TABLES OF THE TIDES

AT GLASGOW AND GREENOCK FOR 1874.

OBSERVATIONS.

In the Tide Table, if a blank, such as occurs on any day, there is high water only once that day. It is to be observed that morning is supposed to commence immediately after midnight, and evening immediately after noon. Noon is denoted by 0h 0m. Having assumed 12 hours 8 minutes as the time of full and change for Greenock, nothing more is necessary than to apply such time as under to the time given in the Greenock Table, and the result will give the time of High Water at each respective place.

THE CITY OF GLASGOW.

The City Chamberlain estimated the population of the City and Suburbs, at Midsummer of 1872, as follows:—

1.—CITY.

Total population situated within the Parliamentary and municipal boundary, 490,000

2.—SUBURBS.

Population of the portion of the Ancient Royalty lying outside (and to the north) of the Parliamentary boundary; hitherto excluded, but in future to constitute part of the City, 2,555 × 5 = 12,775
 Do. of Partick and Hillhead, 4,819 × 5 = 24,095
 Do. of Govan and Paisley Road, 4,674 × 5 = 23,379
 Do. of Pollokshields, Strathbungo, Crossmyloof, Langside, and Crosshill, 2,394 × 5 = 11,970
 Do. of Shettleston, Maryhill, and Tollcross districts, 3,299 × 5 = 16,495

Hence the City of Glasgow, inclusive of its connected and closely contiguous suburbs, appears to have had a united population, at Midsummer, 1872, of 578,705

The "Glasgow Municipal Act, 1872," for the extension of the city boundaries, which passed through the legislature on 27th May, 1872, but only came into operation upon the 15th of May, 1873, does not as yet, of course, exert any influence upon these estimates; yet, in future annual reports, its operation may require a separate arrangement or reference, so as to enable a tangible comparison to be maintained between the present and the past.

The population of the City proper—that is, of the space contained within the Parliamentary and Municipal Boundary—was, at the census of 1871, 477,710. Curiously enough, the Registrar-General of England had estimated the numbers as 475,270; the Registrar-General of Scotland as 461,900; and the City Chamberlain as 470,500; each adopting his own mode of calculation, and yet each approaching so near to the reality.

GLASGOW INDUSTRIAL MUSEUM.—WEST END PARK.

Instituted by the Town Council, and conducted by the Committee on Parks and Galleries, and contains valuable and interesting collection of examples of manufacturing and industrial skill.

The specific object of the Museum is to illustrate the Natural History and Manufactures of the Country. The Museum is yet in its infancy, but the arrangements adopted, and the excellence of the classification, imparts a usefulness and importance to the collection much beyond its mere extent.

Curator, James Thomson

GLASGOW CORPORATION TRAMWAYS.

These Tramways, which are being constructed by the Corporation, under the Glasgow Street Tramways Act, 1870, are leased to the Glasgow Tramway and Omnibus Company Limited for a term of 23 years from 1st July 1871, and the agreement under which the lease is granted applies not only to the whole of the lines already authorised but also to any extension which may be made by the Corporation. By that agreement the Corporation are to borrow on their own security the capital required for construction and expenses, and the lessees are to pay the rate of interest actually paid by the Corporation, and their expenses of borrowing, management, &c., in addition to a sinking fund of three per cent. per annum. In lieu of any payment for pavement in streets not being turnpike roads, the lessees pay a fixed charge of £150 per annum per street mile. The lessees are also to set apart annually four per cent. on the monies spent on construction, as a fund for renewals, the interest on which will be received by the lessees, and any balance at the end of the lease will revert to them.

BAILLIE'S INSTITUTION

Was founded by the late Mr George Baillie, writer in Glasgow, who divested himself in his lifetime of his whole fortune (£18,000) with its accumulations during twenty-one years, from 11th Nov., 1863, to endow his said Institution for the Self-culture of the operative classes in Glasgow of both sexes, by means of Free Public Libraries and Reading Rooms over the City and Suburbs, and for the Tuition and Training of their children in schools strictly unsectarian. The Dean, Councillors, and Clerk of the Faculty of Procurators in Glasgow, are perpetual Preceptor, Patrons, and Directors of the Institution, which was confirmed by special Charter from the Crown, dated 18th March, 1867.

GLASGOW HOME FOR DESERTED MOTHERS,

(140 Rottenrow).

Established in 1873, and supported by Voluntary Contribution

The aim and object of this Home is to supply a desideratum, the want of which has been long experienced in this city and the West of Scotland, viz., to afford temporary shelter and maintenance to destitute and houseless mothers, with their helpless infants. Those only who have for the first time deviated from the paths of virtue, or who have been led astray, are eligible for admission. While resident in the Home a vigilant supervision is exercised over them. Much attention is paid to their moral and religious welfare, and every effort made to procure suitable situations for them. The infants are placed under the care of proper and trustworthy nurses, all of whom are under the oversight and supervision of the Matron.

The Home is managed by a Committee of ladies, assisted by a Board of gentlemen, and is under the general superintendence of a Matron.

The object of this Institution is to afford assistance to natives, and widows, and families of natives of the City of Glasgow, who, from reverses of fortune or otherwise, have been reduced to necessitous circumstances; though not such casual or trivial relief, as is properly obtained from the funds destined by law for the support of the poor, but rather such more ample and efficient assistance, as may tend to secure comparative ease and independence to the parties on whom it is bestowed. It is composed of parties born within the Royalty or Parliamentary limits of the Burgh, though donations are received and invited from those who, though not natives, have been identified, by long residence or commercial connection, with the interests and prosperity of the city, and who, though not members, are enrolled in a separate class, titled donors. Legacies and bequests will also be received, and are invited from the opulent and generous either at home or abroad, who approve of its objects. A payment of £5 5s, either in one sum at entry, or by five successive yearly instalments of £1 1s, constitutes membership. Members and widows and families of members, are entitled to a preference in the distribution of the funds.

ATLAS ASSURANCE COMPANY,

CHEAPSIDE, LONDON.

FIRE AND LIFE.

Established 1808, and Empowered by Act of Parliament, of the 54th Geo. III., Cap. 79.

Capital—One Million Two Hundred Thousand Pounds.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The Rates of Premium have been adjusted in accordance with a long experience, and bear equitably on all ages.

The Accumulated Premiums are over £1,620,000, and a Statement, showing how these are invested, can be had.

The sum of over £5,603,000 has been paid during the existence of the Office for Claims under Life Policies, of which amount a very considerable part was for Bonuses.

The BONUS valuation is made up Quinquennially, and Policies in force at each valuation participate therein in proportion to the time they may have been in force.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

This Company undertakes the Assurance of almost every species of Property in the United Kingdom, at rates of Premium, and upon principles which will be found quite as advantageous to the interests of the Assured as those offered by any other. The Directors can confidently refer to the well-known character of the Company for liberality and promptitude in the discharge of Claims made upon it during the many years it has been established.

Mills, Manufactories, Distilleries, Warehouses, Stores, Ships Building, Ships in Harbour, Houses, Furniture, Stocks-in-Trade, &c., Assured for the year, or any shorter period.

The Policies of this Company cover losses occasioned by the explosion of gas. Losses occasioned by Lightning will also be paid.

The FIRE DUTY being wholly abolished, even the least Hazardous Property ought now in every case to be Assured, and existing Assurances can be increased without increasing the cost hitherto paid.

Tables of Rates, Forms of Proposal, and any information needful to effect Life or Fire Assurances, may be obtained on application to the Office, 92 Cheapside, London; or to any of the Company's Agents.

Agents for the Company in Glasgow—

WM. CARRICK & SON, 213 Buchanan Street.

Agency also Established in 1808.

FOUNDED 1823.

THE EDINBURGH LIFE OFFICE.The LEADING FEATURES are

SECURITY.—Besides the Accumulated Fund, amounting to £1,185,000, the Company has an uncalled Capital of £425,000. The Office has now stood the test of more than half a century.

PREMIUMS.—The Rates charged will be found more moderate than those of many other Offices, notwithstanding the large additions made to the Policies.

BONUSES.—Nine-tenths of the Whole Profits (from all sources), are divided among the participating Policy-holders on a plan—equitable to all—which secures a progressively increasing share of the Surplus Funds. Under this System many of the Policies have been greatly increased, and some more than doubled in amount. Intermediate Bonuses are given.

NON-FORFEITURE SCHEME.—This important Scheme, now extended to all ordinary and Endowment Assurance Policies, entirely obviates loss to the Assured, who may at any time decide on ceasing to continue payment of Premiums.

CONDITIONS.—These will be found most liberal, especially in regard to Indisputability and Freedom from Restriction on Occupation and Foreign Residence.

LIFE BUSINESS ONLY is transacted. The Company's Funds are thus in no way liable for Fire, Marine, or Guarantee Risks.

THE BONUS TO POLICIES allocated in 1872 was at the rate of £1 10s per cent. per annum. In 29 years the additions to a Policy of £1000 have amounted to £355, of which £185 have been added within twelve years.

At the 32ND ANNUAL MEETING in 1873, the new Life Policies reported were 663 for £346,950. The total Policies issued exceed FIVE MILLIONS STERLING.

