The Weather.—January comes in with cold winter weather, and with a temperature more inclined to decrease than otherwise. Very cold, and inclined to storm, on the 5th; at least the temperature will be very low as the month advances. Stormy weather may be looked for after the 18th or 19th days. About the 23rd or 24th the weather will get milder and finer, but on the whole we think the present January will be as stormy and cold or even more so than we have had it at this season of the year for some time. Very high tides may be looked for about the 18th, if the wind be west or north-west.

The Grimsby Packet leaves Grimsby, about 4 hours before high water at Hull; leaves Hull, for Grimsby, a little before high water. The Packets for Gainsborough, Selby, Leeds, Thorne, Doncaster, Sheffield, Goole, York, &c., leave Hull from 2 to 3 hours before high water.

The Weather.—The weather may be a little milder at this time than during last month, but winter weather will still continue, and a considerable quantity of downfal may be expected during the present February. After the 8th or 9th days, more wind may be looked for, which at times will occasion the air to be dryer and rather more pleasant, but for most of the month the weather will be dull and cold, with frost and snow. And although we may have the wind for some days from the west and south-west, we shall have much cold weather from the east and the north-east. High tides may be again looked for at the full moon and if the wind be westerly they will be even higher than last month.

The Weather.—This month comes in with real March weather; brisk winds or gales from the south-west. The temperature of the air is still low, particularly when the east wind prevails. Towards the latter part of the month more moisture will be in the atmosphere, aud rain may be looked for in considerable quantity. During the last few days of the month stormy east winds will continue to the end, making the temperature cold and unpleasant. High equinoctial tides may be looked for at the full moon on the 17th, and if the wind be west or north-west much damage may be done bv them in those parts of the kingdom.

The Weather.—April comes in with changeable weather, the wind varying from west and south west round to the east and north east; as the month advances the easterly winds will more commonly prevail, and on this account the temperature at the middle of the month will be rather lower than usual for this season of the year. The latter part of the month will be finer and not so cold as the wind will get more from the east towards the south, but the weather will still continue cloudy, and much fine spring weather must not be looked for in this present month.

The Weather.—May comes in with dry weather and not a very high temperature as the wind is much inclined to blow from the eastern points, which will produce weather more of a cold nature than as if the wind was from a more genial quarter, indeed, we rather look for a long continuance of east wind during the month, and therefore a very fine May must not be looked for. Towards the latter part of the month the temperature gets a little more moderate, and more genial May weather may be expected, and the month goes out much warmer than it came in.

The Weather.—June comes in with a dry air and fine weather. After the first few days it will be rather more inclined to be cloudy, but still the weather will be fine and dry. As the month advances the air will get clear, and brisk winds will frequently blow from the north-west, fine dry weather continuing with little interruption until the last few days of June, when the quantity of moisture will rather increase, and a little rain may be looked for in some places, but on the whole the present month will be finer than we have had this month for some years. High tides on the 30th day.

The Weather.—The first few days of this month will be fine and dry but as the month advances the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere will increase, and rain may be more or less looked for. After the 16th day the air will again get dryer, and we shall have rather more wind, the weather from this time will gradually get hotter, and towards the latter part of the month hot July weather will be experienced, with sometimes storms of thunder and lightning, and heavy showers, but the rain will not be of very long continuance. High tides may be looked for on the 29th or 30th, particularly if the wind be in the west or north-west on those days.

The Weather.—The present month comes in with fine weather; the barometer is rather high, and the general state of the air is such as is wanted to bring forward the coming harvest. Several days of brisk wind which will tend to temper that heat which is generally so prevalent at this season of the year. There will be thunder storms in some places but they will be only partial and not productive of those violent effects which often occur in this month. Indeed we think the present August will be as fine or finer than we have had it for some years. High tides on the 27th or 28th days.

The Weather.—The atmosphere at this time appears to contain more moisture than it has had in it for several weeks past, and rain may be expected. Wind inclined to blow from the west and south-west, with the barometer rather low, all of which are signs of rain, but although we may have a tolerable quantity of rain during the month, we do not anticipate the quantity will be so great as to be injurious to the crops if proper care be taken to use the fine days when they are at hand. The equinoctial tides at the new moon, on the 25th, will rise high if the wind he in that quarter to bring in the tide wave.

The Weather.—There is a tolerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere at the beginning of the month, and it is not to be thought that even on the 11th will the weather be very propitious, for from that day to the end the quantity of moisture in the air will rather increase than not, and after the middle of the month cold and stormy weather may be expected. The electrical currents in the atmosphere will produce rain, and most probably the temperature will get so low that we may have a tolerable quantity of snow before the end of the month. The general state of the weather will be worse than we have had it at this season for some years.

The Weather.—The month of November comes in with a low temperature and a full quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, and on the whole it may be called cold disagreeable November weather. As the month advances the temperature of the air will get a little more moderate and the air become dryer, with the wind from the south-east quarter, and at the same time the barometer will get higher, being a sign of more fixed and settled weather, but still the temperature will be low for the early part of the winter, and although the atmosphere may be rather clear and bright for the latter half of this month frost may be expected, particularly during the nights, but perhaps such weather is much better than the usual November fogs.

The Weather.—December comes in with rather a dry air but the temperature will remain low, and it may be called fine for the winter season. After the first week the quantity of moisture will be rather on the increase, and the weather will be rather more cloudy, with occasionally rain or snow. Stormy on the 15th, 16th, or 17th, with downfal. From this time to nearly the end of the month the weather will be steady, but of a cold and wintery character, with several heavy dull days of cloud and frost.

ECLIPSES OF THE SUN.

In the year 1851 there will be four Eclipses; two of the Sun and two of the Moon.

The first is a partial eclipse of the Moon on January 17th, and visible in these parts.

HULL MEAN TIME.

	h.	m.	s.
First contact with the Penumbra - - -	2	28	34	afternoon.
First contact with the dark shadow - -	3	38	52	,,
Moon rises - - - - - - - -	4	21	1	,,
Middle of the Eclipse - - - - -	4	48	40	,,
Last contact with the dark shadow - -	5	58	28	,,
End of the Eclipse - - - - -	7	8	46	,,

Magnitude of the Eclipse, five and a half digits on the Moon's nothern limb.

The second is an annular Eclipse of the Sun, on January 31, but invisible in these parts of the world. It will be central and annular at Van Dieman's Land, and in the Indian Ocean.

The third is a partial Eclipse of the Moon, on July 12th, but invisible in these parts, being visible in Mexico and California.

The fourth is a great and total Eclipse of the Sun, on July 28. This Eclipse will be a very large one at Hull, and will be total over the southern parts of Norway and Sweden, the Moon's dark shadow passing over the towns of Bergen, Gottenburg, over the Islands of Oland and Gothland, and over the towns of Dantzic and Konigsberg.

The following are the times for Hull:

	h.	m.	s.
Eclipse begins July 28th - - - - -	1	58	4	afternoon.
Greatest Phase - - - - - - -	3	6	42	,,
End of the Eclipse - - - - -	4	11	2	,,

Magnitude of the Eclipse, 10 ¼ digits on the Sun's northern limb.

The above will be the only large Eclipse of the Sun that we shall have until the year 1858, which will happen on May 15th, and will be nearly total.

The beautiful planet Venus will be a morning star from January 1st to September 30th, then an evening star to the end of the year.

Jupiter will be a morning star from January 1st to May 5th, then an evening star until October 27th, and from that time a morning star to the end of the year.

For those who are furnished with telescopes, Jupiter will be best seen during the months of March, April, and May; Saturn during September, October, and November. Venus will be best seen in the mornings of January and February, and Mercury may be seen on the following days: January 6th, evening; February 15th, morning; April 27th, evening; June 15th, morning; August 25th, evening; October 7th, morning; December 20th, evening. Saturn will be a fine object for the telescope in November, as the ring will have opened very considerably.

DR. HERSCHELL's WEATHER TABLE,

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters, so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

Moon Changes	In Summer.	In Winter.
Between Midnight & 2 in the Morn.	Fair - - - - - -	Frost, unless Wind be S. or S. W.
2 and 4 - - -	Cold with Showers -	Snow and Stormy
4 and 6 - - -	Rain - - - - -	Rain
6 and 8 - - -	Wind and Rain - -	Stormy
8 and 10 - - -	Changeable - -	Cold Rain if Wind W. Snow if E.
10 and 12 - - -	Frequent Showers -	Cold and High Winds
12 and 2 Aftern.	Very Rainy - - -	Snow or Rain
2 and 4 - - -	Changeable - - -	Fair and Mild
4 and 6 - - -	Fair - - - - - -	Fair
6 and 8 - - -	Fair, if Wind N. W. Rain, if S. or S. W.	Fair and Frosty, if Wind N. or N. E. Rain or Snow, if S. or S. W.
8 and 10 - - -	Ditto ditto - - -	Ditto ditto
10 and Midnight.	Fair - - - - - -	Fair and Frosty

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.
2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.
3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.
4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.
5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.
6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

THE FOUR QUARTERS OF THE YEAR.

Spring Quarter, ...	begins March 21
Summer Quarter, ...	begins June 22
Autumn Quarter, ...	begins Sept. 23
Winter Quarter, ...	begins Dec. 22

MONTHLY NOTICES.

March 1.—Auditors and assessors of Boroughs to be elected.

March 25.—Overseers are to be appointed on this day, or within 14 days after. Those whose year has expired, must verify their accounts by oath before one justice, within 14 days, to be delivered to their successors after the appointment of such successors. Constables, headboroughs, and tithingmen, are to deliver their accounts every 3 months, and within 14 days after they leave office, to the overseers, who are, within the following 14 days, to lay them before the inhabitants, and, if approved by a majority, they shall be allowed; but if not, the constables, &c. may appeal to a justice. Surveyors of Highways elected, accounts to be made up within 14 days.

March 30.—Poor-law Guardians to be elected.

April 5.—The returns for making the assessment of direct taxes are delivered soon after this day. The person making the return rates himself for the persons and articles subject to taxes kept and used by him between the 5th of April, and the 5th of April. If he wishes to give up keeping any servant, reducing the number of windows, &c., he should do so on the 4th of April.

June 10.—Clerks of the Peace for counties to issue precepts to overseers to publish lists of voters.

June 20.—Overseers to fix on church doors notices to persons qualified to vote for counties, to make claims. Persons on the register need not make a new claim, unless they have changed their qualification. Overseers in boroughs to publish notices to electors respecting payment of poor rates and assessed taxes as a qualification for voting.

July 5.—Annual licence to be taken out by pawnbrokers and appraisers who are not auctioneers.—Game Certificates to be taken out.

July 20.—Assessed taxes and poor rates due on 5th January, must be paid on or before this day, by all electors of cities or boroughs, or they will be disqualified from voting. Last day for sending in claims for voting in counties.

July 31.—Overseers to make out lists of borough electors.

August 1.—Annual licence to be taken out by hawkers and pedlars. Overseers to publish lists of voters for counties; town-clerks in boroughs to publish lists of freemen.

August 3 & 10 (Two first Sundays.)-Borough and county lists to be affixed to church doors.

August 25.—Last day for service of objections on electors in counties, or their tenants, and for service on overseers of objections to electors.—Last day to claim as borough electors.

August 29.—Overseers of parishes and townships to send lists of electors and number of objections to the high constables of their hundreds, and overseers of boroughs to the town-clerk.

August 31. All taxes and rates payable on March 1st, must be paid on or before this day, by persons claiming to be enrolled as burgesses under the Municipal Corporations Act.

Sept. 5.—Overseers of parishes and boroughs to make out burgess lists under Municipal Reform Act, which must be delivered to town-clerk this day.

Sept. 14 & 7 (Two Sundays preceding the 15th) Lists of objections to county electors, & claims & objections for borough lists, to be affixed to church doors.

Sept. 8.—Town-clerks in boroughs to cause the burgess' lists to be fixed in public places in boroughs, from this day till 15th.

Sept. 15.—Claims of persons omitted in the burgess lists, and objections to persons improperly inserted, to be given to the town-clerk in writing on or before this day; notice of the objection also to be given to the person objected to.

Sept. 24.—Lists of claimants and of persons objected to, to be fixed by town-clerk in some public place of each borough, from this day till October 1.

Oct. 1.—Mayor and assessors to hold an open court to revise burgess lists, some time between the 1st and 15th, 3 clear days notice to be given. The revised list to be kept by the town-clerk, and persons therein entered to be entitled to vote, according to the Act, from the 1st of November.

Oct. 10.—Annual licence to be taken out by bankers or others issuing promissory notes for money, payable to the bearer on demand, and allowed to be re-issued.

Nov. 1.—Borough councillors to be elected.

Nov. 9.—Mayor and aldermen of boroughs to be elected.

Nov. 15.—Attorneys, proctors, notory publics, &c., to take out certificates

LIST OF FAIRS.

ORIGIN OF FAIRS.—When bishops and abbots observed that crowds of people assembled to celebrate the festivals of their patron saints, they applied to the crown for charters to hold fairs at those times, for the accommodation of strangers, and with a view to increase their own revenues by the tolls which their charters authorised them to levy at these fairs. Hence the multitude of attendants increased, some of whom were actuated by religious, and others by commercial views.

Abstracts of Acts of Parliament passed in 1850.

13th and 14th Victoria.

MERCANTILE MARINE ACT.—"A bill for improving the condition of masters, mates, and seamen, and maintaining discipline in the merchant service."

Central and Local Boards.—All matters relating to the Mercantile Marine are by this Act placed under the superintendence of the Board of Trade, assisted by two paid officers. Local Boards are to be established in all Sea ports that have employed a registered tonnage of 30,000 tons foreign going ships, to have the management for such port under the superintendence of the Board of Trade. Such Local Board to consist of the Mayor or Provost, and Stipendiary Magistrate of the place, four members appointed by the Board of Trade, and six members to be elected by Shipowners, who are to have one vote for every 250 tons of foreign going shipping they hold up to ten votes. Lists of parties entitled to vote are to be made out every third year, by the Collector of Customs, to be revised by two justices.

Examination of Masters and Mates.—All persons who intend to become masters or mates must undergo an examination by examiners appointed by the Local Board, upon such plans as may be determined by the Board of Trade, who will grant to every applicant, reported to have passed his examination satisfactorily, a "certificate of competency." All persons serving as masters or mates before January 1st, 1851, may have a "Certificate of Service" without examination or payment of fees. And where the Board of Trade see fit they may also give to such parties a certificate of competency. Any master or mate convicted of misdemeanour under this Act, or if the Board of Trade or a Local Board consider him, and he is proved to be, incompetent to discharge his duties from gross incompetency, drunkeness or tyranical habits, his certificate may be cancelled—but one may be afterwards granted if the Board of Trade see fit. No foreign going ship shall proceed to sea unless the master and first and second mates (if there are two) possess valid certificates of competency to be produced to the Customs before clearing. There are penalties for false representations, forging or altering, or neglecting to give up certificates, &c.

Shipping Offices and Shipping Masters.—These offices and masters are to be appointed by the Local Board, with clerks, &c., and to fix wages, regulate the business, &c. The general business of the shipping masters is to afford facilities for engaging seamen, by keeping registries of their names and characters, to superintend and facilitate their engagement and discharge, to provide means for securing the presence on board, at the proper times, of men who are so engaged, and to perform such other duties in respect of seamen as are committed to them.

Fees are to be payable upon engagements and discharges, to be altered in amount from time to time by the Board of Trade, but not to exceed certain sums fixed by a schedule, which fees are to be paid in the first instance by the owner, or master, but partially repaid by the seamen, by deduction from his wages.

Agreements with Seamen.—Every master of a ship shall on carrying any seaman to sea as one of his crew, enter into an agreement with him, sanctioned and issued by the Board of Trade, dated at the time of the first signature thereof, signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof:—1. The nature, and, as far as practicable, the length of the voyage or engagement on which the ship is to be employed. 2. The time at which each seaman is to be on board or to begin work. 3. The capacity in which each seaman is to serve. 4. The amount of wages which each seaman is to receive. 5. A scale of the provisions which are to be furnished to each seaman. 6. Any regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines, short allowance of provisions, or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by the Board of Trade as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt. And shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations, to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case, as to advance and allotment of wages; and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

These agreements are to be in duplicate, one to be retained at the Shipping-office, the other to be kept by the master: they are to be produced to the shipping master before sailing, and again within forty-eight hours after arrival. Any seaman's right to wages and provisions shall be taken to commence either at the time at which he commences work or at the time specified in the agreement for his commencement of work or presence on board, which ever first happens; this enactment shall not prejudice the infliction of any lawful punishment, forfeiture, or fine; nor shall any seaman be entitled to wages for any period during which he refuses or neglects to work when required, whether before or after the time fixed by the agreement for his beginning work.

Any seaman who has signed an agreement, and who is discharged before the commencemt of the voyage, or before one month's wages are earned, without fault on his part justifying his discharge, and without his consent, shall be entitled to receive from the master or owner, in addition to any wages he may have earned, due compensation for the damage thereby caused to him, not exceeding one month's wages.

Advance Notes.—These notes are to be in forms sanctioned by the Board of Trade, with blanks for the number of days within which the notes are to be payable; no advance note is to be given except in the presence of a shipping master, and four hours after the agreement has been signed, which agreement is to contain an accurate statement of the amount of such note.

Miscellaneous.—Every place in any ship occupied by seamen and apprentices shall have a space of nine superficial feet for the use of each adult, to be kept free from goods or stores belonging to the ship, and every such place shall be properly constructed and ventilated. Inspectors of Medicine are to be appointed—fines (not exceeding £20) to be paid for supplying bad medicines, lime juice, &c.; proper weights and measures are to be kept on board by every master, to be used at the time of serving out provisions, &c., in the presence of a witness if there is any dispute about quantities.

Offences of Seamen.—Punishments and penalties are provided for seamen neglecting to join their ships, for desertion, and refusal to perform duty. For any of the following offences, on due proof thereof, and entry in the log book at the time, they may be summarily punished by a justice by imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding the following, viz:—1. Twelve weeks for wilfully damaging the ship, or embezzling or wilfully damaging any of her stores or cargo. 2. Twelve weeks for assaulting any master or mate. 3. Four weeks for wilful disobedience to any lawful command. 4. Twelve weeks for continued wilful disobedience to lawful commands, or for continued wilful neglect of duty. 5. Twelve weeks for combining with any other or others of the crew to disobey lawful commands, or to neglect duty, or to impede the navigation of the ship or the progress of the voyage. Fines may be deducted from wages, and both imprisonment and forfeiture may be inflicted if necessary. Consuls abroad may appoint a court for the trial of complaints on the high seas and abroad.

The remainder of the Act has reference to the keeping of log-books, to the mode of discharging seamen abroad and at home; to official returns relative to the merchant service; inspection of vessels and mode of procedure against offenders or violation of the law, for misconduct either at home or abroad; application of money paid for fees, &c.

Commencement of Act.—The provisions relating to powers given to the Board of Trade, the local marine boards, register and shipping offices, and examination of masters and mates are to come into operation immediately. So much of it as relates to compulsory production of certificates of masters and mates; agreements with seamen, advance of wages, health on board ships, desertion, discipline, log-books, and lists of crews, payment of wages and discharge of seamen, shall commence 1st January, 1851, for such ships as are then in the United Kingdom; with respect to those not then in the kingdom as soon as preparations are made for another voyage outward.

County Courts Extension Bill.—This measure is a most important addition to the Act of the 10th Victoria, "for the more easy recovery of debts and demands," by which the County Courts could hear and decide actions when the sum demanded did not exceed twenty pounds. (An abstract of the Act was given in Noble's Almanack for 1846. The principal object of the present bill is to extend the jurisdiction of the County Courts "to the recovery of any debt, damage, or demand, not exceeding the sum of fifty pounds." It is provided that if there shall be sufficient reason for bringing the action in a superior court, the plaintiff may take it to the superior court instead of the County Count; but unless the judge at the trial shall certifiy that there was such reason, the plaintiff is not to obtain his costs, though he may obtain judgment for the amount awarded to him. A clause has been inserted giving an appeal, in cases between £20 to £50, from the County Courts to any of the superior courts at Westminster, two or more of the puisne judges whereof shall sit out of term as the Court of Appeal for that purpose. Another important provision is that, by agreement of both parties, the County Court shall have power to try causes to any amount, or causes in which the title of land, or to any tithe or toll, shall be in question. These courts will thus answer the purpose of courts of reference or arbitration. The judges of County Courts are also empowered to appoint umpires in cases of arbitration, when there has not been a sufficient appointment, or application of the parties. It is further provided, by way of simplifying proceedings and lessening expenses, that when the defendent can agree with the plaintiff as to the amount of debt or demand in respect of which a plaint has been entered, and upon the terms and conditions upon which the same shall be paid or satisfied, such agreement, on being duly signed, shall be as conclusive as if the judgment of the court had been given. This will in many cases diminish the number of witnesses necessary to be brought and so lessen expense. Altogether the Act is a most important one to the trading community, and it is to be hoped that, although the court of appeal may be an inducement to run clients to expense, that the profession will enable the full benefit of it to advantage the public.

Marine Insurance.—(By Act 7th Vic. cap. 21.)—Policy of Insurance upon Vessel, Goods, or Freight, where the sum insured does not exceed £100. If the premium does not exceed the rate of 10s. per centum on the sum insured, 3d.; not exceeding 20s. per cent., 6d.; not exceeding 30s. per cent., 1s.; not exceeding 40s. per cent., 2s.; not exceeding 50s. per cent. 3s; if exceeding 50 per cent., 4s. Policy for any certain period of time, for every £100, and also for any fractional part of £100; not exceeding 6 calendar months, 2s. 6d.; exceeding 6 calendar months, 4s. Where the sum insured exceeds £100, then for every £100, and also for any fractional part of £100, whereof the same consists. If the separate interests of two or more distinct persons shall be insured by one policy or instrument, then the said respective duties as the case may require shall be charged thereon in respect of each and every fractional part of £100, as well as in respect of every full sum of £100 which shall be thereby insured upon any separate and distinct interest. For every £100, and also for each fractional part of £100, 2s.

THE NEW STAMP ACT.—13 and 14 Vic.. cap. 97.—This Act, the operation of which commenced on October 11th, 1850, contains 21 sections and a long schedule of the new duties to be enforced some of the most important of which will be found at page 31 of this Almanack. The Stamp Duties imposed by various statutes are hereby repealed—and the duties are to be under the care of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue. The Stamp Duties on a bargain and sale, and on leases for one year are repealed—and any additional duty on a conveyance by feoffment or bargain and sale are repealed. All persons receiving monies for Stamp Duties and misappropriating the same, to be liable for the amount, to be enforced by the Court of Exchequer. Progressive duties are not to be charged on deeds or instruments in respect of other deeds or instruments duly stamped and referred to therein. For securing the payment of proper Stamp Duties penalties are imposed, with a proviso that they may be remitted if it be proved that the omission to Stamp within twelve months arose from "accident, inadvertency, or urgent necessity." If doubts arise as to the sufficiency of Stamp duty paid on deeds, on payment of a fee of 10s., Commissioners are to assess the proper duty—and if parties are dissatisfied therewith they have an appeal to the Court of Exchequer according to whose decisions the duty is to be paid. Conveyances, mortgages, and settlements of property under contract or obligation before 20th March, 1850, exempted from any increased ad valorem duty. Deeds, &c.. may be stamped either in London or Dublin. The former allowance of 7½ per cent. to dealers in receipt stamps is granted under this Act. The duty on conveyances by this Act is 10s. per cent. Copyhold estat s passing by surrender and admittance and not by deed, the same amount as that paid on memorials, viz., 2s. 6d., with progressive duty of 2s. 6d. for every 1080 words. On leases of land, houses, &c., at a yearly rent, a duty of 10s. per cent. On mortgages and bonds, &c., 2s. 6d. Reconveyances—the same duty as on mortgage; schedule, inventory, &c., of lands, houses, furniture, &c., same duty as on agreements, &c.

BANKRUPTCY.—The following are the new Stamp Duties on Bankruptcy proceedings, under 12 and 13 Vic. Cap. 106:—Every petition for adjudication of Bankruptcy, or for arrangement between any Debtor and his Creditor under superintendance and control of the Court, or for certificate of arrangement by Deed, £10. Declaration of Insolvency, 2s. 6d. Admission or Deposition of Trader Debtor, 2s. 6d. Bond (with sureties), 5s. Application for search for petition or other proceeding (except search for the appointment of any sitting or meeting), 1s. Allocatur by any Officer of the Court, for any Cost, Charges, or Disbursements, where such Bill of costs shall not exceed £5, 1s. 6d.—

PUBLIC LIBRARIES AND MUSEUMS.—This Act is passed to enable Town Councils to establish Libraries and Museums for the use of the public. It repeals the Act 8 and 9 Vic. cap. 43, for encouraging the establishment of Museums in large towns, and the present Act may be adopted in any municipal borough—the object of it being as expressed "to give greater facilities than now exist for establishing and extending public museums of art and science in municipal boroughs, and for the instruction and recreation of the people." In any borough, the population of which exceeds 10,000, the Mayor, on the request of the Town Council, may ascertain whether the Act is to be adopted, by the votes of the burgesses, and when adopted all necessary things are to be provided out of a rate of not more than a halfpenny in the pound per year. The public Libraries and Museums are to be held by the Town Council in trust for the benefit of the inhabitants. The admission to such Libraries and Museums is to be free of charge. The Act contains eleven sections. Although the former Act relating to Museums is repealed, any begun or established under it may be maintained and continued under the present Act. By the adoption of this Act—the taxation for which is self-imposed and small—the inhabitants of large towns, especially the working classes, will be able to avail themselves of the highest sources of recreation and improvement.

RATING SMALL TENEMENTS.—13 and 14 Vic., cap. 99.—This Act was passed for the better assessing and collecting the poor and highway rates in respect of small tenements. It is provided that vestries are to determine whether tenements of a yearly rental not exceeding £6, shall be rated to the owners instead of the occupiers, and when thus rated the owners are to be rated in a reduced scale. The goods of the occupiers are to be liable for the rates as well as the goods of the owners. Municipal privileges are not to be taken away from occupiers by reason of the owners being rated. Owners of tenements held for longer periods than from year to year are entitled to add to the rent the amount paid for rates. The Act extends only to England and Wales, and is now in operation.

THE CENSUS FOR 1851.—In the last session of Parliament an Act was passed providing for taking an account of the population of Great Britain. This is to be done under the superintendence of the Secretary for the Home Department, and registrars of districts in England are to be formed into enumeration districts. The several registrars of births and deaths are to return to their superintendents a sufficient number of persons, duly qualified, according to instructions, to take an account of the population in the several districts;—these are to called "Enumerators." The Census in England is to be taken on Monday the 31st March next, of all persons in houses on the previous night. In Scotland, Sheriffs are to appoint Schoolmasters to take the account. In England and Scotland, "Schedules" are to be left at every house to be filled up by the occupiers, and to be delivered to an "Enumerator" under a penalty of £5, which schedules are to be collected on the 31st March, and to be corrected if found to be erroneous. The Secretary of State is to obtain returns of houseless, or of persons travelling, or on shipboard, on the night of Sunday, the 30th March. Guardians and overseers are to pay the persons employed under this Act, and Parliament is to reimburse the several parishes. Every person refusing to answer the "Enumerator," or wilfully giving a false answer, is to forfeit not more than £5, nor less than 20s., to be recovered in a summary manner.

THE NEW FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT.—This Act, which was passed to consolidate and amend the laws relating to Friendly Societies, contains fifty-two clauses, besides several schedules. It is an important piece of legislation, and it was passed, according to the preamble, to make further provision for the protection of members against "fraud and misapplication of the funds." The laws are now consolidated into one statute, and the other acts are repealed, except so far as they are required for matters to be transacted or perfected. The object for which Friendly Societies may be formed under this Act are detailed, arising principally from death, infirmity, or sickness. There is a clause in it to prevent the recurrence of the horrible scenes arising from "Burial Clubs," from which money was obtained on the death of children. Now, for a child under ten years of age, no money is to be paid, except for the actual funeral expenses, and then not exceeding 3*l.*;—nor is this money to be paid except to the undertaker or person by whom the funeral is conducted. In case of members dying, it is necessary to produce the certificate of a surgeon or coroner that there was no reason to attribute death to poison, violence, or criminal neglect;—and that to the coroner it did not appear that the party had been deprived of life by means of any person beneficially interested in obtaining burial money from any other society. The act is now in force.

