TABLES OF THE TIDES

AT GLASGOW AND GREENOCK FOR 1877.

OBSERVATIONS.

In the Tide Table, if a blank, such as occurs on any day, there is high water only once that day. It is to be observed that morning is supposed to commence immediately after midnight, and evening immediately after noon. Noon is denoted by 0h 0m. Having assumed 12 hours 8 minutes as the time of full and change at Greenock, nothing more is necessary than to apply such time as under to the time given in the Greenock Table, and the result will be the time of High Water at each respective place.

THE CITY OF GLASGOW.

The City Chamberlain estimated the population of the City and Suburbs, at Midsummer of 1875, as follows:—

Total population situated within the Parliamentary boundary,	515,560
Outside of the Parliamentary City, but now forming part of the Municipal City.	19,000
So that the Municipal City of Glasgow contained at Midsummer of 1875 a population of	534,560
We may therefore estimate the population of the City and its adjuncts thus—

MUNICIPAL CITY, MIDDLE OF 1875.

Estimated population, as previously stated,	534,560
--	---------

SUBURBAN DISTRICTS, AT SAME DATE.

North Side of River—				Families.
Partick and Hillhead,	6,680
Maryhill and Milngavie,	2,674
Shettleston and Tollcross,	1,453
				10,807

And these multiplied by 5, represent, ——— 54,035

South Side of River—

Govan,	7,333
Pollokshields, Kinning Park, and Paisley Road,	3,608
Crosshill, Langside, and Cathcart,	2,986
Shawlands, Pollokshaws, and Thornliebank,	2,573
				16,505

And these also multiplied by 5, represent, ——— 82,525

Thus the City of Glasgow, including its connected and closely contiguous Suburban districts, represented, in the middle of 1875, a united population of as nearly as may be,	671,120
---	---------

GLASGOW CORPORATION TRAMWAYS.

These Tramways, which have been constructed by the Corporation, under the Glasgow Street Tramways Act, 1870, and the Glasgow Corporation Tramways Act, 1875, are leased to the Glasgow Tramway and Omnibus Company Limited for a term of 23 years from 1st July, 1871, and the agreement under which the lease is granted applies not only to the whole of the lines already authorised but also to any extension which may be made by the Corporation. By that agreement the Corporation are to borrow on their own security the capital required for construction and expenses, and the lessees are to pay the rate of interest actually paid by the Corporation, and their expenses of borrowing, management, &c., in addition to a sinking fund of three per cent. per annum. In lieu of any payment for pavement in streets not being turnpike roads, the lessees pay a fixed charge of £150 per annum per street mile. The lessees are also to set apart annually four per cent. on the monies spent on construction, as a fund for maintenance and renewals, the interest on which will be received by the lessees, and any balance at the end of the lease will revert to them.

GLASGOW HOME FOR DESERTED MOTHERS,

(208 Renfrew street).

Established in 1873, and supported by Voluntary Contribution

The aim and object of this Home is to supply a desideratum, the want of which has been long experienced in this city and the West of Scotland, viz., to afford temporary shelter and maintenance to destitute and houseless mothers, with their helpless infants. Those only who have for the first time deviated from the paths of virtue, or who have been led astray, are eligible for admission. While resident in the Home a vigilant supervision is exercised over them. Much attention is paid to their moral and religious welfare, and every effort made to procure suitable situations for them. The infants are placed under the care of proper and trustworthy nurses, all of whom are under the oversight and supervision of the Matron.

The Home is managed by a Committee of ladies, assisted by a Board of gentlemen, and is under the general superintendence of a Matron.

The object of this Institution is to afford assistance to natives, and widows, and families of natives of the City of Glasgow, who, from reverses of fortune or otherwise, have been reduced to necessitous circumstances; though not such casual or trivial relief as is properly obtained from the funds destined by law for the support of the poor, but rather such more ample and efficient assistance, as may tend to secure comparative ease and independence to the parties on whom it is bestowed.
 It is composed of parties born within the Royalty or Parliamentary limits of the Burgh, though donations are received and invited from those who, though not natives, have been identified, by long residence or commercial connection, with the interests and prosperity of the city, and who though not members, are enrolled in a separate class, titled donors. Legacies and bequests will also be received, and are invited from the opulent and generous either at home or abroad, who approve of its objects. A payment of £5 5s, either in one sum at entry, or by five successive yearly instalments of £1 1s, constitutes membership. Members and widows and families of members, are entitled to a preference in the distribution of the funds.

CARRICK'S UNIVERSAL INHALER AND RESPIRATOR

Have been pronounced by the Medical Press and Profession to be greatly superior to all others. Portable, durable, and easily used. Inhaler reduced in price to £1:1/; Respirator, 15/ and 7/6. A Pamphlet on the Cure of Affections of the Lungs and Throat, by Inhalation, containing full directions for self-use and receipts, price 6d, or sent post free for seven stamps.

IT has already received high professional commendation. Dr AITKEN speaks very favourably of it in the last edition of his "Practice of Medicine," and Dr MACLEAN, Professor of Medicine at the Army Medical School, Netley, has expressed an equally favourable opinion. Dr MORELL M'KENZIE, in a Testimonial dated March 20th, 1875, says that it "is the most perfect apparatus of the kind that he is acquainted with." When it was exhibited recently at a meeting of the Medical Society of London, it obtained the universal commendation of those members who were present. High temperatures can be readily obtained.

The Subjoined TESTIMONIALS are a sufficient guarantee as to the value of the Inhaler:—

Extract from Testimonial from MORELL M'KENZIE, M.D., London, Physician to the Hospital for Diseases of the Throat, and lately Physician to the London Hospital.

"I have watched your experiments in the construction of Inhalers during the last year with very great interest, and I think that your Universal Inhaler is the most perfect apparatus of the kind that I am acquainted with.

"As Inhalations are often needed by persons of weak respiratory power, an Inhaler such as yours—which requires no effort in inspiration—cannot fail to be of the greatest service under these circumstances. I can cordially recommend these valuable inventions to the favourable notice of the profession."

Extract from Testimonial from W. C. MACLEAN, M.D., Surgeon General, Professor of Military Medicine, Army Medical School, Netley.

"The objection to most Inhalers is the effort required by the Patient in using them; but, with this instrument, Hot or Cold Vapour may be inhaled without effort.

"As a rule, I do not give Certificates to Inventors, unless they come to Netley with the authority of the War Office; but I make an exception in this case, as I believe this a valuable instrument for hospital and private use."

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The Rates of Premium have been adjusted in accordance with a long experience, and bear equitably on all ages.

The Life Assets are over £1,650,000, and a Statement, showing how these are invested, can be had.

The sum of over £5,742,000 has been paid during the existence of the Office for Claims under Life Policies, of which amount £1,411,000 was for Bonuses in actual money, representing a still larger reversionary sum payable at death.

The BONUS valuation is made up Quinquennially, and Policies in force at each valuation participate therein in proportion to the time they have been in force.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

This Company undertakes the Assurance of almost every species of Property in the United Kingdom, at rates of Premium, and upon principles which will be found quite as advantageous to the interests of the Assured as those offered by any other. The Directors can confidently refer to the well-known character of the Company for liberality and promptitude in the discharge of Claims made upon it during the many years it has been established.

Mills, Manufactories, Distilleries, Warehouses, Stores, Ships Building, Ships in Harbour, Houses, Furniture, Stock-in-Trade, &c., Assured for the year, or any shorter period.

The Policies of this Company cover losses occasioned by the explosion of Gas. Losses occasioned by Lightning will also be paid.

The FIRE DUTY being wholly abolished, even the least Hazardous Property ought now in every case to be Assured, and existing Assurances can be increased without increasing the cost hitherto paid.

Tables of Rates, Forms of Proposal, and any information needful to effect Life or Fire Assurances, may be obtained on application to the Office, No. 92 Cheapside, London; or to any of the Company's Agents.

THIS OFFICE alone combines the advantages of Mutual Assurance with Moderate Premiums.