The Rates are very moderate, and the regulations as to foreign travelling and residence, non-forfeiture of policies, &c., specially liberal. The following are examples of the rates, with profits:—

The Scottish Amicable

(Mutual) Life Assurance Society

Was Established at Glasgow in 1826, and is Incorporated by Special Act of Parliament. The Society's Income now exceeds £235,000 a-year. The Invested Funds amount to £1,600,000; and the Existing Assurances to £5,000,000. The sum paid in Claims to the Representatives of Deceased Members is upwards of a Million and a-Half Sterling.

DIVISION OF PROFITS, 1874.

The Seventh Septennial Investigation and Division of Profits takes place as at 31st DECEMBER, 1874, and the Directors have every reason to believe that the result will be entirely satisfactory to the Members of the Society. Intending Assurers should therefore avail themselves of the present favourable opportunity of joining this old and wealthy Corporation. It will be borne in mind that the whole divisible Surplus is shared by the Policy-holders alone, there being no Stockholders to receive any portion of it in the shape of profits or dividends on their shares.

IN THIS SOCIETY alone Members can assure with right to share in the Whole Profits for Moderate Premiums. In OTHER OFFICES they may assure at Rates as low, but without any prospect of additions: OR, they may obtain the right to Profits, but only by payment of excessive Rates.

Its advantages over other Offices are—

A greatly larger original Assurance; with the prospect to good lives of eventually receiving very considerable additions.

For payment of the same yearly sum as large an Assurance may generally be secured from the first, as can be looked for elsewhere after many years' accumulation of Bonuses. Thus, a Policy for £1200 or £1250 may be had for the Premium usually charged for £1000 only.

Such an arrangement is obviously more suited for securing a competent Family Provision than that which by the same yearly outlay secures a much smaller present Assurance, with the hope only of prospective additions. Even at the highest rate of Bonus it will take many years ere such a Policy will amount to the sum here secured from the first.

From the distinctive principle on which the Surplus is divisible (no share being given to those by whose early death there is a loss), those who participate may confidently expect to receive considerable additions. Policies originally for £1000, which have shared at all the three septennial divisions, have been increased to £1400, £1600, and even to £1800.

Full statements of the Principles and particulars as to the Financial Progress and Position of the Institution will be found in the Annual Reports; to be had at the INSURANCES EFFECTED ON FARMING STOCK AGAINST LOSS BY FIRE OR LIGHTNING.

FARMING STOCK—which includes Hay, Straw, and 'all Sorts of Grain, Implements of Husbandry, and Live Stock—may be Insured with this Company against Loss by FIRE or LIGHTNING, generally on one Farm, and in the Offices, without any Average Clause, for a year, or for any shorter period, at 5s.; or with the Average Clause, at 4s. 6d. THE SCOTTISH PROVIDENT INSTITUTION, FOR MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE.

THE PREMIUMS usually charged for £1,000 will here assure in most cases £1,200 to £1,250, (with Profits) from the first—the difference being equivalent to an immediate and certain "Bonus" of 20 to 25 per cent.

THE WHOLE SURPLUS belongs to the Members; and being reserved for those who prove good lives, large Bonuses in addition have been, and may be expected to be, given.

Examples of Annual Premiums for £100 at Death, with Profits.

AGE.	20	25	30	35	40
Payable during Life.	£1 15 8	1 18 0	2 1 6	2 6 10	2 14 9
Limited to 21 years,...	£2 9 11	2 12 6	2 15 4	3 0 2	3 7 5

* * * EXAMPLE.—A person aged 30 may secure £1000 at death, by a yearly payment, during life, of £20, 15s. This Premium, if paid to any other of the Mutual Offices, would secure a Policy of £800 only instead of £1000. Or, if unwilling to burden himself with payments during his whole life, he may secure the same sum of £1000 by twenty-one yearly payments of £27, 13s. 4d.

At age 40 the Premium, ceasing at age 60, is for £1000, £33, 14s. 2d., being about the same as these Offices require during the whole term of life.

THE FUNDS exceed TWO MILLIONS STERLING—having increased last year by £147,175. Notwithstanding its low rates, no Office of equal age has so large a Fund, and there is none which shows so large an increase from year to year.

Progress in the last Four Years:—

In Year	New Policies Issued.	Amount Assured.	Claims in Year.	Accumulated Fund at end of Year.
1868	1092	£541,127	£80,284	£1,499,015
1869	1190	581,034	93,663	1,636,210

THE BRITON MEDICAL AND GENERAL LIFE ASSOCIATION was established in the year 1854.

The novel principles upon which the Association is founded, combined with its liberal and energetic management, have obtained for it a remarkable success, and its special features and system of business will be found to present peculiar advantages.

The leading principles of the Association embrace the Payment of Policies during the Lifetime of the assured without extra premium, the Indisputability of Policies, and the Protection of Policies from Forfeiture.

Special Advantages to Assurers.

PROFITS—The Entire Profits divided amongst the holders of participating Policies.

POLICIES PAYABLE DURING LIFE—By means of a novel and perfectly equitable system of apportioning the Profits, the Bonuses may be applied, first, in extinguishing the Premiums at a given date; and afterwards in making the Policy payable during the lifetime of the Assured; this important advantage being secured without the payment of any additional Premium.

NON-FORFEITURE OF POLICIES—By recent arrangements, persons whose Policies have acquired a Surrender Value, will be entitled to a Free Policy, with participation in future profits.

CLAIMS—No claim can be litigated or disputed except with the consent of the Members present at a General Meeting, to be specially convened for the occasion.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

“The production of Note Paper of a superior kind has long been the subject of experiment with manufacturers, but, until lately, no improvement could be made on that in general use. Sheer perseverance has, however, been rewarded, for at last a new description of Paper has been produced, called CLUB-HOUSE NOTE, that surpasses anything of the kind in ordinary use.
We feel certain that a trial of the new Note Paper will lead to its general adoption, as its price is not in excess of that charged for an inferior article.”
—Sun.

“In our opinion it is the very best paper we ever wrote upon.”—Mirror.

“Certainly it is a first-rate paper.”—Christian World.

“Their new paper we find, upon trial, to present a pleasant surface, equally adapted to the steel or quill pen.”—Notes and Queries.

AGENTS WANTED.

Orders of 20s and upwards sent carriage paid to any Railway Station in Scotland.

Debilitated Constitutions.

In cases of debility, languor, and nervousness, generated by excess of any kind, whether mental or physical, the effects of these Pills is in the highest degree bracing, renovating, and restorative. They drive from the system the morbid cause of disease, re-establish the digestion, regulate all the secretions, brace the nervous system, raise the patient's spirits, and bring back the frame to its pristine health and vigour.

Complaints of Women and Children.

The very mild and painless action of these invaluable Pills recommends them to every household as a remedy for the early departures from health. Any mother, nurse, or young person, guided by the directions which accompany each box of Holloway's Pills, has at once available means for checking disease, purifying the blood, and expelling from the system all gross humours. They are indeed, at all ages, the female's tried friend.

Disorders of the Liver and Indigestion.

Loss of appetite and flatulency are usually the forerunners of stomachic disease. These famous Pills exercise the most salutary power in all affections of the liver, and all irregularities of the stomach and bowels; they restore a healthy function to every internal organ, overcome all obstructions, and cast out all impurities.

The Pills and Ointment are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533 Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vender of Medicine, throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, 22s, and 33s each. The smallest Box of Pills contains four dozen; and the smallest Pot of Ointment one ounce.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Box and Pot.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Old Sores and Old Skin Diseases.

The seeds of these disorders are effectually expelled by this penetrating Unguent, not only from the superficial parts, but from the internal tissues likewise. Any case, even of twenty years' standing, speedily yields to its influence.

Bronchitis, Diptheria, Sore Throat, Asthma, &c.

For curing sore throat, diptheria, bronchitis, asthma, tightness of the chest, and pain in the side, which instant treatment alone prevents degenerating into more serious maladies. This Ointment has the same derivative powers over chest complaints as a blister possesses, without causing pain or debility.

Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Sores, and Ulcers.

By rubbing the Ointment round the affected parts, it penetrates to the tissues beneath, and exercises a wonderful power on all the blood flowing to, and returning from, the diseased part. The inflammation diminishes, the pain becomes less intolerable, the matter thicker, and a cure is soon effected.

Gout, Rheumatism, and Paralysis.

Gout and Rheumatism arise from inflammation in the parts affected—to effect a permanent cure, adopt a cooling diet, drink plenty of water, take six of these famous Pills night and morning, and rub the Ointment most effectually twice a-day in the suffering parts, and a cure is certain.

The Ointment and Pills are sold at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment, 533 Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Pots and Boxes, at 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, 22s, and 33s each. The smallest Pot of Ointment contains one ounce; and the smallest Box of Pills four dozen.

Full printed directions are affixed to each Pot and Box.

GUILDRY.