The Weather.—January comes in with moderate winter weather, but inclined to be dull and cloudy. Rather stormily inclined about the 7th day, with some downfal; after that time moderately steady winter weather may be looked for. We think that the lowest temperature for this month may be about the 18th or 19th days, after which time the air will get a little dryer, and the weather more moderate, and although not severe, yet it will be of the general character for this time of the year to the end of the month. Spring tides for this month only rise to a moderate height.

The Grimsby Packet leaves Grimsby, about 4 hours before high water at Hull; leaves Hull, for Grimsby, a little before high water. The Packets for Gainsborough, Selby, Leeds, Thorne, Doncaster, Sheffield, Goole, York, &c., leave Hull from 2 to 3 hours before high water.

The Weather.—February is generally accounted a wet month, and for the present year it appears very likely there will be the full quantity of downfal, either in the form of rain or snow, or probably both. The barometer for the most part of the month will range low, although it may get a little finer towards the latter part of the month, with a dryer air and more wind. The winds will be variable during the month, changing from north-west to north-north-east, and sometimes very cold from the easterly quarter. From the 7th to the 12th or 13th, the weather will be the worst, with the barometer very variable, and the temperature of the air for the whole month will not be above the average of what it usually is in February.

The Weather.—The atmosphere appears yet to have plenty of moisture in it, and rain may be expected. The mercury in the barometer continues unsettled; and the wind changes from the north-west to north-north-east. About the 12th or 13th, the weather gets a little finer and pleasanter, but still the moist nature of the atmosphere appears to predominate. After the 20th day the air will get dryer, and the wind will be more settled from the east; and although it may blow rather cold from that quarter, on the whole, the weather will be more pleasant than at the beginning of the month. The spring tide on the 6th will (if the wind should happen to be from the westerly part of the heavens), rise to a considerable height.

The Weather.—The quantity of moisture in the atmosphere is not so great at this time as during the last month, and as the month advances the air gradually gets dryer and the weather finer, which change will be particularly visible about the 7th day of the month. The barometer gets higher and more steady, with some brisk winds from the west and north-west, and although we may have several dull and cloudy days during the month of April this year, it will be on the whole, for the season, a fine month. High tides about the full moon, which, if the wind be from that point where it assists in bringing up the water, some damage may be done on our coasts.

The Weather.—May comes in with moderate weather after the first and second days, which increases in fineness for at least a week or ten days at the beginning of the month, after which the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere will rather increase and the barometer will be more unsettled; the weather will continue rather changeable until about the 21st day, after which time the atmosphere will get brighter, with occasionally brisk winds, and genial May weather may in a great measure be expected to the end of the month, and, on the whole, we venture to pronounce the present May as fine as we have had this month for several years past. Rather high tides may be looked for at the full moon, particularly if the winds assist the actions of the sun and moon on the ocean.

The Weather.—The weather during the month of June will be changeable, and the mercury in the barometer never long settled together. For the first week there will be a moderate quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, and some few dull days; after the 9th or 10th days the air will get a little dryer, and some few days of brisk wind may be expected. About the 21st storms of hail and rain may be expected, and from this time the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere will be greater, and rain may be expected for some days, with intervals of cloudy and dull days. The winds for this month will, like the weather, be very changeable, being from the east, north-east, north-west, and west, with some days from the south-west.

The Weather.—July is generally found to be a wet month, particularly for the first three weeks of the month, and as the quantity of moisture in the air during the present one is considerable, we think that a more than moderate quantity of rain may be looked for, at least the month to all appearance will come in with wet weather. After the 9th the air will get a little dryer, and some hot days with thunder and storm on the 18th day in many parts of this country: of course, as is always the case, this will not be general, but in those places where it does take place much damage will be done, particularly amongst the cattle. After the 23rd the air will get rather dryer, and several hot days will be experienced, with partial showers in some places.

The Weather.—August comes in with moderately fine weather, but inclined to heat, and which will bring thunder and rain in many places about the 6th and 7th days, and again on the 10th or 11th days. Winds most commonly from the west, north-west, and some few days from the south-west quarter, which will bring fine summer weather, and although several days may be heavy with clouds we consider that the present August will, on the whole, be a pleasant month. This month, on the average, is one of the hottest months in the year, the mean height of thermometer for the present August will not be so great as for some years past. High tides on the 16th or 17th days; on the latter day the moon is at her nearest distance to the Earth.

The Weather.—September comes in with fine weather and some few refreshing showers at the beginning; as the month advances the air gets dryer and advantageous weather for the ripening crops may be looked for, which weather will continue in a great measure until near the end of the month when it will change for the worse, and some few stormy days will be experienced, and the month will go out with rough weather for the season. High tides on the 14th and 15th days may be expected, particularly if the wind be favourable for bringing up the water.

The Weather.—This month comes in with a considerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere; after the first few days the weather will get a little dryer, with some brisk winds from the west. After the 21st or 22nd day the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere will again increase, and wet weather may be expected to the end of the month; indeed the last week will be of that damp, gloomy kind of weather that we generally experience in the next month. High tides may be looked for on the 14th or 15th days, and if the wind blow briskly from the west, which is very probable, some damage may be the result on those parts of the island.

The Weather.—This month comes in with gloomy, dull, and wet weather, which will continue for the first week, when the air suddenly gets dryer and clearer, and much finer weather will follow, and although some few November days are to be looked for, we think the month, on the whole, will be much finer than we have had it for some years. High tides may be looked for on the 12th and 13th days, as the moon is at its nearest distance to the earth, and with very small latitude.

The Weather.—There is a little more moisture in the atmosphere than there was last month, but still the barometer keeps steady and moderately fine weather for the season may be looked for. As the month advances the temperature of the air will get lower, and rain or snow may be looked for, but as the temperature of the air is rather low for the season it is more likely to be snow than rain. Towards the end of the month the air again gets dryer, and a few healthy winter days will carry this month out, being much inclined to frost and sharp winter weather

ECLIPSES OF THE SUN, &c.

In the year 1852 there will be three Eclipses of the Sun, and three of the Moon.

The first is a total eclipse of the Moon on January 7th, and visible in these parts.

HULL MEAN TIME.

	h.	m.	s.
First contact with the Penumbra - - -	3	18	58	morning.
First contact with the dark shadow - -	4	19	34	,,
Moon's disappearance - - - - -	5	19	34	,,
Middle of the Eclipse - - - - -	6	8	40	,,
Moon's reappearance - - - -	6	57	46	,,
Last contact with the dark shadow - -	7	57	46	,,
Last contact with the Penumbra - - -	8	58	24	,,

The second is a partial Eclipse of the Sun, on January 21, but invisible in these parts, being visible at New Zealand and the South Pacific Ocean.

The third is a partial Eclipse of the Sun, on June 17th, but invisible in this part of the world, being only visible to the southern parts of South America, and in the Southern Ocean.

The fourth is a total Eclipse of the Moon on July 1st, but invisible in those parts, as the Moon will be below our horizon, at the time of the Eclipse.

The fifth is a total Eclipse of the Sun on December 10th, but only visible through the north of Asia and the North Pacific Ocean.

The sixth is a partial Eclipse of the Moon on December 26th, but invisible in this part of the world.

The beautiful planet Venus will be an evening star from January 6th to July 21st, and then a morning star to the end of the year.

The planet Jupiter will be a morning star from January 1st to June 6th, then an evening star until November 26th, and a morning star from November 26th, to the year's end.

Venus will be in an excellent situation for viewing with the telescope during the months of March, April, May, and June. She will be at her greatest distance from the Sun on May 12th, and at her greatest brilliancy on June 14th, when she will appear through the telescope as a beautiful crescent, and be quite capable of producing a shadow from objects.

Jupiter will be in the best situation for telescopic observations in the months of April, May, June, and July, when his four moons and belts may be seen on any clear night with a telescope magnifying from 60 to 100 times.

The planet Saturn will be best for viewing during the months of October, November, and December, when his ring may be seen on clear evenings with a telescope magnifying from 60 to 100 times, but to see well the divisions in his ring, and the whole of his eight moons, requires a very large and powerful telescope, with an aperture of from 15 to 20 inches, and of proportional length and power.

DR. HERSCHELL'S WEATHER TABLE,

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters, so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.
2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.
3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.
4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.
5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.
6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

MONTHLY NOTICES.

March 1.—Auditors and assessors of Boroughs to be elected.

March 25.—Overseers are to be appointed on this day, or within 14 days after. Those whose year has expired, must verify their accounts by oath before one justice, within 14 days, to be delivered to their successors after the appointment of such successors. Constables, headboroughs, and tithingmen, are to deliver their accounts every 3 months, and within 14 days after they leave office, to the overseers, who are, within the following 14 days, to lay them before the inhabitants, and, if approved by a majority, they shall be allowed; but if not, the constables, &c. may appeal to a justice. Surveyors of Highways elected, accounts to be made up within 14 days.

March 30.—Poor-law Guardians to be elected.

April 5.—The returns for making the assessment of direct taxes are delivered soon after this day. The person making the return rates himself for the persons and articles subject to taxes kept and used by him between the 5th of April, and the 5th of April. If he wishes to give up keeping any servant, &c., he should do so on the 4th of April.

June 10.—Clerks of the Peace for counties to issue precepts to overseers to publish lists of voters.

June 20.—Overseers to fix on church doors notices to persons qualified to vote for counties, to make claims. Persons on the register need not make a new claim, unless they have changed their qualification. Overseers in boroughs to publish notices to electors respecting payment of poor rates and assessed taxes as a qualification for voting.

July 5.—Annual licence to be taken out by pawnbrokers and appraisers who are not auctioneers.—Game Certificates to be taken out.

July 20.—Assessed taxes and poor rates due on 5th January, must be paid on or before this day, by all electors of cities or boroughs, or they will be disqualified from voting.—Last day for sending in claims for voting in counties.

July 31.—Overseers to make out lists of borough electors.

August 1.—Annual licence to be taken out by hawkers and pedlars. Overseers to publish lists of voters for counties; town-clerks in boroughs to publish lists of freemen.

August 1 & 8 (Two first Sundays.)—Borough and county lists to be affixed to church doors.

August 25.—Last day for service of objections on electors in counties, or their tenants, and for service on overseers of objections to electors.—Last day to claim as borough electors.

August 29.—Overseers of parishes and townships to send lists of electors and number of objections to the high constables of their hundreds, and overseers of boroughs to the town-clerk.

August 31.—All taxes and rates payable on March 1st, must be paid on or before this day, by persons claiming to be enrolled as burgesses under the Municipal Corporations Act.

Sept. 5.—Overseers of parishes and boroughs to make out burgess lists under Municipal Reform Act, which must be delivered to town-clerk this day.

Sept. 5 & 12 (Two Sundays preceding the 15th) Lists of objections to county electors, & claims & objections for borough lists, to be affixed to church doors.

Sept. 8.—Town-clerks in boroughs to cause the burgess' lists to be fixed in public places in boroughs, from this day till 15th.

Sept. 15.—Claims of persons omitted in the burgess lists, and objections to persons improperly inserted, to be given to the town-clerk in writing on or before this day; notice of the objection also to be given to the person objected to.

Sept. 24.—Lists of claimants and of persons objected to, to be fixed by town-clerk in some public place of each borough, from this day till October 1.

Oct. 1.—Mayor and assessors to hold an open court to revise burgess lists, some time between the 1st and 15th, 3 clear days notice to be given. The revised list to be kept by the town-clerk, and persons therein entered to be entitled to vote, according to the Act, from the 1st of November.

Oct. 10.—Annual licence to be taken out by bankers or others issuing promissory notes for money, payable to the bearer on demand, and allowed to be re-issued.

Nov. 1.—Borough councillors to be elected.

Nov. 9.—Mayor and aldermen of boroughs to be elected.

Nov. 15.—Attorneys, proctors, notary publics, &c., to take out certificates

THE GENERAL CENSUS.

One of the most important events of the past year was the taking of the General Census on the 31st March, the tables of which, most carefully arranged, were published with unparalelled accuracy very shortly afterwards. The increase of population in Great Britain (that is in England, Wales, Scotland, and the Islands in the British Seas) since the previous census taken 7th June, 1841, is 2,263,550; the increase in London is about one-fifth of this, or 414,772. In the return for 1851 is included the Navy, Merchant Seamen, and persons on board vessels, which were not included in 1841. The decrease of population in Ireland is fearful, being not less than twenty per cent. in ten years. Although some part of this may be attributed to emigration, yet the wholesale evictions of the peasantry and the scourges of famine and disease have told fearfully upon the population. The following is a summary of the various returns:—

	1851, 1st March.			1841, 7th June.
Total number of Houses in Great Britain, Ireland, and Islands in the British Seas	Inhabited	Uninhabited.	Building.	Inhabited	Uninhabited.	Building.
	4,723,186	230,762	31,222	4,794,820	250,337	33,647
England and Wales	3,276,975	152,570	26,529	2,943,939	173,234	27,468
Scotland.....	376,650	11,956	2,378	*502,852	24,026	2,646
Islands in the British Seas	21,826	1,077	202	19,190	869	220
Ireland.....	1,047,735	65,159	2,113	1,328,839	52,208	3,313
London.....	307,772	16,889	4,817	262,737	11,324	4,032

* In 1841, "Flats, or Storeys" were reckoned as a house in Scotland; this year it was corrected.

The increase in the number of inhabited houses in Great Britain, &c., over 1841, is 209,470; of that increase London shows 44,985. The decrease of inhabited houses in Ireland is 281,104.

Thus we see that the increase of population in Great Britain, (England, Scotland, and the British Isles) has been in ten years, 2,263,550. Whilst during the same time the decrease in Ireland has been 1,659, 330. In London alone the increase has been 414,772, or about one-third of the whole; in Scotland the increase is 256,600 or about one-sixth of the total increase in Great Britain. In Ireland the population is 286,033, less than it was in 1821, thirty years ago.—In 1821 it was 6,801,827; 1831 7,767,402; 1841, 8,175,124; 1851, 6,575,794.—In Great Britain there is a preponderance of 550,157 females over males, and in Ireland 162,340. Total more females than males 712,497, or 183,222 more than in 1841.

LIST OF FAIRS.

ORIGIN OF FAIRS.—When bishops and abbots observed that crowds of people assembled to celebrate the festivals of their patron saints, they applied to the crown for charters to hold fairs at those times, for the accommodation of strangers, and with a view to increase their own revenues by the tolls which their charters authorised them to levy at these fairs. Hence the multitude of attendants increased, some of whom were actuated by religious, and others by commercial views.

Abstracts of Acts of Parliament passed in 1851.

14th and 15th Victoria.

APPRENTICES AND SERVANTS.—[Cap. 11].—This is an Act for the better protection of persons under the care and control of others as Apprentices or Servants. The act contains 9 clauses, and was passed in consequence of the cruelties practised by the Sloanes and others upon their Servants. It enacts that if masters or mistresses legally liable shall refuse or neglect to supply necessary food, clothing, or lodging, for Apprentices or Servants, or unlawfully assaulting them whereby life shall be endangered or health likely to be permanently injured, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and liable to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding three years. A register is to be kept of young persons under sixteen, hired, or taken from any workhouse. Young persons hired from workhouses or bound out as pauper apprentices, to be visited at least twice a year, by officers of guardians or overseers, who are to report to them in case the parties are not supplied with sufficient food or are ill treated. The act authorises and requires parish officers to prosecute in cases where injury has been inflicted upon a poor person under sixteen years old. In cases of prosecution the justices are to bind over parish officers to prosecute, and costs of prosecution are to be allowed.

THE NEW PROPERTY TAX ACT.—[Cap. 12.]—This Act is only for one year from the 5th April last. The powers contained in former Acts are continued, and there is a new provision in the present one respecting tenant farmers. It is enacted that if at the end of the year of assessment any person occupying lands for the purpose of husbandry, assessed under schedule B, shall find and prove to the commissioners that his profits and gains have fallen short of the assessment, it shall be lawful for them, on an appeal within three months, to cause an abatement to be made, and in case the money should have been paid, to cause the same to be returned to the tenant farmers.

ACT TO REGULATE THE SALE OF ARSENIC.—[Cap. 13.]—This measure came into force on June 5th, the day it received the royal assent, and contains six clauses. The preamble declares that the unrestricted sale of arsenic facilitates the commission of crime. It enacts that on the sale of arsenic the particulars of the sale are to be entered in a book by the seller, in the form set out in the schedule, containing the date of the sale, the name and surname of the purchaser, the purchaser's place of abode, his occupation, the quantity sold, and the purpose for which it is required, with the purchaser's name, a witness, and the seller's name. No arsenic is to be sold to any person unknown, unless in the presence of a known witness, and no arsenic is to be sold to a person except of full age. It must be mixed with soot or indigo, or if such mixing would render it unfit for use to the person, then not less than 10lbs. are to be sold at one time. For offending against the Act a penalty before Justices of not exceeding £20 may be inflicted. The Act is not to prevent the sale of arsenic in medicine under a medical prescription. The term arsenic in the law is to include all arsenious compounds.

COMPOUND HOUSEHOLDERS' ACT.—[Cap 14.]—"An act to amend the law for the registration of certain persons commonly known as 'Compound Householders,' and to facilitate the exercise by such persons of their right to vote in the election of borough members to serve in parliament." Persons having once claimed to be rated in respect of premises, and paying on or before 20th July the rates due 5th January preceding, not required to renew such claim, but shall be entitled to be put on the list of voters, provided they shall have occupied the premises and paid rates and taxes as required by law. The liability of the claimant to pay rates is to continue so long as his name remains on the register in respect of such qualification. But where landlords have compounded for rates, the occupier claiming to be rated is not to be bound to tender more than the amount then payable under such composition.

AN ACT FOR THE BETTER PREVENTION OF OFFENCES.—[Cap. 19.]—This is an important Act. It punishes as a misdemeanor the offence of being found by night armed with intent to break into any house, or having in possession, without lawful excuse, any implements of housebreaking, or having the face disguised or blackened, or being in any house with intent to commit a felony therein. Another clauses makes the use of chloroform, laudanum, or other stupefying or overpowering drug, matter, or thing, with intent to commit a felony, a misdemeanour subject to three years imprisonment. It is provided that on the trial of any indictment for feloniously cutting, the jury may acquit of the felony, and convict of unlawfully cutting or wounding. Persons wilfully and maliciously placing anything accross a railway, or removing or displacing any rail, sleeper, &c., or diverting the points, &c., or removing any signal with intent to obstruct, upset, &c., any engine or carriage, or endanger the safety of any person travelling on it, to be guilty of felony, and punishable with seven years transportation, or not exceeding three years imprisonment. The like penalty is by the next section imposed on persons throwing anything at a railway carriage with intent to endanger any person therein. Also for setting fire to any station or other building belonging to a railway company. Previous convictions are not to be stated to the jury, or given in evidence, until after the verdict of guilty for the subsequent offence, unless the defendant gives evidence of good character. Any person may apprehend persons committing offences against this act and convey them before a justice, and to assault a person entitled to apprehend is a misdemeanour.

NEW ACT RELATING TO LANDLORD AND TENANT.—[Cap. 25.]—This is an Act to improve the law of landlord and tenant in relation to emblements, to growing crops seized in execution, and to agricultural tenants' fixtures. It enacts that, on the determination of leases or tenancies under tenant for life, &c., instead of claims to emblements, the tenant shall continue to hold such farms or lands until the expiration of the current year. Growing crops of the tenant seized and sold under an execution shall, in default of sufficient goods and chattels of the tenant, be liable for the accruing rent; "notwithstanding any bargain and sale, or assignment, which may have been made or executed, of such growing crops, by any such sheriff or other officers." A tenant may remove the building and fixtures erected by him on a farm, unless the landlord shall elect to take them. Further it is provided, that on a tenant quitting the place, leaving the tithe-rent charge unpaid, the landlord may pay the same, and recover it from the first-named tenant as if it were a simple contract debt.

ACT FOR THE WELL-ORDERING OF COMMON LODGING HOUSES.—[Cap 28.]—This act took effect from July 24th, for the purpose of regulating common lodging houses. The preamble states that it would tend greatly to the comfort and welfare of many of her Majesty's poorer subjects, if provision were made for the well-ordering of common lodging houses. In the country the Local Board of Health, or the Town-council, or Improvement Commissioners, or Justices, are to execute the act. All common lodging house keepers are to register their houses, and a register is to be kept of the number of lodgers authorised to be received therein. After such notice has been given, lodgers are not to be received in any common lodging house until the same has been inspected and approved for that purpose by some officer appointed on that behalf by the local authority, and been registered. Regulations may be made for such houses. Officers of local authority are at all times to have free access to such houses. Section 13 provides for the thorough cleansing of all rooms, passages, stairs, floors, windows, doors, walls, ceilings, privies, cesspools, and drains, as often as shall be required by the local authority, and to limewash the walls and ceilings the first weeks in April and October in each year. Penalties are to be recovered for offences against the act. Any person ill of fever or other contagious disease in a lodging house and confined to bed thereby for 48 hours, without notice being given to authorities, keepers liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and 40s. further for every day the offence may continue.

LODGING-HOUSES FOR THE LABOURING CLASSES.—[Cap. 34.]—The preamble to this Act states that "it is desirable, for the health, comfort, and welfare of the inhabitants of towns and populous districts, to encourage the establishment therein of well-ordered lodging-houses for the labouring classes." The measure empowers the council of any borough to adopt its provisions if it pleases; the expenses of carrying it into effect to be charged on the borough fund, and the income arising from it to be carried to the same. So likewise it may be adopted by a Local Board of Health. The like powers are given to any Improvement Commissioners, but if the majority of such commissioners be not elected by the rate-payers, then the consent of rate payers must be first obtained. A vestry may adopt it at a meeting to be summoned by Churchwardens on requisition of ten ratepayers, but two-thirds of those present at vestry must vote for it. If the Act is thus adopted, the vestry is to appoint Commissioners for carrying it into execution. The expenses are to be paid out of the poor-rates; and the moneys realised and the income arising from lodging-houses are to be applied towards defraying expenses. The vestries of two or more parishes may concur in carrying the act into execution, with the sanction of the Secretary of State.

REPEAL OF THE WINDOW DUTY—HOUSE TAX.—[Cap 36.]—This act repeals the obnoxious window tax and imposes duties on inhabited houses, which duties are to be under the management of Commissioners of Inland Revenue. Market gardens and nursery grounds are not to be included in valuation of houses. The schedule contains the duties to be levied, viz.:—For every inhabited dwelling-house which, with the household and other offices, yards and gardens therewith occupied is or shall be worth £20 or upwards by the year, if such house shall be occupied by a person in trade, who shall expose to sale and sell any goods, wares, or merchandise, in any shop or warehouse, being part of the said dwelling-house, or by any person duly licensed to sell by retail beer, ale, spirits, &c., to be drunk on the premises; or when it shall be a farm house, occupied and bona fide used for the purpose of husbandry only—there shall be charged sixpence in every twenty shillings of such annual value. And when any such dwelling-house shall not be used in any manner as aforesaid, there shall be charged the sum of ninepence for every twenty shillings of such annual value.

ACT FOR THE REGULATION OF STEAM VESSELS.—[Cap. 79.]—This act, which comes into operation on January 1st, 1852, is entitled "An Act to consolidate and amend the laws relating to the regulations of steam vessels, and to the boats and lights to be carried by sea going vessels." It contains 51 clauses, and repeals previous acts on steam navigation. After December 31, steam vessels are to be surveyed twice a year; declarations are to be sent to the Board of Trade, under whom the act is to be carried out; a certificate of the vessel and of the number of passengers to be carried is to be granted, and to be exhibited in a conspicuous part of the vessel. After the 31st March, 1852, according to this Act "it shall not be lawful for any steam-boat, of which surveys are required to go to sea, or to steam upon the rivers of the United Kingdom, without having a safety valve upon each boiler, free from the care of the engineer, and out of his control and interference; and such safety valve shall be deemed to be a necessary part of the machinery, upon the sufficiency of which the surveyor engineer is required to report." There are penalties on the owners for carrying more passengers than are allowed by the certificate; and also on persons who insist on remaining on board. The 12th section enacts "That if the owner or master, or other person in charge of a vessel, receive on board more than the number stated in the certificate, he shall pay and forfeit a sum not exceeding £20, and also 5s. for every passenger over and above the number specified in the certificate." Persons forcing their way on board when the vessel is full, and refusing to quit after having had the fare tendered, if the same had been paid, are to be liable to a penalty of 40s. Also, if any person shall travel a greater distance than he has paid his fare for, with intent to avoid the payment, or shall refuse to quit the vessel, such person is to be liable to a penalty of 5s., in addition to the fare payable by him. It is further provided that every person shall be liable to a penalty of 5s. who, having committed any of the offences mentioned, shall, on the application of the master, or other person employed in the vessel, refuse to give his name and address, or who shall give a false name and address.

ACT TO AMEND THE LAW RELATING TO EXPENSES OF PROSECUTIONS.—[Cap. 55.]—Costs may be given in cases of misdemeanour for attendance before magistrates, and in certain cases of misdemeanour, costs are to be allowed, which were not before, and from which cause offenders escaped, the parties not being inclined to prosecute at their own cost. In cases of assault which justices may see fit to order for prosecution at the assizes or sessions, the court may order payment of costs of prosecutor and witnesses, together with compensation for their trouble and loss of time. In lieu of the present regulations as to costs at quarter sessions under 7 Geo. IV, cap. 64, the Secretary of State may make regulations as to costs, expenses and compensations on certificate of magistrates—but the courts are still to retain the power to order gratuities to persons who may have shown extraordinary skill and diligence in the apprehension of offenders. Justices at quarter sessions and council of boroughs may recommend to the Secretary of State, that Clerks of the Peace, Clerks of Special and Petty Sessions, and Clerks to Magistrates, be paid by salary instead of fees, &c., "provided that in fixing the salary of any such clerk, regard shall be had to the tenure of his office, and to his rights in respect thereof." No clerk in future to be appointed to be entitled to compensation on account of this enactment. Justices are to concur in the recommendation of the council to the Secretary of State. In certain counties of cities and towns, (such as Hull,) prisoners may be committed and tried at the assizes for the adjoining county. Justices are empowered by order to declare that any gaol or house of correction for such county is a fit prison for persons committed for trial at the assizes for such county, and prisoners so committed shall be, without habeas corpus, removed by the jailer to the common gaol of such county in order to be tried, and while under such removal they are to be considered in proper legal custody.

ACT TO AMEND THE LAW OF EVIDENCE.—[Cap. 99.]—This very important measure came into operation on November 1, 1851. The act provides that on the trial of any issue joined, or of any matter or question, or on any inquiry arising in any suit, action, or other proceeding in any court of justice, or before any person having by law or by consent of parties authority to hear, receive, and examine evidence, the parties thereto, and the persons in whose behalf any such suit, action, or other proceeding may be brought or defended, shall be competent and compellable to give evidence either viva voce, or by deposition, according to the practice of the court, on behalf of either or any of the parties to the suit, action, or other proceeding. By this clause, in addition to the parties themselves offering to give evidence in their own behalf, the other side can compel their opponents to give evidence in the cause. Nothing in the act is to compel persons charged with criminal offences to give evidence, nor to criminate themselves, nor for husband to be compelled to give evidence against his wife, or the wife against her husband, and the act is not to apply to proceedings in consequence of adultery. Further, this new law authorises the common law courts to compel an inspection of documents whenever equity would grant a discovery. Foreign and colonial acts of state and judgments are to be admitted in evidence without proof of seal or signature; so also an apothecary's certificate. Other documents are to be admitted in England, Ireland, and the colonies, without proof of seal. Persons forging the seal or signature to be guilty of felony. The act does not extend to Scotland.

ACT TO IMPROVE THE ADMINISTRATION OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE.—[Cap. 100.]—This act has been passed to do away with the many technical absurdities which have too often facilitated the escape of guilty parties from punishment. Failure of justice has often taken place because of a variance in the indictment and the proof on trial of names, dates, and other matters not material to the merits of the case. Such variances as to the name or description of persons, or any matter or thing, or the ownership, or the name of any county, town, or parish, may be amended by the court. In cases of murder or manslaughter, the manner or means by which death was caused need not be set forth. Parties indicted for felony or misdemeanour may be found guilty of an attempt to commit the same; or on trial for robbery may be found guilty of assault with intent to rob. A person tried for misdemeanour is not to be acquitted if it turns out to be a felony, unless the court should so direct. Three larcenies from the same person within six months may be described in one indictment. Coin and bank notes may in future be described as simply money. Many other provisions are contained in this statute, which would not be of interest to the non-professional reader—but are calculated to effect great and salutary changes in the practice at criminal trials.

