BOYLE'S
COURT GUIDE.

FOR

January 1812.

D.

In introducing the present Edition of the COURT GUIDE to public notice, ELIZA BOYLE, begs leave to make her most grateful acknowledgments to the NOBILITY and GENTRY, for their very generous encouragement of the work, since the decease of her husband. When she informs her distinguished PATRONS, that their liberal support has hitherto, not only enabled her to bear up against all the evils, inseparable from the embarassed circumstances in which she had the misfortune to be left a Widow, but also to maintain and educate Seven orphan Children, she feels assured, that she will afford them a higher gratification, than they can derive from any simple, but sincere expresson of thanks.

E. BOYLE, has farther respectfully to observe, that if her means of improving the COURT GUIDE had kept pace with her wishes, the whole would before this have appeared in an entire new type. In the last Edition, the ALPHABETICAL ARRANGEMENT of Names only was published in new type, but in the present the STREET LIST is also in new letter cast on purpose for the work. The paper will likewise be found to be of a very superior quality, and the most unceasing exertions have been made to render the COURT GUIDE, in every respect, as correct as possible. When these expensive improvements are duly considered together with the great increase in the price of every article in the printing business for these last TEN YEARS, during which period no augmentation was made in the charge for this work, E. BOYLE feels confident, that justice will readily appreciate, and candour chearfully allow the claim of an additional SIXPENCE, imposed on the present Edition.

A list of all the principal Hotels &c. is added at the end of the Alphabetical list of Names