This is a Corporation quite distinct from the Dean of Guild Court. The latter is appointed by the Town Council to attend to the architectural amenities of the town, and to adjudicate on certain rights connected with burgh properties; whereas the former is a relic of the days of monopoly, when a large premium—amounting to about £40—had to be paid to the Corporation of Guild Brothers before a townsman could commence business within the precincts of the burgh. This right happily no longer exists; and, probably, the Corporation itself would have been non est long ago but for the fact that the Dean or President of the Guildry is ex officio a Trustee of the Madras Academy in terms of the deed of bequest by the late Dr Bell. The Trusteeship of the Academy imparts a considerable amount of interest to the appointment of Dean, who is elected annually by the members of the Guildry, and wears on that occasion a gold chain and medal as the insignia of office. The fees charged for admission to the Corporation are as follows:—For an alien, £2 12s 6d; and for a burghess, £1 1s. It may be stated here that the sons or sons-in-law of a burghess can become burghesses for 10s 6d; and when a townsman is elected to the Town Council, he is bound to become a burghess, for which, however, he only pays the nominal fee of 5s. Applicants for the Guildry, therefore, coming under either of these categories, can obtain admission on much more moderate terms than total outsiders or aliens:

DUNFERMLINE WATER WORKS.

In 1847 an Act of Parliament was procured, incorporating a Joint-Stock Company for supplying the town of Dunfermline with water. For this purpose large reservoirs were formed at Craiguscar, about 3 miles from Dunfermline, covering about 37 acres. But the supply not being satisfactory, the town acquired the whole works in 1865, by agreeing to pay three per cent. on the share capital of £13,350, and relieving the company of its debt of £7400. The Town, in 1863, expended about £10,000 in the construction of an additional store reservoir at Craiguscar, covering an area of about 12 acres, and in laying enlarged main pipes from the reservoirs to the town.

Spears; Secretary, A. Beveridge; Engineer, J. Sang; Superintendent, John Johnston.

The gathering ground of these works is situated on the south slope of the Lomond Hills, and consists of about 2200 acres of hill pasture. It has an average elevation of 1000 feet above the level of the sea. There are two storing ponds, covering about 140 acres, and having a capacity of 220 million gallons. The larger of these—Ballo Reservoir—is used for compensation purposes, storing up the winter floods so as to secure during the dry season a minimum flow of 750 gallons per minute in the Lothrie stream. The smaller one—Drumain Reservoir—stores the town's supply. The water, after passing through filtre-beds of sand and gravel, is conveyed by a cast-iron pipe for a length of eight miles through the parishes of Leslie, Kinglassie, and Dysart to Carbery, where there is a distributing reservoir holding 1½ million gallons.

being  $1\frac{1}{2}$  days' supply to the towns of Gallatown, Sinclairtown, Pathhead, Dysart, Kirkcaldy, and Linktown, forming an aggregate population of 20,000. The water is distributed to the population by pipes passing through every street, so arranged as to be able to convey twice the average quantity per head, thus allowing for sudden and irregular demands, as in the event of fires. The total length of these distributing pipes is about 15 miles, and from these the water is supplied to the consumers by means of fire-plugs, street wells, and private pipes, of which latter every householder has a right to lay down one or more without payment. Mills and other works are charged at a fixed rate per 1000 gallons, the quantity consumed being ascertained by metre. The outlay for building, land, and contingent expenses, is about £50,000, the interest of which is raised by a rate of 1s 4d per pound on all householders, with a general rate of 3d per pound on property, and the mill and other special rates. The works, authorised to be made by an Act passed in July 1867, were begun in 1868, and finished in the spring of 1869—Provost Swan being the Chairman of the Commissioners, and John Sang, the engineer.

The right of fishing on the two large reservoirs belongs to the estates of Ballo, Balbirnie, Glasslie, and Strathendry. The fish are red fleshed trouts, which attain a great size, and eels. The fishing on the filters and smaller ponds belongs to the Water Commissioners, and the fish there are strictly preserved for sanitary reasons connected with the purity of the water.

UNIVERSITY OF ST ANDREWS.

The University was founded by Bishop Wardlaw in May 1410; the College of St Salvator by Bishop Kennedy in 1456; and the College of St Leonard, in 1508, by Archbishop Alexander Stuart and Prior Hepburn; and St Mary's in 1537. The two Colleges of St Salvator and St Leonard were united by Act of Parliament in 1747, and called the United College of St Salvator and St Leonard. The University now "consists," to quote the Calendar, "of three distinct corporations, viz.:—The United College of St Salvator and St Leonard, with its Principal and nine Professors; St Mary's College with its Principal, who is also Primarius Professor, and three Professors; and the University, comprising the members of both Colleges, and of which the senior Principal (senior according to priority in office) is also president."

The session in the United College opens in the first week of November, and closes towards the end of April. In St Mary's College, it commences about the middle of November, and closes in the end of March.

The aggregate annual value of the prizes, bursaries, and fellowships at St Andrews is about £2000. The two Colleges possess between them the patronage of nine livings of the Church of Scotland.

ST ANDREWS COLLEGE HALL COMPANY (LIMITED).

INSTITUTED 1861.

The Establishment of this Institution has been carried out by means of a Joint-Stock Company with limited liability. The Capital is £7750 in 156 Shares of £50 each. The object for which the Company has been formed is the Establishment and conduct of a College Hall, for the residence of the sons of gentlemen attending the University of St Andrews, and to provide, on moderate terms, a home, and the best possible aid in their studies for young men prosecuting these in the University of St Andrews.

Summer Session.—One peculiar advantage which the Hall offers is the Summer Session, which it provides for students, who might otherwise be either idle, or left entirely to direct their own studies. As far as it is known, this is the only attempt which has been made to supply a want, which some parents feel in the Scottish University system. The Summer Session extends from about the 8th of May till the end of July, during which time, as the College classes are then closed, the work done is chiefly preparatory for the Winter Session, and is conducted by the Warden and Tutor, with such other assistance as it requires. There are also opportunities given for paying attention to some subjects not included in the regular teaching of the University Winter Session. The charge for the Summer Session is from £30 to £35.

Council, John Campbell Shairp, LL.D., Principal of the United College of St Salvator and St Leonards (chairman); Very Rev. John Tulloch, D.D., Principal of St Mary's College; W. L. F. LOCHLEVEN.

This Loch (in extent 3406 acres) is the property of Sir Graham Montgomery. There are three islands in it. Queen Mary's Island, on which the Castle stands, is near the town of Kinross, and measures 8 acres. Close adjoining it is a small island of about an acre, called Reed Bower; and towards the eastern side there is the island of St Serfs, measuring about 80 acres. On the latter in ancient times stood the Priory of Lochleven, distinguished as the place where Prior Winton resided, and where he wrote his well-known chronicles. The waters find their outlet at the east end. Authorised by an Act of Parliament, passed in the year 1826, extensive works were undertaken, as well to reclaim land around the Loch as to enable the mill-owners situated on the banks of the river to regulate the flow of water. A new cut of above three miles in length was made at a very low level, at the mouth of which powerful sluices were erected. By these means the permanent level of the loch has been reduced  $4\frac{1}{2}$  feet in height, while still another  $4\frac{1}{2}$  feet has been obtained by the mill-owners to form a large reservoir of water entirely under their control. Herein the rains of winter, which often ran down in devastating floods, are stored up and made useful as a power to drive machinery during the dry months of the year. The quantity of water thus stored up when the Loch is full is estimated at 600,000,000 cubic feet, equivalent to a supply of about 80 days. The experience of about forty years, however, has shown that, with the exception of extremely dry seasons, a regular supply of about 5000 cubic feet per minute has thus been given to the mill-owners. The works were executed under the superintendence of the late Mr Jardine, Civil Engineer, Edinburgh, who placed a rain gauge (the funnel being 7 inches in diameter) in the ground at the Sluice house.

A register of the rain falling there has been kept since 1842, from which the following abstract has been prepared:—

LOCHLEVEN FISHINGS.

The Loch is open for fishing from the 1st of January to the end of August. Previously to 1811 the fishing season included the month of September, but that being considered an improper arrangement the present dates were fixed upon. There is an Act of Parliament (Charles I., 28th June 1633), for the protection of the fish spawning in the streams within five miles of the Loch (as an additional means of protection, advantage is now taken of the Act 23 and 24 Victoria, Cap. 45, 23d July 1860), but the length of the fishing season is fixed by the proprietor. David Marshall, Kinross, the tacksman of the fishings, lets out boats, with one man, for rod fishings at 2s 6d an hour. There are twenty boats, and the number is being gradually increased, viz., 1. Mary Beton; 2. George Douglas; 3. The Abbot; 4. Michael Bruce; 5. Sir Walter Scott; 6. Andrew Wyntowne; 7. Marie Courcelles; 8. Willie Douglas; 9. Levina; 10. The Clutha; 11. Margaret Plantagenet; 12. Lady Lochleven; 13. Jane Kennedy; 14. Agnes Strickland; 15. Mary Livingstone; 16. St Serf; 17. Mary Fleming; 18. Marie Stuart; 19. Lochleven Castle; 20. Mary Seton. No boats are let out on Kinross fast-day, which is the Thursday before the last Sunday of June.

 Five male and six female teachers.

This prison is under the direction of four managers, appointed under the Prisons Scotland Administration Act (1860), who have also a superintendence of all prisons in Scotland. The expense of the establishment is defrayed from the public funds. No prisoner is received whose sentence is less than nine months.

The penal department consisted of two wings at the opening of the prison, on 30th March, 1842. It has since been enlarged by the addition of a third wing in 1853, and of a fourth wing in 1859. It now contains separate accommodation for 719, and associated accommodation for 46, viz.—In the male department an hospital for sick to accommodate 4; as also an hospital for imbeciles and epileptics to accommodate 12; and in the female department hospitals for sick, for imbeciles, and for epileptics, to accommodate 30.