THE WEATHER.—January comes in with moderate weather for this usually cold season of the year, although some downfal may be expected, but the general temperature of the air will not be so severe as it sometimes is at the early part of this month. As the month advances the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere will be on the increase, but we do not thing the weather will be very stormy during any part of the month of January.

The Grimsby Packet leaves Grimsby, about 4 hours before high water at Hull; leaves Hull, for Grimsby, a little before high water. The Packets for Gainsborough, Selby, Leeds, Thorne, Doncaster, Sheffield, York, Goole, &c., leave Hull from 2 to 3 hours before high water.

THE WEATHER.—Moderate weather at the beginning of the month, with a tolerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere and the air dull and cloudy. After the first week stormy weather may be looked for, and some downfal, with the wind sometimes from the south-west and changing suddenly to the south-east. After the 20th day the weather will be more settled, but still dull and cold, with a preponderance of moisture in the atmosphere. Indeed the barometer will remain unsettled for the whole of the month of February.

THE WEATHER.—March comes in with dull cloudy weather, and a tolerable proportion of moisture in the atmosphere, but we do not think the temperature will be so low as we sometimes have in this month. After the 20th or 21st days we shall have more wind, and consequently the air will get clearer; but, as is common at this time of the year, the wind will be inclined to blow from the east producing all the unpleasant effects attendant on the wind from this quarter.

THE WEATHER.—At the beginning of this month their is a good share of moisture in the atmosphere the barometer keeps rather low but tolerably steady. The wind will be often from the north-east bringing with it a low unpleasant temperature After the middle of the month the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere will get less, but the wind will blow for some time from the east, and although the air is dryer it will still be very cold, as is always the case when the wind is from the east. High tides at the full moon of this month.

THE WEATHER.—After the first three or four days the air will get considerably dryer, and dry and fine weather with pleasant winds will for the most part continue for several days. After the 20th day there will be a little more moisture in the atmosphere, but on the whole the weather will continue tolerable fine for the whole month. High Tides at the full moon of this month, particularly if the wind be in the west or north-west.

THE WEATHER.—July is often a very rainy month, and although there is a moderate quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, we anticipate that the quantity of rain will be less in this month than we have had it for several years. The first two or three days may be rather wet, but after that the rain will not fall in any quantity, and on the whole the present July may be set down as rather a finer month than usual. High tides at the full moon of this month.

THE WEATHER. The month of August will not be very hot this year, although the weather in this month is often exceedingly so. There will be a moderate quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, but only such as to produce refreshing showers, and not heavy falls of rain. We do not think either that thunder storms will be so frequent as we often have them in this month, and on the whole, the present August may be regarded as a fine and moderate month.

THE WEATHER.—The quantity of moisture in the atmosphere during the present month will be small, and favourable weather for getting in the harvest will be the consequence. Westerly winds will be more general than any other, and proportionately pleasant weather will result. On the whole, the present September will be as fine, for the season, as we have had it for some years past.

THE WEATHER.—The quantity of moisture in the atmosphere will have considerably increased over last month, although we do not anticipate any very great quantity of rain for the whole of the month, after the 21st or 22nd days more rain may be looked for, and the usual fogs that generally prevail towards the end of October, will, to a certain extent show themselves, but on account of the wind been frequently from the west we shall have less of those fogs than usual. High tides at the new moon of this month.

THE WEATHER.—November comes in with moderately fine weather, and pleasant winds from the west, although for some few days there may be an inclination to a dry east wind, as the month advances the quantity of moisture will be on the increase, and the weather a little more gloomy, with occasionally the usual November fogs, but we think they will prevail less during the present month than what they have done for some years. High tides at the new moon of this month.

THE WEATHER.—The air after the first two or three days gets very dry, and the atmosphere is nearly free from moisture. The wind will be from the west, and occasionally from the east, when the temperature will be much colder, but on the whole December will be a fine dry month, and little downfal is to be looked for. The Barometer will remain steady for nearly the whole of this month. High tides at the new moon, particularly if the wind at that time be westerly or north westerly.

ECLIPSES OF THE SUN AND MOON, &c.

In the year 1862 there will be Five Eclipses, three of the Sun, and Two of the Moon.

The first is a total eclipse of the Moon, on July 11th, but invisible in this part of the world, it will be visible to the whole of the Continent of America.

The second is a partial eclipse of the Sun, on June 26th, but only visible in the Great Southern Ocean.

The third is a partial eclipse of the Sun, on November 21st, and only visible to the Southern Ocean.

The fourth is a total eclipse of the Moon, on December 6th, and partly visible in this part of the world. The following are the times for Hull :

	h.	m.	s.
First contact with the Penumbra - -	6	4	31	morning.
First contact with the Dark Shadow - -	6	5	44	,,
Beginning of the total Phase - -	6	6	53	,,
Middle of the eclipse - - -	6	7	39	,,
Moon sets - - - - -	6	8	15	,,

The fifth is a partial eclipse of the Sun, on December 20th, but invisible in this part of the world, being only visible to the Continent of Asia.

The beautiful planet Venus will be an evening star from January 1st until February 25th, then a morning star until December 10th, and afterwards an evening star to the end of the year.

The planet Jupiter will be a morning star from January 1st until March 12th, then an evening star until October 1st, and then a morning star to the end of the year.

The planets Jupiter and Saturn will be in the most favourable situation for viewing with the telescope during the first four months of the year. The ring of Saturn will be invisible on February 1st, and for some days before and after. It will be again invisible on August 8th, and for two or three days before and after.

The planet Mars will be in opposition to the Sun on October 3rd, consequently, will be in the most favourable position for viewing with the telescope during the latter part of September and the early part of October, and as at this time he will not be very far from his Perihelion, the spots and other appearances on his surface will be easily seen with a good telescope.

CABS.

These very useful vehicles are one-horse coaches, neat, dry, and comfortable. They are always in attendance waiting the arrival of the Railway Trains, Coaches, and Steam Packets, and will take passengers and their luggage to any part of Hull (not exceeding a mile and a half) for one shilling. They stand in various parts of the town, but principally along the Market-place, Lowgate, Nelson-street, Savile-street, Prospect-street, and Paragon-street, near the New Passenger Station—List of Cab Fares :

	s.	d.
DISTANCE—not exceeding a mile and a half - - -	1	0
Any distance exceeding a mile and a half - - -	1	6
Every stoppage after the first fare to take more up or set any down - - - - - -	0	6
Every quarter of an hour kept waiting after being called or sent for - - - - - -	0	6
Only one-half of the above-mentioned fares respectively may be charged for back fare or return fare, if the passenger shall return in the same carriage, but not otherwise
Persons calling for a coach and not using it, to pay - -	1	0

Hirings made between the hours of 12 at night and 7 in the morning, to be double the fares stated above.

DR. HERSCHELL'S WEATHER TABLE,

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters, so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

Moon Changes	In Summer.	In Winter.
Between Midnight & 2 in the Morn.	Fair - - - - - -	Frost, unless Wind be S. or S. W.
2 and 4 - - -	Cold with Showers -	Snow and Stormy
4 and 6 - - -	Rain - - - - -	Rain
6 and 8 - - -	Wind and Rain - -	Stormy
8 and 10 - - -	Changeable - -	Cold Rain if Wind W. Snow if E.
10 and 12 - - -	Frequent Showers -	Cold and High Winds

4 and 6 - - -	Fair - - - - - -	Fair
6 and 8 - - -	Fair, if Wind N. W. Rain, if S. or S. W.	Fair and Frosty, if Wind N. or N. E. Rain or Snow, if S. or S. W.
8 and 10 - - -	Ditto ditto - - -	Ditto ditto
10 and Midnight.	Fair - - - - - -	Fair and Frosty

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.
2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.
3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.
4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.
5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.
6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

MONTHLY NOTICES.

March 1.—Auditors and assessors of Boroughs to be elected.

March 25.—Overseers are to be appointed on this day, or within 14 days after. Those whose year has expired, must verify their accounts by oath before one justice, within 14 days, to be delivered to their successors after the appointment of such successors. Constables, headboroughs, and tithingmen, are to deliver their accounts every 3 months, and within 14 days after they leave office, to the overseers, who are, within the following 14 days, to lay them before the inhabitants, and, if approved by a majority, they shall be allowed; but if not, the constables, &c. may appeal to a justice. Surveyors of Highways elected, accounts to be made up within 14 days.

March 30.—Poor-law Guardians to be elected.

April 5. —The returns for making the assessment of direct taxes are delivered soon after this day. The person making the return rates himself for the persons and articles subject to taxes kept and used by him between the 5th of April, and the 5th of April. If he wishes to give up keeping any servant, &c., he should do so on the 4th of April.

June 10.—Clerks of the Peace for counties to issue precepts to overseers to publish lists of voters.

June 20.—Overseers to fix on church doors notices to persons qualified to vote for counties, to make claims.—Persons on the register need not make a new claim, unless they have changed their qualification. Overseers in boroughs to publish notices to electors respecting payment of poor rates and assessed taxes as a qualification for voting.

July 5.—Annual licence to be taken out by pawnbrokers and appraisers who are not auctioneers.—Game Certificates to be taken out.

July 20.—Assessed taxes and poor rates due on 5th January, must be paid on or before this day, by all electors of cities or boroughs, or they will be disqualified from voting.—Last day for sending in claims for voting in counties.

July 31.—Overseers to make out lists of borough electors.

August 1.—Annual licence to be taken out by hawkers and pedlars. Overseers to publish lists of voters for counties; town-clerks in boroughs to publish lists of freemen.

August 2 & 9 (Two first Sundays.)—Borough and county lists to be affixed to church doors.

August 25.—Last day for service of objections on electors in counties, or their tenants, and for service on overseers of objections to electors.—Last day to claim as borough electors.

August 29.—Overseers of parishes and townships to send lists of electors and number of objections to the high constables of their hundreds, and overseers of boroughs to the town-clerk.

August 31.—All taxes and rates payable on March 1st, must be paid on or before this day, by persons claiming to be enrolled as burgesses under the Municipal Corporations Act.

Sept. 5.—Overseers of parishes and boroughs to make out burgess lists under Municipal Reform Act, which must be delivered to town-clerk this day.

Sept. 6 & 13 (Two Sundays preceding the 15th)—Lists of objections to county electors, & claims & objections for borough lists, to be affixed to church doors.

Sept. 8.—Town-clerks in boroughs to cause the burgess' lists to be fixed in public places in boroughs, from this day till 15th.

Sept. 15.—Claims of persons omitted in the burgess lists, and objections to persons improperly inserted, to be given to the town-clerk in writing on or before this day; notice of the objection also to be given to the person objected to.

Sept. 24.—Lists of claimants and of persons objected to, to be fixed by town-clerk in some public place of each borough, from this day till October 1.

Oct. 1.—Mayor and assessors to hold an open court to revise burgess lists, some time between the 1st and 15th, 3 clear days notice to be given. The revised list to be kept by the town-clerk, and persons therein entered to be entitled to vote, according to the Act, from the 1st of November.

Oct. 10.—Annual licence to be taken out by bankers or others issuing promissory notes for money, payable to the bearer on demand, and allowed to be re-issued.

Nov. 1.—Borough councillors to be elected.

Nov. 9.—Mayor and aldermen of boroughs to be elected.

Nov. 15.—Attorneys, proctors, notary publics &c., to take out certificates.

THE GARDENERS' CALENDAR.

JANUARY.—Prepare for all sowing and planting. If this had been done in December, it would have been better; the ground is now generally too moist for putting seed in. If you choose to sow peas, though it is not a good practise, sow them early enough.

FEBRUARY.—Prepare your ground for onions; soot, or common kennel-muck (or sludge, as it is called in some places,) is the best manure for them. Sow carrot and spinach seed. If you have any cauliflower plants under frames, draw the glasses down whenever the weather is open and mild.

MARCH.—Sow asparagus, celery, cauliflowers, brussels sprouts, beets, brocoli, spinage, onions, dutch turnips, peas, beans, savoys, parsnips, and turnip radishes. Plant sea-kale, kidney-beans, and cauliflowers from frames. Graft fruit trees, &c.

APRIL.—Prick and plant out all the cabbage kind. All carrots, parsnips, beets, &c., may now be sown. Prepare your ground for planting out cucumber plants. Plant slips and cuttings of kitchen herbs.

MAY.—Sow capsicums, cauliflowers, carrots, lettuces, spinage, cucumbers, peas, red beet for pickling, and kidney and french beans. Transplant cabbages, winter greens, lettuces, cauliflowers, and celery.

JUNE.—Sow beans, peas, cucumbers for pickling, radishes, spinach, cabbages, endive, carrots, brocoli and borecole; kidney-beans once a fortnight; lettuce and small salad once in ten days.

JULY.—Sow turnips, french beans, lettuces, and black spanish radishes. Plant out brocoli, cauliflowers, savoys, leeks, and winter cabbages, and earth up celery. Gather medicinal flowers and sweet herbs, &c.

AUGUST.—A variety of esculent vegetables must be sown at this time for the autumn and winter crops. Plant young seedlings; hoe and earth round cauliflowers, Propagate aromatic plants, &c., by parting the roots.

SEPTEMBER.—Sow vegetable seeds for a spring crop, and plant cauliflowers, brocoli, savoys, german greens, leeks, lettuce, celery, and perennial and aromatic pot herbs. Hoe winter spinach and turnips, earth up celery, weed cauliflowers and young onions; prick out cabbage plants.

OCTOBER.—Plant cabbages, endive, brocoli, &c. Sow small salad, radishes, and lettuce; a few mazagan beans and hotspur peas to stand the winter. Tie up endive and earth up celery and cardoons.

NOVEMBER.—Force sea cake, rhubarb, and asparagus. Prune and plant fruit trees. Transplant seeding stocks, and suckers taken from the roots of pear, codlin, plum, and quince trees, to prepare them for budding or grafting different fruits upon. Shelter choice flowers.

DECEMBER.—Tie up endive, cardoons, and white beet. Take up edible and full-grown vegetables with esculent leaves, and plant the latter in sand, in an open shed for use

BOROUGH OF KINGSTON-UPON-HULL.

Return showing the Population of the Borough in the Years 1821, 1831, 1841, 1851, and 1861.

It was estimated that the entire population of Hull would be something like 110,000, but from the returns which have been made, this estimate is considerably above the mark. The following numbers may be relied upon :—

The following additional particulars will be read with interest. The Borough has been divided into seven districts for the purpose of collecting the returns. In five of these districts there has been an increase—viz., in West Sculcoates, East Sculcoates, Drypool, Sutton, and North and South Myton. In the other two districts—viz., Humber and St. Mary's, there has been a decrease in the number of inhabitants on the census returns of 1851. In North Myton district there are 2904 inhabited houses, 83 uninhabited, and 39 building. The population is 6548 males, 9514 females,—total 14,062. This district includes the Asylum, which has 63 males, and 59 females,—total 122; the Workhouse, with 159 males and 172 females,—total 328; and the Infirmary, with 68 males and 55 females—total 123; making a grand total for North Myton of 6835 males and 7800 females,—total 14,635. In North Myton is included the Ecclesiastical district of St. Stephen's, which numbers 2339 inhabited houses, 56 uninhabited, and 24 building; and total inhabitants 11,551, being 5374 males and 6177 females. In South Myton there are 5239 inhabited houses, 193 uninhabited, and 24 building; and the population is 10,769 males and 12,871 females,—total 23,664. The institutions in this district are—Mariners' Hospital 37 males and 64 females,—total 101; the Gaol 111 males and 44 females,—total 155; giving a grand total to the district of 10,917 males and 12,979 females,—total 23,896, making the two districts of North and South Myton 38,531.

The increase in the whole Borough for the last ten years has been 14,007. There is no possibility of ascertaining the number of Hull seamen absent on April 7th, but it is probable that when they are returned, they will not augment the population to more than 98,000. The total number of houses in the whole Borough, including uninhabited, is about 20,581, with 169 building. The average number of persons to each house, taking the the inhabited only, is 4¾. The increase of houses during the last ten years is 4383, with a dimunition of 60 in those in course of erection.

PRACTICAL RECEIPTS.

Asphalte for Walks—The place intended to be asphalted must be previously levelled, then put on it a coat of tar, and sift some road sand or coal ashes over it very thickly; after this is dry repeat the operation until you have got four coats of tar, and as many of coal ashes or road sand. It will make excellent walks, floors for sheds, out-buildings, &c., and will wear for many years.

Remedy for Spitting of Blood—Infusion of red roses, 5½ ounces; syrup of poppies half an ounce; diluted sulphuric acid, 20 drops. Mix. One or two tablespoonfuls four times a day.

Gargle for a Sore Throat—Tincture of myrrh, 2 drachms; common water, 4 ounces; vinegar, half an ounce. Mix.

Rusks—Beat well together six large eggs, half a pint of new milk, a quarter of a pound of melted butter, a quarter of a pint of yeast, three ounces of sugar, with as much flour, added gradually, as will make a light paste. Let it rise before the fire for half an hour, then add a little more flour, form into cakes, and bake moderately. When cold, cut them into slices the size of rusks, and put them into the oven to brown a little. A capital tea-cake when hot.

Cheap Beer—No production in this country abounds so much with saccharine matter as the shells of green peas. A strong decoction of them so much resembles, in odour and taste an infusion of malt (termed wort), as to deceive a brewer. This decoction, rendered slightly bitter with the wood sage, and afterwards fermented with yeast, affords a very excellent beverage. The method employed is as follows:—Fill a boiler with the green shells of peas, pour on water till it rises half an inch above the shells, and simmer for three hours. Strain off the liquor, and add a strong decoction of the wood sage, or the hop, so as to render it pleasantly bitter; then ferment in the usual manner. The wood sage is the best substitute for hops; and being free from any anodyne property is entitled to a preference. By boiling a fresh quantity of shells in the decoction before it becomes cold, it may be so thoroughly impregnated with saccharine matter, as to afford a liquor, when fermented, as strong as ale.

Wash for a Blotched Face—Rose water three ounces; sulphate of zinc, one drachm. Mix. Wet the face with it, gently dry it, and then touch it over with cold cream, which also dry gently off.

Rose Oil.—To make the Hair Grow.—Rose petals, beat to a pulp, 3 or 4 ounces; olive oil, three quarters of a pint; macerate in the sun or a warm place, in a covered vessel for a week, and press out the oil. Repeat the process with fresh roses till the oil smells sufficiently strong, then filter.

Cure for Chapped Hands—Instead of washing the hands with soap, employ oatmeal, and, after each washing, take a little dry oatmeal, and rub over the hands, so as to absorb any moisture.

To prevent the Smoking of a Lamp—Soak the wick in strong vinegar, and dry it well before you use it; it will then burn both sweet and pleasant, and give much satisfaction for the trifling trouble in preparing it.

To remove Nervous Anxiety—Keep the bowels regular with mild purgatives, take plenty of exercise in the open air, adopt a light nutritious diet, and seek pleasant society. A teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, or of magnesia, or a few drops of laudanum taken the last thing at night, will generally have the effect of preventing watchfulness.

Waterproof Liquid for Leather Boots and Shoes—Linseed Oil, one pint; suet, eight ounces; bees' wax, six ounces; resin, one ounce. Melt together.

Method of Breaking Glass to any required Figure—Make a small notch by means of a file on the edge of a piece of glass, then make the end of a tobacco pipe, or of a rod of iron of the same size, red hot in the fire, apply the hot iron to the notch and draw it slowly along the surface of the glass in any direction you please, a crack will follow the direction of the iron.

Excellent Medicine for Skin Eruptions—Mix together 6 drachms of antimonial wine, 1½ of laudanum, and 1½ of the solution of oxymuriate of mercury. From 20 to 30 drops to be taken night and morning, in any agreeable vehicle.

Treatment for a Cold in the Head or Chest—A light or spoon diet should be adopted and animal food and fermented or spirituous liquors avoided. The bowels should be opened with some mild aperients, and if the symptoms be severe, or fever or headache be present, small diaphoretic doses of antimonials, accompanied by copious draughts of diluents, as barley water, weak tea, or gruel should be taken.

Paste for Cleaning Brass—Rotten stone, two ounces; oxalic acid, half an ounce; sweet oil, three quarters of an ounce; turpentine, enough to make a paste. Apply it with a little water.

Scouring Balls, to Remove Grease, &c., from Cloth—Soft Soap and Fuller's earth, of each half a pound; beat them well together in a mortar, and form into cakes. The spot, first moïstened with water, is rubbed with a cake, and allowed to dry, when it is well rubbed with a little warm water, and afterwards rinsed or rubbed off clean.

Blacking for Harness, &c.—Melt four ounces of mutton suet with twelve ounces of bees' wax; add twelve ounces of sugar-candy; four ounces of soft soap dissolved in water; and two ounces of indigo finely powdered. When melted and well mixed, add half a pint of turpentine. Lay it on the harness with a sponge and polish off with a brush.

To know whether a Bed be damp or not—After the bed is warmed put a glass goblet in between the sheets, and if the bed be damp, in a few minutes drops of wet will appear in the inside of the glass. This is of great consequence to be attended to in travelling, as many persons have laid the foundation of incurable disorders, by sleeping in a damp bed.

To extinguish Fire in Female Dress—Seize anything sufficiently large, such as a green cloth, hearth rug, or even a linen cloth, if there be no woollen at hand, and wrap it round the sufferer; at the same time lay her gently down on the floor, as it is evident the flames must have much less power on a horizontal than on a perpendicular surface; this should be done even if there be no wrapper at hand.

To Renovate Silks—Sponge faded silks with warm water and soap, then rub them with a dry cloth on a flat board; afterwards iron them on the inside with a smoothing iron. Old black silks may be improved by sponging with spirits. In this case the ironing may be done on the right side, thin paper being spread over to prevent glazing.

The Queen's own Perfume—Essences of cloves and bergamote of each three quarters of a drachm; neroli, about a drachm; essence of musk, half an ounce; eau de rose, spirit of tuberose, and the strongest spirits of wine, of each half a pint; spirits of jasmine and cassia, of each one pint; dissolve the essences in the spirits of wine, then add the other spirits, and when well mixed add the rose water.

Mixture for Destroying Bugs—Take of corrosive sublimate, two drachms; spirits of wine, eight ounces. Rub them well together in a mortar until the sublimate is dissolved; then add half a pint of spirits of turpentine. This is an effectual destroyer of bugs; but, being a strong poison, great care should be taken in using it.

Fine Solder—Tin, two parts; lead, one part; melt together. Melts at 350 degrees. Use to solder tin plates &c.

Cement for China, Glass, &c.,—To a quarter of an ounce of gum mastic, add as much spirits of wine as will dissolve it. Soak a quarter of an ounce of isinglass in water till it is quite soft; then dissolve it in rum or brandy till of the consistence of glue. To this add one drachm of gum ammoniac, well rubbed and mixed. Put now the two mixtures together in a vessel over a gentle heat till properly united, and the cement is ready for use. It should be kept in a phial well corked, and when about to be used, to be set in boiling water to soften.

The true French Polish—To one pint of spirits of wine, add a quarter of an ounce of gum-copal, and a quarter of an ounce of gum-arabic, and one ounce of shell-lac. Let the gums be well bruised, and sifted through a piece of muslin. Put the spirits and the gums together in a vessel that can be closely corked; place them near a warm stove, and frequently shake them; in two or three days they they will be dissolved: strain the mixture through a piece of muslin, and keep it tightly corked for use.

Blake's Remedy for the Toothache—Alum reduced to an impalpable powder, two drachms; nitrous spirit of ether, seven drachms. Mix; and apply them to the tooth.

Shaving Fluid—The following admirable alcholic solution of soap is used for shaving, and is very convenient in travelling, as a good lather may be instantly produced without the trouble of employing a soap box:—Best soft soap two ounces; boiling water, half a pint; dissolve, cool, and add oils of cinnamon (cassia), verbena, and neroli, of each, two drops; dissolved in rectified spirits of wine, half a pint; mix well, and if not perfectly transparent, filter through blotting paper.

To Remove Stains from Mourning Dresses—Boil a handful of fig leaves in two quarts of water until reduced to a pint. Bombazines, crape, cloth, &c., need only be rubbed with a sponge dipped in this liquor, and the effect will be instantly produced.

To Choose Fish—The eyes should be bright, the gills of a fine clear red, the body stiff, the flesh firm, yet elastic to the touch, and the smell not disagreeable.

Artificial Asses' Milk—The value of asses' milk, as an article of diet for the consumptive, is well known. If it cannot be readily procured, an excellent substitute may be made by pouring a pint of water of super-carbonate of soda upon four ounces of boiling milk.

To Restore Obliterated Writing on Parchment Deeds—Dip the parchment in a vessel of fresh-drawn spring water, and let it remain about a minute, then take it out, and press it between two sheets of blotting paper, to prevent its crumpling. When it is nearly dry examine it, and if the writing is not restored, repeat the operation two or three times. If the fading is only the effect of time, you will by this means, restore the writing to its pristine state; but if the ink has been removed by any chemical process, of course it cannot be restored.

A Cooling Summer Drink—Powedered loaf sugar, five ounces; carbonate of soda, two ounces; tartaric acid, two and a half ounces; essence of lemons and oil of oranges, of each, a quarter of a drachm. Mix. A dessert-spoonful thrown into a glass of water makes a pleasant effervescing cooling beverage.

Instantaneous Ginger Beer—Fill a bottle with pure cold water, then have a cork ready to fit it, also a string or wire to tie it down with, and a mallet to drive the cork, so that no time may be lost; now put into the bottle sugar to your taste (syrup is better). and a teaspoonful of good powdered ginger, shake it well, then add the sixth part of an ounce of super-carbonate of soda; cork rapidly—tie down—shake the bottle well,—cut the string—the cork will fly—then drink ginger beer.

Emetic Draught, in case of Poison being taken into the Stomach—Sulphate of zinc, one scruple; distilled water two ounces. Mix.

Remedy for Rheumatism —Take of infusion of buchu, eleven drachms, powdered tragacanth, five grains; tincture of buchu, one drachm. Mix.

To Preserve and Soften Leather—Take of linseed oil one pint and a half; yellow rosin, two ounces; bees' wax, six ounces. Melt together over a slow fire; then add one pint of neats'-foot oil, and half a pint of turpentine, which must be well mixed with it.

Potted Sprats—Wash the fish well, take off the heads, and draw the small gut. Wash them a second time in salt and water, and dry them between two clean cloths. Then lay them in an earthen pan with salt, pepper, and a little pounded mace between each layer, and a few bay leaves between every alternate one. When the pan is nearly full, add water and vinegar; tie a piece of paper over the top of the pan, and bake in a slow oven. When cold they are fit for use. Whenever any fish are taken out, care should be taken that there be enough gravy to cover the remainder.

Cure for Scurvy—In the cure, as well the prevention of scurvy, much more may be done by regimen than by medicines, obviating, as far as possible, the several remote causes of the disease, but particularly providing the patient with a more wholesome diet, and a large proportion of fresh vegetables Beverages impregnated with the juice of lemons and oranges, or the effervescing saline draughts, are very beneficial. Cleanliness and ventilation should also be carefully attended to, and the air of the room in which the patient is confined, as well as his clothes, should be warm and dry. The bowels should be kept in an easy soluble state, and a determination of the circulation to the skin maintained by the use of mild diaphoretics. Exercise, a generous and nutritive diet, and a life of great regularity and temperance, are to be strictly and emphatically enjoined The chief diaphoretics are tarter-emetics, camphor, Dover' spowder, guaiacum, nitre, and spirit of nitre

To Choose Hams—Stick a sharp knife under the bone; if it has a pleasant smell when withdrawn, the ham is good; but if the contrary, it should be rejected The recently-cut fat should be hard and white, and the lean fine grained, and of a lively red.

To make Fire-proof Mortar—Take two thirds of the best lime and one third of smith's black dust, and mix with the necessary quantity of water. This will form a mortar that will set nearly as hard as iron, and is the best to use for setting the fire bricks in or about fire-places.

Imperial Drink. For the Sick Room—Pour one quart of boiling water upon a quarter of an ounce of cream of tarter, a few lemon and orange chips, and half an ounce of sugar-candy. Pour off the clear fluid when cold, and use for common drink when feverish.

To take Ink Stains out of Mahogany—Put a few drops of spirits of nitre in a teaspoonful of water, touch the spot with a feather dipped in the mixture, and on the ink disappearing, rub it over immediately with a rag wetted in cold water, or there will be a white mark which will not be easily effaced.

To Cure Tongues—For a tongue that weighs seven pounds, put one ounce of saltpetre; half an ounce of black pepper; two ounces of sugar; and three ounces of juniper berries. In two days it will be fit for cooking; take care to have the gullet cut away before it is cooked.