The PREMIUMS are so moderate that at most ages an Assurance of £1200 or £1250 may be secured from the first for the same yearly payment which would generally assure £1000 only.

The whole PROFITS go to the Policy-holders, on a system at once safe, equitable, and favourable to good lives—no share being given to those by whose early death there is a loss. The effect of reserving the surplus for the survivors (who will, however, comprise more than half the members) has been that Policies for £1000 have already been increased to £1400, £1600, £1800, and even in some cases they have been doubled.

The FUNDS are securely invested, chiefly on mortgage of lands and other non-fluctuating securities. The amount—above £2,750,000—is larger (notwithstanding the lowness of the Premiums) than in any Office in the Kingdom of the same age. The Increase on the previous year was £229,881 17s. 7d.

Full statements of the Principles and particulars as to the Financial Progress and Position of the Institution will be found in the Annual Reports; to be had at the

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

Accumulated Funds . . .	£6,400,000
Annual Revenue . . .	800,000
Existing Assurances . . .	20,000,000

THE remarkable degree in which this SOCIETY possesses the confidence of the Provident Classes of the Community is amply demonstrated by the magnitude of the above figures, and its accelerating progress is shown in the result of the past year, as announced in the

ANNUAL REPORT.

New Assurances were completed for . . .	£1,250,110
The Premiums on which were . . .	40,465
The Claims paid amounted to . . .	445,034

Of this amount £130,373 consisted of Bonus Additions,
BEING AN AVERAGE OF 43½ PER CENT ON ORIGINAL SUMS ASSURED.

The Increase to the Funds during 1875 was . 268,767

Having in view the success of 1874-75, the first two years of the current Septennium—the new Business showing £2,402,414 against £1,523,018 transacted during the corresponding period of the previous Septennium—as well as the improved rate of interest which continues to be realised on the Society's Investments, and its moderate Scale of Expenses of Management, there appears every reason to expect that the very satisfactory results of the last Division of Profits will be at least equalled by those of

THE NEXT INVESTIGATION IN 1880.

1869	33,451	12,608	44,761

THE DIRECTORS OF THE SCOTTISH IMPERIAL INSURANCE COMPANY, considering it their first duty to provide for the utmost safety of the Policy-holders, have, by means of the combination of Fire and Life business under one management, been enabled to reduce the total expenses (including commission), in the Life Department, to a rate at which few offices are able to conduct the Business. The natural result must be to increase the surplus profits to an unusual extent; and while this feature affords the best guarantee of permanent security to all assurers, it is a special advantage to holders of "with profit" policies, who receive nine-tenths of the Profits, both on the participation and non-participation schemes.

J. & A. BARR,
 PATENTEES AND MANUFACTURERS OF
WATER PRESSURE ENGINES
 21 BISHOP STREET, ANDERSTON, GLASGOW.

WE beg to recommend our PATENT WATER PRESSURE ENGINES, several hundreds of which are at present in use for the convenient and economical performance of numerous mechanical, business, and domestic purposes; and from their ease of management, the small floor space they occupy for the power developed; also the entire absence of all risk and annoyance from fire, heat, ashes, or smoke, and consequent increase of insurance, they can be applied in situations and for purposes where steam, gas, or other motive power could not be adopted.

Where a Water Pressure of 30 to 100 or more lbs. per square inch can be obtained, either from town's service mains, or other source of supply, they will be found to entirely supersede manual labour, and have already proved most valuable, amongst other purposes, for working Printing Presses, Hay and Meat Chopping Machines, Coffee and Spice Mills, Tea Mixing and Sugar Breaking Machinery, Pumping Water, Gas, Air, &c.; also Blowing Bellows of Church and Chamber Organs, Working Roasting Jacks, Hoists, and Cranes, Cloth Cutting, Cloth Winding, Hair Brushing, Fur Cleaning, Seed Cleaning, and Sewing Machines, Cutlers' Grinding Stones, Joiner's and Cabinet-makers' Circular and Band Saws, Lathes, Ventilating Fans, Milk Churns, &c., &c.

When ordering, parties should give, as near as possible, an idea of the work required to be done, and also the water pressure at command.

GUILDRY.

This is a Corporation quite distinct from the Dean of Guild Court. The latter is appointed by the Town Council to attend to the architectural amenities of the town, and to adjudicate on certain rights connected with burgh properties; whereas the former is a relic of the days of monopoly, when a large premium—amounting to about £40—had to be paid to the Corporation of Guild Brothers before a townsman could commence business within the precincts of the burgh. This right happily no longer exists; and, probably, the Corporation itself would have been non est long ago but for the fact that the Dean or President of the Guildry is ex officio a Trustee of the Madras Academy in terms of the deed of bequest by the late Dr Bell. The Trusteeship of the Academy imparts a considerable amount of interest to the appointment of Dean, who is elected annually by the members of the Guildry, and wears on that occasion a gold chain and medal as the insignia of office.

The Town, in 1868, expended about £10,000 in the construction of an additional store reservoir at Craighluscar, covering an area of about 12 acres, and in laying enlarged main pipes from the reservoirs to the town. In 1876 the Corporation got passed through a new Water Bill, by which the Burgh will obtain soon a plentiful supply of water from the river Devon. KIRKCALDY AND DYSART WATER WORKS.

Commissioners ex-officiis—The Provost, Bailies, Treasurer, and Dean of Guild of Kirkcaldy; Provost and Bailies of Dysart.

Elected Commissioners.—T. M. Hendry, Robert Heggie, M. B. Nairn, John Lockhart, David Nelson, James Methven, John Strachan, William Dick, David Tod, Kenneth Mackenzie, John McDonald, James Heggie, Jas. Wishart, A. Terrace, William Gibb, David Storrar, Wm. Beveridge, Robert Douglas. Treasurer, W. R. Spears; Secretary, A. Beveridge; Engineer, J. Sang; Superintendent, John Johnston.

The gathering ground of these works is situated on the south slope of the Lomond Hills, and consists of about 2200 acres of hill pasture. It has an average elevation of about 1000 feet above the level of the sea. There are two storing ponds, covering about 140 acres, and having a capacity of 220 million gallons. The larger of these—Ballo Reservoir—is used for compensation purposes, storing up the winter floods so as to secure during the dry season a minimum flow of 750 gallons per minute in the Lothrie stream. The smaller one—Drummain Reservoir—stores the town's supply. The water, after passing through filtre-beds of sand and gravel, is conveyed by a cast-iron pipe for a length of eight miles through the parishes of Leslie, Kinglassie, and Dysart to Carbery, where there is a distributing reservoir holding $1\frac{1}{2}$ million gallons, being $1\frac{1}{2}$ days' supply to the towns of Gallatown, Sinclairtown, Pathhead, Dysart, Kirkcaldy, and Linktown, forming an aggregate population of 23,000. The water is distributed to the population by pipes passing through every street, so arranged as to be able to convey twice the average quantity per head, thus allowing for sudden and irregular demands, as in the event of fires. The total length of these distributing pipes is about 15 miles, and from these the water is supplied to the consumers by means of fire-plugs, street wells, and private pipes, of which latter every householder has a right to lay down one or more without payment. Mills and other works are charged at a fixed rate per 1000 gallons, the quantity consumed being ascertained by metre. The outlay for building, land, and contingent expenses, is £50,000, the interest of which is raised by a rate of 10d per pound on all householders, with a general rate of 2d per pound on property, and the mill and other special rates. The works, authorised to be made by an Act passed in July 1867, were begun in 1868, and finished in the spring of 1869—Provost Swan being the Chairman of the Commissioners, and John Sang, the engineer.

It may also be mentioned that, in addition to supplying Kirkcaldy, Dysart, Sinclairtown, Gallatown, and Linktown, there is an average quantity of 20,000 gallons daily given to Wemyss Castle and village. Of course, this supply would be cut off, in the event of any scarcity being felt in the water district proper. The Commissioners got powers in their "Amendment Act, 1870," to supply Wemyss and other places like situated, but never in any case to interfere with the regular supply to the places where the water was first intended to be supplied. The expense of laying pipes, &c., to Wemyss was paid by Mrs Wemyss, the quantity consumed being ascertained by a large meter being fixed on the pipe immediately after leaving the Commissioners' main. The revenue from this source is £150 per annum.