Male and female prisoners under sentence of not less than nine months' imprisonment, and convicts under sentence of penal servitude, are received—male convicts for detention during their probationary period of nine months, and female convicts for their whole sentence.

Imprisonment prisoners and convicts, while undergoing probationary confinement, are treated on the separate system; but in the case of female convicts over one year tried the discipline of the separate system is relaxed.

In 1859 a new prison was built to accommodate 58 juveniles on the associated system of Parkhurst.

The juvenile prison is not now required, and has been adapted for the accommodation of 40 male and 18 female criminal lunatics.

LEADING LIGHTS.

John Urquhart, Keeper

There are two Leading Lights erected on the Torry side of the Harbour. The following are the directions for taking the Harbour by them :—

1st, These Lights have no reference whatever to the state of the Tides, as they are exhibited from sunset to sunrise.

2d, The Lights are of a Red colour, but when it is dangerous to attempt entering the Harbour, the Lights will be of a Green colour, instead of Red.

3d, The Lights are visible in clear weather at a distance of five or six miles the one above the other, and are elevated—the one, about 30 feet, and the other, 47 feet, respectively, above high water of spring tides.

These Lights, when first distinctly visible in coming from the northward bear W. SW. by compass—in coming from the southward, due West—~~as~~ when seen in line, W. by S.  $\frac{1}{4}$  S. nearly; and, if the depth of water permit vessels may run for the Harbour with safety.

\* \* A STEAM FOG ALARM has been placed on the Girdleness Point, at a distance of about 140 yards (S.  $\frac{1}{4}$  W., by compass) from the Lighthouse.

ELMHILL HOUSE

Is an Establishment of a superior description, in connection with, and under the same management as the Royal Asylum, lately opened for the accommodation of the wealthier class of patients. The rates of board and accommodation may be learned on application to the Superintendent.

In the Asylum, the rates of board for private patients vary with the accommodation required. Patients eligible for relief from Burnett's fund admitted at £27; Pauper Patients from the County of Aberdeen are admitted at £25 10s a-year. All Patients are furnished with Bedding by the Asylum. Pauper Patients are to be sent provided with sufficient Body-Clothes for present use—the supply being kept up by the Institution. Under the Scottish Lunacy Act of 1857, lunatics are admitted by an order from the Sheriff, and on two medical certificates. The order is granted only upon a petition subscribed by the party applying. The medical certificates must be in the form prescribed by the Act, and specify facts on which the opinion of insanity has been founded. The Sheriff's warrant having been obtained, and guarantee given for the regular payment of the Board quarterly, and in advance, the Patient will be admitted. The necessary forms may be obtained by application to the Superintendent at the Asylum. Before a Patient is brought to the Asylum, all the above-mentioned documents must be signed; and it is also requested, that applicants ascertain whether or not the necessary accommodation can be afforded.

BANFFSHIRE.

as County, which lies on the south of the Moray Firth, is bounded on the west by Moray and Inverness-shires, and on the east and south by Aberdeenshire. Its greatest length is 57 miles, and its greatest width (along the coast) is 34 miles, but its average width only 12 miles. Area, 1,200 square miles, or 439,040 acres. Population in 1871, 62,023. Parliamentary constituency, 2364. Valued rental for 1871-2, £202,952 13s 1d.

Banffshire comprehends the districts of Boyne, Enzie, the greater part of the Strathdeveron, Strathisla, Glenfiddich, Glenrinnnes, Glenlivet, and Strathgairn; and the civic parishes of Aberlour, Alva, Banff, Botriphnie, Boyndie, Cullinstown, Deskford, St. Fergus, Fordyce, Forglen, Gamrie, Grange, Invermay, Marnoch, Mortlach, Ordiquhill, Rathven, Rothiemay. It consists also almost the whole of the parishes of Keith and Inveravon, and parts of Bellie, Boharm, Cabrach, and Gartly; and also very small parts of Cairn Robin, Glass, Oldmachar, Newmachar, and Rothes.

The South of Banffshire is very mountainous, being enclosed, and partly occupied, by the highest group of mountains in Britain. Here the scenery is exceedingly wild, and often sublime in its loneliness and grandeur. The middle and northern parts of the county are very hilly, but frequent glens and wide straths occur, especially in the north; and these, being cultivated with the utmost care and skill, amply repay the labours of the husbandman. The principal crops are oats, barley, turnips, and potatoes. Great attention is paid to the breeding and rearing of cattle. The towns and villages in the inland districts of the county are Keith, Fife-Keith, Newmill, Aberdeen, Duftown, Charlestown, and Tomintoul.

The great body of the population is, however, distributed along the coast, chiefly in towns and villages, all more or less engaged in, and dependent upon, the valuable white, herring, and salmon fisheries on the coast. Banff herrings are highly esteemed in the foreign market. The coast towns are the royal burghs of Banff and Cullen; the towns of Macduff, Portsoy, and Brechin; and the villages of Crovie, Gardenstown, Whitehills, Sandend, Portnockie, Findochty, Portessie, and Portgordon. The shipping and trade in these ports are considerable. The imports are chiefly coals, timber, iron, and salt; and the exports, grain, cattle, fish, and whisky, &c.

Lord-Lieutenant, Right Hon. Earl of Fife.

Vice-Lieutenant, Alexander Morison of Bognie.

Convener, Sir George M'Pherson Grant, Bart. of Ballindalloch.

Member for County, R. W. Duff of Fetteresso and Glasshaugh.

THE ROYAL BURGH OF BANFF,

Situated by rail 50 miles N. by W. of Aberdeen, and 38½ E. of Elgin, occupies the slope of a hill descending gradually towards the Deveron and the Moray Firth. From the sea, and from the east, more especially from the Banff (Bridge) Station, it presents a very interesting and picturesque appearance. Internally the town comprises several well built streets, which are adorned with many large and elegant modern buildings. It has always borne, and deservedly, the highest character for cleanliness and salubrity. Banff and its neighbourhood are associated with many historical events. It is probable that it possessed the privileges of a Royal Burgh before the time of William the Lion, and these privileges were confirmed by Robert Bruce and Robert II. The population in 1871 was 4018, showing a considerable increase during the ten years. The Municipal Constituency is 514. The Earls of Fife and Seafield have lately granted very eligible feus upon their lands adjoining the town. Plans of the proposed extension have been prepared by order of their Lordships, and already advantage has been taken, to a considerable extent, of the facilities thus afforded for building. The society is good, and the educational institutions are not surpassed by those of any town in the north. The Library of the Literary Society is extensive and well selected, while the Museum of the Scientific Institution is stored with articles of virtu from all parts of the world. Recently there has been added to the attractions of the burgh a Bath House with all the newest appliances, which, along with the natural amenities of the place, has had the effect of largely increasing the number of summer visitors. Tourists have of late years discovered that there are objects of interest and beauty in Banff and its neighbourhood worthy of being visited, and the railways from both north and south render the locality of easy access. Duff House, the principal seat of the Earl of Fife, is in the immediate neighbourhood. The hotel accommodation is excellent. Banff as a seaport has a good harbour and considerable shipping. The chief industries are the manufacture of woollen goods, leather, and tobacco; shipbuilding, ironfounding, distilling, brewing and printing. The fisheries also are important.

The Parliamentary burgh of Banff includes Macduff, a burgh of Barony, distant about half a mile on the east side of the Deveron, and with a population of 3403. Banff is one of the Elgin district of burghs, and its Parliamentary constituency is 989.

M. E. Cunninghame Grant Duff of Eden, M.P. for the Burgh.

MORAYSHIRE.

This county may be considered as that part forming what may have been the home district of the ancient and extensive "Province of Moray." It is about 40 miles north and south, and 20 east and west. On the east it is bounded by Banffshire, and on the west by Inverness and Nairn shires; on the north it is washed by the Moray Firth.

The whole area is estimated at 531 square miles, or 340,000 acres. The population in 1871 was 43,598. The parliamentary constituency in 1873-1874 was 1424. The value of property within the County, for the year 1873-74 including railways, but excluding Royal Burghs of Elgin and Forres, was £170,445 17s.

The county is divided into the parishes of Alves, St. Andrews-Lhanbryd, Birnie, Dallas, Drainie, Duffus, Dyke, Edinkillie, Elgin, Forres, Kinross, Knockando, Rafford, Rothes, Speymouth, New Spynie, Urquhart, and part of Bellie, Boharm, Cromdale, Inverallan, Keith, and Inveravon.

The lower part of Moraysire is exceedingly fertile, and in no district is farming better understood, or more successfully prosecuted. The rivers of the shire are the Spey, the Findhorn, and the Lossie. The scenery is varied, embracing every character of sylvan, marine, alpine, and champaign. It boasts of two royal burghs—Elgin, which is the head burgh, and Forres—besides the important villages of Findhorn, Lhanbryd, Burghead, Lossiemouth, Hopeman, Branderburgh, Rothes, Fochabers, Garmouth, Kingston, Grantown, &c.

CITY AND BURGH OF ELGIN.