ABSTRACT OF IMPORTANT

Acts of Parliament passed last Session.

24th and 25th Victoria, 1861.

Cap.—An Act to amend the Law relating to Bankruptcy and Insolvency in England. This is the most important Act of last Session, and effects most material alterations in the law of debtor and creditor. The Act on coming into operation on the 11th October last, had the following effect as to the previous law of Bankruptcy and Insolvency :—

1.—No Prisoner for debt, trader or non-trader, can now petition the Court for relief of Insolvent Debtors, or the County Court for his discharge from prison, as the Insolvent Court no longer exists, and the functions of its Judges will only be to carry and conclude pending business.

2.—No person, being a trader, owing less than £300, or a non-trader owing an unlimited amount, can present to the Insolvent Debtors' Court, or the County Court, a petition for protection from arrest.

3.—No person, being a trader, can present to the Court of Bankruptcy a petition for private arrangement, and obtain protection for his person and property, pending the consideration, by his Creditors, of his proposal for arrangement of his debts.

4.—No person, having obtained the consent of six-sevenths in number and value of his Creditors above ten pounds, to a deed regulating the distribution, inspection, conduct, and management of his Estate, can apply to the Court of Bankruptcy for a Certificate to bind the non-assenting Creditors.

The modes of voluntary or enforced liquidation of a Debtor's Estate, and arrangements between Creditors and Debtors now sanctioned by law, are as follow :—

1.—Any Debtor (irrespective altogether of the amount of, and even without assets) may make himself a Bankrupt, whether he be a trader or not.

2.—Any Creditor or Creditors to the following amounts, viz. :—The debt of a single Creditor or firm, fifty pounds at the least; the debt of any two Creditors, joining to make a person bankrupt, seventy pounds at the least; the debt of any three or more such Creditors, one hundred pounds at the least, on proving that his or their debtor, whether a trader or not, has committed an act of Bankruptcy may make his debtor a Bankrupt.

3.—Any Debtor (not being a trader) may with the consent of one-third in value and number of his Creditors, present a petition to the Court of Bankruptcy, containing his proposal for liquidation or composition of his debts and obtain protection for his person (but not for his property) until consideration of his proposal, which if carried at the first meeting, by 1 the major part in number and value; or, 2 nine-tenths in value; or, 3 nine-tenths in number, whose debts exceed £20; and if at the second meeting by 1 three-fifths in number and value of the Creditors present; or, 2 nine-tenths in value; or, 3 nine-tenths in number whose debts exceed £20, shall be binding on all his Creditors, and

4.—Whenever any debtor has arranged with a majority in number, representing three-fourths in value of his Creditors, whose debts are above £10, for the composition or liquidation of his debts or estate in any way, the rest of the Creditors may under the provisions of the Act, be bound thereby, and barred from taking proceedings.

It follows from these provisions that wherever the protection of the Court of Bankruptcy is required, either for a debtor's person or estate, the only course that can be pursued, in the absence of the assent of the very large majority of Creditors above stated to be required to deeds of arrangement, is for the debtor to become Bankrupt, leaving the creditors (three-fourths in number and value) to exercise their power under the 185th section of taking the Estate out of Court if they think proper: unless it be a case within the third class above mentioned.

The following Judges and Courts now have original or appellate jurisdiction in Bankruptcy.

1.—The Lord Chancellor and Lords' justices of appeal in Chancery.

2.—The Commissioners in Bankruptcy for the London District.

3.—The Commissioners in Bankruptcy in the Provinces.

4.—The several County Courts, except the Metropolitan County Courts.

The qualified appeal to the House of Lords from the decision of the Lord Chancellor, or Lords' Justices (which was provided by the Act of 1849), is now taken away.

The County Courts have now, for the first time, any jurisdiction in Bankruptcy. They have jurisdiction in all cases where a debtor makes himself Bankrupt, and states, on filing his petition, that his debts do not exceed £300; in which case, and the debtors do not reside in the Metropolitan District (the limits thereof being every parish twenty miles distant by the nearest highway from the General Post Office, London, to the Parish Church of the Parish), he is to file his petition in the County Court of the District in which he has resided for the last six months, or the longest period during the six months. If he be in custody, he is to file it in the County Court for the district in which he is in custody; but, upon adjudication the Court may transfer the proceedings to the County Court in which the Debtor would have been required to petition, if he had not been in custody.

The Bankruptcy Court in London, has power to transfer any petition for adjudication in Bankruptcy, judgment debtor summonses, or the proceedings thereunder, from any District Court to a County Court (other than a Metropolitan County Court).

At the first meeting of the Creditors held under any Bankruptcy, the majority in number and value of the Creditors present thereat, may resolve and determine that the proceedings in Bankruptcy may be transferred to and thenceforth prosecuted in the County Court of any district (other than the Metropolitan County Court), and upon being satisfied that the resolution was duly passed, the Court is bound to order the same accordingly.

The Gaoler of every prison in England or Wales wherein any person is in custody for debt (except debtors committed under orders of County Court Judges for non-payment of small debts), is bound, on the first day of every month, to make a return of the name of every such person, and the date of his imprisonment, and the nature and amount of the debt for which he is imprisoned, and whether he is willing or refuses to petition the Court of Bankruptcy, or is unable to do so by reason of his poverty.

The return is to include the name and address of every detaining Creditor, and to be made by Gaolers of prisons situate within the London District to the London Court, and by the Gaolers of prisons within the Country districts to the District Court of Bankruptcy, or the County Court having jurisdiction in Bankruptcy, within the jurisdiction of which the Gaol is situate, as the case may be.

The Commissioner or County Court Judge on receiving the return, is to make an order that the Registrar shall attend at the Gaol on a day to be named, being at least seven, and not more than twenty-one days from the date of the return. Notice of the order is to be forthwith given to the Gaoler, and also to the execution and detaining Creditor of every prisoner included in the return.

On the day named in the order the Registrar will attend at the prison and examine every prisoner included in the return who shall have been in prison, being a trader, for fourteen days, or, not being a trader, for two calendar months, touching his estate and effects, debts, dealings, and transactions. The Registrar is also to ascertain the last place of abode and business of each prisoner within the six months next prior to his imprisonment.

The Registrar has power to make an order of adjudication in Bankruptcy against every prisoner, and to grant him protection, and to make an order for his release from prison, and to direct in what Court the Bankruptcy shall be prosecuted, having regard to the amount of debts and the place of trade or residence of the prisoner, within six months next preceding his imprisonment.

If any prisoner refuse to appear to be sworn, or to answer all lawful questions of the Registrar or of any creditor present, respecting his debts, liabilities, dealings, and transactions, or to make a full discovery of his estate and effects and of all his books of account, or to produce the same, or to sign his examination when taken, the Registrar is to report the same to the Court, and the Court may by warrant under the hand and seal of the Judge or Commissioner, commit the prisoner to the common gaol of the County, there to be kept with or without hard labour for any time not exceeding one month, and the Court may at the same time adjudge the prisoner Bankrupt.

And a Bankrupt may under the powers given by the act be arrested even before adjudication, if a petition has been duly filed against him and it be proved to the satisfaction of the Court that he is about to quit England or to remove or conceal any of his goods with intent to defraud his Creditors, and the Court may also order a seizure of all his books, papers, invoices, and effects.

A large portion of the act is taken up by details of the proceedings rendered necessary by its operation, but these will of course not be interesting to the unprofessional reader.

Cap 70.—An Act for regulating the use of Locomotives on Turnpike and other roads, and the Tolls to be levied on such Locomotives and the Waggons and Carriages drawn or propelled by the same. 1*st August*, 1861.

This Act regulates the use of Locomotive Engines and Carriages, which, it recites, "are likely to become common on Turnpike and other roads."

It provides for the tolls to be paid by them, the width of each pair of wheels (at least 3 inches wide and if the Engine, &c., weighs above three tons, then an extra inch in width for every extra ton), and for the safety and protection of the public, by the employment of lights from one hour after sunset, to one hour before sunrise, by regulating the rate of speed which must not be more than Ten miles an hour on any highway, or more than five miles an hour through any City Town or Village.

The owners of the engine and carriages are to be liable for damage comitted by them and each engine must consume its own smoke. But nothing in this act shall take away any persons right of action or preferring an indictment against the owners, in case of nuisance.

Cap 91.—An Act to amend the Laws relating to the Inland Revenue.
6th August, 1861.

This is a long act, making several alterations in the existing state of the law, as to Stamps, &c.

By section 34, all original Bills of Sale must be produced to the proper officer, duly stamped, before a copy thereof can be filed and registered; no deed or other instrument shall be registered until it is duly stamped.

Cap. 94.—An Act to consolidate and amend the Statute Law of England and Ireland relating to accessories to and abettors of Indictable offences.

95.—An Act to repeal certain enactments which have been consolidated in several acts of the present session, relating to Indictable offences and other matters.

96.—An Act to consolidate and amend the Statute Law of England and Ireland, relating to Larceny and other similar offences.

97.—An Act to consolidate and amend the Statute Law of England and Ireland, relating to malicious injuries to property.

98.—An Act to consolidate and amend the Statute Law of England and Ireland, relating to forgery.

99.—An Act to consolidate and amend the Statute Law of the United Kingdom, against offences relating to the coin.

100.—An Act to consolidate and amend the Statute Law of England and Ireland, relating to offences against the person. Royal assent, August 6, 1861.

The foregoing seven Statutes, Caps. 94 to 100 inclusive, are the Criminal Law Consolidation Acts. It is impossible in a work like this to give even an idea of the changes and improvements made by these Acts. They consist of about 400 sections, and will of themselves, fill a considerable sized volume.

Cap. 110.—An Act for regulating the business of Dealers in Old Metals, 6th August, 1861.

This Act, which comes into operation on the 1st day of the new year, is an important one, and regulates the business of all dealers in old metals, which affords facilities for the disposal of stolen goods.

The Act, comprehends under the designation of "Dealer in old Metals," any person dealing in buying and selling old metals, scrap metal, broken metal, or partly manufactured metal goods, and whether such person deals in such articles only, or together with second hand goods, or marine stores, and the term old metal is defined to mean those articles.

It is provided that where there is reasonable cause for suspicion, that any dealer in old metals has in his possession any stolen or unlawfully obtained metal, any Justice of the peace may by his warrant, direct search to be made for the same, and the officer may seize all old metal there found, and carry the same before the Justice, who shall then issue his summons to such dealer, to appear before two Justices, and if he shall not prove to the satisfaction of such Justices, how he came by the said articles, or if any such dealer shall be found in posession of any old metal which has been stolen, or unlawfully obtained, and on his being taken or summoned before two Justices, it shall be proved to their satisfaction, that at the time when he received it, he had reasonable cause to believe it had been stolen, or unlawfully obtained, then in either of such cases he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and for any subsequent offence to a penalty not exceeding £20, or in the discretion of the Justices in the case of a second offence, shall be imprisoned and kept to hard labour for any period not exceeding three calander months.

When any dealer in old metals is convicted of either of the above offences, the Justices may order that such dealer, shall be registered at the principal Police Office of the District, City, or Borough, in a Book to be kept by the Chief Officer of Police.

Inspectors or Sergeants of Police are to visit all registered dealers, and they shall record in a book to be kept for the purpose, a description of all old metal found by them.

He shall not purchase or receive any old metal before the hour of nine in the morning, nor after the hour of six in the evening, nor shall he at any time purchase or receive any old metal from any person, apparently under the age of sixteen years, nor shall he employ any person to purchase, or receive any old metal who is under the age of sixteen years.

He shall without delay give notice at the Police Station, of any articles he may receive which shall answer the description to be furnished him by the Police, of any articles which have been stolen, &c.

LIST OF FAIRS.

ORIGIN OF FAIRS—When bishops and abbots observed that crowds of people assembled to celebrate the festivals of their patron saints, they applied to the crown for charters to hold fairs at those times, for the accommodation of strangers, and with a view to increase their own revenues by the tolls which their charters authorised them to levy at these fairs. Hence the multitude of attendants increased, some of whom were actuated by religious, and others by commercial views

THE WEATHER. The month of January comes in with fine weather, which however will not last many days, as by the fifth day stormy weather will begin to show itself with wind and downfal. By the middle of the month the weather will again become finer, but rather cold, with brisk winds which will continue more or less until the end of the month, but the temperature of the air will not be so very low as it often is in this month, as the wind will be for several days from the south west. High tides at the new moon of this month.

The Grimsby Packet leaves Grimsby, about 4 hours before high water at Hull; leaves Hull, for Grimsby, a little before high water. The Packets for Gainsborough, Selby, Leeds, Thorne, Doncaster, Sheffield, York, Goole, &c., leave Hull from 2 to 3 hours before high water.

THE WEATHER. February comes in with a dry air, and the winds from the west and south-west quarters. After the 6th day the atmosphere will contain a little more moisture, but we do not think there will be any very great downfal for the whole of this month, the most will be about or after the 20th day, but generally speaking, the present February will be as fine as we have had it for several years past.

THE WEATHER. The early part of this month will be tolerably fine, but the wind will occasionally blow from the east, which will render it much colder when this takes place. As the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere is not large, on the whole, March, for the present year, may be set down as a moderately fine month. Brisk winds from the west and north-west will be the most common winds of the month.

THE WEATHER. April comes in with fine weather, brisk winds, and a moderately dry air, and for the present year we may look for a much less continuation of east winds than what is common in this month. There will be very little rain after the third or fourth day to the extreme end of the month. There may be some downfal on the last three days, and at that time the temperature of the air will be low, with inclination to storm.

THE WEATHER. The present month comes in with hot dry weather, yet at the same time we shall occasionally have refreshing winds from the west and north-west. As the air appears so very dry, we shall after a short time have thunder storms in many places, for the electricity always rises when the air is so very dry, as it appears to be for the whole of July. High tides at the full moon of this month.

THE WEATHER. This month comes in with a dry air, and a tolerably high temperature, with thunder and lightning in many parts. As the month advances there may be more clouds, which will make it pleasant in this generally hot month, the wind getting to blow more from the south-west for a few days. After the tenth day we shall have some very fine weather, with the wind frequently from the west, and on the whole, fine weather to the extreme end of the month.

THE WEATHER. The air still continues to contain only a small share of moisture, and fine dry weather with pleasant west winds will be the consequence, and it appears that the same dry state of the air will continue until the beginning of the last week of the month, at which time the quantity of moisture will have an increase, and some showers may be expected to follow.

THE WEATHER. The weather is fine and pleasant for the time of the year. Winds very much from the west and not a large quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, therefore we must not look for a great deal of rain. Towards the latter part of the month the moisture in the air will increase, and rather more rain may be looked for, but on the whole, October will be a very fine month.

THE WEATHER. November comes in with rather finer weather than is usual for this generally gloomy month, but after the first week the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere will increase, and consequently the November fogs will begin to show themselves, and we shall have a tolerable quantity of downfal; yet, at intervals we shall have the wind from the west, when the air will be dryer and clearer.

THE WEATHER. Although the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere at the beginning of December is very considerable, we do not look for a very low temperature or severe weather. After the 17th day the air will get a little dryer and sharper, but we do not expect very cold weather until the extreme end of the month. High tides at the new moon of this month, particularly if at the time the wind is from the west or north-west.

ECLIPSES, &c.

In the year 1863 there will be two eclipses of the Sun and two of the Moon.

The first is a partial eclipse of the Sun, on May 17th, and visible in those parts of the world. The following are the times for Hull:

	h.	m.	s.
Eclipse begins - - -	5	39	10	afternoon.
Greatest Phase - - -	6	26	20	,,
End of the Eclipse - - -	7	10	44	,,

Digits Eclipse 3¾ on the Sun's northern limb.

The second is a total eclipse of the Moon, on June 1st, and visible in those parts of the world. The following are the times for Hull:

	h.	m.	s.
First contact with the Penumbra -	8	47	58	afternoon.
First contact with the Dark Shadow -	9	44	40	,,
Beginning of total darkness -	10	51	40	,,
Middle of the Eclipse - -	10	24	40	,,
End of total darkness - -	11	57	40	,,
Last contact with the Dark Shadow -	1	4	40	morning.
End of the Eclipse - -	2	1	22	,,

The third is an Annular Eclipse of the Sun, but invisible in those parts of the World, being only visible in the south parts of the great southern ocean and as far as the South Pole.

The fourth is a partial eclipse of the Moon on November 25th, and partly visible in this part of the world. The following are the times for Hull:

	h.	m.	s.
First contact with the Penumbra - -	6	2	16	morning.
First contact with the Dark Shadow -	7	14	28	,,
Moon sets - - - - -	8	8	10	,,

The planet Venus will be an evening star from Jan. 1 to October 2, then a morning star to the end of the year.

The planet Jupiter will be a morning star from January 1st until May 10th, then an evening star until November 1st, and afterwards a morning star to the end of the year.

The planets Jupiter and Saturn will be in the best position for viewing with the telescope during the months of March, April, and May.

The planet Mars will not be in a favourable situation during the whole of the year 1863, for viewing with the telescope.

Venus will be best seen in the evenings during the months of May, June, and July.

DR. HERSCHELL'S WEATHER TABLE,

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters, so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

Moon Changes.	In Summer.	In Winter.
Between Midnight & 2 in the Morn.	Fair - - - - - -	Frost, unless Wind be S. or S. W.
2 and 4 - - -	Cold with Showers -	Snow and Stormy
4 and 6 - - -	Rain - - - - -	Rain
6 and 8 - - -	Wind and Rain - -	Stormy
8 and 10 - - -	Changeable - -	Cold Rain if Wind W. Snow if E.
10 and 12 - - -	Frequent Showers -	Cold and High Winds
12 and 2 Aftern.	Very Rainy - - -	Snow or Rain
2 and 4 - - -	Changeable - - -	Fair and Mild
4 and 6 - - -	Fair - - - - - -	Fair
6 and 8 - - -	Fair, if Wind N. W. Rain, if S. or S. W.	Fair and Frosty, if Wind N. or N. E. Rain or Snow, if S. or S. W.
8 and 10 - - -	Ditto ditto - - -	Ditto ditto
10 and Midnight.	Fair - - - - - -	Fair and Frosty

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.

5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.

6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

MONTHLY NOTICES.

March 1.—Auditors and assessors of Boroughs to be elected.

March 25.—Overseers are to be appointed on this day, or within 14 days after. Those whose year has expired, must verify their accounts by oath before one justice, within 14 days, to be delivered to their successors after the appointment of such successors. Constables, headboroughs, and tithingmen, are to deliver their accounts every 3 months, and within 14 days after they leave office, to the overseers, who are, within the following 14 days, to lay them before the inhabitants, and, if approved by a majority, they shall be allowed; but if not, the constables, &c. may appeal to a justice. Surveyors of Highways elected, accounts to be made up within 14 days.

March 30.—Poor-law Guardians to be elected.

April 5.—The returns for making the assessment of direct taxes are delivered soon after this day. The person making the return rates himself for the persons and articles subject to taxes kept and used by him between the 5th of April, and the 5th of April. If he wishes to give up keeping any servant, &c., he should do so on the 4th of April.

June 10.—Clerks of the Peace for counties to issue precepts to overseers to publish lists of voters.

June 20.—Overseers to fix on church doors notices to persons qualified to vote for counties, to make claims. Persons on the register need not make a new claim, unless they have changed their qualification. Overseers in boroughs to publish notices to electors respecting payment of poor rates and assessed taxes as a qualification for voting.

July 5.—Annual licence to be taken out by pawnbrokers and appraisers who are not auctioneers.—Game Certificates to be taken out.

July 20.—Assessed taxes and poor rates due on 5th January, must be paid on or before this day, by all electors of cities or boroughs, or they will be disqualified from voting. Last day for sending in claims for voting in counties.

July 31.—Overseers to make out lists of borough electors.

August 1.—Annual licence to be taken out by hawkers and pedlars. Overseers to publish lists of voters for counties; town-clerks in boroughs to publish lists of freemen.

August 2 & 9 (Two first Sundays.)—Borough and county lists to be affixed to church doors.

August 25.—Last day for service of objections on electors in counties, or their tenants, and for service on overseers of objections to electors.—Last day to claim as borough electors.

August 29.—Overseers of parishes and townships to send lists of electors and number of objections to the high constables of their hundreds, and overseers of boroughs to the town-clerk.

August 31. All taxes and rates payable on March 1st, must be paid on or before this day, by persons claiming to be enrolled as burgesses under the Municipal Corporations Act.

Sept. 5.—Overseers of parishes and boroughs to make out burgess lists under Municipal Reform Act, which must be delivered to town-clerk this day.

Sept. 6 & 13 (Two Sundays preceding the 15th)—Lists of objections to county electors, & claims & objections for borough lists, to be affixed to church doors.

Sept. 8.—Town-clerks in boroughs to cause the burgess' lists to be fixed in public places in boroughs, from this day till 15th.

Sept. 15.—Claims of persons omitted in the burgess lists, and objections to persons improperly inserted, to be given to the town-clerk in writing on or before this day; notice of the objection also to be given to the person objected to.

Sept. 24.—Lists of claimants and of persons objected to, to be fixed by town-clerk in some public place of each borough, from this day till October 1.

Oct. 1.—Mayor and assessors to hold an open court to revise burgess lists, some time between the 1st and 15th, 3 clear days notice to be given. The revised list to be kept by the town-clerk, and persons therein entered to be entitled to vote, according to the Act, from the 1st of November.

Oct. 10.—Annual licence to be taken out by bankers or others issuing promissory notes for money, payable to the bearer on demand, and allowed to be re-issued.

Nov. 1.—Borough councillors to be elected.

Nov. 9.—Mayor and aldermen of boroughs to be elected.

Nov. 15.—Attorneys, proctors, notary publics, &c. to take out certificates.

THE GARDENERS' CALENDAR.

JANUARY.—Prepare for all sowing and planting. If this had been done in December, it would have been better; the ground is now generally too moist for putting seed in. If you choose to sow peas, though it is not a good practise, sow them early enough.

FEBRUARY.—Prepare your ground for onions; soot, or common kennel-muck (or sludge, as it is called in some places,) is the best manure for them. Sow carrot and spinach seed. If you have any cauliflower plants under frames, draw the glasses down whenever the weather is open and mild.

MARCH.—Sow asparagus, celery, cauliflowers, brussels sprouts, beets, brocoli, spinage, onions, dutch turnips, peas, beans, savoys, parsnips, and turnip radishes. Plant sea-kale, kidney-beans, and cauliflowers from frames. Graft fruit trees, &c.

APRIL.—Prick and plant out all the cabbage kind. All carrots, parsnips, beets, &c., may now be sown. Prepare your ground for planting out cucumber plants. Plant slips and cuttings of kitchen herbs.

MAY.—Sow capsicums, cauliflowers, carrots, lettuces, spinage, cucumbers, peas, red beet for pickling, and kidney and french beans. Transplant cabbages, winter greens, lettuces, cauliflowers, and celery.

JUNE.—Sow beans, peas, cucumbers for pickling, radishes, spinach, cabbages, endive, carrots, brocoli and borecole; kidney-beans once a fortnight; lettuce and small salad once in ten days.

JULY.—Sow turnips, french beans, lettuces, and black spanish radishes. Plant out brocoli, cauliflowers, savoys, leeks, and winter cabbages, and earth up celery. Gather medicinal flowers and sweet herbs, &c.

AUGUST.—A variety of esculent vegetables must be sown at this time for the autumn and winter crops. Plant young seedlings; hoe and earth round cauliflowers, Propagate aromatic plants, &c., by parting the roots.

SEPTEMBER.—Sow vegetable seeds for a spring crop, and plant cauliflowers, brocoli, savoys, german greens, leeks, lettuce, celery, and perennial and aromatic pot herbs. Hoe winter spinach and turnips, earth up celery, weed cauliflowers and young onions; prick out cabbage plants.

OCTOBER.—Plant cabbages, endive, brocoli, &c. Sow small salad, radishes, and lettuce; a few mazagan beans and hotspur peas to stand the winter. Tie up endive and earth up celery and cardoons.

NOVEMBER.—Force sea cale, rhubarb, and asparagus. Prune and plant fruit trees. Transplant seeding stocks, and suckers taken from the roots of pear, codlin, plum, and quince trees, to prepare them for budding or grafting different fruits upon. Shelter choice flowers.

DECEMBER.—Tie up endive, cardoons, and white beet. Take up edible and full-grown vegetables with esculent leaves, and plant the latter in sand, in an open shed for use

PRACTICAL RECEIPTS.

Remedy for Hooping Cough—From 15 to 20 drops of diluted sulphuric acid, mixed in a teaspoonful of moist sugar, taken three or four times a day; or, an ounce of this "Elixir" in a pint of water, with 2 ounces of simple syrup. The dose is a tablespoonfull three or four times a day.

Blacking for Dress Boots and Shoes—Gum arabic, eight ounces; treacle, two ounces; ink, half a pint; vinegar; and spirit of wine, of each two ounces. Dissolve the gum and treacle in the ink and vinegar, then strain and add the spirit.

To arrest Bleeding at the Nose—Introduce, by means of a probe, a small piece of lint or soft cotton, previously dipped into some mild styptic, as a solution of alum, white vitriol, creosote, or even cold water. This will generally succeed; but should it not, cold water may be snuffed up the nostrils. Should the bleeding be very profuse, medical advice should be procured.

To clear Vegetables of Insects—Make a strong brine of one pound and a half of salt to one gallon of water; into this place the vegetables (with the stalk ends uppermost) for two or three hours: this will destroy all the insects which cluster in the leaves, and they will fall out and sink to the bottom of the water.

The Ring Worm—This disease consists of circular forms, composed of visicular eruptions, with inflamed bases, usually occurring on the forehead, face, neck, and arms, and now and then extending to other parts of the body, may be frequently observed; this, as is well known, constitutes the disease called ring worm. If let alone, small scabs form, fall off, and are soon replaced by a second series. The constitution seldom suffers, except from the tingling and irritation, which, in young children, may produce febrile action. The treatment for this disease is very simple. A dose of salts may now and then be administered, and the rings rubbed over with lunar caustic—two applications will be found sufficient. This treatment never fails; it gives much less trouble, is more agreeable to the patient, and infinitely cleaner than the application of ointments and lotions.

A Portable Filter—The following is an exceedingly useful, and certainly an exceedingly cheap filter. It consists of a conical formed jar, with an aperature at the bottom, into which a clean sponge is pressed as tightly as possible; and the jar being then filled with water, and placed in such a manner as to allow the water to pass through it into a receiver, it will be found that all the grosser impurities of the water will be removed, and the water at the same time will be much softer, and less dangerous to drink.

Lemonade—Powdered sugar, four pounds; citric or tartaric acid, one ounce; essence of lemon, two drachms; mix well. Two teaspoonsful make a very sweet and agreeable glass of extemporaneous lemonade.

Superior Bitters—Take half an ounce of the yolk of fresh eggs, carefully separated from the white; half an ounce of gentian root; one and a half drachm Seville orange peel; and one pint of boiling water. Pour the water, hot, upon the above ingredients, and let them steep in it for two hours; then strain, and bottle for use.

Ginger Beer—The following excellent receipt for ginger beer was forwarded to Dr. Pereira by Mr. Pollock, of Fenchurch-Street:—White sugar, twenty pounds; lemon, or lime juice, eighteen (fluid) ounces, honey, one pound; bruised ginger, twenty-two ounces; water, eighteen gallons. Boil the ginger in three gallons of the water for half an hour; then add the sugar, the juice, and the honey, with the remainder of the water, and strain through a cloth. When cold, add the white of an egg, and half an ounce (fluid) of essence of lemon; after standing four days, bottle. This yields a very superior beverage, and one which will keep for many months.

Furniture Oil for Polishing and Staining Mahogany—Take of linseed oil, one gallon; alkanet root, three ounces; rose pink, one ounce. Boil them together ten minutes, and strain so that the oil be quite clear. The furniture should be well rubbed with it every day, until the polish is brought up, which will be more durable than almost any other.

Freckles—To disperse them, take one ounce of lemon juice, a quarter of a drachm of powdered borax, and half a drachm of sugar; mix them, and let them stand a few days in a glass bottle till the liquor is fit for use; then rub it on the hands and face occasionally.

Lemon Whey—Pour into boiling milk as much lemon juice as will make a small quantity quite clear, dilute with hot water to an agreeable smart acid, and put a piece or two of sugar. This is less heating than if made of wine; and if only to excite perspiration, answers as well.