The right of fishing on the two large reservoirs belongs to the estates of Ballo, Balbirnie, Glasslie, and Strathendry. The fish are red fleshed trout, which attain a great size, and eels. The fishing on the filters and smaller ponds belongs to the Water Commissioners, and the fish there are strictly preserved for sanitary reasons connected with the purity of the water.

UNIVERSITY OF ST ANDREWS.

The University was founded by Bishop Wardlaw in May 1411; the College of St Salvator by Bishop Kennedy in 1456; and the College of Leonard, in 1512, by Archbishop Alexander Stuart and Prior Hepburn; and St Mary's by Archbishop Jas. Beaton in 1537. The two Colleges of St Salvator and St Leonard were united by Act of Parliament in 1747, and called the United College of St Salvator and St Leonard. The University now "consists," to quote the Calendar, "of three distinct corporations, viz.:—The United College of St Salvator and St Leonard, with its Principal and nine Professors; St Mary's College with its Principal, who is also Primarius Professor, and three Professors; and the University, comprising the members of both Colleges, and of which the senior Principal (senior according to priority in office) is president."

The session in the United College opens in the first week of November, and closes towards the end of April. In St Mary's College, it commences in the second week of November, and closes in the end of March.

LOCHLEVEN.

This Loch (in extent 3406 acres) is the property of Sir Graham Montgomery. There are three islands in it. Queen Mary's Island, on which the Castle stands, is near the town of Kinross, and measures 8 acres. Close adjoining it is a small island of about an acre, called Reed Bower; and towards the eastern side there is the island of St Serfs, measuring about 80 acres. On the latter in ancient times stood the Priory of Lochleven, distinguished as the place where Prior Winton resided, and where he wrote his well-known chronicles. The waters find their outlet at the east end. Authorised by an Act of Parliament, passed in the year 1826, extensive works were undertaken, as well to reclaim land around the Loch as to enable the mill-owners situated on the banks of the river to regulate the flow of water. A new cut of above three miles in length was made at a very low level, at the mouth of which powerful sluices were erected. By these means the permanent level of the loch has been reduced $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet in height, while still another $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet has been obtained by the mill-owners to form a large reservoir of water entirely under their control. Herein the rains of winter, which often ran down in devastating floods, are stored up and made useful as a power to drive machinery during the dry months of the year. The quantity of water thus stored up when the Loch is full is estimated at 600,000,000 cubic feet, equivalent to a supply of about 80 days. The experience of about forty years, however, has shown that, with the exception of extremely dry seasons, a regular supply of about 5000 cubic feet per minute has thus been given to the mill-owners. The works were executed under the superintendence of the late Mr Jardine, Civil Engineer, Edinburgh, who placed a rain gauge (the funnel being 7 inches in diameter) in the ground at the Sluice house.

A register of the rain falling there has been kept since 1842, from which the following abstract has been prepared:—

LOCHLEVEN FISHINGS.

The Loch is open for fishing from the 1st of January to the end of August. Previously to 1811 the fishing season included the month of September, but that being considered an improper arrangement the present dates were fixed upon. There is an Act of Parliament (Charles I., 23th June 1633), for the protection of the fish spawning in the streams within five miles of the Loch (as an additional means of protection, advantage is now taken of the Act 23 and 24 Victoria, Cap. 45, 23d July 1860), but the length of the fishing season is fixed by the proprietor. The Lochleven Angling Association Limited, the lessees of the fishing, let out boats, with one man, for rod fishings at 2s 6d an hour. There are twenty boats, viz., 1. Mary Beton; 2. George Douglas; 3. The Abbot; 4. Michael Bruce; 5. Sir Walter Scott; 6. Andrew Wyntowne; 7. Marie Courcelles; 8. Willie Douglas; 9. Levina; 10. The Clutha; 11. Margaret Plantagenet; 12. Lady Lochleven; 13. Jane Kennedy; 14. Agnes Strickland; 15. Mary Livingstone; 16. St Serf; 17. Mary Fleming; 18. Marie Stuart; 19. Lochleven Castle; 20. Mary Seton. No boats are let out on Kinross fast-day, which is the Thursday before the last Sunday of June.

THE LOCHLEVEN ANGLING ASSOCIATION (LIMITED).

Has been formed to lease from Sir Graham Montgomery, Bart., the fishings on the Loch, and to keep them open and unrestricted as hitherto to the angling community. Directors—John Horn, Esq. of Thomanean, Kinross, Chairman; Captain James F. The penal department consisted of two wings at the opening of the prison, on 30th March, 1842. It has since been enlarged by the addition of a third wing in 1853, and of a fourth wing in 1859. It now contains separate accommodation for 719, and associated accommodation for 46, viz.—In the male department an hospital for sick to accommodate 4; as also an hospital for imbeciles and epileptics to accommodate 12; and in the female department hospitals for sick, for imbeciles, and for epileptics, to accommodate 30.

Male and female prisoners under sentence of not less than nine months' imprisonment, and convicts under sentence of penal servitude, are received—male convicts for detention during their probationary period of nine months, and female convicts for their whole sentence.

Imprisonment prisoners and convicts, while undergoing probationary confinement, are treated on the separate system; but in the case of female convicts over one year tried the discipline of the separate system is relaxed.

In 1859 a new prison was built to accommodate 58 juveniles on the associated system of Parkhurst.

The juvenile prison is not now required, and has been adapted for the accommodation of 40 male and 18 female criminal lunatics.

ASSOCIATION FOR IMPROVING THE CONDITION OF THE POOR

Instituted 1869.

The objects of the Association are—1. By an apportionment of the town and neighbourhood into districts; and, by a regular system of visitation, to gain and keep up an accurate knowledge of the condition of the poor.
2. To encourage and judiciously relieve the deserving poor in such a way as to prevent them from becoming dependent on the Poor's Board. 3. To discourage idleness, vice, and out-door beggary, by denying relief to those who are either unwilling to help themselves, or who are already receiving aid from the Poor's Board or otherwise. 4. To educate those children whose parents are unable to do so. 5. To aid the unemployed of both sexes in obtaining employment. 6. By attention to the sanitary state of the dwellings of the poor, and generally by advice and assistance to ameliorate as far as possible their moral as well as material welfare.

LEADING LIGHTS.

John Urquhart, Keeper

There are two Leading Lights erected on the Torry side of the Harbour. The following are the directions for taking the Harbour by them :—

1st, These Lights have no reference whatever to the state of the Tides, they are exhibited from sunset to sunrise.

2d, The Lights are of a Red colour, but when it is dangerous to attempt entering the Harbour, the Lights will be of a Green colour, instead of Red.

3d, The Lights are visible in clear weather at a distance of five or six miles, the one above the other, and are elevated—the one, about 30 feet, and the other, 47 feet, respectively, above high water of spring tides.

* * A STEAM FOG ALARM has been placed on the Girdleness Point, at a distance of about 140 yards (S. $\frac{1}{2}$ W., by compass) from the Lighthouse.

ELMHILL HOUSE

is an Establishment of a superior description, in connection with, and under the same management as the Royal Asylum, lately opened for the accommodation of the wealthier class of patients. The rates of board and accommodation may be learned on application to the Superintendent.

In the Asylum, the rates of board for private patients vary with the accommodation required. Patients eligible for relief from Burnett's Fund admitted at £27; Pauper Patients from the County of Aberdeen are admitted at £28 a-year. All Patients are furnished with Bedding by the Asylum. Pauper Patients are to be sent provided with sufficient Body-Clothes for present use—the supply being kept up by the Institution. Under the Scottish Lunacy Act of 1857, lunatics are admitted by an order from the Sheriff, and on two medical certificates. The order is granted only upon a petition subscribed by the party applying. The medical certificates must be in the form prescribed by the Act, and specify facts on which the opinion of insanity has been founded. The Sheriff's warrant having been obtained, and guarantee given for the regular payment of the Board quarterly, and in advance, the Patient will be admitted. The necessary forms may be obtained by application to the Superintendent at the Asylum. Before a Patient is brought to the Asylum, all the above-mentioned documents must be signed;

 and it is also requested, that applicants ascertain whether or not the necessary accommodation can be afforded.