This city is pretty centrally situated as regards the lower district of the county. It was made a royal burgh by William the Lion. Externally the scenery is in many points of view exquisitely fine, and internally the town relatively presents an appearance of wealth. The buildings are generally tasteful, and throughout there is a considerable air of cleanliness. The church is conspicuous from its position and style of architecture. The hospital occupies a healthy site. The institutions of the place are varied and important, while the Morayshire Railway has the effect of virtually making it a seaport. Population in 1871, 7339; parliamentary constituency in 1873, 806. Elgin is the head of a parliamentary district of burghs, and is justly famed for the ruins of its once magnificent cathedral. The value of property within the parliamentary boundaries for the year 1873-74, was £22,178 7s 2d. The Railway valuation was £806.

ROYAL BURGH OF FORRES.

Forres was enfranchised by William I., and consists of several streets, the principal extending east and west. In the centre of the principal street stands a handsome market-cross, much in the style of Sir W. Scott's monument in Edinburgh. Forres has no resident sheriff-substitute; but courts by the sheriff, justices of the peace, and bailies of the burgh, are regularly held in the court-house. There is a prison connected with the public buildings, and the whole is surmounted by an elegant spire, which has recently been supplied with illuminated glass dials. It is in Forres, which is the centre of the combined counties of Elgin or Moray and Nairnshires, that the member for these counties is elected. The scenery around Forres can scarcely be surpassed, from the variety of prospect afforded by the neighbouring ground, the windings of the Findhorn, &c.—and it is anticipated that villas of a superior order will soon grace the rising ground close to the town, and render Forres, now so easy of access by the Highland Railway, from Perth to this burgh, one of the loved spots of Scotland. From its sweet and balmy climate, the Forres district has long been known as the Montpelier of Scotland. This has been the cause of its being selected for the erection of a Hydropathic Establishment, which is one of the most complete and well conducted in the kingdom. To the east of the town is a storied obelisk, hitherto the reproach of anti-arian lore. Population, 3911. Constituency, 349; Revenue of Burgh taken from town's account of year 1871-72, £1,258 2s 8d. Distance from Inverness by upper Nairn road, 26½ miles; by lower 23½. Forres forms one of the Inverness District of Burghs. By rail the distance is 24½ miles to Inverness. The Perth and Inverness section of the Highland Railway, opened in September 1863, has its junction with the Main Line at Forres; and the great traffic, which has surpassed the expectations of its Directors, is likely to increase considerably the trade and importance of the town.

GRANTOWN.

This village is nicely situated, and well and regularly built. In all these respects, and in point of cleanliness and salubrity, it is said to have a Scottish rival. The houses are not large; but are neat and substantial. The credit of this is due to the late Sir James Grant of Grant, the founder. The edifices are 160, and the inhabitants 1500. The material of which the houses are composed is a whitish, fine-grained granite. The place possesses three Banks, excellent Schools, and new Court-House and Public Offices, and an orphan asylum, and is specially constituted by Act of Parliament the seat of a court for transacting claims under the Small Debt Act from part of Inverness-shire, in which the judges of that jurisdiction preside. Grantown has suddenly attracted the attention of tourists, from the interesting fact, that Her Most Gracious Majesty, accompanied by the Prince Consort and suite, paid a private visit to the village on the 4th September, 1860, and passed the night at the Grant Arms Hotel. Distance from Inverness, 34 miles; from Elgin 34 miles; from Forres, 22 miles; from Nairn, 23 miles.

SHERIFF COURTS.

The Sheriff of Inverness-shire holds a Circuit Small Debt Court on the first Monday after the 15th of Jan., May, and Sept.; and the Sheriff of Elgin-shire on the first Wednesday after the second Monday of February, June, September and December. ## NAIRNSHIRE.

This county is bounded on the west by Inverness-shire, south by Banffshire, north by the Moray Frith, and east by Morayshire, of which it is anciently formed a part. It extends north and south 22 miles, and 15 east and west. Its area is 200 square miles, or 129,000 acres; 70,000 of these are tilled, 30,000 untilled, and 28,000 are unproductive. The following are the parishes into which the county is divided, viz.: Ardclach, Auldearn, Nairn, and part of Cawdor, Croy, Daviot, Dyke, Moy, Petty, and Urquhart.

The population in 1861 was 8372, exclusive of Ferrintosh (in the Parish of Urquhart, locally situated in Ross-shire), which in 1861, was 1294. The constituency is 246. The valued rental in 1674 was £15,162 Scots; according to the Valuation Roll of 1873-74, it is £32,544 3s 6d, including the railway valuation. Nairn is the only royal burgh in the county; but there are the villages of Cawdor and Auldearn. The county is under the same sheriff as Moray and Banff. It also joins Moray in sending a member to Parliament; but it has a separate sheriff-substitute, and is municipally and otherwise perfectly independent.

BURGH OF NAIRN.

Nairn is most pleasantly situated, and is generally considered as very healthy. It is much frequented by invalids and others on account of its pure air and advantages of sea-bathing, while it is provided with the best artificial baths in the North, whether taken cold, tepid, or hot. Nairn was regalised by William the Lion. Many of the inhabitants are fishermen, but it cannot be called a fishing-station in the larger sense of that term. It stands on the north bank of the river from which it derives its name, within a very short distance of its junction with the sea. For this reason it was anciently called Invernairn. Population in 1871, 4869—constituency, 452. Rental per Valuation Roll of 1873-74, £9736, including railway valuation. ## INVERNESS-SHIRE.

This is the largest county in Scotland. From east to west it extends 85 miles, and 55 from north to south. It includes the extensive districts of Glenelg, Lochaber, Strathglass, Glenelg, Arisaig, the Aird, Lovat country, and the Moidart, besides the most important of the Western Isles, including Skye, North and South Uist, Barra, Rasay, Harris, &c. St. Kilda is also a part of Inverness-shire.

The face of the country is generally mountainous, and contains the highest elevations in Scotland. Among these are Ben Nevis, 4370 feet above the level of the sea; Cairngorm, 4090; Scarsough, 3414; and Mealfourvie, 3160. The principal rivers are the Ness, the Nairn, the Findhorn, the Spey, the Lochy, the Oich, the Garry, the Glass, the Farrar, and the Beaully. The principal lakes are Loch Ness, Loch Oich, and Loch Lochy. These rivers and lakes abound in fresh water fish; and the districts, chiefly consisting of moor, yield abundance of the several sorts of game. The scenery almost everywhere is beautiful, and in many places grand. Of these descriptions are especially the parts between Beaully bridge and Aigas, along the line of the Caledonian Canal, the Falls of Foyers, the Pass of Inverfarigaig, &c.

Inverness-shire is well traversed with roads; while the Caledonian Canal, and the safe and convenient navigation afforded by the east and west seas, renders communication easy between it and all other parts of the world.

It contains the following parishes, and parts of parishes, viz.:—Alvie, Ardnamurchan, Barra, Boleskine and Abertarff, Bracadale, Daviot, Dores, Durinish, Rothiemurchus, Glenelg, Harris, Inverness, Kilmorack, Kilmuir, Kiltarlity, Kingussie, Kirkhill, Laggan, Moy, Petty, Portree, Sleat, Snizort, Strath, N. Uist, S. Uist, Glen-Urquhart, Bernethy, Cawdor, Cromdale, Croy, Duthill, Kilmallie, and Small Isles. These occupy an area of 46,000 square miles, or 2,944,000 acres, 500,000 of which are productive, 750,000 are untilled, and 1,694,000 are unproductive.

The population in 1871 was 87,480. The old valued rental of the year 1690 was 53,888 pounds Scots—the new, as assessed to the property tax, county, £284,949 0s 4d, and burgh, £51,444 14s 10d. This is exclusive of charities and properties owned by persons whose income is under £100 a-year. The ordinary rental of the County for the year 1872-73 was £282,989 10s 4d. Railways and Canal, £23,188. Gross annual value of County, exclusive of Burgh, £308,137 0s 4d. The constituency for 1873-74 is 1734.

There is but one Royal Burgh in the shire; but there are the villages of Campbeltown, Beaully, Kingussie, Fort-Augustus, Fort-William, Portree, Broadford, Lochmaddy, &c. All matters connected with its government are conducted at Inverness, and the officials there have jurisdiction over the whole county; but for the better administration of justice, the shire is divided into the districts of Inverness, Fort-William, Skye, and the Long Island, each being under the separate jurisdiction of a Sheriff-Substitute; and the three former, with Kingussie and Lochmaddy, are the polling places for county elections.

CALEDONIAN CANAL—(ORIGINALLY OPENED IN 1822.)

The Line of this grand national work passes through the Great Glen of Scotland, in which the extensive lochs—Ness, Oich, and Lochy—lie embedded, presenting to the tourist some of the most magnificent scenery in the world. Since the late improvements were executed, the route has become a favourite one with large craft passing westward from the Baltic, &c.

The Canal is sixty miles in length, of which thirty-eight are lake water, and twenty-two are cutting. There are twenty-nine locks on the line—the one to the summit level in Loch Oich being about 100 feet above high water ordinary neap tides.

Having recently undergone extensive repairs and improvements, it was opened for general traffic in the early part of 1847, and can now accommodate vessels not exceeding in dimensions, over all, viz.—Length, 160 feet—breadth, 38 feet—draught of water when at the standard level, 17 feet. Steam boats have been put on for tugging vessels through the lakes and estuaries on the line of the navigation.

