (Scotland) Act, 1858, includes (as mentioned in the preamble) "The union of the two Universities and Colleges of Aberdeen;" which union the Commissioners appointed by Parliament dated from Sept. 15, 1860. Among the other Scottish Universities, that of Aberdeen now ranks from the foundation of 1494. It consists now of but one University, having its classes for Arts and Divinity in what was King's College, and its classes of Law and Medicine in what was Marischal College. Both Colleges had classes in all four Faculties.

In the election of Lord Rector, the matriculated students are divided, according to their birthplace, into four "nations"—Mar, Buchan, Moray, and Angus; and each nation chooses a procurator to vote for the Rector; and, in case of a tie, the Chancellor (failing him, the Principal) has a casting vote.

In Arts, the session commences on the second last Monday of October, and closes on the first Friday of April. In Divinity, the session commences on the Monday following the opening of the Arts classes, and closes on the same day as that on which lectures in Arts close. In Law, the session extends from the first Monday of November to the end of March. In Medicine, the winter session commences not later than 24th October, and extends over six months; and the summer session commences, as nearly as possible, on the 1st of May, and extends over three months. The General Council meets twice a year—on the Wednesday after the second Tuesday of April, and on the Wednesday after the second Tuesday of October. The number of Matriculated Students in the winter session of 1882-83 was 821; in the summer session of 1883, 277, of whom 47 were new Students. The Graduates in 1883 were as follows:—M.A., 63; M.D., 20; M.B., 62; C.M., 62; D.D., 0; LL.D., 9; B.D., 2.

The registered members of the General Council for the year 1883 numbered 2721. The number who voted at the election in April 1880 was 2080.

THE UNIVERSITY OF EDINBURGH.

This, though the youngest of the Scottish Universities, annually enrolls the largest number of students. It was founded by James VI. in 1582, and entitled Academia Jacobi VI., or "King James's College," but it originated in a bequest made in 1558, by Reid, Bishop of Orkney, to the Town-Council of Edinburgh, for the erection of a College. The money was at first retained by the Abbot of Kinloss. After a delay of five years, the Council, on the faith of ultimately obtaining the bequest, purchased part of the present site of the University. Queen Mary lent her assistance, granting a charter of presentation to some confiscated church property, but the College buildings were not commenced until 1581. In April 1582, King James incorporated the University by Royal Charter, increasing the grants of Queen Mary.

The title of Edinburgh University to the various rights, privileges, and immunities possessed by the other Universities of the kingdom rests on an Act of the Scottish Parliament passed in 1621, and on subsequent ratifications made in the Treaty of Union and in the Act of Security.

The work of teaching began in 1583, under Robert Rollock, who was at first called Regent. Other Regents or Professors in Greek, Logic and Metaphysics, Ethics, and Physics, were appointed in the following year, when Rollock became Principal.

The University of Edinburgh has long been famous. It has had Archbishop Leighton, Carstairs, and Robertson, the historian, among its Principals. In the Faculty of Divinity it has numbered among its Professors, Samuel Rutherford, Chalmers, John Lee, Robert Lee, T. J. Crawford. Its Medical fame, which rose under Dr Alexander Monro after 1720, is second to that of no university in Europe. As a School of Mental Philosophy it can boast, as students and professors, of the names of David Hume, Ferguson, Stewart, Brown, Sir James Mackintosh, and Sir William Hamilton. Dalziel, Playfair, Leslie, and Forbes were eminent in other departments of the Faculty of Arts.

The Legal Curriculum, comprising Roman Law, Scotch Law, Conveyancing, Medical Jurisprudence, Constitutional Law and History, International Law and the Philosophy of Law, is more complete than that of any other University in the United Kingdom. The degree of LL.B. qualifies for the profession of Advocate; and either this degree or that of B.L. exempts from the Law Agent's Examination, with the exception of the examination in procedure.

Until 1858, the Town-Council had a large share of the patronage of the University. The appointments to such chairs as the Town-Council were patrons of are now in the hands of seven Curators—four elected by the Town-Council and three by the University Court.

The University Library contains above 160,000 volumes and many valuable MSS. There is also a Theological Library containing many valuable books on philosophy and divinity. The new Museum of Science and Art is connected with the University.

The aggregate annual value of the Fellowships and Scholarships (all founded since 1858), including the eighteen newly-founded Vans Dunlop Scholarships, each of the annual value of £100 and tenable for three years, is above £6000. Ten of these are given for eminence in Classics; ten in Mental Philosophy; fifteen in Mathematics and the Physical Experimental Sciences; and eleven in Divinity, Law, and Medicine. There are above a hundred Bursaries in connexion with the Faculty of Arts, of the aggregate annual value of more than £2000. For those of them that are open by the deeds of foundation to unrestricted competition, there is an annual Bursary Competition at the beginning of each winter session. There are also thirty-one in the Faculty of Divinity, worth annually about £740, and several in Law. In Medicine there are six Scholarships, of the value each of £100 yearly, and several of lesser value; also some Bursaries.

University Certificates, conferring on those who obtain them the title of Literate in Arts (L.A.), are open to those who have been students in the Faculty of Arts for at least two sessions, and who during that time have given attendance in not less than five classes in that Faculty, of which at least four must have been on four of the subjects necessary for the degree of Master of Arts, and who have undergone satisfactory examinations in the five subjects at the standard necessary for that degree.

The University of Edinburgh is one of the institutions selected by the Secretary of State for India in which candidates for the Civil Service of India may pass their probation.

"University Certificates in Arts for Women" are given, after examination, to candidates who have studied in the classes of the "Edinburgh Association for the University Education of Women."

Local Examinations of schools, corresponding to those of Oxford and Cambridge, are held by the University annually, in June.

The University, by an arrangement with the War Office, holds special examinations which qualify for admission to the Army.