BANFFSHIRE.

This County, which lies on the south of the Moray Firth, is bounded on the west by Moray and Inverness-shires, and on the east and south by Aberdeenshire. Its greatest length is 57 miles, and its greatest width (along the coast) is 34 miles, but its average width only 12 miles. Area, 36 square miles, or 439,040 acres. Population in 1871, 62,023. Parliamentary constituency, 2519. Valued rental for 1876-7, £214,322 17s 4d.

Banffshire comprehends the districts of Boyne, Enzie, the greater part of Strathdeveron, Strathisla, Glenfiddich, Glenrinnies, Glenlivet, and Strathvon; and the civic parishes of Aberlour, Alva, Banff, Botriphnie, Boyndie, Cullen, Deskford, St. Fergus, Fordyce, Forglen, Gamrie, Grange, Invercithny, Marnoch, Mortlach, Ordiquhill, Rathven, Rothiemay. It contains also almost the whole of the parishes of Keith and Inveravon, and parts of Bellie, Boharm, Cabrach, and Gartly; and also very small parts of Cairney, Glass, Oldmachar, Newmachar, and Rothes.

The South of Banffshire is very mountainous, being enclosed, and partly occupied, by the highest group of mountains in Britain. Here the scenery is exceedingly wild, and often sublime in its loneliness and grandeur. The middle and northern parts of the county are very hilly, but frequent glens and wide straths occur, especially in the north; and these, being cultivated with the utmost care and skill, amply repay the labours of the husbandman. The principal crops are oats, barley, turnips, and potatoes. Great attention is paid to the breeding and rearing of cattle. The towns and villages of the inland districts of the county are Keith, Fife-Keith, Newmill, Aberchirder, Dufftown, Charlestown, and Tomintoul.

The great body of the population is, however, distributed along the coast, and chiefly in towns and villages, all more or less engaged in, and dependent upon, the valuable white, herring, and salmon fisheries on the coast. Banff herrings are highly esteemed in the foreign market. The coast towns are the royal burghs of Banff and Cullen; the towns of Macduff, Portsoy, and Buckie; and the villages of Crovie, Gardenstown, Whitehills, Sandend, Portnockie, Findochty, Portessie, and Portgordon. The shipping and trade of these ports are considerable. The imports are chiefly coals, timber, manures, iron, and salt; and the exports, grain, cattle, fish, and whisky, &c.

THE ROYAL BURGH OF BANFF,

Situated by rail 50 miles N. by W. of Aberdeen, and 38½ E. of Elgin, occupies the slope of a hill descending gradually towards the Deveron and the Moray Firth. From the sea, and from the east, more especially from the Banff (Bridge) Station, it presents a very interesting and picturesque appearance. Internally the town comprises several well built streets, which are adorned with many large and elegant modern buildings. It has always borne, and deservedly, the highest character for cleanliness and salubrity. Banff and its neighbourhood are associated with many historical events. It is probable that it possessed the privileges of a Royal Burgh before the time of William the Lion, and these privileges were confirmed by Robert Bruce and Robert II. The population in 1871 was 4018, showing a considerable increase during the ten years. The Municipal Constituency is 525. The Earls of Fife and Seafield have lately granted very eligible feus upon their lands adjoining the town. Plans of the proposed extension have been prepared by order of their Lordships, and already advantage has been taken, to a considerable extent, of the facilities thus afforded for building. The society is good, and the educational institutions are not surpassed by those of any town in the north. The Library of the Literary Society is extensive and well selected, while the Museum of the Scientific Institution is stored with articles of virtu from all parts of the world. Recently there has been added to the attractions of the burgh a Bath House with all the newest appliances, which, along with the natural amenities of the place, has had the effect of largely increasing the number of summer visitors. Tourists have of late years discovered that there are objects of interest and beauty in Banff and its neighbourhood worthy of being visited, and the railways from both north and south render the locality of easy access. Duff House, the principal seat of the Earl of Fife, is in the immediate neighbourhood. The hotel accommodation is excellent. Banff as a seaport has a good harbour and considerable shipping. The chief industries are the manufacture of woollen goods, leather, and tobacco; shipbuilding, ironfounding, distilling, brewing and printing. The fisheries also are important.

The Parliamentary burgh of Banff includes Macduff, a burgh of Barony, distant about half a mile on the east side of the Deveron, and with a population of 3403. Banff is one of the Elgin district of burghs, and its Parliamentary constituency is 1020.

MORAYSHIRE.

This county may be considered as that part forming what may have been the home district of the ancient and extensive "Province of Moray." It is about 40 miles north and south, and 20 east and west. On the east it is bounded by Banffshire, and on the west by Inverness and Nairn shires. To the north it is washed by the Moray Firth.

The whole area is estimated at 531 square miles, or 340,000 acres. The population in 1871 was 43,598. The parliamentary constituency in 1873-1874 was 1470. The value of property within the County, for the year 1875-76 including railways, but excluding Royal Burghs of Elgin and Forres, was £182,849 9s.

The county is divided into the parishes of Alves, St. Andrews-Lhanbryd, Birnie, Dallas, Drainie, Duffus, Dyke, Edinkillie, Elgin, Forres, Kinkor, Knockando, Rafford, Rothes, Speymouth, New Spynie, Urquhart, and part of Bellie, Boharm, Cromdale, Inverallan, Keith, and Inveravon.

The lower part of Morayshire is exceedingly fertile, and in no district is farming better understood, or more successfully prosecuted. The rivers in the shire are the Spey, the Findhorn, and the Lossie. The scenery is varied, embracing every character of sylvan, marine, alpine, and champagne. It boasts of two royal burghs—Elgin, which is the head burgh, and Forres—besides the important villages of Findhorn, Lhanbryd, Burghead, Lossiemouth, Hopeman, Branderburgh, Rothes, Fochabers, Garmouth, Kingston, Grantown, &c.

CITY AND BURGH OF ELGIN.

This city is pretty centrally situated as regards the lower district of the county. It was made a royal burgh by William the Lion. Externally the scenery is in many points of view exquisitely fine, and internally the town relatively presents an appearance of wealth. The buildings—which of late years have been considerably added to—are generally tasteful, and throughout there is a considerable air of cleanliness. The parish church is conspicuous from its position and style of architecture. The hospital occupies a healthy site. The institutions of the place are varied and important, while the Morayshire Railway has the effect of virtually making it a seaport. Population in 1871, 7339; parliamentary constituency in 1876, 886. Elgin is the head of a parliamentary district of burghs, and is bestly famed for the ruins of its once magnificent cathedral. The value of property, exclusive of railways, within the parliamentary boundaries for the year 1876-77, was £24,066 6s 1d. The Railway valuation was £688.

ROYAL BURGH OF FORRES.