Black Currant Cakes for a Cold—Boil one quart of juice for half an hour, then take it off, and stir a quarter of a pound of sifted loaf sugar into it, when melted, pour it into dishes about half an inch thick, put it out in the sun to dry; and when perfectly cold, cut it into small dice or diamonds.

An effectual Lime for the destruction of Bugs—Two ounces of red arsenic, a quarter of a pound of white soap, half an ounce of camphor, dissolved in a teaspoonful of spirits rectified, made into a paste of the consistency of cream: place this mixture in the openings and cracks of the bedstead.

To Cast Figures in imitation of Ivory—Make isinglass and brandy into a paste, with powdered egg shells, very finely ground. You may give it what color you please; but cast it warm into your mould, which you previously oil over. Leave the figure in the mould till dry, and you will find, on taking it out, that it bears a strong resemblance to ivory.

Purgative Biscuits—Take one ounce of flour, and one ounce of powdered sugar, two eggs, and one drachm of powdered jalap; let three biscuits be made, a quarter of one of which will contain five grains of jalap, and may be taken once or twice a day, according to the effect.

Preservation of Iron from Rust—A mastic or covering for this purpose, proposed by M. Zeni, and sanctioned by the Société d'Encouragement, is as follows: eighty parts of pounded brick, passed through a silk sieve, are mixed with twenty parts of litharge: the whole is then rubbed up by the muller with linseed oil, so as to form a thick paint, which may be diluted with spirits of turpentine. Before it is applied the iron should be well cleaned. From the experience of two years, upon locks exposed to the air, and watered daily with salt water, after being covered with two coats of this mastic, the good effects of it have been thoroughly proved.

Process for Removing Spots of Grease from Books and Prints—After having gently warmed the paper stained with grease, oil, wax, or any fat body whatever, take out as much as possible by means of blotting paper (having first scraped off with a blunt knife what has not sunk in, and gently warmed the part stamped). Then dip a small brush in rectified spirit of turpentine, heated almost to boiling point, and draw it gently over both sides of the paper, which must be carefully kept warm. This operation must be repeated as many times as the quantity of fat imbibed, or the thickness of the paper, may render neccessary. When the grease is entirely removed, recourse may be had to the following method to restore the paper to its former whiteness, which is not completely restored by the first process:—Dip another brush in alcohol, and draw it in a like manner over the place which was stained and particularly round the edges, to remove the border, which would present a stain. By employing these means, with proper caution, the spot will totally disappear, and the paper assume its original whiteness; if the process has been employed upon a print or manuscript, no obliteration will take place.

Pickled Pork—Cut your pork into pieces convenient for placing in your pickling tub, being careful that the vessel be perfectly sweet and sound. Where it can be done take out any bone from the meat. Rub every piece well with saltpetre; then take one part of bay salt, and two parts of common salt, and after rubbing each piece of meat thoroughly, place it down, and cover it completely with common salt. The closer the meat is packed the better. Be particular in keeping the sides of the tub well filled up with salt. Meat thus cured will keep any length of time, without losing its excellence.

Dr. Scott's Wash to whiten the Nails—Diluted sulphuric acid, 2 drachms; tincture of myrrh, 1 drachm; spring water, 4 ounces, Mix. First cleanse with white soap, and then dip the fingers into the wash.

To Purify the Air of a Sick-chamber—Dr. J. C. Smith obtained £5000 from Parliament for the following receipt:—"Take six drachms of powdered nitre, and the same quantity of oil of vitriol; mix them together by adding to the nitre one drachm of the vitriol at a time; placing the vessel in which you are mixing it on a hot hearth, or plate of heated iron, stirring it with a glass rod, a tobacco pipe, &c. Then place the vessel in the contaminated room, moving it about to different parts of the room.

To Pickle Cauliflowers—Choose the whitest and closest grown. Separate them into bunches, lay them on plates, and strew salt equally all over them. Let them remain in this condition three days and nights. Then place them in jars, and pour boiling water over them; tie them up close from the air, and let them stand twelve hours. After the expiration of that time they should be taken out and dried on a sieve, when you may put them into jars or bottles, and fill up with the best white-wine vinegar. Tie bladder and leather over them.

To Renovate Black Crape—Skim-milk and water, with a little bit of glue in it, made scalding hot, will restore old rusty black Italian crape. If clapped and pulled dry, like fine muslin, it will look as good as new.

To take a Plaster of Paris Cast from a Person's Face—The person must lie on his back, and his hair tied behind, into each nostril put a conical piece of paper, open at each end to allow of breathing. The face is to be lightly oiled over, and the plaster being properly prepared, it is to be poured over the face (taking particular care that the eyes are shut) till it is a quarter of an inch thick. In a few minutes, the plaster may be removed. In this a mould is to formed, from which a second cast is to be taken, that will furnish casts exactly like the original.

To Restore Pricked or Stale Beer—To about a quart of stale beer, put about half a teaspoonful of salt of wormwood; this will restore the beer, and make it sparkle when poured into a glass, like bottled porter.

Raspberry Wine—To each quart of well picked raspberries, put a quart of water; bruise, and let them stand two days; strain off the liquor, and to every gallon, put three pounds of loaf sugar; when dissolved, put the liquor into a barrel, and when fine (which will be in about two months), bottle it, and to each bottle put a tablespoonful of brandy.

A Good Stew—Set a shin of beef on to stew in enough cold water to keep it covered until done. When it boils remove the scum, and put one ounce and a half of salt to the gallon of water. Add a few cloves and some black pepper, slightly bruised and tied up in muslin, some onions, a root of celery, a bunch of savoury herbs, with some carrots and turnips. Gently stew for four or five hours.

Paint—To get rid of the smell of oil paint plunge a handful of hay into a pail full of water, and let it stand in the room newly painted.

To Prevent Beer from Growing Flat—In a cask, containing eighteen gallons of beer, becoming vapid, put a pint of ground malt, suspended in a bay, and close the bung perfectly; the beer will be improved during the whole time of drawing it for use.

The Hair—Perfect cleanliness is indispensable for the preservation of the beauty and colour of the hair, as well as its duration; this is attained by frequently washing it in tepid soft water, using those soaps which have the smallest portion of alkali in their composition, as this substance renders the hair too dry, and by depriving it of its moist colouring matter, impairs at once its strength and beauty. After washing, the hair should be immediately and thorougly dried, and when the towel has ceased to imbibe moisture, brushed constantly in the sun or before the fire until its lightness and elasticity are fully restored; and in dressing it, a little marrow pomatum, bear's grease, or fragrant oil should be used, yet as sparingly as possible. The belief, entertained by many persons, that washing the head induces, catarrh, or headache, or injures the hair, is erroneous; as the application of water to the skin is the most natural and effectual method of cleansing it, and of keeping open the pores through which the perspiration must pass in order to ensure its healthy condition: besides, scales naturally form around the roots of the hair of the most cleanly person, and these can only be completely detached by the use of soap.—The constant and persevering use of the brush, is a great means beautifying the hair, rendering it glossy and elastic. and encouraging a disposition to curl. The brush produces further advantages, in propelling and calling into action the contents of the numerous vessels and pores which are interspersed over the whole surface of the head, and furnish vigour and nourishment to the hair; five minutes, at least, every morning and evening, should be devoted to its use. Two brushes are necessary for the toilette of the hair; a penetrating, and a polishing brush; the penetrating brush, especially for a lady's use, should be composed of strong elastic hairs, cut into irregular lengths, but not so hard or coarse as to be in any danger of irritating the skin; after having been passed once or twice through the hair to ensure its smoothnes sand regularity, the brush should be slightly dipped in Eau-de-Cologne, or sprinkled with a little perfumed hartshorn, as either of these preparations are beneficial in strengthening the air: the polishing brush should be made of firm soft hairs, thickly studded. Combs should only be used for the purpose of giving a form to the hair, or assisting in its decoration, as their use is more or less prejudical to the surface of the skin, and the roots of the hair. The small-toothed ivory comb is particularly injurious, as besides its irritating effects on the skin, it has a tendency to split and crush the hair as it passes through it. The growth of the hair is best promoted by keeping it scrupulously clean, and by cutting it frequently.

Gingerbread—The following receipt produces superior thin gingerbread. Flour, one pound: carbonate of magnesia, quarter of an ounce: mix; add treacle, half a pound; moist sugar, quarter of a pound; melted butter, two ounces; tartaric acid, dissolved in a little water, one drachm. Make a stiff dough, then add powdered ginger and cinnamon (cassia,) of each, one drachm; grated nutmeg, one ounce; set it aside for half an hour, and put it in the oven. It should not be kept longer than two or three hours, at the utmost, before being baked.

To destroy Caterpillars on Gooseberry Trees, &c.—Get a quantity of elder leaves, and boil them in as much water as will cover them, until the liquor becomes quite black, then clear and cool it, and to every gallon of this liquor add one gallon of tobacco water. When the trees are quite dry, lay it on with a fine rose water-pot, and in ten minutes the caterpillars will fall off. Another way is to syringe the infested trees with a decoction of black hellibore. The caterpillars will eat the poisoned leaves and thereby be destroyed.

1.—Walnuts Pickled—In those parts of the country where fresh green walnuts are to be obtained, they may be cheaply and simply made with a pickle. Lay unripe but.full grown walnuts in very strong brine of salt and water, having previously pricked them with a needle. Change the brine every fourth day, and do so four or five times; then take them from the brine and wipe them dry. Place them in a jar, and pour boiling vinegar upon them. Add pepper, ginger, mustard-seed, or other spices according to taste. When cold, cover up.

2.—Boil the walnuts in vinegar till they are tender, and put them into the jar with the same vinegar. By this plan they are at first bitter, but afterwards mellow and agreeable.

To Write in Silver—Mix one ounce of the finest pewter or block tin, and two of quicksilver together, till both become fluid, then grind it with gum water, and write with it. The writing will then look as if done with silver.

To detect Copper in Pickles or Green Tea—Put a few leaves of the tea, or some of the pickle, cut small, into a phial with two or three drachms of liquid ammonia, diluted with one-half the quantity of water. Shake the phial, when, if the most minute portion of copper be present, the liquid will assume a fine blue colour.

Cream Cheese—Put as much salt into three quarts of raw cream as will season it, stir it well, and pour it into a sieve, in which you have folded a cheese cloth four times doubled, when it hardens, cover it with nettles on a pewter dish.

ABSTRACT OF IMPORTANT

Acts of Parliament passed last Session.

25th and 26th Victoria, 1862.

An Act relating to and regulating the Sale of Playing Cards. June 3, 1862.

"From and after the 1st day of September, 1862, the duty (3d) by this Act charged for and in respect of Playing Cards, and all the Clauses and Provisions relating thereto, shall commence and take effect."

"The Commissioners of Inland Revenue, or any of their officers authorised by them, shall grant to any person who shall apply for it, a license to sell cards at any house to be specified therein, on payment of duty for the same. Every such license shall continue in force from the day on which the same shall be granted until and upon the 1st day of September then next following, and no longer."

"If any person shall sell or offer for sale any cards without having a license in force for the same granted under this act, he shall forfeit £20; and any person who shall sell cards at any house or place not specified in a license granted to him, shall be deemed to be a person selling cards without a license; and any person who shall be found hawking or carrying about for sale any cards, whether enclosed in a stamped wrapper or not, and who shall sell the same or offer the same for sale at any place for which he shall have no license, may be apprehended by any constable or officer of Inland Revenue, and taken before any Justice of the Peace, who shall hear and determine the matter, and if upon conviction of such offence the offender shall not immediately pay the penalty in which he shall be convicted, he shall be committed to prison for any period not exceeding three months nor less than one month, unless the penalty shall be sooner paid; and all cards which he shall be found trading with or carrying about shall be forfeited and delivered up to the commissioners to be dealt as cards forfeited under this Act."

"If any maker of cards shall remove, or send, or deliver out any cards from his house or premises, or the house or place in which they were made or completed (except for exportation as allowed by this Act), the same not being in Packs enclosed in wrappers in manner aforesaid, or if any person, whether a maker of cards or not, and whether licensed or not, shall sell any cards, not being a Pack of cards enclosed in a wrapper as by this Act is required, he shall forfeit, if he be a maker of cards, the sum of £100, and if he be not a maker of cards, the sum of £20; and moreover, for every pack of cards which every such person shall sell, or send, or deliver out not enclosed in a wrapper as aforesaid, he shall forfeit the further sum of £5; and all cards found in any house or place whatever (except on the premises of a licensed maker specified in his license) which shall be kept or intended for sale, or which shall be found on the premises or in possession of any person who shall sell cards, and which shall not be in separate packs enclosed in wrappers as aforesaid, shall be forfeited; and the same, and also all wrappers found in any house or place whatsoever, which shall have been used for enclosing cards, and removed or got off therefrom, may be taken and carried away by any officer of Inland Revenue, and be destroyed or otherwise disposed of as the commissioners shall direct; and for the purposes of such seizure, it shall be lawful for any such officer, under the authority of a warrant for the purpose specially granted by any two of the commissioners or any Justice of the Peace, to enter in the day time any house or place in which there shall be reason to suspect that any cards not enclosed in stamped wrappers, or any wrappers that have been used as aforesaid, are deposited or kept, and to search for the same; and if necessary, such officer may break open the door of any room or closet, or any box, trunk or case in which any such cards or wrappers are suspected to be contained; and all cards so found shall be deemed to be kept and intended for sale, unless the contrary shall be proved."

"Every person who shall sell cards, other than a maker or dealer in cards selling by wholesale to persons who buy to sell again, shall, before he shall deliver or send out a pack of cards on the sale thereof, cancel the stamp on the wrapper denoting the duty by this Act charged on a pack of cards by writing or impressing in ink his name upon such stamp, or in default thereof he shall forfeit the sum of Five Pounds."

"If any person shall remove or get off, or aid or assist in removing or getting off from any pack of cards any wrapper which shall have been used for enclosing the same, with intent that such wrapper shall be again used for enclosing any other cards; or shall use any wrapper so removed or got off for enclosing any such other cards; or shall sell or utter any such last-mentioned wrapper, or any cards enclosed therein, knowing the said wrapper to have been so removed or got off as aforesaid; or shall knowingly have in his possession or on his premises any wrapper, which shall have been so removed or got off, with intent that the same might be used for enclosing other cards; or shall be guilty of any fraudulent act contrivance, or device whatever relating to the duty by this Act chargeable in respect of cards, he shall forfeit the sum of Twenty Pounds; and it shall be lawful for the said commissioners to refuse to grant License to sell cards to any person who shall have been convicted of any such offence."

"Provided, That cards in packs, each pack containing an Ace of spades duly stamped under the said Act of the Ninth Year of King George the Fourth, and also cards duly imported, enclosed in Wrappers according to the Act of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Years of Her present Majesty, Chapter One Hundred and Seven, may lawfully be sold as if this Act had not been made; and provided that it shall be lawful for any person possessed of cards previously sold and opened, used and played with, to sell the same to any Licensed Maker of Cards without having a License for selling cards, and without such cards being enclosed in a wrapper provided under this Act; and if any such cards shall be sold, or sent or delivered out by the said Maker, they shall be subject to all the Provisions of this Act, and for the purposes of this Act such Maker shall be deemed to be the Maker of such cards; and provided that this Act shall not extend to charge with Stamp Duty bona fide Toy Cards not exceeding in length One Inch and Three Quarters, or in width One Inch and a Quarter."

"DUTIES.—For and in respect of every Pack of Playing Cards made fit for Sale or Use in the United Kingdom, the Duty of £0 0 3

For and upon every License to be taken out annually by any Person who shall sell Playing Cards in the United Kingdom

If he be a Maker of Playing Cards, the Duty of 1 0 0

If he be not a Maker of Playing Cards, the Duty of 0 2 6

"In lieu of the Duties of Customs now charged on the articles undermentioned, the following Duties of Customs shall be charged thereon on Importation into Great Britain and Ireland, from and after the First Day of September, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-Two, viz.:—

CARDS, viz. .—Playing Cards, the Dozen Packs .. £0 3 9

Cap. 43.—An Act to provide for the education and maintenance of pauper children in certain Schools and Institutions.

1—The guardians of any parish or union may send any poor child to any school supported wholly or partially by voluntary subscription, and may pay out of the funds in their possession, the expenses incurred in the maintenance, &c., of such child during the time such child shall remain at such school.

2—The Poor Law Board may upon the application, of the managers, in writing, of such school, appoint a person as they shall deem proper, to examine into the condition of the school, and to report to the Board thereon, and if satisfied they may, by writing under the hand of one of their secretaries, certify that such school is fitted for the reception of such children, or persons, as may be sent there by the guardians; and if the said Board be dissatisfied with the condition or management of such school, by notice to the managers, and signed as aforesaid, declare that the certificate is withdrawn.

3—If the Board be of opinion that any person is aggrieved by any child being sent or kept at any such school, they may order any such child to be removed, and the guardians shall forthwith cause such child to be removed.

4—Every school shall be open to the visitation of an Inspector appointed by the Poor Law Board, to examine into the state and management of the same, and the condition and treatment of such children, and the Guardians may from time to time appoint one of their body to visit and inspect such school.

5—The guardians may at any time at their discretion, or upon the withdrawal of the certificate, cause any such child to be removed from any such school, and brought back to their parish or union.

6—No child shall be sent to such school unless he or she be an orphan, or deserted by his or her parent or parents, or be one whose parent or parents shall consent to the sending of such child to the said school.

7—Nothing herein contained shall enable the guardians to keep any child in any school against the will of such child, if above the age of fourteen, or of the parent or parents of such child, whatever be the age of such child.

8—The expenses incurred by the guardians in respect of any child shall be charged to the same fund and in the same manner as the relief otherwise supplied would be charged.

9—No child shall be sent to any school which is conducted on the principles of a religious denomination to which such child does not belong.

10—The several words used shall be construed as in the Act 4 and 5 Will. c 76; and the word "school" shall extend to any institution for the instruction of blind, deaf, dumb, lame, deformed, or idiotic persons, but shall not apply to any certified reformatory school.

11—This Act shall not extend to Scotland or Ireland.

Cap. 50.—An Act to facilitate the the Proof of Title to, and the Conveyance of Real Estates.

1—This Act shall apply to England only. Part 1—As to the Registration of Real Estates and the Title thereto.

2—There shall be established a registry of the title to landed estates.

3—The registry shall be confined to estates of freehold tenure, and leasehold estates in freehold lands.

4—Application may be made for registration of title, by any of the following persons, viz:—

1—The owner of the fee simple.

2—Persons who collectively are owners of the fee simple, or have the power of acquiring the same.

3—Persons who have the power of appointing the fee simple.

4—Trustees for sale of the fee simple.

5—The owner of the first estate of freehold and first vested estate of inheritance.

6—Any purchaser of a fee simple, where his contract empowers him so to do, or the vendor consents.

7—Any person authorized by the Court of Chancery to make such application.

Application may be made, although the estate of the person applying may be subject to charges and incumbrances.

5—On application for the registration of a title as indefeasable, the title shall be examined by the Registrar and examiners of title. No title shall be accepted unless it shall appear to be such as a Court of Equity would hold to be a valid marketable title.

6—Any question, doubt or dispute, may be referred to such Judge of the Court of Chancery as the Lord Chancellor shall appoint to hear applications under this act.

7—If the title shall (either absolutely or subject as aforesaid) appear to be good and marketable, the applicants shall furnish to the Registrar, and he shall examine and settle for the purposes registration—First, an exact description of the lands to be registered—Secondly, a statement of the persons, or classes, or description of persons, that are or may become entitled to such lands, and of the estates, powers, and interests that exist or may arise or become vested in such persons respectively—Thirdly, a statement of the mortgages, charges and incumbrances affecting such lands or any part thereof, both at law and in equity. Copies of such description and statements when settled by the Registrar, shall be delivered back to the applicants; any objection to the same, or to any part thereof, if not allowed by the Registrar, shall, at the request of the applicants, be referred to and decided by the Judge of the Court of Chancery.

8—If required by the Registrar, the description of the land furnished by the applicant, shall be verified by his own oath, or the oaths of persons having full means of information.

9—It shall be stated by applicant whether he claims to be entitled to all or any part of the mines or minerals under such lands, and unless in such description, mines or minerals be expressly mentioned, they shall be deemed not to be included therein.

10—The Registrar shall have the power to ascertain the accuracy of the description, and except in cases of incorporeal hereditaments, a plan shall be made and deposited as part of the description.

11—When the Registrar is satisfied with the title, he shall require notices to be given by public advertisement, of his intention to register such land at the expiration of a period of not less than three months from the date of such advertisement. Such notice shall contain a copy of the description and the names and descriptions of the applicants. A copy of such notice shall be served on every adjoining occupier, and the person (if any) to whom such occupier pays rent. The notice shall also state the place, time, and manner at, and in which any party may be heard to show cause against such registration.

13—Any person may attend and shew cause before the Registrar by affidavit, against the registration, and the Registrar may decide on such objection, or refer the same to the Judge of the Court of Chancery.

Subject to such directions, the books of registry may be inspected by owners, mortgagees, or their respective solicitors; no other person shall be permitted to inspect such books, except under an order of the Court of Chancery.

If any person fraudulently procures or assists in fraudulently procuring the entry on the register of any caveat or notice of a charge, or of the erasure from the register or alteration on the register of any caveat or notice of a charge, such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and any order, &c. procured as aforesaid, shall be void.

Any person convicted of a misdemeanour shall be liable to imprisonment for any term not exceeding three years, with or without hard labour, or to be fined such sum as the Court shall think fit.

This Act contains 140 sections, the remainder of which, we are compelled to omit for want of space.

1—The word "Game" for the purposes of this Act may be deemed to include hares, pheasants, pastridges, eggs of pheasants and partridges, woodcocks, snipes, rabbits, grouse, black or moor game, and eggs of grouse, black or moor game; and the words "Justice" and "Justices" shall, unless otherwise provided for, mean respectively a justice and justices of the peace for the county, riding, division, liberty, city, borough, or place in which any game, gun, part of gun, net, snare, or engine after mentioned shall be found.

2—It shall be lawful for any constable or peace officer in Great Britain and Ireland, in any place, to search any person whom he may suspect of coming from any land, or any person aiding or abeting such person, and having in his possession any game unlawfully obtained, or any gun, part of gun, or nets, or engines used for the killing or taking game, and also to search any cart or other conveyance where they shall have good cause to suspect, that any such game, &c. is being carried, and should there be found any game, &c. upon such person, cart or other conveyance, to seize and detain such game, &c., and such constable or peace officer shall apply to some justice for a summons citing such person to appear before two justices assembled in petty sessions, as provided in the 18th and 19th Victoria, cap 126, sec. 9, as far as regards England and Ireland, and before a sheriff or any two justices in Scotland; and if such person shall have obtained such game unlawfully, or shall have used any such article or thing as aforesaid for unlawfully killing or taking game, or shall have been accessory thereto, he shall, on being convicted, forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding £5, and shall forfeit such game, &c., and the justices shall direct the same to be sold or destroyed; and no person who, by the direction of a justice in writing, shall sell any game so seized shall be liable to any penalty for such sale; and if no conviction takes place, the game, &c. or its value shall be restored to the person from whom it had been seized.

3—Any penalty shall be enforced in England in the same manner as penalties under 1st and 2nd William the 4th, cap. 32, and in Scotland under 2nd and 3rd William the 4th, cap. 68, and in Ireland under the petty sessions, Ireland, Act, 1851, when not otherwise directed.

4—The powers of the 11th and 12th Victoria, cap. 43, shall extend and apply to this act, and to proceedings, &c., to be taken, and to all persons to be proceeded against or taking proceedings under this Act.

5 - No conviction or order shall be quashed for want of form, or be removed by certiorari into any of Her Majesty's superior courts; and no warrant of commitment shall be held void by reason of any defect therein, provided that the party has been convicted.

6—Any person who shall think himself aggrieved by any conviction may appeal to the next court of general or quarter sessions which shall be holden not less than twelve days after the day of conviction for the county, riding, division, or borough wherein the cause of complaint shall have arisen, provided that such person shall have given a notice in writing of such appeal, and of the cause thereof, within three days after conviction. and seven clear days before such sessions, and shall, within three days, enter into a recognizance, or bond of caution in Scotland, with a sufficient surety, before a justice, conditioned personally to appear at the said sessions to try such appeal, and to abide the judgment and pay such costs as shall be awarded by the court, and the court at such sessions shall hear and determine the matter of appeal, and shall make such order therein, with or without costs, to either party, as to the court shall seem fit, and shall, if necessary, issue process for enforcing such judgment.

LIST OF FAIRS.

ORIGIN OF FAIRS—When bishops and abbots observed that crowds of people assembled to celebrate the festivals of their patron saints, they applied to the crown for charters to hold fairs at those times, for the accommodation of strangers, and with a view to increase their own revenues by the tolls which their charters authorised them to levy at these fairs. Hence the multitude of attendants increased, some of whom were actuated by religious, and others by commercial views

THE WEATHER. January comes in with moderately fine weather, for this winterly month. There is a considerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, and some downfal may be looked for. About the 8th or 9th days the tempreature of the air will be low, with sharp and strong winds. As the month advances the air will get a little dryer, but we think the whole month will be rather winterly. High tides at the new moon of this month.

The Grimsby Packet leaves Grimsby, about 4 hours before high water at Hull; leaves Hull, for Grimsby, a little before high water. The Packets for Gainsborough, Selby, Leeds, Thorne, Doncaster, Sheffield, York, Goole, &c., leave Hull from 2 to 3 hours before high water.

THE WEATHER. A considerable quantity of moisture is still in the atmosphere, and although no very great quantity of downfal may take place, the weather will be dull, heavy, and unpleasant. It may be a little finer about the 7th or 8th days, but this state of the air will not continue very long, and the latter part of the month will be wet and unpleasant, but there will be at this time more wind, which will have a tendency to clear the air. High tides again at the new moon of this month.

THE WEATHER. The temperature of the air still keeps low, with a considerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere. The air may get a little dryer as the month advances, but after the 21st. east winds will be very prevalent, and thus cause a cold and unpleasant temperature of the air, which is frequently so very common in the latter part of the month of March.

THE WEATHER. April comes in with moderate weather, and rather a dryer air than we had last month, and we think the temperature will be more moderate, and the latter part of the month will be as fine as we usually have it in April. The quantity of moisture in the atmosphere is gradually getting less, and many days of brisk winds will have a tendency to clear the air, and on the whole less easterly winds than is usual at this season.

THE WEATHER. May comes in with a moist atmosphere, and rain, more or less, may be looked for until the 14th day, when the quantity of moisture in the air will gradually get less, and finer weather may be expected from that period to the end of the month; but, we do not anticipate even at that time very fine May weather, as the atmosphere will remain heavy and cloudy, and therefore clear May weather will not be frequent for many days together.

THE WEATHER. June comes in with a dry air and fine weather, but it will not get very hot, as brisk winds will keep the air cool, particularly on some days, when we shall have the wind from the east. The general state of the atmosphere will be dry until about the 24th day, and from then to the end of the month refreshing rains may be looked for. High tides at the full moon of this month.

THE WEATHER. The temperature of the air at the beginning of this month will be rather low for July. There will be a considerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, and from the 3rd to the 7th much rain may be expected, and when July is wet there is generally a very considerable quantity. After the 22nd or 23rd days the air will get much dryer, and from that time to the end of the month fine Summer weather may be looked for. High tides at the full moon of this month.

THE WEATHER. August comes in with a hot and dry air, and on that account thunder storms may shortly be looked for; about the 5th day, and from that time they will occasionally take place until the 19th day, and in many places with great violence. After that time the atmosphere will get heavier and more cloudy, but not much moisture in the atmosphere, and therefore little downfal must be looked for High tides at the full moon of this month. C

THE WEATHER. This month comes in with tolerable fine weather, and a continuance of brisk winds, particularly from the west, and during the time that the wind is from the west the weather will be very agreeable but not hot. The atmosphere is tolerably free from moisture, and little downfal is to be expected during the whole of September. High tides again will take place at the full moon of this month, particularly if the wind is from the west or north-west at the time.

THE WEATHER. At the beginning of the month the weather will be tolerably fine, with occasionally brisk winds, but as the month advances the temperature of the air will get lower, and by the 12th or 13th days the air will be cold and disagreeable. with rain or perhaps snow, after this time it will get a little finer, but still there is a great deal of moisture in the atmosphere and on the whole the month of October will not be so fine as we have had it for some years past.

THE WEATHER. November comes in with moderate weather, and not a very large quantity of moisture in the atmosphere. It will be inclined to be stormy about the 8th or 9th days, with wind and rain, but not of long continuance. During the first half of the month the usual November fogs will be frequent, but the latter half will be clearer and more pleasant. although the general temperature of the air will be cold, but not being so damp, it will be more agreeable.