The University Buildings consist partly of a large, modern, quadrangular structure, covering the site of the "Kirk o' Field," the scene of the murder of Darnley. Its architect was Mr Adam, who also designed the Register House. The foundation-stone was laid in 1789, on the site of the old buildings; but, from want of funds, it remained only half completed till after 1815. The magnificent dome, designed to rise above the grand entrance, has never been erected. The interior of the quadrangle is handsome, in the Grecian style. The accommodation therein provided proved inadequate to the rapid growth of the University, under the Universities Act (1858). Extensive additional buildings have recently been constructed, to meet, more particularly, the increasing requirements of the Faculty of Medicine. In these the Faculty of Medicine is provided with laboratories and class-rooms unequalled, probably, in Great Britain for their extent and equipment. The Music Class-room in Park Place, the finest University building of the kind, was erected in 1860. The Organ therein is of European celebrity, and the Museum contains a unique collection of musical instruments.

There are two sessions—the winter session, opening in the end of October, and closing in April; the summer session, opening in the beginning of May, and closing in the end of July. In the winter session, the classes in all the four Faculties are assembled; in summer, only those of Law and Medicine, with tutorial classes in Arts.

The number of matriculated students for 1882-83 was 3351, viz., in the Faculty of Arts, 1020; in the Faculty of Divinity, 105; in the Faculty of Law, 485; in the Faculty of Medicine, 1741. The attendance during the current Session, 1883-84, is already considerably higher than last year, and higher than it has been in the whole past history of the University.

The Public Ceremonial of Graduation in Arts, Divinity, Law, and Science is in April; in Medicine in August. The number of Degrees conferred in 1883, after examination, was 528—viz., in Arts (M.A.), 80; Science, 22 (D.Sc. 4, B.Sc. 18); Divinity, 9 (B.D.); Law, 8 (LL.B.); Medicine and Surgery, 409—viz., 31 M.D., 189 M.B., and 189 C.M.

The Degrees of Doctor of Divinity and of Doctor of Laws are conferred honoris causa tantum.

The General Council meets twice a year—on the first Tuesday after the 14th of April, and on the last Friday of October. The membership of the Council is about 5000; Members enrolled on or before 30th November annually are placed on the registers of the following and subsequent years. The number of those who voted at the election of the M.P. in March 1880 was 3619.

Full particulars regarding matriculation, the curriculum of study, and graduation, in each of the Faculties, etc., are contained in the "Edinburgh University Calendar," published annually in May.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, DUNDEE.

This College has been founded and established in Dundee for promoting the education of persons of both sexes, and the study of science, literature, and the fine arts.

It is constituted under a deed of endowment and trust granted by Miss Baxter of Balgavies, in the county of Forfar, and the lately deceased John Boyd Baxter, LL.D., of Craigtay, Dundee, dated 30th and 31st December 1881, which provides for its management by the following authorities:—

(1) A supreme governing body, called the governors, who have power to appoint from amongst themselves a president for the College; (2) a managing body, called the council; and (3) the education board, consisting of the principal and professors of the College, who organize and direct the education of the College, in accordance with the scheme for the time being in force. Special facilities are given for the study of Electrical Engineering. The authorities of the College have power to affiliate or unite the College with any university, college, society, or institution having similar objects to its own.

Teaching began in the college with the winter session of 1883. The academical year is divided into two sessions, a winter session from the beginning of October to the middle of March, and a summer session extending from the beginning of April to the end of June. There are five chairs:—(1) Mathematics and Natural Philosophy, (2) Chemistry, (3) Engineering and Drawing, (4) Classics and Ancient History, and (5) English Language and Literature, and Modern History. The college has opened with upwards of 300 students.

An important part of the scheme is the conducting of evening classes, intended for those who, while unable to enter on a systematic course of training during the day, can yet afford time for the prosecution of such studies as they may undertake.

SECTION X.

CHIEF MAGISTRATES AND TOWN-CLERKS OF THE CITIES, BURGHS, AND TOWNS RETURNING MEMBERS TO PARLIAMENT,

WITH STATISTICAL NOTICES.

[In the following list are given statistics of 81 towns—namely, 64 Royal Burghs sending representatives to Parliament; 2 Royal Burghs which do not send representatives to Parliament; and 15 Towns which are not Royal Burghs, but send representatives to Parliament, under the provisions of the Reform Acts 1 & 2 Wm. IV. c. 65, and 31 & 32 Vict. c. 48. These 15 Parliamentary Burghs (distinguished in the following pages by *) are, Airdrie, Cromarty, Falkirk, Galashiels, Greenock, Hamilton, Hawick, Kilmarnock, Leith, Musselburgh, Oban, Paisley, Peterhead, Port-Glasgow, and Portobello. At the Union of England and Scotland, there were 70 Royal Burghs in Scotland, but four of them in the county of Fife—Auchtermuchty, Earlsferry, Falkland, and Newburgh—which had not for some time sent members to the Scottish Parliament, were not included in the classes of burghs then formed to send representatives to the British Parliament. Their constituencies, in terms of the Act 1832, now vote in the election of a representative in Parliament for the county of Fife. Besides these four, there are other two Royal Burghs (distinguished in the following pages by †) which had (as burghs) a parliamentary representation from the Union till 1832, viz., Peebles and Rothesay. Their constituencies now vote in the election of representatives for the counties within which they are situated. The population and inhabited houses are given according to the census of 1881; the parliamentary and municipal constituencies are for the year 1883-84; and the value of real property is that within the parliamentary boundaries, as ascertained under the Valuation of Lands and Heritages Act (17 and 18 Vict. c. 91.)]

SECTION III.

EDUCATIONAL ESTABLISHMENTS.