Forres was enfranchised by William I., and consists of several streets, the principal extending east and west. In the centre of the principal street stands a handsome market-cross, much in the style of Sir W. Scott's monument in Edinburgh. Forres has no resident sheriff-substitute; but courts by the sheriff, justices of the peace, and bailies of the burgh, are regularly held in the court-house. There is a prison connected with the public buildings, and the whole is surmounted by an elegant spire, which has recently been supplied with illuminated glass dials. It is in Forres, which is the centre of the combined counties of Elgin or Moray and Nairnshires, that the member for these counties is elected. The scenery around Forres can scarcely be surpassed, from the variety of prospect afforded by the neighbouring ground, the windings of the Findhorn, &c.—and it is anticipated that villas of a superior order will soon grace the rising ground close to the town, and render Forres, now so easy of access by the Highland Railway, from Perth to this burgh, one of the loved spots of Scotland. From its sweet and balmy climate, the Forres district has long been known as the Montpelier of Scotland. This has been the cause of its being selected for the erection of a Hydropathic Establishment, which is one of the most complete and well conducted in the kingdom. To the east of the town is a storied obelisk, hitherto the reproach of antiquarian lore. Population, 3959. Constituency, 371; Revenue of Burgh taken from town's account, of year 1875-76, £1,582 15s 9d. Distance from Inverness by upper Nairn road, 26½ miles; by lower

23½. Forres forms one of the Inverness District of Burghs. By rail the distance is 24½ miles to Inverness. The Perth and Inverness section of the Highland Railway, opened in September 1863, has its junction with the Main Line at Forres; and the great traffic, which has even surpassed the expectations of its Directors, is likely to increase considerably the trade and importance of the town.

GRANTOWN.

This village, founded in 1766, is nicely situated, and well and regularly built. In all these respects, and in point of cleanliness and salubrity, it is said to have no Scottish rival. The houses are not large; but are neat and substantial. The credit of this is due to the late Sir James Grant of Grant, the founder. The edifices are 170, and the inhabitants 1400. The material of which the houses are composed is a whitish, fine-grained granite. The place possesses three Banks, excellent Schools, and new Court-House and Public Offices, and an orphan asylum, and is specially constituted by Act of Parliament the seat of a court for adjudging claims under the Small Debt Act from part of Inverness-shire, in which the judges of that jurisdiction preside. Grantown has suddenly attracted the attention of tourists and visitors from all parts of the kingdom, from the interesting fact, that Her Most Gracious Majesty, accompanied by the Prince Consort and suite, paid a private visit to the village on the 4th September, 1860, and passed the night at the Grant Arms Hotel. Distance from Inverness, 34 miles; from Elgin 34 miles; from Forres, 22 miles; from Nairn, 23 miles.

NAIRNSHIRE.

This county is bounded on the west by Inverness-shire, south by Banff-shire, north by the Moray Frith, and east by Morayshire, of which it anciently formed a part. It extends north and south 22 miles, and 15 east and west. Its area is 200 square miles, or 129,000 acres; 70,000 of these are tilled, 30,000 untilled, and 28,000 are unproductive. The following are the parishes into which the county is divided, viz.: Ardsclach, Auldearn, Nairn, and part of Cawdor, Croy, Daviot, Dyke, Moy, Petty, and Urquhart.

The population in 1861 was 8372, exclusive of Ferrintosh (in the Parish of Urquhart, locally situated in Ross-shire), which in 1861, was 1294. The constituency is 246. The valued rental in 1674 was £15,162 Scots; according to the Valuation Roll of 1876-77, it is £34,941 5s 0d, including the railway valuation. Nairn is the only royal burgh in the county; but there are the villages of Cawdor and Auldearn. The county is under the same sheriff as Moray and Banff. It also joins Moray in sending a member to Parliament; but it has a separate sheriff-substitute, and is municipally and otherwise perfectly independent.

BURGH OF NAIRN.

Nairn is most pleasantly situated, and is generally considered as very healthy. It is much frequented by invalids and others on account of its pure air and advantages of sea-bathing, while it is provided with the best artificial baths in the North, whether taken cold, tepid, or hot. Nairn was regaled by William the Lion. Many of the inhabitants are fishermen, but it cannot be called a fishing-station in the larger sense of that term. It stands on the north bank of the river from which it derives its name, within a very short distance of its junction with the sea. For this reason it was anciently called Invernairn. Population in 1871, 4869—constituency, 399. Rental per Valuation Roll of 1876-77, £10,812 7s, including railway valuation. INVERNESS-SHIRE.

This is the largest county in Scotland. From east to west it extends 85 miles, and 55 from north to south. It includes the extensive districts of Badenoch, Lochaber, Strathglass, Glenelg, Arisaig, the Aird, Lovat country, and Moidart, besides the most important of the Western Isles, including Skye, North and South Uist, Barra, Raasay, Harris, &c. St. Kilda is also part of Inverness-shire.

The face of the country is generally mountainous, and contains the highest eminences in Scotland. Among these are Ben Nevis, 4370 feet above the level of the sea; Cairngorm, 4090; Scarsough, 3414; and Mealfourvie, 3060. The principal rivers are the Ness, the Nairn, the Findhorn, the Spey, the Lochy, the Oich, the Garry, the Glass, the Farrar, and the Beauly. The principal lakes are Loch Ness, Loch Oich, and Loch Lochy. These rivers and lakes abound in fish; and the districts, chiefly consisting of moor, yield abundance of the several sorts of game. The scenery almost everywhere is beautiful, and in many places grand. Of these descriptions are especially the parts between Beauly bridge and Aigas, along the line of the Caledonian Canal, the Falls of Foyers, the Pass of Inverfarigaig, &c.

Inverness-shire is well traversed with roads; while the Caledonian Canal, and the safe and convenient navigation afforded by the east and west seas, renders communication easy between it and all other parts of the world.

It contains the following parishes, and parts of parishes, viz.:—Alvie, Ardersier, Ardnamurchan, Barra, Boleskine and Abertarff, Bracadale, Daviot and Dunlichity, Dores, Durinish, Rothiemurchus, Glenelg, Harris, Inverness, Kilmonivaig, Kilmorack, Kilmuir, Kiltarlity, Kingussie, Kirkhill, Laggan, Moy, Petty, Portree, Sleat, Snizort, Strath, N. Uist, S. Uist, Urquhart and Glenmoriston, Abernethy, Cawdor, Cromdale, Croy, Duthill, Kilmallie, and Small Isles. These occupy an area of 46,000 square miles, or 2,944,000 acres, about 500,000 of which are productive, 750,000 are untilled, and 1,694,000 are unproductive.

The population in 1871 was 87,480. The old valued rental of the year 1690 was 53,888 pounds Scots—the new, as assessed to the property tax, county, £284,949 0s 4d, and burgh, £51,444 14s 10d. This is exclusive of charities and properties owned by persons whose income is under £100 a-year. The ordinary rental of the County for the year 1876-77 was £302,495 10s 8d. Highland Railway, £21,789; Great North of Scotland Railway Co., £2,284; and Caledonian Canal, £1473. Gross annual value of County, exclusive of Burgh, £328,041 10s 8d. The constituency is about 1700.

There is but one Royal Burgh in the shire; but there are the villages of Campbelton, Beauly, Kingussie, Fort-Augustus, Fort-William, Portree, Broadford, Lochmaddy, &c. All matters connected with its government are conducted at Inverness, and the officials there have jurisdiction over the whole county; but for the better administration of justice, the shire is divided into the districts of Inverness, Fort-William, Skye, and the Long Island, each being under the separate jurisdiction of a Sheriff-Substitute; and the three former, with Kingussie and Lochmaddy, are the polling places for county elections.

BURGH OF INVERNESS.