The toll for passing along the Canal from sea to sea is rated the dead weight of cargo on the rates varying from 6d. to 1s. 6d. per ton, according to the nature of the cargo, the same rates applying to the first 100 tons of a larger vessel, but being only 1s. per ton on so much of the tonnage as exceeds 100 tons; on unladen vessels, or vessels in ballast, the dues for passing wholly through the canal are 1s. per ton of the registered tonnage of the vessel, B.M. For less distances they are rated proportionally. Screw steamers are charged 1s 9d per ton; paddle steamers, 2s per ton.

The above is exclusive of a moderate charge for steam tugboats when they are used. Special duties are levied on steam passage boats and vessels loading or discharging cargoes in the Canal basin or Harbours.

The Canal Charge.—Through rates on Herrings, and Timber (not manufactured), are one shilling per ton of herring, or load of timber. Coal and salt, 6d per ton. Slates, 9d per ton.

Since 1st August, 1861, by Act of Parliament the following Duties have been levied on Passengers passing through the Caledonian and Crinan Canals:—

PER SWIFT PASSAGE STEAMERS.

30 and under 60 miles, 1st class, 1s., 2d class, 6d.; 30 and under — miles, 1st class, 6d., 2d class, 3d.

PER LUGGAGE STEAMER.

For each Cabin Passenger, above 30 and under 60 miles, 6d.; do., 30 miles and under, 3d. For each Steerage Passenger, above 30 and under 60 miles, 4d; do., 30 miles and under, 2d.

BURGH OF INVERNESS.

This ancient Royal Burgh, once solely on the south-east, now occupies considerable space on both sides of the Ness. The communication between these two natural divisions, previous to 1808, was carried on by means of a handsome stone bridge, erected in 1685, which, however, was borne down by the memorable flood of 24th January, 1849. Since 1808, with the exception of short interruptions, the town rejoices in the convenience of two bridges. An elegant and commodious iron suspension bridge, opened in September 1856, has been erected on the site of the old stone bridge. The south-side is still the business side of the town. Great improvements have taken place in Inverness within the last thirty years, upon the roads and walks along the banks of the Ness and principal thoroughfares of the town, and in providing for more efficient sewerage. The Gas and Water Company has proved of considerable utility; but at the head of native useful institutions may be placed the Caledonian Bank, and the several Railway Companies—Inverness and Aberdeen, Inverness and Ross-shire, and Inverness and Perth—most one working management at Inverness. Several handsome new buildings have recently been erected, as the Caledonian Bank, the Railway Station, the Post Office, the Castle and County Prison, the Burgh Court-house and Police Office, the Union Hotel (now the Highland Club), Station Hotel, and the West Parish Church, the Free High Church and spire, the Free East Church, St. John's Episcopal Chapel, Union Street, St. Andrew's Cathedral, Young Men's Christian Association Buildings, and Workmen's Club are of this description. Private edifices, too, of tasteful models, and elegant villas, are constantly springing up in the town and suburbs. There are several public walks in the neighbourhood. The Ness Islands form the principal walk in the summer months; but paths immemorably patent, and long the favourite resort of the inhabitants, have recently been shut up.

The principal streets on the south-east side of the river are High Street, Bridge Street, Petty Street, Inglis Street, Church Street, Union Street, Academy Street, Chapel Street, Shore Street, Douglas Row, Bank Street, Rose Street, and Castle Street; and on the north-west, Huntly Street, Telford Street, Celt Street, Grant Street, Queen Street, Kessock Street, Telford Road, &c.

Inverness was erected into a Royal burgh by William the Lion. The Royalty did not include many important parts of the town, the one side of some streets being within, and the other without the liberties—thus affording a refuge to violators of the law protection from the jurisdiction of the magistrates. By the Burgh Act, 1847, this is obviated, by extending the boundaries to the parliamentary royalty, as fixed at the passing of the Reform Bill in 1832. This extends from the Clachnaharry pier in a straight line to the upper angle of the Ness Islands. Crossing the Ness the line runs along the Aultnaskiach burn, and across the Muirfield, to a point near the F house, thence in a line drawn due North to the sea, and thence to the first-mentioned point at Clachnaharry pier. For municipal purposes the royalty is divided into three different wards—1st, the west side of the river Ness, returning two councillors; 2d, all south of a line drawn along the centre of Bridge Street, High Street, Petty Street, and the Millburn Road, returning two councillors; 3d, all north of the line drawn along the centre of Bridge Street, &c., returning three councillors. The population of the burgh in 1871 was 14,463. The burghal constituency is 1500.

For choosing persons to represent proprietors of heritages below the annual value of £20, at the Parochial Board, the town and parish are also simply divided into the same number of wards.

The old Castle of Inverness—then called Fort-George, and destroyed by the Highland army in 1746—occupied the present site of the Castle and County Prison. Cromwell's Fort—now called "the Citadel"—is close to the harbour, the moat being filled up. On the west side of the town are the vitrified fort of Craig Phadric, and the well-wooded and singularly-shaped hill of Tomnahurich. At a distance of four miles south-east of the town is the battlefield of Drummosie, or Culloden Moor, where ended the hopes of the Stuart line, and closed the opposition to the present reigning dynasty. At Clachnaharry, a monument is erected, commemorating a sanguinary fray between the Mackintoshes and Munroes in 1454.

The constitution of the Society embraces commendable points, such as the cultivation of the language, poetry, and music of the Scottish Highlands; the rescuing from oblivion of Keltic poetry, traditions, legends, books, and MSS.; the formation in Inverness of a library of works on Highland subjects; and the vindication of the rights of the Highland people. SICK AND BURIAL YEARLY SOCIETIES.

These now exist on the yearly plan, and are in this respect a decided improvement on the old permanent societies. For a weekly payment of 2d., a certain sum can be insured in cases of sickness. Losses are deducted at the end of the year, the balance returned to members, the societies dissolve, and re-formations take place, when all dissatisfied may exclude themselves. It is a marked sign of the growing intelligence of the working classes that such associations are becoming so numerous, and of augmenting the sense of independence, in cases of disability, to rely upon their own resources. They are also used as deposit clubs.

BEAULY.

This village, a Burgh of Barony, is situated on the north bank of the river of that name. It is, on the whole, a clean, regularly laid out, well-built little place, with a population of upwards of 800 souls. The road to it lies by Clachnabarry, Bunchrew, Phopachy, and Bogroy, and thence by Moniack and Beaully Bridge, or by Kirkhill and Beaully Ferry. The ferry is impassable by horses or carriages, but a boat plies for the use of foot passengers. In Beaully are the ruins of a Priory, founded by John Bisset of Lovat in 1230. At the Reformation, it reverted in trust to the Lovat family, but now forms part of the jurisdiction of "Woods and Forests." Beaully rejoices in good inns, which are much frequented by tourists visiting the unsurpassed scenery of the Falls of Kilmorack, the Dreim, Strathglass, the Chisholm's Pass, Prince Charlie's Cave in Glenstrathfarrar, and the ruins of Castle Spynie, and the vitrified forts, Dunmore, Dunaver, and Dunfion, besides Beaufort Castle, Belladrum (the seat of Mr. Merry, M.P.), and the ruins of Kilchrist, the scene of the Macdonell's burning the M'Kenzies alive; the beautiful Burn of Teanassie, Dunmore of Breachachy, anciently the stronghold of the M'Leans of Kilmorack; Reelig Burn, where thirty-six different varieties of ferns are to be found, besides other rare plants and trees; Tarradale House, the birthplace of Sir Roderick J. Murchison; Redcastle, the oldest inhabited house perhaps in all Scotland; the Ruins of Kilooy Castle. At Culbirnie there is a Druid Circle in a complete state of preservation. Beaully is traversed by the great north road to Dingwall, Tain, and Wick. The Railway Station is convenient, and the Posting Establishment unsurpassed in the North. It also possesses a safe and convenient harbour, and carries on a pretty extensive trade in grain, timber, coal, lime, &c. The Established and Free Churches are beyond the bounds of the village, situated at convenient distances from it. The only edifice of a religious character in the village is the Roman Catholic Chapel. Distance from Inverness by Moniack and Beaully Bridge, twelve miles; by Kirkhill and Beaully Ferry, nine and a-half miles. The Highland Railway Station is within a quarter of a mile of the village.

CAMPBELLTOWN.

The village of Campbelltown lies about a mile and a-half south of Fort-George. It is built without any regard to regularity, and affords qualifications for about twenty voters at the county election. Partly it is a fishing village, and is resorted to during the summer months as a bathing place, and by invalids in search of health, for its chalybeate waters. There are 3 hotels, and the Fort-George station of the Inverness and Nairn Railway is about a mile and a-half from the village, while its proximity to Fort-George brings it no inconsiderable number of visitors. Distance from Inverness, ten miles.

Flemington, General Gardiner, Cromal Lodge, Campbelltown, and Captain J. Rose, Connage.

 it lies by Culloden, Castle-Stuart, the Church of Petty, Connage, and the village of Campbelltown. The ramparts are bomb-proof, and it is said that

FORT-WILLIAM.