HIGH SCHOOL OF EDINBURGH, REGENT ROAD.

The date of the foundation of the High School is unknown, but it appears to have existed as early as the beginning of the twelfth century. From that time to the Reformation, "the Grammar School of Edinburgh," as it was then called, was under the control of the Canons of Holyrood. In 1598 it was remodelled on a more comprehensive plan, and from the patronage vouchsafed to it by James VI., it received the name of Schola Regia Edimburgensis. The course of study has since, from time to time, been extended and improved, so as to meet the advancing demands of the age. Although at first exclusively a classical seminary, it now furnishes systematic instruction in all the departments of a Commercial as well as of a Liberal Education. The English Language and Literature, including Reading, Orthography, Recitation, Grammar, and Composition, together with the History of Great Britain, form prominent parts of the system; while the entire curriculum of study—which occupies six years—embraces the Latin, Greek, French, and German languages, History, Geography, and Physiology, with Writing, Arithmetic, Algebra and Geometry, Drawing, Fencing, Gymnastics and Military Drill. There is a Library containing nearly 7000 volumes selected by the Rector and Masters, to which all the pupils have access.

The High School originally stood in the Old Town, near the site of the old Infirmary. It was rebuilt on nearly the same spot in 1777. As this situation had become unsuitable, from the great extension of the city northwards, and as the accommodation had proved inadequate to the rapidly increasing number of pupils, the present splendid structure was founded in 1825, on the south slope of the Calton Hill, which was deemed more convenient for the inhabitants of the city. The edifice, which cost £30,000, and was designed by the late Thomas Hamilton, architect, was completed in 1829.

The main building, 270 feet in length, has a magnificent hexastyle Doric portico in the centre, which is united to the wings by two corridors, the entablatures of which are supported by twelve columns, also of the Doric order. There is ample accommodation for conducting the various branches of study. The playground, a portion of which is roofed over, is spacious, extending to nearly two acres, and commands a picturesque view of the ancient city and surrounding country.

EDINBURGH ACADEMY, HENDERSON ROW.

The Edinburgh Academy, which was established in 1824, and incorporated by royal charter from George IV., is under the superintendence of a Board of fifteen Directors, three of whom are elected annually from the body of shareholders. The education is conducted by a Rector, who exercises constant supervision over all the classes, besides instructing those under his immediate care; four Classical and English Masters; a Master of French and German; two Mathematical Masters; and Masters of Writing, Fencing, and Drawing. Each class is taught in the classical department by the same master exclusively for the first four years. At the commencement of the fifth it comes under the tuition of the Rector, assisted by the same master, and continues under them during the sixth and seventh years. In the three junior classes all the boys in each class are instructed together in the various branches. But for the fourth and subsequent years of the course, the School is separated into two Divisions: one of these—"The Classical School"—is adapted for boys destined for the learned professions, or who desire a thorough classical training; the other—"The Modern School"—is intended for boys who are to enter upon the civil or military service, or upon mercantile pursuits. The complete course extends to seven years, and combines a thorough classical education with systematic instruction in English, French, and German, Writing, Ancient and Modern History, Geography, and the various branches of Mathematics. There are certain additional classes which are recognised as voluntary. The Academy is situated to the N.E. of the Royal Circus. It is a handsome building, after a design by Mr Burn, and cost upwards of £16,000.

FETTES COLLEGE, COMELY BANK.

Sir William Fettes, Bart., of Comely Bank, who was born in 1750, and died in 1836, left the residue of his estate for an endowment for the education, maintenance, and outfit of young persons whose parents have died without leaving sufficient funds for that purpose, or who, from innocent misfortune during their own lives, are unable to give suitable education to their children. For the purposes of the endowment, a building called "The Fettes College" has been erected on the grounds of Comely Bank, part of the trust property, according to plans by the late David Bryce, Esq., R.S.A., architect, and was opened in October 1870. The number of boys to be admitted on the foundation, and maintained and educated in the College at the expense of the endowment, is not at any one time to exceed fifty; but such a number of boys as the Trustees may from time to time determine will be received as day scholars, or boarders, from whom such fees will be exacted as shall be fixed by the Trustees. For the accommodation of non-foundations, and in connexion with the College, there are three Boarding-Houses, one capable of receiving fifty-two boys, and the other two each capable of receiving thirty boys. The largest is under the superintendence of Mr Cotterill, and the other two under that of Mr Heard and Mr Forster. The system adopted is that of the English Public Schools, and the education given is in the full sense of the word liberal, and includes English, Latin, Greek, Modern Languages, Mathematics, scientific and artistic instruction. There is a Classical and Modern side.

GEORGE HERIOT'S HOSPITAL, LAURISTON.

George Heriot was born at Edinburgh about the year 1563. He followed his father's trade of a goldsmith, and in 1597 was appointed goldsmith to Anne of Denmark, the queen of James VI. Shortly afterwards he was nominated jeweller and goldsmith to the king; and when the court was removed to London, in 1603, Heriot followed in its train. He died there February 12, 1624, having, by a will dated in the previous year, bequeathed the residue of his property, amounting to £23,625, to the erection of an hospital, "for the mainetenance, releife, bringing upp, and education of poore fatherlesse boyes, freemen'ssonnes of the towne of Edinburgh."

The foundation stone was laid July 1, 1628, but owing to the civil war and other causes, the building was not opened till April 11, 1659. The expense of the erection exceeded £30,000 sterling.

The management is vested in the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the city, and in the Established Clergy of Edinburgh,—in all fifty-four in number.