This ancient Royal Burgh, once solely on the south-east, now occupies considerable space on both sides of the Ness. The communication between these two natural divisions, previous to 1808, was carried on by means of a handsome stone bridge, erected in 1685, which, however, was borne down by the memorable flood of 24th January, 1849. Since 1808, with the exception of short interruptions, the town rejoices in the convenience of two bridges. An elegant and commodious iron suspension bridge, opened in September 1856, has been erected on the site of the old stone bridge. The south side is still the business side of the town. Great improvements have taken place in Inverness within the last thirty years, upon the roads and walks along the banks of the Ness and principal thoroughfares of the town, and in preparation for more efficient sewerage. In 1874 the Lindsay Act in its amended form was introduced into the burgh, and improvements in the way of drains under it, are being largely carried on. The Gas and Water Company has proved of considerable utility. In the Parliament of 1875 a Bill was passed empowering the Corporation to buy up the Gas and Water Co., and to introduce water by gravitation from Loch Ashie. The stock of Gas and Water was bought, and at present a contractor is engaged in introducing the water. At the head of native useful institutions may be placed the Caledonian Bank and the several Railway Companies—Highland, Sutherland, Duke of Sutherland, Sutherland and Caithness, and Dingwall and Skye—and all under one working management at Inverness. Several handsome new buildings have recently been erected, as the Caledonian Bank, the Railway Station, the Post Office, the Castle and County Prison, the Burgh Court-house and Police Office, the Union Hotel (now the Highland Club), Station Hotel, the Wesleyan Parish Church, the Free High Church and spire, the Free East Church, John's Episcopal Chapel, Union St., Lombard St., St. Andrew's Cathedral, Young Men's Christian Assoc. Buildings, Workmen's Club and Royal Hotel are of this description. The Highland Railway Company have just built an elegant and commodious building for offices, &c., which cost about £12,000. Private edifices, too, of tasteful models, and elegant villas are constantly springing up in the town and suburbs. There are several public walks in the neighbourhood. The Ness Islands form the principal walk in the summer months; but paths immemorially patent, and long the favourite resort of the inhabitants, have recently been shut up.

The principal streets on the south-east side of the river are High Street, Bridge Street, Petty Street, Inglis Street, Church Street, Union Street, Academy Street, Chapel Street, Shore Street, Douglas Row, Bank Street, Rose Street, Castle Street, Drummond Street, and Lombard Street: and on the north-west, Huntly Street, Telford Street, Celt Street, Grant Street, Queen Street, Kessock Street, Telford Road, &c.

Inverness was erected into a Royal burgh by William the Lion. The old Royalty did not include many important parts of the town, the one side of some streets being within, and the other without the liberties—thus affording to violators of the law protection from the jurisdiction of the magistrates. By the Burgh Act, 1847, this is obviated, by extending the boundaries to the parliamentary royalty, as fixed at the passing of the Reform Bill in 1832. This extends from the Clachnaharry pier in a straight line to the upper angle of the Ness Islands. Crossing the Ness the line runs along Aultnaskiach burn, and across the Muirfield, to a point near the Poorhouse, thence in a line drawn due North to the sea, and thence to the first-mentioned point at Clachnaharry pier. For municipal purposes the royalty is divided into three different wards—1st, the west side of the river Ness, returning two councillors annually; 2d, all south of a line drawn along the centre of Bridge Street, High Street, Petty Street, and the Millburn Road, returning two councillors annually; 3d, all north of the line drawn along centre of Bridge Street, &c., returning three councillors annually. The population of the burgh in 1871 was 14,463. The burghal constituency is 2026; and the valuation, £61,215 4s 7d.

For choosing persons to represent proprietors of heritages below the annual value of £20, at the Parochial Board, the town and parish are also very simply divided into the same number of wards.

The old Castle of Inverness—then called Fort-George, and destroyed by the Highland army in 1746—occupied the present site of the Castle and County Prison. Cromwell's Fort—now called "the Citadel"—is close by the harbour, the moat being filled up. On the west side of the town are the fortified fort of Craig Phadaig, and the well-wooded and singularly-shaped hill of Tomnahurich, on the summit of which is a tastefully laid-out cemetery. At a distance of four miles south-east of the town lies the battlefield of Drummosie, or Culloden Moor, where ended the hopes of the Stuart line, and closed the opposition to the present reigning dynasty. At Clachnaharry, a monument is erected, commemorating a sanguinary affray between the Mackintoshes and Munroes in 1454.

BEAULY.

This village, a Burgh of Barony, is situated on the north bank of the river of that name. It is, on the whole, a clean, regularly laid out, well-built little place, with a population of upwards of 900 souls. The road to it lies by Clachnaharry, Bunchrew, Phopachy, and Bogroy, and thence by Moniak and Beaully Bridge, or by Kirkhill and Beaully Ferry. The ferry is impassable by horses or carriages, but a boat plies for the use of foot passengers. In Beaully are the ruins of a Priory, founded by John Bisset of Lovat in 1230. At the Reformation, it reverted in trust to the Lovat family, but now forms part of the jurisdiction of "Woods and Forests." Beaully rejoices in good inns, which are much frequented by tourists visiting the unsurpassed scenery of the Falls of Kilmorack, the Dreim, Strathglass, the Chisholm's Pass, Prince Charlie's Cave in Glenstrathfarrar, and the ruins of Castle Spynie, and the vitrified forts, Dunmore, Dunaver, and Dunfion, besides Beaufort Castle, Belladrum (the seat of Mr. Merry), and the ruins of Kilchrist, the scene of the Macdonell's burning the M'Kenzies alive; the beautiful Burn of Teanassie, Dunmore of Breachachy, anciently the stronghold of the M'Leans of Kilmorack; Reelig Burn, where thirty-six different varieties of ferns are to be found, besides other rare plants and trees; Tarradale House, the birthplace of Sir Roderick J. Murchison; Redcastle, the oldest inhabited house perhaps in all Scotland; the Ruins of Kilcoy Castle. At Culbirnie there is a Druid Circle in a complete state of preservation. Beaully is traversed by the great north road to Dingwall, Tain, and Wick. The Posting Establishments are unsurpassed in the North. It also possesses a safe and convenient harbour, and carries on a pretty extensive trade in grain, timber, coal, lime, &c. There is an Established, and Roman Catholic, Church in the village. The Free Church is at an inconvenient distance from Beaully, but one is proposed to be built, if a site can be got from the Lord of the Manor. Distance from Inverness by Moniak and Beaully Bridge, twelve miles; by Kirkhill and Beaully Ferry, nine and a-half miles. The Highland Railway Station is within half a mile of the village.

CAMPBELLTOWN.

The village of Campbelltown lies about a mile and a-half south of Fort-George. It is built without any regard to regularity, and affords qualifications for about twenty voters at the county election. Partly it is a fishing village, and is resorted to during the summer months as a bathing place, and by invalids in search of health, for its chalybeate waters. There are 2 hotels, and the Fort-George station of the Inverness and Nairn Railway is about a mile and a-half from the village, while its proximity to Fort-George brings it no inconsiderable number of visitors. Distance from Inverness, ten mile.

FORT-GEORGE.

Fort-George, on which are a moat, glacis, &c., is situated on a point of land east of Inverness, and opposite to Rosemarkie. The route eastward to it lies by Culloden, Castle-Stuart, the Church of Petty, Connage, and the village of Campbelltown. The ramparts are bomb-proof. The casemates are fitted as large barrack-rooms, and it is said that within the walls are accommodation for nearly 2000 men and officers. Distance from Inverness about twelve miles. The Royal Naval Coast Guard from Fraserburgh to Shetland, H M.S. "Clyde," Aberdeen, and gun-boats to and fro, are supplied from the Divisional Ordnance stores and magazines at Fort-George.

FORT-WILLIAM.

Fort-William, situated at the head of Loch Linne, was built shortly after the revolution, by the revolutionary general, Mackay. Like others of the same line of strongholds, it has outlived its original purpose. It is a small place, approaching the triangular rather than any other form. It is now dismantled, and has become the property of Mrs. Cameron Campbell, of Monzie, by purchase from the Government. The principal features in the works are a ditch, ravelin, and glacis. It contains a bomb-proof magazine, and accommodation for a limited garrison. It was assailed in 1745 by a part of Prince Charles Edward's army; but Cumberland's march on Inverness obliged the siege to be raised. As it has its name from King William III., the adjoining village was called Maryburgh, in honour of his consort, but this is a distinction practically laid aside. The village consists principally of three parallel lines of buildings, forming two streets, in which are several good hotels and shops.

It contains 1500 inhabitants. Immediately on the south-east, Ben Nevis, the highest mountain in Scotland, ascertained, by recent Government survey, (1869) to be 4406 feet above the level of the sea, and its circumference at the base is supposed to exceed 24 miles—towers into the clouds. Accredited guides to its very summit may be had on any lawful day at any of the hotels. Between the fort and the mouth of the Caledonian Canal at Corpach, and, of course, at the disemboguing of the Lochy, are the ruins of Inverlochy Castle, still sufficiently interesting. On "the Craigs" in the neighbourhood, a monument is erected in commemoration of Ewen MacLachlan, for many years Master of the Grammar School, Old Aberdeen—a distinguished scholar, and compiler of a Gaelic dictionary. Distance from Inverness, 66 miles by the road.