Fort-William, situated at the head of Loch Linne, was built shortly after the revolution, by the revolutionary general, Mackay. Like others of the same line of strongholds, it has outlived its original purpose. It is a small place, approaching the triangular rather than any other form. It is now dismantled, and has become the property of Mrs. Cameron Campbell, of Marzie, by purchase from the Government. The principal features in the works are a ditch, ravelin, and glacis. It contains a bomb-proof magazine, and accommodation for a limited garrison. It was assailed in 1745 by a part of Prince Charles Edward's army; but Cumberland's march on Inverness obliged the siege to be raised. As it has its name from King William III., the adjoining village is called Maryburgh, in honour of his consort, but this is a distinction probably laid aside. The village consists principally of three parallel lines of buildings, forming two streets, in which are several good hotels and shops.
 It contains 1500 inhabitants. Immediately on the south-east, Ben Nevis, the highest mountain in Scotland, ascertained, by recent Government survey, (1869) to be 4406 feet above the level of the sea, and its disumference at the base is supposed to exceed 24 miles—towers into the clouds. Accredited guides to its very summit may be had on any lawful day at any of the hotels. Between the fort and the mouth of the Caledonian Canal at Corpach, and, of course, at the disembogement of the Lochy, are the ruins of Inverlochy Castle, still sufficiently interesting. On "the Craigs" in the neighbourhood, a monument is erected in commemoration of Ewen Maclachlan, for many years Master of the Grammar School, Old Aberdeen—a distinguished scholar, and compiler of a Gaelic dictionary. Distance from Inverness, 66 miles by the road.

KINGUSSIE.

This is the capital of the once renowned lordship of Badenoch. It is exactly by rail half-way between Inverness and Perth. It was all but inaccessible to the general public until that great undertaking the "Inverness and Perth Junction Railway," now the "Highland Railway," opened up the Highlands through and through. This railway is turning out a good investment for the Shareholders, and it is having a great and lasting effect on the Highlands for good. It is not unlikely Kingussie may largely share in its benefits, from its position, nestled among the highest mountains in Scotland, and about fifty miles removed from the sea on all sides. It has already become a favourite resort for parties from the sea-side, in quest of change of air. The inhabitants, who seem anxious to encourage the residence of strangers among them, seem to be doing all they can to make the place as inviting as possible. They have unanimously adopted the necessary clauses of the Police Act, for the purpose of getting the village thoroughly drained, and pure spring water from the hills introduced, for both of which there are rare facilities. These movements are in the right direction, and, if properly carried out, ought to make Kingussie as healthy a little village as any in the kingdom. Evan Baillie, Esq. of Dochfour, Glenelg, &c., is the Superior, and much will depend on the encouragement he will give to these efforts of the inhabitants; but if airily followed up, this village, beautifully situated on the banks of the Spey, and the centre of an extensive district of country, may yet become a place of considerable importance.

It is reached by steamer from Oban, or by rail by Dingwall, Contin, Garve, Auchinault, Luib, Craig, & Jeantown, to Strone Ferry, and thence by railway steamer. It is called Portree—a contraction and corruption of "Port-an-Righ"—the king's haven or harbour—because James V. dropped anchor there, while making a progress round his kingdom. The bay is beautifully picturesque, and the town has lately rapidly risen in importance. ### FORT-AUGUSTUS.

Fort-Augustus stands on the western extremity of Lochness, and between the line of the Caledonian Canal and the mouth of the Tarff. The land routes to it from Inverness are, on the south of Lochness by Dores, 8 miles, the famous fall of Foyers, 16, and thence through Stratherrick—and on the north by Lochend, 7 miles, Drumadrochit, in the beautiful Gles of Urquhart, 14, and Invermoriston, 27; or, per steam, by the Canal, which is lined by the most magnificent scenery imaginable. The fort was built in 1734, and appears well as it is approached eastward, standing as it does on a little eminence. It is of a square construction, bastioned at the angles, and is protected by a ditch—in which is a small battery—a covert way, and glacis. On the north is a rising ground, from which it was reduced by the Highlanders in 1745. Altogether it is capable of accommodating 300 men and officers, but it is seldom garrisoned by a tenth of that number. There is a small village to which the name of the fort is common. Distance from Inverness, 35 miles.

U I S T, &amp;c.

The Parishes of North and South Uist, Barra and Harris, form a judicial district of the County, Lochmaddy being the seat of the Court. There is communication thrice a fortnight by steam vessels plying 'twixt Glasgow and the Western Isles, and a tri-weekly mail service by "The Dream" sailing packet 'twixt Dunvegan and Lochmaddy. Distance from Inverness 180 miles. The Kelp manufacture has been carried on in these Islands for about 30 years—the commodity sometimes having realized as much as £20 per ton, and now fetching but scarcely the expense of manufacture. The shores of North Uist are let to the British Sea Weed Company, who have an establishment at Locheford. Since 1866 numerous herring fishing stations have been established, no less than 80,000 barrels having been caught in the Barra district alone in the summer of 1871—the fishing being prosecuted by boats from all parts of Scotland, and extensive curing places, conducted by Messrs Bethuen, of Leith, Davidson, Dundee, and others. Several very old cod and ling fisheries, too, are carried on in Barra and other parts of the Islands.

ROSS-SHIRE.

This county is of great extent, stretching from the shores of the Moray Frith on the east to the Atlantic on the west. The island of The Lews forms part of the county. On the south the county is bounded by Inverness-shire, and on the north by Sutherland. For judicial purposes the counties of Cromarty and Sutherland are joined to Ross, the sheriffdom bearing the title of Ross, Cromarty, and Sutherland. The same sheriff-depute presides over all; but each county is distinct in jurisdiction, except in regard to such parts of the county of Cromarty as are locally situate in Ross, which are subject to the jurisdiction of the officials of the sheriff courts at Dingwall and Tain. For other purposes they are separate.

Its length is 67 miles, and its breadth, 58; its area is 2774 miles, or 1,775,830 acres. Of these, 301,000 are productive, 545,000 are untilled, and 929,830 are irreclaimable. The valuation amounts to £231,712 12s 8d.

The population in 1861 was 81,820. The constituency of the county in 1862 was 879.

Ross is popularly divided into districts, such as Ardrross, Ardmeanach (Lord of Ardmeanach was a title of the old Earls of Ross, and was conferred by Mary Queen of Scots on Darnley, on the day of their marriage) or Black Isle, Kintail, Strathconon, Lochcarron, Lochalsh, Lochbroom, and the Lews. The parishes of the two counties are—Alness, Applecross, Avoch, Barvas, Contin, Cromarty, Dingwall, Edderton, Fearn, Fodderty, Gairloch, Gleshiel, Killearnan, Kilmuir Wester, and Suddy, Kilmuir Easter Kiltearn, Kintail, Kincardine, Knockbain, Lochalsh, Lochbroom, Lochcarron, Lochs, Logie Easter, Nigg, Resolis, Rosemarkie, Rosskeen, Stornoway, Tain, Tarbat, Uig, Urquhart, and Logie Wester, and part of Urray.

Ross-shire has four royal burghs. Formerly it had five. Cromarty, once a royal burgh, resigned its charter and renounced its privileges. The remaining burghs are—Dingwall, Tain, Fortrose, and Rosemarkie—the last two, although under the same municipal government, are distinct burghs, each constituted by royal charter—besides the town of Stornoway, and the villages of Invergordon, Ullapool, Jeantown, Plocktown, Shieldaig, Alness, Cononbridge, Avoch, Maryburgh, Contin, Redcastle, Charlestown, Mualochy, Evantown, Ballintraid, Barbaraville, &c.

By Act of Parliament, 8 and 9 Vict., cap. 99, Dingwall is declared the head burgh of the shire; but for the better and more expeditious administration of justice it is divided into the Easter, Wester, and Lews districts, at the head of which respectively are the towns of Tain, Dingwall, and Stornoway, each having a resident sheriff-substitute, and a sheriff-court.

BURGH OF FORTROSE.