Two hundred and sixteen boys are maintained in the Hospital—one hundred and twenty resident, and ninety-six non-resident. The age of admission is between seven and ten; in exceptional cases, non-residents may be admitted between ten and twelve. The boys leave at fourteen, unless they pass examination as "hopeful scholars." They are taught English, French, Latin, and Greek, writing, arithmetic, book-keeping, geography, mathematics, drawing, shorthand, vocal music, and dancing. Those who manifest talents and a desire for the learned professions are sent to the University of Edinburgh, with an allowance for four sessions of £30 a year; and there are a number of apprentices who receive bursary allowances to forward them in their calling. Ten out-door bursaries of £20 a year are likewise bestowed on deserving students in the College. On leaving the Hospital, the boys are provided with clothes and suitable books; such of them as become apprentices for five years or upwards receive £50, divided into equal annual payments during the term of their apprenticeship, besides a sum of £5 at the end of their apprenticeship as a reward for good behaviour. Those who are apprenticed for a shorter term than five years, receive a correspondingly less allowance than £50. One of the teachers resides in the House, all the others are non-resident. The House Governor also resides in the House.

The revenue of the Hospital in 1882 amounted to £25,426, 4s. 11½d.

THE HERIOT FOUNDATION SCHOOLS.

By Act of Parliament (6th and 7th William IV. cap. 25), the Governors of the Hospital were empowered to erect, from the surplus revenues, elementary schools within the city, for educating, free of all expense, 1st, The children, in poor circumstances, of deceased burgesses and freemen; 2nd, The children of burgesses and freemen who are unable to provide for their support; and, 3rd, The children of poor citizens and inhabitants of Edinburgh residing within the boundaries of the city. They were also empowered "to allow to any of the boys, in the course of their education at such schools, being sons of burgesses and freemen, such uniform fixed sum of money in lieu and place of maintenance, and such uniform fixed sum for apprentice fee, after their education at the said schools is completed, as shall be determined." There are now sixteen Heriot Schools, namely, eleven juvenile and five infant schools, attended by about 5000 boys and girls. There are also seven schools open for gratuitous evening instruction in Reading, Writing, Book-keeping, Arithmetic, Mathematics, English Grammar and Composition, French, German, Drawing, and Shorthand. These classes are attended by about 1000 young men and young women.

THE EDINBURGH MERCHANT COMPANY SCHOOLS.

1. THE EDINBURGH EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION

(LADIES' COLLEGE), 70, 72, and 73 QUEEN STREET.

This Institution was founded in 1695 by the Company of Merchants, and Mary Erskine, widow of James Hair, druggist in Edinburgh, as an hospital for girls, and was known as the Merchant Maiden Hospital. The Governors were incorporated by an Act of Parliament in 1707. The original edifice was situated in Bristo Street; but having become insufficient for its purpose, the foundation stone of another building was laid in Lauriston in 1816; and the erection, which was designed by Mr Burn, was completed in 1818, at the cost of £12,250. Up to 1870 this building continued to be used as an hospital for the board and education of the foundationers, but in that year it was converted, under a provisional order, into a day-school, and opened as such in September 1870. It having been sold to the governors of George Watson's Hospital, the governors of this institution purchased extensive buildings in Queen Street for the purposes of the institution, and they were opened in October 1871. The institution provides a high-class education, the course of study embracing English, French, German, Latin, lectures on literature and science, writing, arithmetic, book-keeping, algebra, mathematics, drawing, vocal music, pianoforte, drill, calisthenics, dancing, needlework, and cookery. The governors had the right of presenting thirty-four foundationers to the hospital, but the provisional order directs that this number be reduced to twenty, and that at least one-fourth of these—as well as of presentations belonging to private parties—shall be elected by competitive examination from girls attending this and the other Merchant Company Schools. Girls attending the institution may obtain, by competition, the following benefits, viz., 1. A presentation to the foundation, tenable for six years; 2. And a bursary on leaving the institution of £25 a year, and tenable for four years, equal to £100. Besides the above benefits, a large number of school bursaries is awarded at the end of each session, equal in value to the cost of the successful competitor's class-fees for the following year.

The foundationers are, under the supervision of the governors, boarded in families in Edinburgh. When admitted to the foundation, the girls must be of the age of nine and under that of sixteen years. A number of the presentations was formerly limited to the daughters or grand-daughters of such as were of the order or calling of merchant burgesses of Edinburgh, or ministers thereof, or suburbs of the same, or had been benefactors to the hospital or governors of the same; but the provisional order removes this limitation, and declares that the patrons shall be at full liberty to present such girls as they consider most suitable. On leaving, the foundationers by favour receive £9, 6s. 8d. each.

2. GEORGE WATSON'S COLLEGE-SCHOOLS.

(1.) COLLEGE FOR BOYS.—LAURISTON.

George Watson, born at Edinburgh about 1650, served an apprenticeship to a merchant in the city, and, after a short residence in Holland, entered into the service of Sir James Dick, a wealthy trader in Edinburgh. This employment he relinquished in 1695, on being appointed accountant to the Bank of Scotland. He died in April 1723, and by his will bequeathed £12,000 to endow an hospital for the maintenance and instruction of the male children and grandchildren of decayed merchants in Edinburgh; and by the statutes of his trustees a preference was given to the sons and grandsons of members of the Edinburgh Merchant Company. An hospital for the board and education of the foundationers was founded in the year 1738, and opened in June 1741, and it continued to be used for this purpose until 1870, when the governors of the four hospitals connected with the Merchant Company, taking advantage of the powers given by the Endowed Institutions (Scotland) Act, applied for and obtained provisional orders empowering them to convert the hospitals into day-schools, and they were opened as such in September 1870. This building was, however, sold to the corporation of the Royal Infirmary in 1871, and the building formerly called the Merchant Maiden Hospital was acquired for and is now being occupied as George Watson's College for Boys. Another house adjoining has since been purchased for the extension of the Schools. The design of the schools is to provide boys with a liberal education, qualifying them for commercial or professional life, the civil service, the universities, etc. The course of study includes English, Latin, Greek, French, German, writing, arithmetic, book-keeping, shorthand writing, algebra, mathematics, drawing, vocal music, natural and physical science, chemistry, drill, gymnastics, and fencing. The provisional order directs that the number of foundationers shall be reduced to sixty, and that at least one-fourth of these shall be elected by competitive examination from boys attending this and the other Merchant Company Schools. Boys attending the College may obtain, by competition, the following benefits—viz., 1. A presentation to one of the foundations of this College, tenable for six years; 2. A bursary on leaving the schools of £25 a year, and tenable for four years, equal to £100; and 3. A scholarship, after attending two sessions at Edinburgh University, of £100 per annum, tenable for two years. Besides the above benefits, a large number of school bursaries is awarded at the end of each session, equal in value to the cost of the successful competitor's class-fees for the following year.