KINGUSSIE.

This is the capital of the once renowned lordship of Badenoch. It is exactly by rail half-way between Inverness and Perth. It was all but inaccessible to the general public until that great undertaking, the "Inverness and Perth Junction Railway," now the "Highland Railway," opened up the Highlands through and through. This railway is turning out a good investment for the Shareholders, and it is having a great and lasting effect on the Highlands for good. It is not unlikely Kingussie may largely share in its benefits, from its position, nestled among the highest mountains in Scotland, and about fifty miles removed from the sea on all sides. It has already become a favourite resort for parties from the sea-side, in quest of change of air. The inhabitants, who seem anxious to encourage the residence of strangers among them, seem to be doing all they can to make the place as inviting as possible. They have unanimously adopted the necessary clauses of the Police Act, for the purpose of getting the village thoroughly drained, and pure spring water from the hills introduced, for both of which there are rare facilities. These movements are in the right direction, and, if properly carried out, ought to make Kingussie as healthy a little village as any in the kingdom. Evan Baillie, Esq. of Dochfour, Glenelg, &c., is the Superior, and much will depend on the encouragement he will give to these efforts of the inhabitants; but if fairly followed up, this village, beautifully situated on the banks of the Spey, and the centre of an extensive district of country, may yet become a place of considerable importance.

SKYE—PORTREE.

Skye is a judicial division of Inverness-shire, and Portree is the seat of court. It is reached by steamer from Oban, or by rail by Dingwall, Compton, Garve, Auchinault, Luib, Craig, & Jeantown, to Strone Ferry, and thence by railway steamer. It is called Portree—a contraction and corruption of "Port-an-Righ"—the king's haven or harbour—because James V. dropped anchor there, while making a progress round his kingdom. The bay is beautifully picturesque, and the town has lately rapidly risen in importance. Distance from Inverness, by Oban, about 210 miles; by Beaul, Dingwall, and Strone Ferry, 131; by Invermoriston and Sheil House, 109 miles.

FORT-AUGUSTUS.

Fort-Augustus stands on the western extremity of Lochness, and between the line of the Caledonian Canal and the mouth of the Tarff. The land routes to it from Inverness are, on the south of Lochness by Dores, 8 miles, the famous fall of Foyers, 16, and thence through Stratherrick—and on the north by Lochend, 7 miles, Drumnadrochit, in the beautiful Glen of Crquhart, 14, and Invermoriston, 27; or, per steam, by the Canal, which is lined by the most magnificent scenery imaginable. The fort was built in 1734, and appears well as it is approached eastward, standing as it does on a little eminence. It is of a square construction, bastioned at the angles, and is protected by a ditch—in which is a small battery—a covert way, and glacis. On the north is a rising ground, from which it was reduced by the Highlanders in 1745. Altogether it is capable of accommodating 300 men and officers, but it is seldom garrisoned by a tenth of that number. There is a small village to which the name of the fort is common. Distance from Inverness, 35 miles.

Garrison, N. Phillips, barrackmaster of Fort-George. Fort-Augustus and lands, now the property of the Right Hon. Thos. Alex. Lord Lovat.

U I S T, &c.

The Parishes of North and South Uist, Harris and Barra, form a judicial district of the County, Lochmaddy being the seat of the Court, where there are County Buildings, Prison, &c. There is weekly steam communication with Glasgow by steamer "Dunara Castle," which calls at all the ports from Tarbert to Barra; and fortnightly calls are also made at Lochmaddy and Tarbert by steamer "Clydesdale." The mail service is performed by the "Dream," sailing packet of 40 tons, three times weekly, betwixt Dunvegan and Lochmaddy. The Kelp manufacture, which was formerly extensively carried on in these islands, is fast declining. The lobster fisheries afford employment to a great number of the native boats, and there are also extensive cod and ling fisheries. The herring fishing is also an important one in its season during May and June, but is extensively carried on by boats from the east and Argyshire coasts. Numbers of curers from the eastern fishing ports attend at the different ports during the season to carry on the fishery and curing of herring.

Population of the District in 1871, 15,937.

ROSS-SHIRE.

This county is of great extent, stretching from the shores of the Moray Firth on the east to the Atlantic on the west. The island of The Lews forms part of the county. On the south the county is bounded by Inverness-shire, and on the north by Sutherland. For judicial purposes the counties of Cromarty and Sutherland are joined to Ross, the sheriffdom bearing the title of Ross, Cromarty, and Sutherland. The same sheriff-depute presides over all; but each county is distinct in jurisdiction, except in regard to such parts of the county of Cromarty as are locally situate in Ross, which are subject to the jurisdiction of the officials of the sheriff courts at Dingwall and Tain. For other purposes they are separate.

Its length is 67 miles, and its breadth, 58; its area is 2774 miles, or 1,775,830 acres. Of these, 301,000 are productive, 545,000 are untilled, and 929,830 are irreclaimable. The valuation amounts to £231,712 12s. 6d.

The population in 1861 was 81,820. The constituency of the county in 1862 was 879.

Ross is popularly divided into districts, such as Ardross, Ardmeanach (Lord of Ardmeanach was a title of the old Earls of Ross, and was conferred by Mary Queen of Scots on Darnley, on the day of their marriage) or Black Isle, Kintail, Strathconon, Lochcarron, Lochalsh, Lochbroom, and the Lews. The parishes of the two counties are—Alness, Applecross, Avoch, Barras, Contin, Cromarty, Dingwall, Edderton, Fearn, Fodderty, Gairloch, Glen shiel, Killearnan, Kilmuir Wester, and Suddy, Kilmuir Easter, Kiltearn, Kintail, Kincardine, Knockbain, Lochalsh, Lochbroom, Lochcarron, Lochs, Logie Easter, Nigg, Resolis, Rosemarkie, Rosskeen, Stornoway, Tain, Tarbat, Uig, Urquhart, and Logie Wester, and part of Urray.

Ross-shire has four royal burghs. Formerly it had five. Cromarty, once a royal burgh, resigned its charter and renounced its privileges. The remaining burghs are—Dingwall, Tain, Fortrose, and Rosemarkie—the last two, although under the same municipal government, are distinct burghs, each constituted by royal charter—besides the town of Stornoway, and the villages of Invergordon, Ullapool, Jeantown, Plocktown, Shieldaig, Alness, Cononbridge, Avoch, Maryburgh, Contin, Redcastle, Charlestown, Munlochy, Evantown, Ballintraid, Barbaraville, Dornie, Poolewe, &c.

By Act of Parliament, 8 and 9 Vict., cap. 99, Dingwall is declared the head burgh of the shire; but for the better and more expeditious administration of justice it is divided into the Easter, Wester, and Lews districts, at the head of which respectively are the towns of Tain, Dingwall, and Stornoway, each having a resident sheriff-substitute, and a sheriff-court.

BURGH OF FORTROSE.