THE WEATHER. December comes in with rather stormy weather, although the temperature may not be so cold as it was at some periods of last month, but we shall have strong winds in the early part. As the month advances the weather will get more settled, and fine winter weather may be looked to the end of the month, and not much signs of a large downfal either in the form of rain or snow.

ECLIPSES, &c.

In the year 1864 there will be only two Eclipses, and both of the Sun.

The first is an eclipse of the Sun on May 5, but invisible in those parts of the world. It will be visible over the North Pacific Ocean, from the western shores of North America to the eastern shores of Asia, to which parts it will be nearly total.

The second is an Annular Eclipse of the Sun, on October 30, but also invisible in those parts. It will be visible in the South Atlantic Ocean, and also in the South Pacific Ocean, passing centrally over the great continent of South America.

The planets Jupiter and Saturn will be in the best situation for observations with the telescope during the months of March, April, May, and June. The planet Mars will come to the opposition of the Sun on December 1st, and therefore will be in the most favourable position for viewing with the telescope during November and December.

Venus will be a morning star from January 1st until July 18th, then an evening star to the end of the year.

Jupiter will be a morning star from January 1st to May 13th, then an evening star until November 30th, and after this a morning star to the end of the year.

DR. HERSCHELL'S WEATHER TABLE,

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters, so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

Moon Changes.	In Summer.	In Winter.
Between Midnight & 2 in the Morn.	Fair - - - - - -	Frost, unless Wind be S. or S. W.
2 and 4 - - -	Cold with Showers -	Snow and Stormy
4 and 6 - - -	Rain - - - - - -	Rain
6 and 8 - - -	Wind and Rain - -	Stormy
8 and 10 - - -	Changeable - -	Cold Rain if Wind W. Snow if E.

4 and 6 - - -	Fair - - - - - -	Fair
6 and 8 - - -	Fair, if Wind N. W. Rain, if S. or S. W.	Fair and Frosty, if Wind N. or N. E. Rain or Snow, if S. or S. W.
8 and 10 - - -	Ditto ditto - - -	Ditto ditto
10 and Midnight.	Fair - - - - - -	Fair and Frosty

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.
2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.
3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.
4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.
5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.
6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

THE GARDENERS' CALENDAR.

JANUARY.—Prepare for all sowing and planting. If this had been done in December, it would have been better; the ground is now generally too moist for putting seed in. If you choose to sow peas, though it is not a good practise, sow them early enough.

FEBRUARY.—Prepare your ground for onions; soot, or common kennel-muck (or sludge, as it is called in some places,) is the best manure for them. Sow carrot and spinach seed. If you have any cauliflower plants under frames, draw the glasses down whenever the weather is open and mild.

MARCH.—Sow asparagus, celery, cauliflowers, brussels sprouts, beets, brocoli, spinage, onions, dutch turnips, peas, beans, savoys, parsnips, and turnip radishes. Plant sea-kale, kidney-beans, and cauliflowers from frames. Graft fruit trees, &c

APRIL.—Prick and plant out all the cabbage kind. All carrots, parsnips, beets, &c., may now be sown. Prepare your ground for planting out cucumber plants. Plant slips and cuttings of kitchen herbs.

MAY.—Sow capsicums, cauliflowers, carrots, lettuces, spinage, cucumbers, peas, red beet for pickling, and kidney and french beans. Transplant cabbages, winter greens, lettuces, cauliflowers, and celery.

JUNE.—Sow beans, peas, cucumbers for pickling, radishes, spinach, cabbages, endive, carrots, brocoli and borecole; kidney-beans once a fortnight; lettuce and small salad once in ten days.

JULY.—Sow turnips, french beans, lettuces, and black spanish radishes. Plant out brocoli, cauliflowers, savoys, leeks, and winter cabbages, and earth up celery. Gather medicinal flowers and sweet herbs, &c.

AUGUST.—A variety of esculent vegetables must be sown at this time for the autumn and winter crops. Plant young seedlings; hoe and earth round cauliflowers, Propagate aromatic plants, &c., by parting the roots.

SEPTEMBER.—Sow vegetable seeds for a spring crop, and plant cauliflowers, brocoli, savoys, german greens, leeks, lettuce, celery, and perennial and aromatic pot herbs. Hoe winter spinach and turnips, earth up celery, weed cauliflowers and young onions; prick out cabbage plants.

OCTOBER.—Plant cabbages, endive, brocoli, &c. Sow small salad, radishes, and lettuce; a few mazagan beans and hotspur peas to stand the winter. Tie up endive and earth up celery and cardoons.

NOVEMBER.—Force sea cale, rhubarb, and asparagus. Prune and plant fruit trees. Transplant seeding stocks, and suckers taken from the roots of pear, codlin, plum, and quince trees, to prepare them for budding or grafting different fruits upon. Shelter choice flowers.

DECEMBER.—Tie up endive, cardoons, and white beet. Take up edible and full-grown vegetables with esculent leaves, and plant the latter in sand, in an open shed for use

KINGSTON-UPON-HULL.

In ancient times, the ground on which now stands the Town of Hull, was but a low barren point, extending at an acute angle between the Rivers Humber and Hull, until the two rivers, by their continued overflow, had cast up earth and sand so as to make it fit for habitations. In the years 52 and 53 B.C., the Danes often visited the shores of the Humber, and burnt the habitations which the fishermen had now built. From this period until the year 1066 A.D., the Humber seems to have been free from invasion. In this year (1066), Sweyn, King of Denmark, came into the Humber with a large fleet, and after having destroyed all that was valuable on both sides of the river, he proceeded to York. Among the places named as having particularly suffered are the villages of Ferriby, Drypool, Sculcoates, and Myton, the latter being a hamlet consisting of only a few houses on the banks of the Humber, and at this time was in the parish of Ferriby, which, although it contained only 30 houses, was then the chief town of that part of the country. The first time we find the name of Wyke mentioned is in 1174, when "the Son of John of Meaux gave to the Abbey (Meaux Abbey) two parts of his lands in Wyke, and all their Appurtenances;" and "William of Sutton and Benedict of Sculcoates, gave them the other part of Wyke." At this time, the present River Hull was made, "being," as the historian relates, "a great dyke or sewer, originally made to drain the country, which in course of time, both by the descent of the waters that way and by the warping of the Old River Hull, grew exceedingly deep and wide." For 123 years it appears that Wyke made but a very poor figure. In the year 1296, Edward I. defeated the Scots in a bloody battle in which 28,000 were killed. On his return, he stayed at Baynard Castle, Cottingham, and was entertained by Lord Wake. One morning the King rode coursing, and started a hare, which led them along the bank of the Hull; the King, struck with the advantage of the situation, determined to build and fortify a town and harbour.

After enquiring as to the flow of water, &c., he sent for the Abbot of Meaux, the owner of the soil, and gave him lands in Lincolnshire in exchange for those he held on this side of the river. The King had issued a proclamation, "that whoever pleas'd to build, and inhabit there, should have great freedoms, privileges, and immunities.

He also erected a Manor-house for his own use, at the same time ordering that the place should be called Kingston-upon-Hull. In the year 1299, the Town's Charter was given by the King. The chief privileges in which are:—the inhabitants became free burgesses, with liberty to dispose of their estates by their will and testament; that they might choose a Coroner of their own; that a prison should be built; that the inhabitants should be free over England from paying to bridges, or to the King's Forresters for wood used in building ships, &c.; that two markets should be kept weekly, on Monday and Friday, also a fair, to begin May 29, and to be held for 29 days. In consequence of this Charter, numbers came from all parts. The shepherds' folds were scarcely removed before appeared handsome habitations. The rivers afforded plenty of the finny tribe, which being dried and hardened, were called "STOCK FISH," the principal commodity of the country.

By this, and their exemption from taxes, "they obtained," says an ancient writer, "immense treasure." At this time, the town was fortified "with Walls, Towers, and Bulwarks, so that it soon eclipsed the glory of other towns near it, such as Barton, Beverley, Grimsby, Hedon, Patrington, &c., which by degrees sunk into that condition in which we now behold them."

The first Warden or Bailiff we find mentioned is Richard Oysel, who was in office in the year 1301. The customs then were valued at £6 per annum. During the year 1302 roads were made to Anlaby, Beverley, Cottingham, and Holderness. The first stone of Holy Trinity Church was laid in 1312, and finished some time about the year 1321.

In this year died Mr. John Scales, from whom "Scale-lane" takes its name. He was one of the first contributors towards the erection of the church. In the same year, the King hearing that Hull had much improved, granted a second Charter, "which enabled the inhabitants to build their houses of lime and stone; to erect strong Castles and Towers, and to make a Moat and Wall, as designed by his royal predecessor." In 1359, the Humber overflowed, so that "the Town leading from Hessle to Hull, and the Town of Hessle was continually overflowed." It is not stated how long the Humber continued to overflow, but there was scarcely a year in the succeeding part of the King's reign in which a commission was not issued for repairing the banks of the Humber.

In the year 1369, the "Guild of the Holy Trinity" was founded. This famous Guild (now the "Trinity House") was instituted for the relief of distressed Seamen and their Widows belonging to Hull, but having since obtained a Patent from the Crown, many persons not of the above description are recipients of its bounty.

In 1376, the Mayor and Burgesses made a complaint to the King, that the town being situated on the coast of the Humber, was greatly deficient of fresh water; nor could the people procure any except such as was brought in boats from Lincolnshire. They also complained that the Towns of Anlaby, Cottingham, and Hessle had absolutely refused to aid them in the matter, and that the town would be ruined unless the King interfered. A commission was at once issued by the King, and they determined, "that a large canal should be cut from the Anlaby Spring on the north side of the King's road, 40 feet broad, to convey fresh water to Hull."

In 1392, Richard II. granted to the Burgesses of Hull and their successors for ever, the river or haven of the town, "to be annexed to the town and liberties thereof, from Sculcoates Gate to the middle of the Stream of the Humber." In 1385, Richard De Raverson erected an Hospital on the north side of Holy Trinity Church. This Hospital he endowed with the sum of £9 2s. 6d., which amounted to a halfpenny a day for each inmate.

About this time the people of Anlaby, Cottingham, and other neighbouring towns, to the number of 1000, laid siege to Hull. "This was," they said, "to obtain satisfaction from the people of Hull, for cutting the ground and depriving them of fresh water." The canals which had been made for the conveyance of the water had been filled up, and supplies of provisions were prevented. They were ultimately dispersed, and we read that several were condemned and executed at York. These disturbances were often renewed; but in 1413, the streams were poisoned. Application was made to Pope John, who issued a Bull, dated Rome, July 20th, 1413, in which he exhorted the people to peace. After the appearance of this document, we hear no more of the water disputes.

The Town was made Corporate in the year 1414, by Charter of Henry VI.; at the same time the Town was constituted a County of itself. The Grammar School was founded by John Alcock, Bishop of Rochester, (Son of William Alcock, Merchant, Hull,) in 1482.

In 1537, the Corporation, finding that their plate was valued at several hundreds of pounds, determined to sell it, lest the King (Henry VIII.) should seize it for his own use. The proceeds were devoted to the repairs of the Holy Trinity Church, and to the expenses of the Representatives in Parliament. Henry visited Hull in 1542, and gave orders for the erection of the Block-house.

Sir Willian Knowles, Knt. and Alderman, presented a Gold Chain to the town in 1554. Waterworks were first erected in 1613. In 1642, Charles was refused admission into the town by the Governor; the town was beseiged by the royal troops the same year; it began during the latter end of the month of June; and on July 3rd, the King was at Beverley with 3000 foot and 1000 horse. Parliament sent large reinforcements to the town on July 10th. The siege was carried on with great rigour until July 27th, when the King reviewed his troops, raised the siege, and went to York. On September 2nd, the Earl of Newcastle renewed the siege, with an army of 15,000 horse and foot. On the 9th, the townsmen attacked the royal forces at Anlaby, but were repulsed with slaughter. On the 11th, the royalist forces received a severe repulse at two points; and on the same day, Fairfax totally routed the royalists near Horncastle, Lincolnshire. The siege of Hull was raised on October 11th.

Trinity Church was made a Parish Church in 1662. In 1681, Charles II. extended the fortifications on the east side of the River Hull, and caused a strong Citadel to be constructed enclosing the sites of the Castle and South Blockhouse, erected by Henry VIII., and extending in an easterly direction, with a ditch on the north, north-east, and west sides. The foundation stone of St. John's Church was laid in 1791.

Tickell, in his History of Hull, says—"It may not be improper to observe that this famous fortress (Hull) was once considered the strength and safeguard of the north. Its walls and fortifications, joined to the flatness of its situation, and the great command of water about it, having rendered it a place considered as almost impregnable ever since the time of Edward the Second. Although its fortifications in the reign of Charles I. were of sufficient strength, during a long and vigorous siege, to baffle all the attempts of a brave and vigorous army, yet so great have been the improvements in the art of war, that had they been allowed to remain, they would have afforded but little protection against attack."

ABSTRACTS OF IMPORTANT

Acts of Parliament passed last Session.

26th and 27th Victoria, 1863.

An Act for the Regulation of Bakehouses. 13*th July*, 1863.

1.—This Act may be cited as "The Bakehouse Regulstion Act," 1863.

2.—For the purposes of this Act, the words hereinafter mentioned shall be construed follows; as that is to say.—

"Local Authority," shall, as respects any place, mean the persons or bodies of persons defined to be the local authority in that place by the 134th section of the Act, 18 and 19 Vict., cap. 120, or by the nuisance's removal Acts hereinafter mentioned; that is to say, as to England, by the act 18 and 19 Vict., cap 121, as amended by the 23 and 24 Vict., cap. 77; as to Sootland, by the Act 19 and 20 Vict., cap. 103; and as to Ireland, by the Act 11 and 12 Vict., cap. 123, and the 12 and 13 Vict., cap. 111. "Bakehouse" shall mean any place in which are baked bread, biscuits, or confectionery; from the baking or selling of which a profit is derived.

"Employed," as applied to any person, shall include any person working in a bakehouse, whether he receives wages or not.

"Occupier" shall include any person in possession.

"The Court" shall include any justice or justices, sheriff or sheriff-substiute, magistrate or magistrates, to whom jurisdiction is given by this Act.

3.—No person under the age of eighteen years shall be employed in any bakehouse between the hours of nine in the evening and five in the morning. If any person is employed in contravention of this section, the owner of the bakehouse in which he is employed, shall incur the following penalties in respect of each person so employed, that is to say:—For the first offence, a sum not exceeding 2*l.*; for a second offence, a sum not exceeding 5*l.*; for a third and every subsequent offence, a sum not exceeding 1*l.* for each day of the continuance of the employment in contravention of this Act, so that no greater penalty be imposed than 10*l.*

4.—The Inside walls and ceiling, and the passages and staircases leading thereto, shall either be painted with oil, or lime-washed, or partly painted and partly white-washed; where painted with oil, there shall be three coats of paint, and the painting shall be renewed once, at least, in every seven years, and shall be washed with hot water and soap once, at least, in every six months; where lime-washed, it shall be renewed once, at least, in every six months.

Every bakehouse, wherever situate, shall be kept in a cleanly state, and shall be provided with proper means of ventilation, and be free from effluvia, arising from any drain, privy, or other nuisance.

If the occupier of any bakehouse fails to keep the same, in conformity with this section, he shall be deemed to be guilty of an offence against this Act, and to be subject, in respect to such offence, to a penalty not exceeding 5*l.* The Court having jurisdiction under this Act, may, in addition to, or instead of inflicting any penalty in respect of an offence under this section, make an order, directing that within a certain time to be named in such order, certain means are to be adopted by the occupier for the purpose of bringing his bakehouse into conformity with this section; the Court may, upon application, enlarge any time appointed for the adoption of the means directed by the order, but any non-compliance with the order of the Court, shall, after the expiration of the time as originally limited or enlarged by subsequent order, be deemed to be a continuing offence, and to be punishable by a penalty, not exceeding 1*l.*, for every day that such non-compliance continues.

5.—No place on the same level with a bakehouse, situate in any city, town, or place containing (according to the last census) a population of more than 5000 persons, and forming part of the same building, shall be used as a sleeping, place unless it is constructed as follows, that is to say:—unless it is effectually separated from the bakehouse by a partition extending from the floor to the ceiling, unless there be an external glazed window of at least nine superficial feet in area; of which, at least, four-and-a-half superficial feet are made to open for ventilation; and any person who lets, occupies, or continues to let, or knowingly suffers to be occupied, any place contrary to this Act, shall be liable for the first offence to a penalty not exceeding 20s., and for every subsequent offence to a penalty not exceeding 5*l.*

6.—It shall be the duty of the local authority to enforce, within their district, the provisions of this Act, and any officer of health, inspector of nuisances, or other officer appointed by the local authority, hereinbefore referred to as the inspector, may enter into any bakehouse at all times during the hours of baking, and may inspect the same, and examine whether it is or not in conformity with the provisions of this Act; and any person refusing admission to the inspector, or or obstructing him in his examination, shall for each offence incur a penalty not exceeding 20*l.*; and it shall be lawful for any inspector who is refused admission to any bakehouse, in pursuance of this section, to apply to any justice for a warrant authorising him, accompanied by a police constable, to enter into any such bakehouse for the purpose of examining the same, and to enter the same accordingly.

7.—All expenses incurred by any local authority in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, may be paid out of any rate leviable by them, and the said authority may levy such rate accordingly.

Penalties.

8.—All penalties under this Act may be recovered summarily, before two or more justices.

9.—Any act, power, or jurisdiction, hereby authorised to be done or exercised by two justices, may be done or exercised by the following magistrates within their respective jurisdictions:—that is to say, as to England, by any Metropolitan police magistrate, or other stipendiary magistrate, or by the Lord Mayor of the City of London, or any Alderman of the said city; as to Ireland, by any one or more divisional magistrates of police, in the police district of Dublin, and elsewhere by one or more justice or justices of the peace in petty sessions; and as to Scotland, by the sheriff or sheriff's substitute, or by any police magistrate of a burgh.

An Act to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to Savings Banks.

No savings bank shall have the benefit of this act unless the rules and regulations for the management thereof shall be entered into a book or books, to be kept by an officer of such savings bank to be appointed for that purpose, and which book or books shall be open at all reasonable times for the inspection of the persons making deposits in the funds of such savings bank. But, nevertheless, nothing herein contained shall extend to prevent any alteration in, or amendment of any such rules or regulations, or repealing or annulling the same or any of them in the whole or in part, or making any new rules or regulations for the management of such savings bank shall be from time to time provided; but such new rules or regulations, or such alterations in or amendments of former rules or regulations, or any order annulling or repealing any former rule or regulation in the whole or in part, shall not be in force until the same, respectively shall be entered in such book or books as aforesaid.

Every savings bank established or to be established under the provisions of the acts hereby repealed or this act shall be certified under the provisions of this Act by the title of "Savings Bank certified under the Act of 1863," and if any other bank, association, or company, or any other person, shall use or adopt such a title as their or his designation or in carrying on business, the members of every such association or company, or any of them, or any such person respectively, shall be guilty of a mis-demeanour, and on convictiou thereof, shall be punishable accordingly. No savings bank shall have the benefit of this Act unless in the rules and regulations for the management thereof, it shall be expressly provided.

1.—That no person or persons being treasurer, trustee, or manager of such savings bank, (or having any control in the management thereof,) shall derive any benefit from any deposit made in such savings bank, save only, and except such salaries and allowances, or other necessary expenses, as shall according to such rules and regulations be provided for the charges of managing such savings bank, and for remuneration to officers employed in the management thereof, exclusive of the treasurer or treasurers, &c., who shall directly or indirectly have any salary, allowance, profit, or benefit whatsoever therefrom beyond their actual expenses for the purposes of such savings bank.

2.—That no less than two persons, being either trustees, managers, or paid officers, appointed for that specific purpose, and where two only, except in the case of savings banks, which are open for more than six hours in every week, one such person to be a trustee or manager, be present on all occasions of public business, and be parties to every transaction of deposit and repayment, so as to form at least a double cheque on every such transaction with depositors.

3.—That the depositor's pass-book shall be compared with the ledger on every transaction of repayment, and on its first production at the bank after each 20th of November.

4.—That every depositor in a savings bank established under this Act, shall, once at least, in every year, cause his deposit book to be produced at the office of the said savings bank, for the purpose of being examined.

5.—That no money be received from, or paid to depositors, except at the office or branch offices, where the business of the savings bank is carried on under the authority of the board of managers, and during the usual hours for public business.

6.—That a public accountant, or one or more auditors be appointed by the trustees and managers, but not one out of their own body, to examine the books of the bank, and to report in writing to the board or committee of management the result of such audit, not less than once in every half-year, also to examine an extracted list of the depositors' balances made up every year to the 20th of November, and to certify as to the correct amount of the liabilities and assets of the bank.

7.—That a book containing such list of every depositor's balance, omitting the name, but giving the distinctive number and separate amount of each, and shewing the aggregate number and amount of the whole, checked and certified, be open at any time during the hours of public business for the inspection of every depositor, as respects his own account, to examine his own deposit book therewith.

8.—That the trustees and managers, or committee of management, shall hold meetings once in every half-year, and keep minutes of their proceedings in a separate book provided for that purpose.

9.—Provided that where savings banks are established with agents elsewhere than at the head office, the rules shall provide for the receipt of and accounting for all monies by such agents on account of such savings banks respectively.

The trustees and managers of every savings bank shall transmit weekly returns to the commissioners for the reduction of the national debt, shewing the amounts of the week's transactions, and the amount of the cash balances remaining in the hands of the treasurer, or any other person on account of such savings bank.

Every treasurer, actuary, or cashier, who shall be intrusted with the receipt or custody of any sum of money, and every officer or other person receiving any salary or allowance for his services from the funds of any savings bank, shall give good and sufficient security for the just and faithful execution of such office or trust; and such security shall be given by bond or bonds with one or more sureties to the Comptroller of the National Debt Office.

If any actuary, cashier, secretary, officer, or other person, holding any situation in any savings bank shall receive any sum or sums of money from, or on account of any depositor or persons desirous of becoming such, or on account of such savings bank, and shall not forthwith, or in the case of local receivers acting on behalf of any savings bank within the time specified in the rules of the said savings bank, duly account for and pay over the same to the trustees or managers thereof, or to such person as may be directed by the rules of the said savings bank, such actuary, cashier, secretary, officer, or local receiver, or other person as aforesaid, on being convicted thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

Every person who shall have or receive any part of the monies of or belonging to any savings bank, or who shall be intrusted with the disposition thereof, or of any securities or property relating to the same, his executors, administrators, and assigns, shall, upon demand give in his or their account or accounts to the trustees or managers, or to such other person or persons as shall be nominated to receive the same, to be examined, and shall on like demand pay over all the monies remaining in his or their hands and deliver all securities and property in his or their hands to such persons as the trustees or managers shall appoint, and in case of neglect or refusal, it shall lawful to and for the trustee or trustees of such savings bank to exhibit a petition to the Justices of the Peace, at their general quarter sessions of the peace, who shall and may proceed thereupon in a summary way, and make such order therein, which order shall be final and conclusive.

There are 68 sections in this Act; the principal ones we here give; the remainder we are compelled to omit for want of space.

An Act to amend the Law respecting the Liability of Innkeepers, and to prevent Frauds upon them.

1.—No innkeeper shall, after the passing of this Act, be liable to make good to any guest of such innkeeper, any loss of, or injury to goods or property brought to his inn, not being a horse or other live animal, ar any gear appertaining thereto, or any carriage, to a greater amount than the sum of 30*l*., except in the following cases, that is to say.—1—Where such goods shall have been stolen, lost, or injured through the wilful act, default, or neglect of such innkeeper or any servant in his employ. 2—Where such goods or property shall have been deposited expressly for safe custody with such innkeeper,—provided always, that in the case of such deposit it shall be lawful for such innkeeper, if he think fit, to require as a condition of his liability, that such goods or property shall be deposited in a box or other receptacle, fastened and sealed by the person depositing the same.

2.—If any innkeeper shall refuse to receive for safe custody, as before mentioned, any goods or property of his guest, or if any such guest shall through any default of such innkeeper, be unable to deposit such goods or property as aforesaid, such innkeeper shall not be entitled to the benefit of this Act in respect of such goods or property.

3.—Every innkeeper shall cause at least one copy of the 1st section of this Act, printed in plain type, to be exhibited in a conspicious part of the hall or entrance to his inn, and he shall be entitled to the benefit of this Act in respect of such goods or property only as shall be brought to his inn while such copy shall be so exhibited.

4.—The words and expressions hereinafter contained, which in their ordinary signification have a more confined or a different meaning shall, in this Act, except where the nature of the provision or the context of the Act shall exclude such construction, be interpreted as follows: that is to say, the word "inn" shall mean any hotel, inn, tavern, public-house, or other place of refreshment, the keeper of which is now by law responsible for the goods and property of his guests, and the word "innkeeper," shall mean the keeper of any such place.

An Act to amend the Law in certain cases of mis-appropriation by Servants of the property of their Masters.

1.—If any servant shall, contrary to the orders of his master, take from his possession any corn, or other food for the purpose of giving the same or of having the same given to any horse or other animal belonging to or in the possession of his master; the servant so offending shall not by reason thereof he deemed guilty of or proceeded against for felony, but shall, on conviction of such offence before two justices, either be imprisoned with or without hard labour for any term not exceeding three months, or shall forfeit and pay a penalty not exceeding the sum of 5*l*., and if such penalty shall not be paid within such period as the said justices shall at the time of the conviction appoint, the servant so offending shall be imprisoned with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding three months, unless such penalty be sooner paid.

Provided always, that if the said justices be of opinion that the same is too trifling, they shall have power to dismiss the charge. Provided also, that if upon the the trial of any servant for feloniously taking from his master any corn or other food consumable by horses, &c., such servant shall allege that he took the same under such circumstances as would constitue an offence punishable under this Act, and shall satisfy the jury charged with his trial, then it shall be lawful for such jury to return a verdict accordingly; and thereupon the Court shall proceed to award such punishment as may be awarded by two justices of the peace; and also, that in case of non-payment of any penalty, such servant shall be imprisoned with or without hard labour for any term not exceeding three months.

2.—Provided always, that if any person shall think himself aggrieved by any conviction, such person may appeal to the next Court of General Quarter Sessions, to be holden not less than twelve days after the day of conviction, and such person shall give notice in writing of such appeal, within three days after such conviction, and seven clear days, at least, before such sessions, and shall either remain in custody or enter into a recognizance with two sufficient sureties conditioned personally to appear at the said sessions, and to try such appeal, and to pay such costs as shall be by the Court awarded, or if such appeal shall be against any conviction, whereby only a penalty, with or without costs, is adjudged to be paid, shall deposit with the clerk of the convicting justices such a sum as such justices shall deem to be sufficient to cover the penalty and costs, if any, so adjudged to be paid, and the costs of the appeal; provided that the right of appeal against any conviction under this Act shall not apply so as to enable any person to appeal against any verdict of a jury, as aforesaid.

3.—No such conviction, or adjudication made on appeal therefrom, shall be quashed for want of form, or be removed by certiorari into any of Her Majesty's superior courts of record; and no warrant of commitment shall be held void by reason of any defect therein, provided it be therein alleged that the party has been convicted, and there be a good and valid conviction to sustain the same.

4.—Every offence under this Act may be prosecuted, and every conviction under this Act may be enforced in the manner directed by the Act, 11 and 12 Vict., c. 43; and all provisions contained in the said Act shall, unless repugnant to any of the provisions of this Act, be applicable to such prosecution and conviction, in the same manner as if they were incorporated in this Act; provided that nothing in this Act contained shall in any manner alter or affect any enactments relating to proceedure in the case of any offence punishable on summary conviction within the City of London or the Metropolitan police district, or the recovery or application of any penalty for any such offence.

LIST OF FAIRS.

ORIGIN OF FAIRS—When bishops and abbots observed that crowds of people assembled to celebrate the festivals of their patron saints, they applied to the crown for charters to hold fairs at those times, for the accommodation of strangers, and with a view to increase their own revenues by the tolls which their charters authorised them to levy at these fairs. Hence the multitude of attendants increased, some of whom were actuated by religious, and others by commercial views

PRACTICAL RECEIPTS.

Varnished Furniture.