The foundationers are, under the supervision of the governors, boarded in families in Edinburgh. When admitted as foundationers, they must be of the age of nine and under that of fourteen years. On leaving, each foundationer by favour is allowed £7 for clothes; he may receive for five years of an apprenticeship £10 annually; and on attaining the age of twenty-five, a further sum of £50 to enable him to commence business in Edinburgh.

(2.) COLLEGE FOR LADIES.—GEORGE SQUARE.

The governors have also, in virtue of power given them in the provisional order, established a school for girls called George Watson's College for Ladies. The school buildings were in 1876 largely added to and improved by the Governors, so as to make them more commodious, and in every respect suitable as a Young Ladies' Institution. The course of study is the same as that of the Edinburgh Educational Institution Ladies' College (see before), and girls attending the school may obtain by competition the same benefits as those attending that institution.

3. DANIEL STEWART'S COLLEGE (FOR BOYS), DEAN.

Daniel Stewart of the Exchequer, who died in 1814, left the residue of his property, amounting (after the erection and endowment of a free school in his native parish of Logierait) to upwards of £13,000, to accumulate for the purpose of building and endowing an hospital for the maintenance and education of boys, the children of honest and industrious parents, whose circumstances in life do not enable them suitably to support and educate their children at other schools. Taking advantage of the powers given by a provisional order obtained in 1870, the hospital was opened as a day-school in September of that year. This institution provides boys with a superior education, and the course of study is similar to that in George Watson's College for Boys. Instruction is also given in Technical Education. The provisional order directs that the number of foundationers shall be reduced to forty, and that at least one half of them shall be elected from the day scholars of this institution, George Watson's College, and James Gillespie's Schools. Boys attending the institution have valuable benefits open for their competition.

The boys, on admission to the foundation, must be of the age of nine and under that of fourteen years.

4. JAMES GILLESPIE'S SCHOOLS (FOR BOYS AND GIRLS), BRUNTSFIELD LINKS.

This institution was founded by James Gillespie of Spylaw, merchant and tobaccoist in Edinburgh, who, by his will dated in the year 1796, destined the greater part of his property to the endowment of a charitable school, and of an hospital for the aliment and maintenance of old men and women. The edifice, which was designed by Mr Burn, was founded in 1801, and opened in 1802. The free school was founded in 1801, and opened in 1803. Up to 1870 the hospital continued to be occupied by old persons, of whom about 40 were maintained in it. In that year the governors obtained a provisional order empowering them to convert the hospital into day-schools, and it was opened as such in September 1870. These schools are established as primary schools, and the course of instruction includes English in all the branches, writing, arithmetic, book-keeping, algebra, geometry, elementary French and Latin, physical geography, freehand and mechanical drawing, vocal music and drill. The girls are also taught sewing, knitting, cutting-out, the sewing-machine, and domestic economy. Boys and girls attending these schools may obtain by competition the same benefits as pupils of the other Merchant Company Schools.

Those entitled to the benefits of the hospital as aged foundationers are persons not under 55 years of age, first, of the name of Gillespie, whatever part of Scotland they may come from; and, second, persons belonging to Edinburgh and its suburbs; failing these, persons from Leith, Newhaven, and other parts of Mid-Lothian; whom failing, persons from any part of Scotland. By the provisional order, the governors have power, instead of maintaining the foundationers in the then present or any other building, to allow them a pension of not less than £10 and not exceeding £25 a year.

THE MAIDEN HOSPITAL, MEADOWS,

FOUNDED BY THE CRAFTSMEN OF EDINBURGH AND MARY ERSKINE.

This Institution was founded in 1704, by the Freemen of the Incorporated Trades, aided by Mary Erskine, widow of Jas. Hair, druggist. The Governors were incorporated by statute in 1707.

The management is in the Deacons of the thirteen Incorporations, two Trades-Councillors, two persons of the name of Erskine, the Preses of the Society of Barbers, and nine persons elected by the other Governors,—in all, twenty-seven. Forty-nine girls are maintained in the Institution. Those eligible for admission under presentations held by the Trades Incorporations or the Society of Barbers of the city of Edinburgh are the daughters, granddaughters, or great-granddaughters of freemen craftsmen, whom failing, any girl qualified by age and otherwise presented by the Incorporation or Society, and in the case of private presentations, any girl qualified by age and otherwise presented by the holder of the presentation. They are required, when admitted, to be of the age of seven and under that of eleven years: they are not retained above the age of seventeen. They are instructed in the English language and grammar, in French and music, in writing, arithmetic, geography, history, sewing, and laundry work. On leaving, each girl receives £10 and a Bible.

THE ORPHAN HOSPITAL, DEAN.

This Institution was projected in 1727 by Andrew Gairdner, merchant in Edinburgh; and in 1733 a house was hired, and thirty children received into it. In 1735 an edifice was erected near the Trinity College Church; but by the increase of the city this situation being rendered unhealthy, the present building was erected in 1833, from the designs of the late Mr Thomas Hamilton. The revenue is derived from voluntary contributions and legacies, in addition to the interest on accumulated donations since its foundation.