Fortrose—of old the "Chanonry of Ross," and an Episcopal See of considerable importance, as well as the seat of law, divinity, and learning in these parts—was erected into a "free burgh" in favour of the reverend father in Christ, Thomas, Bishop of Ross, and united to the adjoining elder burgh of Rosemarkie, by James II., in 1455. Being a Bishop's Burgh, Fortrose, along with other ecclesiastical lands and villas, reverted to the Crown at the Reformation, and was, in consequence, enfranchised anew, and erected into an independent Royal Burgh in 1590, and again annexed to Rosemarkie in 1592, under the united name of the Royal Burgh of Fortrose. The Bishoprick of Ross was formed by King David I. between the years 1124 and 1128, at which period Macbeth, its first Bishop, appears on record. The Cathedral or Diocesan seal of Fortrose, now used as that of the united Burghs, is circumscribed in Saxon characters—Scapituli Scom Petri et Bonifacii de Rosemarkin. The cathedral church, dedicated to Saint Peter and Saint Boniface, stood at the Chanonry, now Fortrose. When entire, it consisted of choir and nave with aisles, eastern Lady Chapel and Chapter House at the north-east end. Its remains consist of the south aisle to chancel and nave and the detached Chapter House—all in the middle-pointed style. A large bell now hung on a wooden spire bears the name of Thomas Tulloch, Bishop of Ross, 1460, and an inscription intimating its dedication to the Virgin Mary and Saint Boniface. Rosemarkie was enfranchised by Alexander II., in or about 1216. The ancient Burgh s-al

Rosemarkie has inscribed on it the figure of Saint Peter mitred in a shield. The circumscription is Sigillum est mune Burge de Rosemarkiegn. The original church of Rosemarkie is ascribed to Saint Boniface, surnamed Queretinus an Italian, who, in the seventh or eighth century, is said to have come into Scotland for the purpose of inducing the church there to conform with the practices of the Church of Rome, and after founding churches in many parts of the country, to have settled in Rosemarkie and to have built there a church in which he was afterwards buried. The church was dedicated to him, and stood on the same site as the new church built in 1821. The town is regularly built, well lighted, and abundantly supplied with water. It is romantically situated on the shores of the Moray Firth, and, from the salubrity of the climate, and the beautiful walks in the neighbourhood and along the shore, possesses great attractions as summer and sea-bathing quarters. From the ridge of the hill, at the root of which the burgh lies, a wide and varied panorama of mountain, hill, and sea stretches out before the eye. Within a wide grassy enclosure, in the centre of Fortrose, there are the remains of a once grand and imposing Cathedral—the see of the Bishops of Ross. Between the two towns, which are distant about half-a-mile from each other, a long tongue of land, having a beautiful sandy beach, and fine level lawn—the public links—on both sides, terminated by a lighthouse of the second order, runs out into the Firth. A ferry connects the peninsula at this point with Fort George and the Inverness-shire coast. The Burgh having an independent revenue, besides a considerable income from various mortifications, left for the benefit of the poor, taxation is almost nominal. Living is cheap, and there is an excellent endowed Academy, besides several good schools. There is also a comfortable hotel, and sea-bathing quarters can easily be had. Fortrose likewise possesses a safe and convenient harbour. Distance from Inverness, about eleven miles, from Dingwall about fifteen, and from Cromarty about 9 miles. The fishing village of Avoch is within a mile and a-half. The population of the burgh by the census of 1871 is 1017. Constituency, 136. The annual value of real property within the Parliamentary boundary, for the year 1876-77 is £3,219 13s 3d. The comparative revenue for the same period is £264 11s 2d.

THE ISLAND OF LEWS.

This Island, next to Ireland, is the largest of the British isles, being 45 miles in length, 15 in average breadth, and 30 in extreme breadth. It has an area of 417,460 acres, and the population, according to the last census, was 23,443. It was acquired by Sir James Matheson of Achany, Bart., Lord Lieutenant for Ross-shire, in 1844, from the representatives of the late Earl of Seaforth, to whom he paid £190,000 for it, and since then he has expended large sums in improvements. On a height overlooking the town, and surrounded by tastefully laid out grounds, is Lews Castle, where the family spend a great part of the year—a modern building in the Tudor style. There is a glass Conservatory, with a colonade communicating with the Castle, erected by Mr Cranston, Birmingham, who has patented the plan. Generally the grounds about the Castle have been changed from rugged nature, to the most enchanting walks during summer, and over which tourists and the Stornowegians have free access to perambulate. The works about the Castle Grounds, peat works, and elsewhere, afford employment to the natives, who have vastly benefited by the proprietor's continued outlay in various parts of the Island. In no place is this more conspicuous than in the Town of Stornoway, where there is a commodious wooden wharf and stone pier, built by the Pier and Harbour Commission with money supplied by him at interest. A first class patent slip capable of drawing vessels of 1000 tons has also been erected by the present proprietor at a large cost, and he has munificently contracted with the post-office to carry the mails from Ullapool to the Lews five times a-week, for six months in summer, and three times a week during the rest of the year at a considerable loss to himself; and through his untiring exertions and untiring sacrifices telegraphic communication has been obtained to Stornoway. The town has in other respects undergone great changes, the principal streets are paved with Caithness flags; gas and water have long ago been introduced, through the instrumentality, mainly, of the proprietor; and there are three water fountains, erected by Mrs Percival, Lady Matheson's mother, whose good deeds are wide spread. The fisheries are prosecuted with much success; and the annual exports, comprising fish, cattle, horses, sheep, and wool, are estimated at £150,000. The imports amount to an equal if not greater sum. The Island abounds in interesting remains of antiquity—the most remarkable being the druidical or sepulchral circles at Calternish, about 16 miles from Stornoway and two miles from Prince Arthur's Hotel, Garrynahine—the duns or burgs of Bragor, and Carloway, and a number of ancient chapels. At Gress, about six miles from Stornoway, there is a cave upwards of 200 yards in length, partially covered with stalactites, like the sparr cave of Strathaird, in Skye.

The constituency, including the Stornoway votes, which count with those of the shires of Ross and Cromarty, is 181.

CROMARTYSHIRE.

This is a county of small extent, comprising the eastern part of the Black Isle, or Ardmearach, part of the district generally called Easter Ross, Coigach on the west coast, most part of the northern declivity of Strathpeffer, and several detached peninsules widely distant from each other, but locally situated within the county of Ross, in which, though claiming institutions peculiar to other counties, it is municipally sunk. It has no sheriff of its own, nor even a substitute, but forming little more than a circuit in the itinerancies of the sheriff-substitute of Tain.

Owing to the strange intermixture of territory alluded to, it was impossible to give a list of parishes altogether distinct from those of the dominant shire. They are therefore included in that of the county of Ross. The ancient valuation of property was £12,896; but the modern is common to both counties. This is also the case as to the population. The area, but perhaps only of Cromarty proper, is computed at sixty-two square miles, or 39,696 acres. It has a joint parliamentary representation with Ross.

K I R K W A L L

was a place of much importance during the Scandinavian dominion in the islands, and, on their annexation to the Scottish Crown in 1468, it was erected into a Royal Burgh by James III. It possesses some very interesting ancient structures. The Cathedral of St Magnus, founded by Ronald, Earl of Orkney, in 1137, in honour of Earl Magnus, and subsequently enlarged from time to time, is the most complete building of the kind in Scotland, and, together with the ruins of the Bishop's Palace, in which King Hakon of Norway died in 1263, and the ruins of the Earl's Palace, both in close proximity, forms a picturesque group, unsurpassed by anything of the kind in Scotland.

A Gas Company was started, and the town lighted with gas upwards of thirty years ago, and many improvements have lately been made in and around the Burgh. Tasteful and commodious houses are now springing up on its outskirts, and there is a handsome new iron pier to which the steamers can come at all tides. A large fleet can ride at anchor, in complete security, in Kirkwall Bay, which is sheltered from the ocean on all sides.

The valuation of the burgh for 1875-76 is £7517 8s 0d, and the burghal constituency is 410, and the population in 1871 was 3434. Kirkwall is one of the Wick district of burghs represented by John Pender, M.P.

Cromwell's Fort is now used as a battery by the Kirkwall Volunteers. In the vicinity of the town there are several ruins of buildings belonging to the early inhabitants of the islands. Close to the farm house of Quanterness is a large "Picts house," and not far from it, on the western slope of Wideford Hill, one of a smaller size. Remains of large buildings and subterranean chambers, exist at the old house of Saverock; and, in the summer of 1870, the ruins of a large "Brough" or circular tower, surrounded by numerous smaller structures, in the form of chambers and connecting passages, was discovered at Lingrow, and excavated, and, being within half-an-hour's walk of Kirkwall, can easily be visited by tourists.