Fortrose - of old the "Chanonry of Ross," and an Episcopal See of considerable importance, as well as the seat of law, divinity, and learning in these parts—was erected into a "free burgh" in favour of the reverend father in Christ, Thomas, Bishop of Ross, and united to the adjoining elder burgh of Rosemarkie, by James II., in 1455. Being a Bishop's Burgh, Fortrose, along with other ecclesiastical lands and villas, reverted to the Crown at the Reformation, and was, in consequence, enfranchised anew, and erected into an independent Royal Burgh in 1590, and again annexed to Rosemarkie in 1592, under the united name of the Royal Burgh of Fortrose. The Bishoprick of Ross was formed by King David I. between the years 1124 and 1128, at which period Macbeth, its first Bishop, appears on record. The Cathedral or Diocesan seal of Fortrose, now used as that of the united Burghs, is circumscribed in season characters—Scapitule et Bonifacu de Rosemarkiu. The cathedral church, dedicated to Saint Peter and Saint Boniface, stood at the Chanonry, now Fortrose. When entire, it consisted of choir and nave with aisles, eastern Lady Chapel and Chapter House at the north-east end. Its remains consist of the south aisle to chancel and nave and the detached Chapter House—all in the middle-pointed style. A large bell now hung on a wooden spire bears the name of Thomas Tulloch, Bishop of Ross, 1460, and an inscription intimating its dedication to the Virgin Mary and Saint Boniface. Rosemarkie was enfranchised by Alexander II., in or about 1216. The ancient Burgh seal of Rosemarkie has inscribed on it the figure of Saint Peter mitred in a shield. The circumscription is Sigillum est muncæ Burge de Rosemarkiye. The original church of Rosemarkie is ascribed to Saint Boniface, surname Queretinus an Italian, who, in the seventh or eighth century, is said to have come into Scotland for the purpose of inducing the church there to conform with the practices of the Church of Rome, and after founding churches in many parts of the country, to have settled in Rosemarkie and to have built there a church in which he was afterwards buried. The church was dedicated to him, and stood on the same site as the new church built in 1821. The town is regularly built, well lighted, and abundantly supplied with water. It is romantically situated on the shores of the Moray Firth, and, from the salubrity of the climate, and the beautiful walks in the neighbourhood and along the shore, possesses great attractions as summer and sea-bathing quarters. From the ridge of the hill, at the root of which the burgh lies, a wide and varied panorama of mountain, hill, and sea stretches out before the eye. Within a wide grassy enclosure, in the centre of Fortrose, there are the remains of a once grand and imposing Cathedral—the see of the Bishops of Ross. Between the two towns, which are distant about half-a-mile from each other, a long tongue of land, having a beautiful sandy beach, and fine level lawn—the public links—on both sides, terminated by a lighthouse of the second order, runs out into the Firth. A ferry connects the peninsula at this point with Fort George and the Inverness-shire coast. The Burgh having an independent revenue, besides a considerable income from various mortifications, left for the benefit of the poor, taxation is almost nominal. Living is cheap, and there is an excellent endowed Academy, besides several good schools. There is also a comfortable hotel, and sea-bathing quarters can easily be had. Fortrose likewise possesses a safe and convenient harbour. Distance from Inverness, about eleven miles, from Dingwall about fifteen, and from Cromarty about 9 miles. The fishing village of Avoch is within a mile and a-half. The population of the burgh by the census of 1871 is 1017. Constituency, 134. The annual value of real property within the Parliamentary boundary, for the year 1873-74, is £3127. The comparative revenue for the same period is £216.

THE ISLAND OF LEWS.

This Island, next to Ireland, is the largest of the British isles, being 45 miles in length, 15 in average breadth, and 30 in extreme breadth. It has an area of 417,460 acres, and the population, according to the last census, was 23,443. It was acquired by Sir James Matheson of Achany, Bart., Lord Lieutenant for Ross-shire, in 1844, from the representatives of the late Earl of Seaforth, to whom he paid £190,000 for it, and since then he has expended large sums in improvements. On a height overlooking the town, and surrounded by tastefully laid out grounds, is Lews Castle, where the family spend a great part of the year—a modern building in the Tudor style. There is a glass Conservatory, with a colonade communicating with the Castle, erected by Mr Cranston, Birmingham, who has patented the plan. Generally the grounds about the Castle have been changed from rugged nature, to the most enchanting walks during summer, and over which tourists and the Stornowegians have free access to perambulate. There are Chemical Works, near Stornoway, and at Garabost, for making Paraffin oils, lubricating grease, and anti-fouling grease, for ships' bottoms, from Peat, which affords employment to the natives, who have vastly benefited by the proprietor's continued outlay in various parts of the Island. In no place is this more conspicuous than in the Old Town of Stornoway, where there is a commodious wooden wharf and stone pier, built by the Pier and Harbour Commission with money supplied by him at interest. A first class patent slip capable of drawing vessels of 1000 tons has also been erected by the present proprietor at a large cost, and he has munificently contracted with the post-office to carry the mails from Ullapool to the Lews daily for six months, and three times a week during the rest of the year at a considerable loss to himself; and through his untiring exertions and untiring sacrifices telegraphic communication has been obtained to Stornoway. The town has in other respects undergone great changes, the principal streets are paved with Caithness flags; gas and water have long ago been introduced, through the instrumentality, mainly, of the proprietor; and there are three water fountains, erected by Mrs Percival, Lady Matheson's mother, whose good deeds are wide spread. The fisheries are prosecuted with much success; and the annual exports, comprising fish, cattle, horses, sheep, and wool, are estimated at £150,000. The imports amount to an equal if not greater sum. The Island abounds in interesting remains of antiquity—the most remarkable being the druidical or sepulchral circles at Calternish, about 16 miles from Stornoway and two miles from Prince Arthur's Hotel, Garrynahine—the duns or burgs of Bragor, and Carloway, and a number of ancient chapels. At Gress, about six miles from Stornoway, there is a cave upwards of 200 yards in length, partially covered with stalactites, like the sparr cave of Strathaird, in Skye.

The constituency, including the Stornoway votes, which count with those of the shires of Ross and Cromarty, is 181.

CROMARTYSHIRE.

This is a county of small extent, comprising the eastern part of the Black Isle, or Ardmearach, part of the district generally called Easter Ross, Coigach on the west coast, most part of the northern acclivity of Strathpeffer, and several detached penindles widely distant from each other, but all locally situated within the county of Ross, in which, though claiming some institutions peculiar to other counties, it is municipally sunk. It has no sheriff of its own, nor even a substitute, but forming little more than a circuit in the itinerancies of the sheriff-substitute of Tain.

Owing to the strange intermixture of territory alluded to, it was impossible to give a list of parishes altogether distinct from those of the dominant shire. They are therefore included in that of the county of Ross. The ancient valuation of property was £12,896; but the modern is common to both counties. This is also the case as to the population. The area, but perhaps only of Cromarty proper, is computed at sixty-two square miles, or 39,696 acres. It has a joint parliamentary representation with Ross.

COURT OF LIEUTENANCY.

Lord Lieutenant, the Duke of Sutherland.

Vice-Lieut., R. B. Æ. M'Leod of Cadboll. Convener, George W. H. Ross of Cromarty.

Clerk of Supply, Joseph Williams.

ORKNEY.

The Islands forming this County lie off the North Coast of Caithness, from which they are separated by the Pentland Firth, which is from 5½ to about 7 miles broad. They are 56 in number, of which 29 are inhabited. The principal inhabited Islands are:—The Mainland or Pomona, South Ronaldsay, Sanday, Stronsay, Westray, Shapinsay, Walls and Hoy, Rousay, Papa Westray, Burray, Graemsay, Egilsay, North Ronaldsay, Gairsay, Flottay, Veira, and Papa Stronsay.

The area of the Islands is about 244 geographical miles; the population in 1871 was 31,241; the Parliamentary constituency for 1872-73 is 1270. The old valued rent of Orkney, made in 1653-71, is £57,149 Scots, and the new valuation for 1873-74, is £56,629 11s stg., exclusive of the burgh of Kirkwall. The county is now under the same Sheriff as Caithness and Shetland, and unites with the latter in sending a member to Parliament; but it has a separate Sheriff-Substitute, and is otherwise entirely independent.

Kirkwall is the only Royal Burgh in Orkney; but Stromness is a Burgh of Barony, with a population of about 2000, and it has an excellent harbour, which was formerly much frequented by shipping.

There has been steam communication between Orkney, Aberdeen, and Granton for the last 36 years. The traffic has now so much increased that two steamers weekly are found insufficient in the summer months to carry all the stock and goods from Kirkwall and Lerwick. One of the steamers runs weekly on the passage during the winter. There is, besides, a daily mail steamer between Stromness and Scrabster Roads in Caithness, which also carries passengers, cattle, and goods. It is also expected that, under the new "Orkney Harbour Act," a pier for the accommodation of steamers and sailing vessels will soon be erected at Scapa Bay.

K I R K W A L L

was a place of much importance during the Scandinavian dominion in the islands, and, on their annexation to the Scottish Crown in 1468, it was erected into a Royal Burgh by James III. It possesses some very interesting ancient structures. The Cathedral of St Magnus, founded by Ronald, Earl of Orkney, in 1137, in honour of Earl Magnus, and subsequently enlarged from time to time, is the most complete building of the kind in Scotland, and, together with the ruins of the Bishop's Palace, in which King Hakon of Norway died in 1263, and the ruins of the Earl's Palace, both in close proximity, forms a picturesque group, unsurpassed by anything of the kind in Scotland.

A Gas Company was started, and the town lighted with gas upwards of thirty years ago, and many improvements have lately been made in and around the Burgh. Tasteful and commodious houses are now springing up on its outskirts, and there is a handsome new iron pier to which the steamers come at all times. A large fleet can ride at anchor, in complete security, in Kirkwall Bay, which is sheltered from the ocean on all sides.

The valuation of the burgh for 1873-74 is £7153 9s 3d, and the burghal constituency is 432, and the population in 1871 was 3434. Kirkwall is one of the Wick district of burghs represented by John Pender, M.P.

Cromwell's Fort is now used as a battery by the Kirkwall Volunteers. In the vicinity of the town there are several ruins of buildings belonging to the early inhabitants of the islands. Close to the farm house of Quanterness is a large "Picts house," and not far from it, on the western slope of Wideford Hill, one of a smaller size. Remains of large buildings and subterranean chambers, exist at the old house of Saverock; and, in the summer of 1870, the ruins of a large "Brough" or circular tower, surrounded by numerous smaller structures, in the form of chambers and connecting passages, was discovered at Lingrow, and excavated, and, being within half-an-hour's walk of Kirkwall, can easily be visited by tourists.

Member for the Burgh, John Pender of Minard.