About 120 boys and girls, including presentees and boarders, are maintained in the Institution, the benefits of which are not confined to any district of Scotland. When admitted they must be of the age of seven, and not above ten years: they receive the benefit of a thoroughly good education suitable to their station in life, a godly upbringing, and a comfortable home. Boarders from any part of Scotland are now received into the Hospital at £16 per annum for boys, and £14 for girls, which include all expenses of whatever kind.

JOHN WATSON'S INSTITUTION, DEAN.

In the year 1759, John Watson, writer to the signet, bequeathed the residue of his estate to certain Trustees, by them to be applied "to such pious and charitable uses within the City of Edinburgh as they shall think proper." In the year 1822 an Act of Parliament was obtained, empowering the Trustees to establish and endow "an hospital for the maintenance and education therein of destitute children, and bringing them up to be useful members of society; and also for assisting in their outset in life such of them as may be thought to deserve and require such aid."

The edifice, which was designed by Mr William Burn, was founded in 1825, and completed in 1828. About 100 children are maintained in it, who must be fatherless, and of the better classes, such as clergymen, officers in the army and navy, legal or medical practitioners, and such like; when admitted, they must have completed the seventh year of their age, and be under the age of nine. They are not retained after the age of fourteen. They are instructed in English, Latin, French, mathematics, drawing, vocal and instrumental music, dancing, drill, etc.

The establishment is under the management of fifteen directors,—the Keeper and Deputy-keeper of the Signet, the Treasurer of the Institution, and twelve Commissioners of the Writers to the Signet. The fund, which in 1781 amounted to less than £5000, has been largely increased by the care and attention of the Trustees.

CAUVIN'S HOSPITAL, DUNNINGTON.

This Institution was founded by Louis Cauvin, Teacher of French in Edinburgh, and afterwards farmer at Dunnington, who died in 1825, bequeathing his property for the erection and endowment of "an Hospital for the relief, maintenance, and education of the sons of respectable but poor teachers; the sons of poor but honest farmers; whom failing, the sons of respectable master-printers or booksellers, and the sons of respectable servants in the agricultural line." This settlement was explained and modified, and the Governors incorporated, by a parliamentary statute in 1827.

The management is in the survivor of certain individuals nominated by the founder, and others assumed by them, and in the following ex officio trustees, viz., the Lord Provost of the City, the Principal of the University, the Rector of the High School, the Ministers of Duddingston, Liberton, and Newton, the Proprietor of the estate of Niddrie, and the Factor of the Duke of Abercorn.

The Institution, which is situated at Duddingston, was opened in 1833, and the number of boys at present maintained there is eighteen. They are required, when admitted, to be of the age of seven, and not more than nine years; and are retained for six years. They are taught the ordinary branches of education, and Latin, Greek, French, German, and Mathematics.

Governors, George Harrison, Lord Provost of Edinburgh, Sir Alex. Grant, Bart., D.C.L., LL.D., Principal of the University of Edinburgh; Rev. John A. H. Paton, Minister of Duddingston; Rev. #### DONALDSON'S HOSPITAL, COLTBRIDGE.

This Hospital was founded by James Donaldson of Broughton Hall, printer, who died at Edinburgh in October 1830, bequeathing the greater part of his property, amounting to about £200,000, to trustees, for the endowment and erection of an hospital for the maintenance of poor boys and girls, after the plan of the Orphan Hospital in Edinburgh and John Watson's Institution.

The building can accommodate 150 boys and 150 girls: it contains at present 216 children (114 boys and 102 girls), of whom 119 (56 boys and 63 girls) are deaf and dumb. Those eligible for admission are declared to be, "1st, Poor children of the name of Donaldson or Marshall, if appearing to the Governors to be deserving; 2nd, Such poor children as shall appear to be in the most destitute circumstances and the most deserving of admission." None are received whose parents are able to maintain them. The children are clothed and maintained in the Hospital, and taught such useful branches of a plain English education as will fit the boys for trades and the girls for domestic service. The age of admission is from seven till nine, and that of leaving the Hospital fourteen years.

The number of pensioners, of whom one-eighth are incurables, on the higher scale of pension of £25, has been fixed at 60, of whom 22 are appointed by private patrons, and on the lower scale of pension of £15 at 100. Applicants for the benefit of this fund require to have resided in Edinburgh for two years at some time, and supported themselves by their own industry during that period, without aid from any charity, or be widows or children of burghesses, and must be in decayed circumstances at the date of their application, and not under 50 years of age, except Formerly this fund was administered by the Governors of the Trinity Hospital, in conjunction with the Trinity Hospital Fund proper; but by interlocutor of the Lords of Council and Session, of 3rd February 1880, the management has been vested in a body of Trustees, and a scheme adopted by the Court for its future administration. Under this scheme the free income is to be divided amongst twelve beneficiaries, eight men and four women, with a maximum pension of £27, 15s. 6d. In the event of the free income of the fund being more than sufficient to provide for these, the Trustees have power to appoint additional pensioners, and they have discretionary powers as to the amount of such pensions. Applicants for the fund must be unmarried when elected, and not under 50 years of age, excepting any additional beneficiaries whom the Trustees may appoint, in the selection of whom there shall be no restriction of sex or marriage. The beneficiaries shall be indigent persons of good reputation who have not fallen into decay through their own vice and prodigality, and who are not in receipt of parochial relief. First, those of the kindred of Mr Alexander of Knockhill, who died in 1696, either upon his father's or his mother's side; Secondly, Those of the surname of Alexander, who shall apply within three score days next after any vacancy shall be publicly announced; and Thirdly, Other persons qualified as aforesaid as the Patrons shall think fit. All persons bearing the name of Alexander, whether as their parents' name or their husbands' name, shall be deemed to fall within the favouring clause of the bequest. Applicants not claiming on the footing of being entitled to a preference must have resided in Edinburgh for two years, and for that period must have supported themselves by their own industry, or at least without aid from any charity.