This may be finished off so as to look equal to the best French Polished wood, in the following manner:—Take two ounces of tripoli, powdered; put it into an earthen pot, with just enough water to cover it; then take a piece of white flannel, lay it over a piece of cork or rubber and proceed to polish the varnish, always wetting it with the tripoli and water. It will be known when the process is finished, by wiping a part of the work with a sponge, and observing whether there is a fair even gloss. When this is the case, take a bit of mutton suet and fine flour, and clean the work. The above process is suitable to other varnished surfaces.

To remove Spots of Grease from Printed Books.

The spot should be moistened with a camel-hair pencil, dipped in rectified spirits of turpentine; when it is dry, moisten it with a little spirits of wine, which will effectually remove any stain the turpentine may have left.

Ginger Cakes.

Rub a quarter of a pound of butter into half-a-pound of flour, mix one egg, three ounces of powdered loaf sugar, and half an ounce of ground ginger, with the butter and flour, and make them altogether into a paste; roll it out a quarter of an inch thick, and cut it into round cakes, about two or three inches across; bake them in a warm oven, on iron plates.

To clean Articles of Embroidery.

Gold and silver fancy work of this description may be easiest cleaned with a little spirit of wine, either alone, or diluted with an equal weight of water. The common practice of using alkaline or acidulous liquors is very injurious, and frequently destroys the the beauty of the articles instead of cleaning them.

To Angle for Jack or Pike.

The most easy method of taking Jack is with a live bait; for which purpose you should have rather a stout hickory rod, twelve feet in length, with a plain winch, forty yards of stout eight-plait line, cork float, fine gimp hook, No. 4. Bait with a middle-sized gudgeon; the best way of baiting your hook is by passing it under the back fin, which should be carefully done, or your bait will not live long; when you have a run, allow the Jack ten minutes to pouch, or you will most likely loose him.

THE SURFEIT.—This disorder proceeds from keeping the birds in a dirty state, and from neglecting to keep them well supplied with good food, gravel, and water; or from sudden change of diet; either from a poor to a luxurious and richer kind of food, or from being fed on unwholesome food, such as bad seed, unripe green meat, &c. This distemper spreads itself in small scabs, particularly about their heads; the humour issuing from them so sharp as to eat off the feathers from the whole of the head. When this disorder is first perceived, wash the bird's head in a strong solution of common salt and spring water, and rub it quite dry with a piece of soft muslin; then rub on a little clean fat with your finger; repeat the solution and ointment every morning for a week or so; this will kill the disorder, and most probably bring on the feathers, it will kill the disorder at all events, and as for the feathers, whether they come on immediately, or not until their next moult, is only a secondary consideration;—it will be of no injury to the bird, although of unpleasant appearance. During this disorder they require cooling diet; give them grits, boiled bread and milk, with a little sugar in it. Care must be observed not to let it stand above five or six hours, as it is apt in hot weather to turn sour, and kill the birds instead of curing them. Give also, occasionally, some rapeseed, carrot seed, and lettuce seed; a little seeded groundsel, plantain, or chick-weed, and a little stick liquorice in thin slices in their water.

THE PIP.—All birds have a small projection on their rumps, from which they extract with their bills, a kind of oily substance, essential for them to dress and keep their feathers smooth and sleek. Many persons, on seeing this natural prominency, think the bird has got the pip, and with a pin they hastily make an incision, and force out that which is of the utmost service to the bird; through this error many a poor bird has been killed. The pip does sometimes make its appearance, and may be known, being a large bladder of matter formed round this projection, very much inflamed and abounding with humour some considerable space round their natural projection. When this is found to be the case, give them some cooling diet (as above), and that will in a few days, most likely reduce the inflammation; but if it does not, you may pass a needle just through the surface of the inflamed skin, and with the same instrument gently press out the matter: then drop a little fine pounded sugar on the place, and it will require no further surgical operation; but will, most probably complete a safe and speedy cure, without applying anything else.

Sausage Rolls.

Get some nice pork chops, cut the meat from the bones, or take two-thirds of lean free from gristle, and one-third fat, chop the meat very fine, and season it well with pepper, salt, and spices, add a small quantity of sage, or basil, use a little water in chopping the meat, or else a little soaked bread. Roll out some paste into square pieces, lay a roll of meat in the centre, lengthways; fold them so as to make long puffs, and wash them with egg before they are baked.

French Polish with Naptha.

Naptha, one quart; shellac, six ounces; sandarac, two ounces. Powder the gums, and mix the same as with spirits of wine. To be used in the ordinary way, and cleared off with pure naptha.

A Cheap Hash of Calf's Head.

Take the flesh from the bones of a cold boiled head, and put it aside until wanted; take about three pints of the liquor in which it was cooked; break the bones, and stew them down with a small bunch of savoury herbs, a carrot, or two should they be small, a little carefully fried onion, four cloves, a dozen corns of pepper, and either a slice or two of lean unboiled ham, or the bone of a boiled one, quite cleared of flesh, well bruised and broken, and freed carefully from any of the smoked outsides. If neither of these can be had, from half to a whole pound of neck of beef should be stewed with the bones, or the whole will be insipid in flavour. When the liquid is reduced nearly half, strain it, take off the fat, thicken it with a little well-made roux, or, if more convenient, with flour and butter, stirred into it, when it boils, mixed with a little spice, mushroom catsup, and a small quantity of lemon pickle. Heat the meat slowly in the sauce when it is ready, but do not allow it to boil. The gravy should be well seasoned.

To Angle for Roach.

In angling for Roach, you will meet with very little success unless you are extremely particular in choosing your tackle of the finest possible texture; therefore select a light stiff cane rod, eighteen feet in length, twisted hair line, with a single length next the hook, fine tip-capped patent quil float, and single hair short shank hook, No. 11; let your line be of such a length that the top of the rod will not be above ten to twelve inches from the float, or you will miss a fine bite. The Young Angler may use a fine single gut line, which will be stronger, but he will not meet with such good success. Bait with salmon roe, paste, small red worms, or live gentles; let your bait touch the bottom. The Thames, Lea, East and West India Docks, are well stored with Roach; fine Roach are also taken at Drayton and Rickmansworth.

Razor Paste.

Prepared putty-powder, one ounce; powdered oxalic acid, a quarter of an ounce; powdered gum, twenty grains; make it into a stiff paste with water, and evenly and thinly spread it over the strop. With very little friction, this paste gives a fine edge to the razor, and its efficiency is still further increased by moistening it.

Substitute for Cream.

Beat two eggs, one ounce of sugar, and a small piece of butter, with a pint of warm milk; then put it into hot water and stir it one way, until it acquires the consistence of cream; or, instead of eggs, as above, use a spoonful of arrow-root, first beaten with a little cold milk.

Dentifrice.

Put half a drachm of tincture of myrrh on to half an ounce of powdered borax; rub them well together, and then dissolve the mixture in a quarter of a pint of boiled water. Wet a brush with this mixture, with which clean the teeth every night before going to rest.

Apple Marmalade.

Peel and core two pounds of subacid apples, and put them in an enamelled sauce-pan with one pint of sweet cider, or half a pint of pure wine, and one pound of crushed sugar, and cook them by a gentle heat three hours or longer, until the fruit is very soft, and then squeeze it, first through a colander, and then through a sieve. If not sufficiently sweet, add powdered sugar to suit your taste, and put away in jars made air-tight with a piece of wet bladder. It is delicious when eaten with cream or milk.

Bottling Fruits.

Burn a match in a bottle to exhaust the air; then place in the fruit to be preserved quite dry, and without blemish; sprinkle sugar between each layer; put in the bung and tie bladder over, setting the bottles bung downward in a large stewpan of cold water. When the skin is just cracking take them out. All preserves require exclusion from the air; place a piece of paper dipped in sweet oil over the fruit; prepare thin paper immersed in gum-water, and while wet press it over and around the top of the jar; as it dries it will become quite firm and tight.

Remedy for Tooth Ache.

A remedy for this distressing complaint, in such repute, is a solution of camphor in oil of turpentine— a fluid ounce of the latter will dissolve two drachms of the former.

Orange Wine.

To make nine gallons, take eleven gallons of soft water, in which boil the whites of thirty eggs; take two hundred of the finest ripe oranges, and forty lemons, or about thirty Seville oranges, should they be preferred to the lemons. Lump sugar, thirty pounds. Pare the fruit as thin as possible, and upon the parings pour the water, boiling. Upon this juice, having stood ten or twelve hours, and being strained, run the expressed juice of the oranges and lemons, adding the sugar. If required, ferment with half a pint of yeast four or five days, when the wine may be casked, and from one gallon to a gallon and a half of French brandy be added, when the fermentation subsides. Some substitute sherry, but it is inferior to brandy, and gives an alien flavour to orange wine. Bung down closely, but watch the process of fermentation. In six months it will be perfectly fine, this wine being less liable to remain turbid than any of our other wines. By the directions already given, a wine from any fruit may be made, observing, that the more sugar is used, the longer time it will require to complete the vinous fermentation.

To Clean French Kid Gloves.

Put the gloves on your hands and wash them, as if you were washing your hands, in some spirits of turpentine, until quite clean; then hang them up in a warm place, or where there is a current of air, and all smell of the turpentine will be removed.

Remedy against the Bites and Stings of Insects, Reptiles, &c.

Wash the part with water of ammonia, or solution of chloride of lime. Should considerable inflammation ensue, and the part become much swollen, leeches may be applied, and a purgative given. In cases where the stings of venomous reptiles are of a very poisonous description, the wound should be first well washed with water of ammonia, and afterwards thoroughly seared with lunar caustic in every part, especially the interior and deep-seated portions; or the surface of the wound, both internal or external, may be removed with the knife; or, in the case of a small joint, the injured portion may be at once amputated. A similar line of treatment should be followed after the bite of a dog supposed to be mad.

To Make Rhubarb Wine.

Trim off the leaves, and grind and press the stalks in any cider mill. To each gallon of juice add one gallon of water and six pounds of refined sugar, and fill the casks, leaving the bung out. A moderately cool cellar is the best place in which to keep it. Fill up occasionally either with juice kept on purpose, or with sweetened water, so that the impurities, which rise to the surface while fermentation is going on, may be worked off. When sufficiently fermented, which will require from one to two, or more, months, bung tightly, and let it remain till winter, when it may be packed off into other casks or bottles. Some persons refine it before bottling, by putting into each barrel two ounces of isinglass dissolved in a quart of water.

To Clean Canary Birds.

These pretty birds are often covered with vermin, but they may be effectually relieved of them by placing a clean white cloth over their cages at night. In the morning the cloth will be covered with small red spots, so small as hardly to be seen, except by the aid of a glass; these are the vermin, that are a source of great annoyance to the birds.

Fish Sauce.

A pint of port wine, a quarter of a pint of vinegar, twelve anchovies, a small quantity of pepper, one nutmeg (grated), a few cloves, a quarter of an ounce of mace, a little horse-radish and lemon-peel, one onion, a bunch of thyme and parsley. Let all simmer together over a slow fire, until the anchovies are dissolved. Strain it through a sieve, and bottle it when cold. When you wish the sauce served with the fish to be extremely rich and good, put as much of the above mixture as you would of water into the butter when melting, omitting the water altogether.

To Clean Woollen Goods.

One ounce of pulverised borax and half an ounce of gum camphor put into one quart of boiling water, and bottled for use, will be found invaluable for removing grease spots or dirt from all woollen goods.

Transferring Prints to Glass, Wood, &c.

When you are desirous of transferring a steel, copper‘ or lithographic print to glass, the first operation is to coat the glass with dilute lac or clear copal varnish. The print is then moistened with water, and while the varnish remains sticky, the paper is placed on the glass with the print side upon the varnish; it is then pressed gently to make it adhere. Several folds of white paper are now placed upon the back of the print, also a board with a light weight thereon to keep the print and varnish in contact till both are dry. After this the paper is moistened and rubbed off gently with the fingers, when the ink composing the print is left adhering to the glass. The several parts of the print may then be painted with appropriate colours and then finished with a ground coat over all. Prints may be transferred to wood in a like manner. The common mode of transferring prints to wooden blocks, for engraving, is to immerse a print for a short period in a solution of potash, then place it upon the block and press it. The potash softens the ink on the paper of the print, and when placed upon the block of wood and pressed, the impression is made is made in the same manner as printing in the usual way. Prints are transferred thus to stones for lithographic printing; also to plates of zinc for printing in a lithographic press.

Cheap and Wholesome Pickles.

Take a jar with a close lid or bung, and half fill it with the best vinegar; then, as spare vegetables of any description come to hand, such as small beans, cauliflowers, radish pods, young cucumbers, onions, &c., throw them in, taking care, as the jar fills, that there is sufficient vinegar to cover the vegetables. When nearly full, add mustard seeds, bruised ginger, shallots, whole pepper, &c., to taste. Tie down tightly and place the jar in a vessel of water, over the fire, or in a slow oven, until the articles are sufficiently soft to suit the palate. In this manner good wholesome pickles can be made at only the expense of the vinegar and spice, and with the least possible amount of trouble. Of course, if the various kinds of vegetables are wished to be kept distinct, such may be done.

To Keep Damsons.

Put them in small stone jars, or wide-mouthed glass bottles, and set them up to their necks in a kettle of cold water; set it over the fire to become boiling hot; then take it off, and let the bottles remain until the water is cold; the next day fill the bottles with cold water, and cork and seal them. These may be used the same as fresh fruit. Greengages may also be done in this way.

Damson Jelly.

Put any number of ripe damsons into a stone jar, and one-third the quantity of bullaces into another, and either bake them in a slow oven, or boil them in a pan of water until the juice is extracted. Pour off the juice clear from the fruit, strain and weigh it; boil it quickly without sugar for twenty-five minutes, draw it from the fire, stir into it ten ounces of good sugar for each pound of juice, and boil it quickly for six to ten minutes longer, carefully clearing off all the scum. The jelly must be often stirred before the sugar is added, and constantly afterwards.

Tolu Lozenges, for Coughs.

Fine sugar, eight ounces; cream of tartar, one ounce; starch, two drachms; tincture of balsam of tolu, one drachm. Bring to a proper consistency, and form into lozenges, by means of a sufficient quantity of mucilage of gum tragacanth.

Cutaneous Eruptions.

The following mixture is very useful in all cases of cutaneous eruptions:—Ipecacuanha wine, 4 drachms; flowers of sulphur, two drachms; tincture of cardamom, one ounce. Mix. One teaspoonful to be taken 3 times a day, in a wine-glassful of water.

A Good Tooth Powder.

Mix together half-an-ounce of finely ground charcoal with one and a half ounce of prepared chalk.

To Clean Silver-plated Articles.

White metal articles electro-plated with silver are now very common, and great care is required in cleaning them when tarnished. No powder must be used for this purpose which has the least grit in it, or the silver will be scratched and soon worn off. The finest impalpable whitening should be employed with a little soft water in removing the tarnish. The articles are next washed with rain water, dried and polished with a piece of soft leather, some rouge powder or fine whitening, and then finally rubbed down with the hand, which forms a most excellent polisher.

Waterproof Composition for Boots and Shoes.

Boiled oil, half a pint; oil of turpentine, black resin, and bees' wax, of each one ounce and a half. Melt the wax and resin, then stir in the oil, remove the pot from the fire, and when it has cooled a little, add the turpentine.

To make beautiful cheap Green Paint.

Take four pounds of Roman vitriol, and pour on it boiling water; when dissolved, add two pounds of pearlash, and stir the mixture well with a stick until the effervescence ceases: then add a quarter of a pound of pulverized yellow arsenic, and stir the whole together. This paint will cost less than one-fourth of oil colour, and the beauty is far superior.

To preserve Fruits in Sugar.

This is done by simply packing them in it, previously reduced to a state of powder, and keeping them in a very cool situation. The more succulent varieties are commonly first soaked in weak alum-water for a few hours to harden them, then drained and dried.

THE WEATHER. January comes in with moderately fine weather, for this generally cold month, the air is rather dry and clear, with the wind from the westerly part, for there will be little tendency to blow from other points. As the month advances the temperature will get lower, and an increase of moisture in the atmosphere will take place. About the 18th or 19th days it will be very cold, but after that to the end of the month, fine winter weather may be looked for. High tides at the new moon of this month.

The Grimsby Packet leaves Grimsby, about 4 hours before high water at Hull; leaves Hull, for Grimsby, a little before high water. The Packets for Gainsborough, Selby, Leeds, Thorne, Doncaster, Sheffield, York, Goole, &c., leave Hull from 2 to 3 hours before high water.

THE WEATHER. The fine, dry winter weather which took place at the latter part of the last month still continues, and although February is generally considered a wet month, we rather expect that the present will be an exception. The wind is still more inclined to blow from the westerly parts than from any other quarter, and little downfal may be expected until after the 20th day; and even then the atmosphere is more inclined to dryness than otherwise. High Tides again at the new moon may be looked for.

1865. MARCH XXXI Days.

First Quarter, 4th day. 0h. 19m. afternoon.
Full Moon, 12th day, 10h. 42m. morning.
Last Quarter, 20th day, 0h. 36m. afternoon.
New Moon, 27th day, 5h. 28m. morning.

THE WEATHER. The quantity of moisture in the atmosphere is on the increase; the Barometer is getting lower, and more downfal may be expected, which will continue more or less until the middle of the month. Afterwards the Barometer rises, and the air gets dryer, but during the whole month the wind will be changeable, sometimes blowing from the east and north-east points, but on the whole the weather may be considered fine for March. High tides at the new moon of this month, being equinoctial tides.

THE WEATHER. The quantity of moisture in the atmosphere is considerable, and the downfal in proportion. The temperatore of the air is rather low, and when the wind gets to blow from the east it will be very unpleasant weather. The temperature will be low in the middle of the month, but after that the quantity of moisture will be diminished, and the weather rather cloudy and heavy, but on the whole east winds will not be prevalent, as they usually are in this month.

THE WEATHER. There is a small quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, but the weather is more inclined to be fine than otherwise, with moderately pleasant winds; indeed, it appears that the present May will be much finer than we have had it for some years, and the fine weather will continue with little interruption through the whole of the month.

THE WEATHER. June comes in with fine dry weather, and mostly a clear air. The Barometer keeps high and steady, with the wind most commonly from the western parts, although for some days we may have it from the easterly parts during which time the atmosphere will be more heavy and cloudy, but during the whole month fine weather will be the most general, with very little downfal. About the 21st and 22nd days we may have a little rain, but not of long continuance.

THE WEATHER. There is not a great deal of moisture in the atmosphere, and the weather is more inclined to be fine and dry than otherwise, indeed as the month advances the quantity of moisture is on the decrease, with the wind more from the western parts than from any other quarter; after the 11th day there will be little rain to the extreme end of the month.

THE WEATHER. The weather will be more unsettled this month than it was in July. Wind often from the south-west with storms of rain and thunder. After the 6th day the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere will considerably increase, with a many heavy clouds flying about. Storms of thunder and lightning will be most common in many places about the 17th or 18th days of the month, and some damage to cattle may be done by them.

THE WEATHER. The weather for this month will be generally fine, with a great deal of wind from the westerly points. There is not much moisture in the atmosphere, and the barometer for the most part high and fixed, therefore only a very small quantity of rain must be expected. The temperature will be mild, and the whole month inclined to be finer than we have had September for some year past.

THE WEATHER. The quantity of moisture in the atmosphere is rather on the increase, and although we may have a fair share of west wind, some downfal may be expected, but no very great quantity before the latter part of the month, by which time the quantity of moisture will have considerably increased, and November fogs with rain will not be very uncommon. High tides at the full moon of this month.

THE WEATHER. November comes in with a large quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, and rain, with dense fogs, may be expected; and as the wind will be very much inclined to blow from the north-west, the temperature of the air will be low and unpleasant, and more so towards the latter part of the month. High tides again at the full moon of this month, at which time, if the wind be from the north-west they will produce some damage.

THE WEATHER. Moisture in the atmosphere continues in excess. and rain or snow may be expected, as the month advances the air will get a little dryer, but still the weather will not be very fine, for heavy clouds and dull weather will more commonly prevail. than any other, aud although it may not be considered so very bad for the cold month of December, it will not be very agreeable.

ECLIPSES, &c.

In the year 1865 there will be four Eclipses, two of the Sun and two of the Moon.

The first is a partial eclipse of the Moon on April 11th. The following are the times for Hull:

	H.	M.	S.
First contact with the Penumbra .	2	1	24	morning.
First contact with the Dark Shadow	3	44	6	,,
Middle of the Eclipse	4	37	40	,,

Moon sets immediately after the middle of the eclipse. Digits eclipsed 2¼ on the north limb.

The second is a total eclipse of the Sun on April the 25th, but invisible in those parts of the world, being only visible to the South of Afriea and in South America.

The third is a partial eclipse of the Moon on October the 4th, the following are the times for Hull:

	H.	M.	S.
First contact with the Penumbra .	8	24	44	afternoon.
First contact with the Dark Shadow	9	37	52	,,
Middle of the eclipse	10	38	24	,,
Last contact with the Dark Shadow	11	39	16	,,
End of the eclipse	12	52	34	,,

Digits eclipsed 4, or not more than ⅓ of the disc on the south limb.

The fourth is an annular eclipse of the Sun, and partly visible in those parts, taking place on the afternoon of October the 19th.

Beginning of the eclipse at Hull 4H. 10M. 34s. afternoon.

Sun sets at 4m. past 5 o'clock, or about 1m. before the greatest phase, which in those parts will not be four digits. The line of the central eclipse will pass over Cape Verd in Africa, and Charles Town in North America.

The beautiful planet Venus will be an evening star from January 1st until May 6th, then a morning star to the end of the year.

Jupiter will be a morning star from January 1st until June 14th, then an evening star to the end of the year.

The planet Venus will be in the best situation for viewing with the telescope during the early months of the year, in the evenings after sunset.

The planet Jupiter, with his belts and moons, will be in the most favourable position for telescope observation during the months of May, June, and July, and the planet Saturn, with his rings and moons, during the months of March, April, and May.

DR. HERSCHELL'S WEATHER TABLE,

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weathe will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.
2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.
3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of theMoon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.
4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.
5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.
6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

GARDENERS' CALENDAR.

JANUARY.—Prepare for all sowing and planting. If this had been done in December, it would have been better; the ground is now generally too moist for putting seed in. If you choose to sow peas, though it is not a good practise, sow them early enough.

FEBRUARY.—Prepare your ground for onions; soot, or common kennel-muck (or sludge, as it is called in some places,) is the best manure for them. Sow carrot and spinach seed. If you have any cauliflower plants under frames, draw the glasses down whenever the weather is open and mild.

MARCH.—Sow asparagus, celery, cauliflowers, brussels sprouts, beets, brocoli, spinage, onions, dutch turnips, peas, beans, savoys, parsnips, and turnip radishes. Plant sea-kale, kidney-beans, and cauliflowers from frames. Graft fruit trees, &c

APRIL.—Prick and plant out all the cabbage kind. All carrots, parsnips, beets, &c., may now be sown. Prepare your ground for planting out cucumber plants. Plant slips and cuttings of kitchen herbs.

MAY.—Sow capsicums, cauliflowers, carrots, lettuces, spinage, cucumbers, peas, red beet for pickling, and kidney and french beans. Transplant cabbages, winter greens, lettuces, cauliflowers, and celery.

JUNE.—Sow beans, peas, cucumbers for pickling, radishes, spinach, cabbages, endive, carrots, brocoli and borecole; kidney-beans once a fortnight; lettuce and small salad once in ten days.

JULY.—Sow turnips, french beans, lettuces, and black spanish radishes. Plant out brocoli, cauliflowers, savoys, leeks, and winter cabbages, and earth up celery. Gather medicinal flowers and sweet herbs, &c.

AUGUST.—A variety of esculent vegetables must be sown at this time for the autumn and winter crops. Plant young seedlings; hoe and earth round cauliflowers, Propagate aromatic plants, &c., by parting the roots.

SEPTEMBER.—Sow vegetable seeds for a spring crop, and plant cauliflowers, brocoli, savoys, german greens, leeks, lettuce, celery, and perennial and aromatic pot herbs. Hoe winter spinach and turnips, earth up celery, weed cauliflowers and young onions; prick out cabbage plants.

OCTOBER.—Plant cabbages, endive, brocoli, &c. Sow small salad, radishes, and lettuce; a few mazagan beans and hotspur peas to stand the winter. Tie up endive and earth up celery and cardoons.

NOVEMBER.—Force sea cale, rhubarb, and asparagus. Prune and plant fruit trees. Transplant seeding stocks, and suckers taken from the roots of pear, codlin, plum, and quince trees, to prepare them for budding or grafting different fruits upon. Shelter choice flowers.

DECEMBER.—Tie up endive, cardoons, and white beet. Take up edible and full-grown vegetables with esculent leaves, and plant the latter in sand, in an open shed for use

Thirteen Princes of Wales.

ON Sunday, the ninth of November, 1862, his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales arrived at the mature age of twenty-one, and completed the three times seven which fulfil the mystical number of years of discretion. A few months afterwards, he took to wife a German-Danish Princess.

He is the thirteenth English Prince of Wales. Of his predecessors, only four held the title when they came of age, so this is only the fifth of such coming-of-ages known to English history. Of the four who thus came of age as Princes of Wales, three came to the throne. Four of the princes married, and of these only one made a Princess of Wales a queen.

In the fourteenth century, Edward the Black Prince, first Prince of Wales, died, aged 46, in the life-time of his father. In him, England saw the first celebration of a marriage of a Prince of Wales—the genuine love-match celebrated 501 years ago with the bright, hearty and merry countess, his cousin Joan, the Fair Maid of Kent, daughter and heiress of the Earl of Kent, whom Mortimer had put to death.

Edward the Third died so soon after his eldest son, that Richard, his 11-year-old grandson and successor, never took his brother's title of Prince of Wales. Henry the Fourth of Lancaster, having seized the throne, conferred next on his eldest son—Falstaff's sweet Hal—the rank of Prince of Wales, the second of the name. Hal became king before he was of age, and married as a king, not while a prince. His son, Henry the Sixth, was proclaimed king while yet in his swaddling-clothes, only 9 months old, and he was never Prince of Wales. The third of the Princes of Wales was Edward the Fifth, who began to reign at the age of 13, and in the days of whose princedom there was for himself neither coming of age nor marriage. Richard the Third, of course, never was Prince of Wales, but the title was given by him to his son Edward, who died in infancy. That was the fourth prince; the fifth was Arthur, son of King Henry the 7th. This Prince of Wales did not survive to years of discretion, nor did he live to attain the throne, but he was the second Prince of Wales who married. At 15 years of age, he became the husband of the Spanish Infanta, Katherine of Aragon. There was a great festival in London. Five months afterwards, the boy was dead. His brother Henry, then aged 12, succeeded him as Prince of Wales; and it was arranged for him that when he attained the age of 15, he should succeed, by marriage, to his brother's widow. He did not marry her until a few weeks after attaining the throne, at the age of 18: so there was neither coming of age nor wedding when Henry the 8th was Prince of Wales, and he was the fifth who bore the title.

Henry's son, Edward the Sixth, came as a boy to the throne, and is said never to have been created Prince of Wales. Then followed Mary, Elizabeth, and James the first, whose son Henry (the sixth Prince of Wales) died before coming of age, and while his probable marriage was but matter of discussion. His brother Charles was the seventh of this broken line of princes. He came of age while Prince of Wales, and signed as prince the marriage contract with Henrietta Maria, renewing his signature after he became king at the age of twenty-five, he was Charles the First before she actually came to him as wife.

The next Prince of Wales was detained from the throne by the Commonwealth; when he came of age he had just been crowned by the Scots at Scone, and was near the end of his vain struggle against Cromwell. He became king at thirty, and it was as king that he married Catherine of Portugal.

Thus, after the time of the Commonwealth, we have no formally created Prince of Wales until the reign of George the First, when his son, became George the Second, received that rank, being more than 30 years of age before he held it, when he had been already married for ten years. So in the days also of his princedom there was neither coming of age nor marriage.

The next prince, the tenth in the list, was Frederick the eldest son of George the Second. Frederick first came to England after his father's accession, and his own creation as Prince of Wales, when he was already just of age. His coming of age, therefore, was no matter of public interest, but there was celebration in abundance of his marriage, eight or nine years later, with the Princess Augusta of Saxe Gotha. Frederick died before his father; and his son by his marriage, afterwards George the Third, was the next—the eleventh—Prince of Wales, who became king at the age of eighteen.

The next and the last of the departed princes of this rank was he who became George the Fourth. As prince he came of age, and as prince, also, he married—twice. He was first married to Mrs. Fitzherbert, and afterwards to Caroline of Brunswick. She was the only Princess of Wales.