The late Mr John Watt, merchant in Leith, by his trust-disposition and settlement, dated in 1827, bequeathed the residue of his means and estate to trustees, with directions to expend such part thereof as they might consider proper in the erection of an hospital in Leith, to be called "John Watt's Hospital," for the reception and maintenance of men and women in destitute circumstances of 55 years of age and upwards, in the following order of priority: 1st, Persons of the name of Watt; 2d, Natives of the parish of South Leith of whatever name; 3d, Persons of whatever name who have constantly resided in the parish of South Leith, at least ten years preceding their admission; and 4th, Natives of, or persons who have constantly resided in, the city of Edinburgh or county of Mid-Lothian; provided such persons are not pensioners or in receipt of an allowance from any charitable institution except the Parochial Board of South Leith. The trustees acquired what was formerly the Golf House and Ground at the south-west corner of Leith Links, and built an Hospital, which was opened in the beginning of 1862.

THE ANNUAL REPORT BY THE AUDITOR on the Company's Books and Accounts was submitted to the General Meeting of the Company on 24th April 1883. This Report, which certifies that the whole transactions of the Company for the year under review had been correctly recorded and sufficiently vouched, will be found in the Company's Annual Report.

THE SECURITIES OF THE COMPANY ARE EXAMINED and reported on periodically by a Committee of Directors. The Report, as at last Investigation, certifying that the whole writs and securities had been examined and found correct, will be found in the Company's Prospectus.

DIVISION OF PROFITS, 1885.*IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The Profits of the Company have been divided on TEN occasions, viz., in 1835, 1840, 1845, 1850, 1855, 1860, 1865, 1870, 1875, and 1880.

THE ELEVENTH DIVISION OF PROFITS will be made in 1885, and Policies issued during the year to 15th November 1884 will rank for two full years' Bonus.

LIBERAL CONDITIONS OF ASSURANCE.

THE STANDARD COMPANY has long taken the lead in SIMPLIFYING THE CONDITIONS and LIBERALIZING THE CONTRACT of Life Assurance, thereby giving greatly increased Security to the holders of the Company's Policies, an advantage of especial value when the Assurance is intended to be assigned or to form the basis of pecuniary obligations. The marked success which has attended the progress of the Company is, no doubt, due in a great measure to the liberality of its dealings.

FREE RESIDENCE IN ANY PART OF THE WORLD.—When the Directors are satisfied that a person proposed for Assurance has no intention or prospect of proceeding beyond the limits of Europe, he being at the same time 25 years of age complete, he will receive a Free Policy entitling him at any future time to reside in any part of the world without licence or payment of extra premium. The limits for all Policies which are not Whole-World have recently been extended, and are now very comprehensive. The extra premiums for residence beyond these limits are moderate.

RENEWAL OF POLICIES.—30 days allowed for payment of the renewal Premium in all cases, and 13 months altogether under Policies of 5 years' standing, without medical certificate, on payment of a fine; and if death occurs within these 13 months, it is the Company's practice to pay the amount assured, under deduction of the unpaid Premiums and fines. After the 13 months the Policy is forfeited, but the surrender value remains available for 5 years, as explained in the Company's Prospectus. Policies of less than 5 years' standing may also be renewed after the expiry of 30 days on liberal conditions.

CLAIMS are payable three months after proof of death, on all Policies now being issued.

---

A STANDARD POLICY IS UNCHALLENGEABLE after five years on any ground whatever connected with the original documents proceeding on which the Assurance was granted, age having been proved.

FIXED SURRENDER VALUES.—These are on a very liberal scale, and are fully stated in the Company's Prospectus. Paid-up Policies are also granted in exchange for Surrender Values.

THE CORPORATION OF THE

Scottish Provident Institution,

No. 6 ST ANDREW SQUARE, EDINBURGH.

Directors.—GEORGE M. FRASER TYTLER, Esq.; STAIR AGNEW, Esq.; C. J. PEARSON, Esq.; Sir WM. JOHNSTON; Professor P. G. TAIT; GEORGE M. PAUL, Esq.; EDMUND BAXTER, Esq.; JOHN WEIR, Esq.; CHARLES J. GUTHRIE, Esq.; Sir ALEXANDER KINLOCH, Bart.; FRANCIS BROWN DOUGLAS, Esq.; FINDLAY B. ANDERSON, Esq.; WM. J. MENZIES, Esq.; JOHN PARKER, Esq.; and Sir THOMAS J. BOYD.

THIS OFFICE COMBINES THE ADVANTAGES OF MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE WITH MODERATE PREMIUMS.

AN ASSURANCE of £1200 or £1250 may generally be obtained from the first for the same yearly payment which would elsewhere assure (with Profits) £1000 only—the difference being equivalent to an immediate and certain “Bonus” of 20 to 25 per cent.

In addition, LARGE PROFITS may be expected in the future by those entitled to participate—the WHOLE SURPLUS being reserved exclusively for good lives.

* A person of 30 may secure £1000 at death by a yearly payment, during life, of £20, 15s. This Premium would generally elsewhere secure £800 only, instead of £1000. Or he may secure the same sum of £1000 by twenty-one yearly payments of £27, 13s. 4d., being thus free of payment after age 50.

† At age 40 the Premium ceasing at age 60 is, for £1000, £33, 14s. 2d., being about the same as most Offices require to be paid during the whole term of life.

The NEW BUSINESS has for several years exceeded a MILLION.

The EXPENSES (9·4 per cent. on Premiums, and 6·6 on Income) are much under those of any Office doing a large new Business.

The REALIZED FUND is now about £4,700,000. Only two Offices (both much older) have as large a Fund.

Claims are now Payable One Month after Proof.

REPORTS with Statements of Principles and Tables of Rates may be had on application.

in the Association's Class B, combining all the advantages of an ordinary Life Assurance with a

MOST PROFITABLE INVESTMENT,

the Sum Assured being payable at death whenever it happens, while the Bonuses are available only if the life survive an age fixed at entrance. The Bonuses are thus Three or Four times larger than under the ordinary Bonus System, and the Policy is increased to a Sum incomparably greater than the Premiums paid by the Policy-holder. Further, the Bonuses may be exchanged for an immediate Cash Payment or Life Annuity of important amount, the Sum Assured remaining untouched for payment at death.

are presented also in the Association's Class A<sub>1</sub>. An Ordinary Life Policy is transformed, by the application of Profits, after a comparatively few years, into a with future Bonus Additions, requiring no care and no payments to keep it in force, and carrying the specially High Value and Privileges of such a Document. Or the Policy-holder may have his Profits in the shape of immediate Ordinary Bonus Additions to his Sum Assured, on a system similar to that of most other Offices.

TABLE OF REDUCED PREMIUMS—CLASS B<sub>2</sub>,

Effecting a Large Saving of Outlay to the Policy-holder, and still giving ultimately a right to share in the Profits of the Class.

"THE EDINBURGH" has now stood the test of SIXTY YEARS, during which period its affairs have been subjected to SEVEN INVESTIGATIONS and Valuations, with the result of showing, on each occasion, that the Assets were largely in excess of the Liabilities. BONUS ADDITIONS,*Sums exceeding ONE MILLION Sterling.

The Bonuses are divided on an equitable plan, under which an Increasing Share of the Profits is added to the Policies as they advance in age. At last Division of Profits the Bonuses ranged from about 23s. to upwards of £10 per £100 per annum, according to the age of the Assured.

The Premiums, calculated on a Moderate Scale, are arranged under a variety of Tables to suit the circumstances of all classes. By an application of the earlier—without sacrificing the later and larger—Bonuses, the Premiums may be made to terminate during life without any increase of the ordinary rates.

The SCOTTISH EQUITABLE is a Purely Mutual Office. Its leading features are Unquestionable Security, Liberal Conditions of Assurance, and Early Participation in Profits.

Year.	Number of Policies.	Existing Assurances.	Income.	Fund.
1868	10,073	£6,681,242	£247,510	£1,777,651
1873	10,972	7,277,232	265,628	2,033,721
1878	13,092	8,392,566	309,164	2,352,846
1883	14,472	9,230,034	370,686	2,662,117

The ACCUMULATED FUND is 11.3 times the Premiums of the year, and is 37.4 per cent. of the existing Assurances, after deduction of the reassurances of £486,196.

At the General Meeting of the Society on the 25th June 1883, the Profit realized in the Quinquennium was reported as £278,684. New Bonus Additions were made to Policies at the rate of £1, 5s. per cent. per annum on the Sums Assured and Previous Bonuses, being equivalent to an average addition, calculated simply upon the original sums assured, at the rate of £1, 9s. per cent. for each year the Policy had been in force since the last investigation. The total amount of the New Bonus Additions is £425,157. The Directors are of opinion that the Members may confidently look forward to a further increase in the rate of Bonus at the NEXT DIVISION OF PROFITS IN 1888.

The PREMIUMS ON WHOLE-LIFE POLICIES are now calculated by half-years of age, so that those who insure within six months after a birthday will be charged a lower rate of premium than hitherto.

LOANS are granted in connection with Life Insurance, on Life Interests, Reversions, and other approved Security. The Directors are also prepared to entertain proposals for the sale of Reversions to the Society.

EUCLID FOR SCHOOLS. COMPRISING BOOKS I. AND II. OF EUCLID, with Additions and Numerous Exercises. By A. J. G. GORDON, Mathematical Master, George Watson's College, Edinburgh. The propositions are worked out very clearly, and the deductions are carefully illustrated, in a variety of ways, the different propositions being treated in two books. The printing, paper, and bold diagrams deserve commendation, and the book, being thoroughly practical, is a useful addition to the stock of introductory Euclids."—Schoolmaster.

The Schools is an edition of the first two books of Euclid, in which contractions are largely employed, with the consequent simplifying the various steps of a proposition in closer connexion. The diagrams, by judicious use of thick and thin lines, are very helpful to the beginner. A large number of easy deductions are appended to each proposition, whilst more difficult ones are placed at the end of each book. We regard this as a very valuable addition to Euclid's first two books."—School Guardian.

THE COMPANY issues DEBENTURES free of expense for amounts of £100 or upwards, in such sums as may suit lenders. THE

By the Rev. JOHN M. WILSON.

PREFACE.

THE Publishers have been induced to produce the present Work, from the conviction that it would supply a long-felt want: namely, a Gazetteer of Scotland, extensive enough to embrace every Town and Village in the Country, of any importance, as existing at the present day, and yet portable in form and moderate in price.

To add to the value of the Work, the Census of 1881 was extracted from the Official Returns expressly for it, as the lists to be published would not be available for the earlier portion of the Work, already in the hands of the printer.

Besides the usual information, as to Towns and Places contained in Gazetteers, it gives the Statistics of Real Property, Notices of Public Works, Public Buildings, Churches, Schools, etc.; whilst the Natural History and Historical Incidents, connected with particular localities, have not been omitted.

From the great experience of the Author, who has already compiled several extensive Gazetteers and Topographical works, the Publishers trust that this Work will meet the approbation of the numerous class to which it is addressed.