Clearly there can be no good precedent of English rejoicings at the coming of age of a Prince of Wales. For, the only precedents are to be found in the troubled youth of Charles the First, in Charles the Second's day's of exile, in the coming of age of Frederick, the eldest son of George the Second—which took place at about the time of his arrival in this country as Prince of Wales, just after the accession of a father jealous of his son—and in the days of Prince George, who became George the Fourth. This prince furnishes, in fact, in the whole course of our history the solitary precedent of anything whatever having been done publicly to meet the occasion. He came of age on the 12th of August, 1783: on which day the king and queen received the compliments of the nobilty. Early in the year, the king's message had been conveyed to both Houses of Parliament for the prince's seperate establishment, and 100,000 pounds were voted for that purpose. The actual day of the coming of age was celebrated only by the festivity of private bodies of friends. Having been made knight of the Garter, he entered the House of Lords in his collar and robes, introduced by a cerimonious procession, his coronet carried before him on a crimson velvet cushion, and he himself carrying his writ of summons, supported by his uncle, the Duke of Cumberland, and the Dukes of Richmond and Portland. The writ and patent as Prince of Wales having been delivered with due ceremony, his royal highness was conducted to his chair on the right hand of throne, whence his majesty, who was there seated, delivered a speech and retired. The prince then took the the oath of allegiance and supremacy, and made and ascribed the oath of abjuration. Ten days later, the Prince of Wales was, by his majesty's command, introduced into the privy council, where he took his place at the upper end of the board, at his majesty's right.

THE REV. ROWLAND HILL.

It was his habit to ride to chapel in an old family carriage, a practice too aristocratic in the judgment of one of his flock, who determined to rebuke it. It was customary in his chapel for notes to be sent to the pulpit, requesting prayers for various objects; and one sabbath, Mr. Hill was proceeding with the reading of these requests as usual, when he found himself in the midst of one to the following purport: "Prayers are requested for Rev. Mr. Hill, that he may be more humble and like his Divine Master, who, instead of riding in a carriage, was content to be borne on an ass." Having read the notice, he lifted his spectacles to his forehead,and looking around the chapel, observed that it was quite true that he had been guilty of the fault alleged; but if the writer would step round to the vestry door after service, saddled and bridled, he would have no objection to ride home, after his Master's example, on the back of an ass.

ABSTRACTS OF IMPORTANT

Acts of Parliament passed last Session.

Charitable Assurances Enrolment Act, 27th Vict., cap. 3.

1.—The enrolment of every deed, assurance, and instrument which shall be enrolled before the 17th of May, 1866, shall have the same force and effect as if such enrolment had taken place within the time limited by the 24th and 25th Vict., cap. 9, and 25th and 26th Vict., cap. 17.

2.—This act shall apply as well to separate deeds or instruments, which may have been executed before the passing of the said first act; provided only, that if not already executed, it be executed within six calendar months next after the passing of this act.

3.—And whereas it may be impossible in some cases to enrol the original deed, creating a charitable trust by reason of the same having been lost or destroyed by time or accident, but nevertheless the trusts of such charity may sufficiently appear in some subsequent deed; be it enacted that it shall be lawful for any trustee or other person interested in such charitable trust, to apply by summons to the Court of Chancery for an order authorising the enrolment of such subsequent deed; and if the Court shall be satisfied, by affidavit or otherwise, that such original deed has been lost or destroyed, by time or accident, but that the trusts sufficiently appear of such subsequent deed, then it shall be lawful for the Court to make an order authorising the enrolment of such subsequent deed; and the enrolment thereof shall have the same force as the enrolment of the original deed.

4.—Every full and bona fide valuable consideration, payable as rent, shall be equivalent to a consideration of money, actually paid with the statute, 9 Geo. 2, c. 36.

Banking Co-partnership's Act, 27th and 28th Vict., cap. 32. 30th June, 1864.

From and after the passing of this act, every banking co-partnership registered and carrying on business under the statute 7 Geo. 4, cap. 46, and entitled to issue there own bank notes under the 7th and 8th Vict., cap. 32, which shall discontinue the issue of such bank notes, and shall afterwards commence and carry on the business of bankers in or within 65 miles of London, shall have the same powers and privileges of sueing and being sued in the name of any one of the public officers of such co-partnership, as the nominal plaintiff, petitioner, and defendant, on behalf of such co-partnership; and all judgments, decrees, and orders may be enforced in like manner as is provided by the first aforesaid act; provided that nothing in this act empower any co-partnership to carry on the business of bankers in London or within 65 miles therefrom, in any case where by the existing law they are not authorised so to do.

An Act for the Regulation of Chimney Sweepers, 27th and 28th Vict., cap. 37. 30th June, 1864.

2.—This act shall commence and take effect on the 1st November, 1864.

3.—In this act, the term "sheriff," includes stewart. The term "chimney sweeper," means a person using the trade or business of a chimney sweeper.

4.—This act shall be construed together with the 3rd and 4th Vict., cap. 85, as one act.

PROTECTION OF CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS.

6.—It shall not be lawful for a chimney sweeper to employ a child under the age of ten years to do or assist in doing any work or thing in or about the trade or business of such chimney sweeper, elsewhere than within the house or place of business of such chimney sweeper, or the yard or buildings (if any) connected therewith.

7.—It shall not be lawful for a chimney sweeper, on any occasion of his entering a house or building for the purpose of sweeping a chimney, to cause or knowingly allow a person under the age of sixteen years in his employment or control to enter such house or building, or be therein for any part of the time such chimney sweeper himself continues therein.

8.—If any chimney sweeper acts in contravention of either of the foregoing enactments, he shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10.

9.—In any prosecution of a chimney sweeper for any offence against the principal act or against this act, where the age of any young person or child comes in question, the proof of the age of such young person shall be on the defendant.

An Act for the further Regulating the Closing of Public Houses and Refreshment Houses, 27th and 28th Vict., cap. 64. 25th July, 1864.

1.—This act may be cited for all purposes as "The Public House Closing Act, 1864."

2.—This act shall be in force only within the limits of the Metropolitan Police District, the City of London and the liberties thereof, and such Corporate Borough and districts of Improvement Commissioners as adopt the same in pursuance of the powers herein given.

3.—Save as hereinafter mentioned, no licensed victualler within the limits of this act, shall sell or expose for sale, or open or keep any house, room, garden, or other place for the sale of or consumption of exciseable liquors or any article whatsoever between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock in the morning.

4.—Any person acting in contravention of this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, to be recovered in a summary manner as provided by the act.

5.—Nothing herein contained shall preclude a licensed victualler from selling exciseable liquors to or allow the same to be consumed by persons lodging in his house, or the keeper of a refreshment house from selling refreshments to or allowing the same to be consumed by persons lodging in his house, within the above mentioned hours.

6.—Nothing herein contained shall authorise a licensed victualler to sell exciseable liquors on any Sunday, Christmas-day, Good Friday, or day appointed for a public fast or thanksgiving, otherwise than during the times at which he is now authorised by law to sell the same, or authorise any other person to sell exciseable liquors, keep open any refreshment house, or sell refreshments otherwise than at the times and upon the conditions prescribed by the acts of parliament in that behalf made.

7.—A corporate borough or Board of Improvement Commissioners may adopt this act by a resolution of the Council or Board assembled at a meeting held for that purpose.

8.—This act shall come into operation in a corporate borough or district of Improvement Commissioners at the expiration of one month from the date of the passing of the resolution.

9.—Nothing herein contained shall apply to the sale at a railway station of exciseable liquors or refreshments between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock in the morning, to persons arriving at or departing from such station by railroad.

Burials Registration Act, 27*th and* 28*th Vict., cap.* 97. 29*th July* 1864.

1.—All burials in any burial ground in England which are not now by law required to be registered, shall be registered in register books to be provided for each burial ground by the company, body, or persons to whom the same belongs, and to be kept for that purpose according to the law then in force by which registers are required to be kept by rectors, vicars, or curates of parishes ecclesiastical districts in England.

2.—Such register books shall be so kept for every such burial ground by by some officer or person to be appointed to that duty by the company, body, or persons to whom such burial ground belongs.

3.—Copies of the register books under this act for every such burial ground, shall be from time to time made, verified, and signed by such officer or person as aforesaid, and sent by him to the registrar of the diocese wherein the burial ground to which the same relates is situate, to be kept with the copies of the register books of the parishes within such diocese.

4.—If any such company, body, or person, or any such officer or person as aforesaid, wilfully fail to comply with any of the provisions of this act, they or he shall be guilty of an offence against this act, and on summary conviction thereof before a justice of the peace, shall be liable for every such offence to a penalty not exceeding £5.

5.—The register books kept under this act, or copies thereof or extracts therefrom, shall be received in all Courts as evidence of the burials entered therein.

6.—In this act the term "burial ground," includes a vault or other place where any body is buried.

7.—This act may be cited as the "Registration of Burials Act, 1864."

Weights and Measures (Metric System) Act, 27*th and* 28*th Vict., cap.* 117. 29*th July*, 1864.

1.—This act may be cited as "The Metric Weights and Measures Act, 1864."

2.—Notwithstanding anything contained in any act of parliament to the contrary, no contract or dealing shall be deemed invalid or open to objection on the ground that the weights or measures expressed or referred to in such contract or dealing are weights and measures of the metric system, or on the ground the decimal sub-divisions of legal weights and measures, whether metric or otherwise, are used in such contract or dealing.

An Act for Regulating the Proving and Sale of Chain Cables and Anchors. 27*th and* 28*th Vict., cap.* 27. 23*rd June*, 1864.

After reciting that it is essential for the better security of lives and property afloat in sea-going ships, to make provisions for the proper testing of Chain Cables and Anchors: it is therefore enacted as follows:

1.—Any corporation, public body, or company may erect and maintain proving establishments, apparatus, and machinery suitable for the testing of Chain Cables, or Anchors, and may, notwithstanding the provisions of any previous act limiting the amount of money to be raised by such corporation, or public body, or company, raise money for that purpose by way of loan, secured by mortgage of such establishments, apparatus, and machinery, and of the income to be derived therefrom, or of other property of such corporation, public body, or company.

2.—The Lords of the Committee of Privy Council, hereafter in this act called the Board of Trade, may from time to time grant to any corporation, public body, or company, person or persons erecting any proving establishment, apparatus, and machinery suitable for the testing of Chain Cables or Anchors, license to test Chain Cables and Anchors under this Act, and the Board may suspend or revoke any license so granted, if the Board shall see occasion.

3.—The Board of Trade shall, as soon after the passing of this act as the services of an Inspector for the purposes of this act appear to them to be required, appoint a fit person to act as Inspector of proving establishments, apparatus, and machinery under this act.

4.—Every tester or corporation, public body, or company, person or persons to whom such licence shall be granted, shall, with all reasonable despatch, subject every Chain Cable or Anchor that shall be brought to the proving establishment of such tester, to the same tensile strain as that to which Chain Cables and Anchors respectively of similar size, weight, or description are or shall be subjected before being received for the use of Her Majesty's naval service, and shall stamp every five fathoms in length of every such Chain Cable, and every such Anchor, with a stamp or die to be provided for that purpose by the tester, and approved by the Board of Trade, denoting that such Chain Cable or Anchor has been proved, and which shall bear the mark of the tester.

5.—When any tester shall have tested and stamped any Chain Cable or Anchor, such tester shall, if requested by the person on whose application the same was tested, within one month after such testing, make out and deliver, free of charge, to such person a certificate of such testing.

6.—From and after the 1st day of July, 1865, it shall not be lawful for any maker of or dealer in Chain Cables or Anchors to sell or contract to sell for the use of any vessel, any Chain Cable whatever, or Anchor exceeding in weight 168 lbs., unless such Chain Cable or Anchor shall have been previously tested and duly stamped in accordance with the provisions of the act, under a penalty not exceeding £50.

7.—Nothing in this act shall affect any contracts which may be made by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty for the supply of any Chain Cables or Anchors to any of Her Majesty's dock yards or for the use of any of Her Majesty's ships.

8.—This act shall continue in force to the 1st of July, 1872, and no longer.

An Act to amend the Law relating to Nuisances on Turnpike Roads, 27th and 28th Vict., cap. 75. 29th July, 1864.

1.—Enacts, that it shall not be lawful for any person to erect or cause to be erected, or to use, any steam engine, gin, or other like machine, within the distance of twenty-five yards from any part of any turnpike road, unless such steam engine, gin, or other like engine, shall be within some house or other building, or behind some wall, fence, or screen, sufficient to conceal or screen the same from the road, so that the same may not be dangerous to passengers, horses, or cattle; and in case any person shall offend in any of the cases aforesaid, every such person so offending shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding £5, for every day during any part of which such steam engine, gin, or engine shall be permitted to continue, contrary to the provisions of this act; which said penalties shall be levied, recovered, and applied in such and the same manner as any penalty or forfeiture for any other offence on any turnpike road may be levied, recovered, and applied; but no penalty shall be incurred under this section in respect of any locomotive travelling according to law on any public railway, turnpike road, or other highway.

An Act for compensating the Families of Persons Killed by Accident, 27th and 28th Vict., cap. 95. 29th July, 1864.

By this act, after reciting that by an act 9 and 10 Vict., cap. 93, intituled "An Act for compensating the Families of persons killed by accident," it is amongst other things provided, that every such action as therein mentioned shall be for the benefit of the wife, husband, parent, and child of the person whose death shall have been so caused as therein mentioned, and shall be brought by and in the name of the executor or administrator of the person deceased.

1.—It is therefore enacted as follows:—If and so often as it shall happen at any time or times hereafter in any of the cases intended and provided for by the said act, that there shall be no executor or administrators of the person deceased, or that there being such executor or administrator no such action as in the said act mentioned shall within six calendar months after the death of such deceased person as therein mentioned have been brought by and in the name of his or her executor or administrator, then and in every such case such action may be brought by and in the name or names of all or any of the persons (if more than one) for whose benefit such action would have been, if it had been brought by and in the name of such executor or administrator; and every action so to be brought shall be for the benefit of the same person or persons, and shall be subject to the same regulation and proceedure, as nearly as may be, as if it was brought by and in the name of such executor or administrator.

2.—Reciting, that by the second section of the said act, it is provided that the jury may give such damages as they may think proportioned to the injury resulting from such death to the parties respectively for whom and whose benefit such action shall be brought; and the amount so recovered from the defendant shall be divided between the before-mentioned parties in such shares as the jury shall (by their verdict) direct.

3.—This act and the said act shall be read together as one act.

An Act to prohibit the placing of Poisoned Flesh and Poisoned Matters in Plantations, Fields, and open places, and to extend "The Poisoned Grain Prohibition Act, 1863," 27th and 28th Victoria, cap. 115. 29th July, 1864.

It is enacted as follows:—

1.—This act may be cited for all purposes as "The Poisoned Flesh Prohibition Act, 1864."

2.—Every person who shall knowingly and willingly set, lay, put, or place, or cause to be set, laid, put, or placed in or upon any land, any flesh or meat which has been mixed with, or steeped in, or impregnated with poison or any poisonous ingredient so as to render such flesh or meat poisonous, or calculated to destroy life, shall, upon a summary conviction thereof, forfeit any sum not exceeding £10, to be recovered in the manner provided by "The Poisoned Grain Prohibition Act, 1863." Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent owners or occupiers of land, in Ireland, from laying or causing to be laid any poisonous matter, after a notice has been posted in a conspicuous place, and notice in writing has been given to the nearest Constabulary station.

3.—Nothing in this act shall make it unlawful for the occupier of any dwelling-house or other buildings, or the owner of any rick or stack of wheat, barley, oats, beans, peas, tares, seeds, or of any cultivated vegetable produce, to put, or place, or cause to be put or placed in any such dwelling-house or other building, or in any enclosed garden attached to such dwelling-house, or in the drains connected with any such dwelling-house, provided that such drains are so protected with gratings or otherwise, as to prevent any dog from entering the same, or within such rick or stack, any poison or poisonous ingredient or preparation for the destruction of rats, mice, or other small vermin.

4.—This act shall not apply to any grain, seed. or meal within the provisions of "The Poisoned Grain Prohibition Act, 1863," and the provisions of the 5th section of the said Poisoned Grain Prohibition Act, 1863, shall apply to any proceedings instituted under this act, and shall come into operation on the 1st of October, 1864.

The Small Government Annuities Act. 27th and 28th Vict., cap. 43.

By this act, after reciting that under the act 16th and 17th Vict., cap. 45, deferred annuities of small amounts can only be granted upon the condition that the full amount required to purchase such annuities shall be paid in one sum, or by annual payments during a course of years fixed at the time of purchase. And that under the 6th act contracts for payment of a sum of money on death cannot be entered into except upon a condition that the party contracting for such payment on death shall at the same time purchaee a deferred annuity, depending upon his or her own life; and that it is expedient to amend the said act.

It is therefore enacted as follows:—

1.—Deferred annuities, authorized to be granted by the 2nd section of the said act, and may be granted upon the condition, to be fixed at the time of purchase, that the sum required under the said act to purchase such annuity shall be payable in smaller instalments and at shorter periods than are now fixed by the said act.

2.—Annuities authorized to be granted under the 2nd section of the said act may be granted in amounts exceeding the limit of £30, fixed by the said act, but no such annuity shall be granted to any one person to an amount exceeding £50 per annum.

3.—No contract for a payment on death shall be entered into by or on behalf of any person under the age of sixteen or over the age of sixty years.

4.—In case any person who shall contract under the provisions of the said act, and of this act, for a payment to be made after death, after having paid the several premiums for a period of not less than five years, shall desire to surrender his policy, or shall make default in the payments stipulated to be made according to the contract, the Commissioners for the reduction of the national debt, at the option of the party beneficially interested in the contract, shall pay to such person such sum of money, not being less than one-third of the premiums paid by him, or shall grant to him such a paid-up policy of assurance, or such an immediate or deferred life annuity, under the tables in force under the authority of the said act or this act, as shall be equivalent in value to the sum which under the provisions of this act would be paid to him in money; but it shall also be lawful for the said Commissioners, if they think fit, to enter into contracts for payments to be made at death, on the condition that no portion of the premiums paid are to be returnable; and no premiums shall be returned in pursuance of this section in respect of any contracts so to be made.

5.—The annual accounts of the Postmaster General and of the Commissioners for the reduction of the national debt to the 31st of December in each year, in respect to all monies received or invested under the authority of this act, shall annually be submitted for examination and audit to the Commissioners for auditing public accounts.

MARRIAGE LICENSES MAY BE OBTAINED OF

The Rev. J. H. Bromby, Charter-House-lane; Rev. R. K. Bailey, Parsonage, adjoining St. Paul's Church; Mr. Hewson, North Church-side; Mr. Hudson, Manor-alley, Lowgate; Mr. Wreghitt, opposite St. Paul's Church; and Mr. Bradbury, Charles-street.

LIST OF FAIRS.

ORIGIN OF FAIRS—When bishops and abbots observed that crowds of people assembled to celebrate the festivals of their patron saints, they applied to the crown for charters to hold fairs at those times, for the accommodation of strangers, and with a view to increase their own revenues by the tolls which their charters authorised them to levy at these fairs. Hence the multitude of attendants increased, some of whom were actuated by religious, and others by commercial views

PRACTICAL RECEIPTS.

How to Sweep a Carpet.—Take a common washing tub, or some vessel large enough to admit a broom freely, and put in clean cold water to the depth of a foot or more. Then take a broom (one partly worn so as to be a little stiff is the best), dip it in six inches or so, and hold over the tub, or go out of doors, and knock off all the drops of water. This can be done most effectually by holding it in one hand and rapping it with the other on the broom, above where it is wet. Commence brushing lightly at first, going over with it the second time or more, and if your carpet is very dusty do not sweep more than a square yard or two before dipping your broom into the water again; this will rinse off all the particles of dust adhering to the broom. Rap off the drops of water, as before, and begin again, continuing to do so until the whole is cleaned. Should the water get very dirty before completing the room it can be changed. One who has never tried the experiment will probably be surprised at the quantity of dirt which will be washed from the broom into the water. A carpet can be cleaned more effectually in this way than it can possibly be done with a dry broom, as the particles of dust adhere to the broom, instead of rising to fall back on the carpet. There is no danger of injuring a fancy carpet, if the drops of water are thoroughly removed from the broom.

Cement for the Mouths of Corked Bottles.—Melt together a quarter of a pound of sealing wax, the same quantity of resin, and two ounces of beeswax. When it froths, stir with a tallow candle. As soon as it melts, dip the mouths of the bottles into it. This is an excellent thing to exclude the air from such things as are injured from being exposed to it.

To Preserve Gooseberries.—The rough reds are the only kind that should be used. First prick each gooseberry through with a coarse darning needle. Take six pounds of fruit and three pounds of loaf sugar, boil three-quarters of an hour, and skim well, till no more scum arises, and the fruit has a black shining look. This is an indication that the air-bubbles are expended, and as long as white froth arises, the fruit has not been sufficiently boiled. Turn the fruit hot into the jars, and, while hot, paste circles of paper large enough to cover the edge of each jar, and press them round the edges with the finger. Fruit thus treated will never require boiling over a second time.

Remedy against Moths.—One ounce of gum camphor, and one ounce of powdered red pepper, macerated in eight ounces of strong alcohol for several days, then strained. With this tincture the furs or cloths should be sprinkled over, and then rolled up in sheets.

To Clean Brass.—Rub the surface of the metal with rotten-stone and sweet oil, then rub off with a piece of cotton flannel and polish with soft leather. A solution of oxalic acid rubbed over tarnished brass with a cotton rag soon removes the tarnish, rendering the metal bright. The acid must be washed off with water, and the brass rubbed with whitening in powder and soft leather. When the acids are employed for removing the oxide from brass, the metal must be thoroughly washed afterwards, or it will tarnish in a few minutes after being exposed to the air. A mixture of muriatic acid and alum dissolved in water imparts a golden colour to brass articles that are steeped in it for a few seconds.

Rabbit Soup.—An old rabbit is the best for this soup, but it should be a fine one. Skin it and put it into a saucepan with two quarts of new milk, and one quart of water, a quarter of a pint of rice, and moderate-sized onions, which must be first sliced and fried. Season with salt, pepper, and mace, and let all simmer together for two hours. Take the rabbit out of the saucepan, strain the liquor into a clean bowl, and then rub the rice and onions through a hair sieve to thicken the soup. Cut the rabbit into pieces, and put only the best and whitest parts in. Warm all up together, and serve hot in a tureen.

To Write in Silver.—Mix one ounce of the finest pewter or block tin, and two of quicksilver together, till both become fluid, then grind it with gum water, and write with it. The writing will then look as if done with silver.

American Cemet.—Soak isinglass in water till soft, then dissolve it proof spirit; add a little galbanum, or gum ammoniac, and mix it with one fourth the quantity of tincture of mastic. It must be kept well stopped, and when wanted, liquified, by the phial being immersed in hot water; used to cement jewels upon watch cases; also to mend china, to replace leaves torn out of books.

Bronze for Brass.—One ounce of muriate of ammonia, half an ounce of alum, and a quarter of an ounce of arsenic, dissolved in a pint of strong vinegar, will make a good bronze for brass work.

Mulled Ginger Wine.—Boil to one wineglassful and a half of water, a quarter of an ounce of cinnamon, ginger slightly bruised, and cloves, with three ounces of fine sugar, until they form a thick syrup, which must not be allowed to burn. Pour in one pint of ginger wine, and stir it gently until it is on the point of boiling; then serve immediately. The yolks of four fresh eggs stirred into the hot mixture will, by some, be considered an improvement.

Mushroom Catsup.—Sprinkle mushroom flaps, gathered in September, with common salt, stir them occasionally for two or three days; then lightly squeeze out the juice and add to each gallon bruised cloves and mustard seed, of each half an ounce; bruised allspice, black pepper, and ginger, of each one ounce; gently heat to the boiling point in a covered vessel, macerate for fourteen days, and strain; should it exhibit any indications of change in a few weeks, bring it again to the boiling point, with a little more spice.

Fruit Jellies.—These are prepared, in some instances, by boiling the strained juice of the fruit mixed with half its weight of loaf sugar, until it jellies on cooling. The scum must be removed as it rises. A gentle heat is to be used, and the sugar added only when the juice is somewhat concentrated. Subjoined is a list of the principal fruit jellies:—Apple, barberry, cherry, currant, elderberry, gooseberry, lemon, orange, plum, quince, raspberry, and strawberry.

Walnut Catsup.—Beat 100 green walnuts in a marble mortar till they are completely broken, and then put them into a stone jar, with half a pound of eschalots cut in slices, one head of garlic, half a pound of salt, and two quarts of vinegar; allow them to stand for ten or twelve days, stirring them night and morning. Strain off the liquor and boil it for half an hour, adding two ounces of anchovies, two of whole pepper, half an ounce of cloves, and a quarter of an ounce of mace; skim it well, strain, and when perfectly cold, pour it gently from the sediment into small bottles. Secure from the air by sound corking, and store it in a dry place.

Elderberry Wine.—Strip the berries clean from the stalks, and put them into a tub; pour boiling water on them, in the proportion of two gallons to three of the berries, press them down into the liquor, and cover them closely. Let them remain in this state until the following day, when the juice must be strained from the fruit; then squeeze from the berries the juice remaining in them, and mix it with what was poured off at first. To every gallon of the juices add three pounds of sugar, one ounce of cloves, and one ounce of ginger; boil twenty minutes, keeping it thoroughly skimmed. While still hot put it into a cask, or large stone bottles; fill entirely, and set the wine immediately, with a large spoonful of new yeast put into the bung-hole, and stirred round in the liquor. To make this wine of superior quality the berries should be gathered on a dry day, and used fresh.

Sponge Cake.—Take five large eggs, break them one by one, separate the whites from the yolks, and beat the latter for ten minutes; then take the weight of five eggs in lump sugar finely crushed, put in the sugar gradually, and beat it well together. In the mean time have the whites whisked to quite a froth; add this to the yolks, and when they are well blended, have ready some flour (the weight of three eggs), which must be stirred into them very gently. Flavour it with the grated rind of one lemon; pour the cake into a mould that has been well buttered, and let it bake in a moderate oven for one hour. All the ingredients for a sponge cake must be of the very best quality, and the sugar and flour quite dry.

Blackberry Jam.—Boil the blackberries with half their weight of coarse moist sugar for three quarters of an hour, keeping the mass stirred constantly. A stewpan is not a necessary vehicle; the commonest tin saucepan will answer the purpose equally well. The cheapness of this homely delicacy, besides it senative properties renders it peculiarly desirable for scantily furnished tables. If the berries be gathered in wet weather, an hour will not be too long a time to boil them.

To Make Boots and Shoes Waterproof.—Mix together in a pipkin on the fire, two parts of tallow, to one of resin, and having warmed the shoes, apply it, melted, with a painter's brush, till they will not suck in any more; if well polished before applying the above mixture, they will polish afterwards.

To Boil Cherries.—To every pound of fruit add six ounces of powdered lump sugar. Fill the jars with fruit; shake the sugar over it, and tie each jar down with two bladders, as there is danger of one bursting during the boiling. Place the jars in a boiler of cold water, and after the water has boiled, let them remain three hours; take them out, and when cool, put them in a dry place, where they will keep for more than twelve months.

To Fatten Poultry.—The cheapest and most advantangeous food to use for fattening every description of poultry is ground oats. These must not be confounded with oatmeal, or with ordinary ground oats. The whole of the grain is ground to a fine powder; nothing of any kind is taken from it. When properly ground, one bushel of the meal will more effectually fatten poultry than a bushel and a half of any other meal. The greatest point in fattening poultry is to feed at day break.

Bleeding from Wounds.—A gentleman states that bleeding from a wound may be stopped by a mixture of flour and common salt, in equal parts, bound on with cloth. If the bleeding be profuse, use a large quantity, from one to three pints. It may be left for hours, or even days, if necessary. In this manner he saved the life of a horse, which was bleeding from a wounded artery; the flow ceased in five minutes after the application. It was left on three days, when it worked loose, was easily removed, and the wound was healed.

Cement to Mend Porcelain.—Melt wax and resin, and add very fine marble dust; put this, while still warm, between the broken parts, press them closely together and let it dry.

For a Sore Throat.—On retiring to rest, rub on the outside a little volatile liniment, and swallow slowly a few drops of paregoric, letting it dissolve in the saliva and spread along down the inflamed parts. The liniment is generally sufficient alone. Volatile liniment is simply a mixture of sweet oil and aqua ammonia (commonly called liquid hartshorn). These are put in a phial and shaken, using such proportions as to form a semi-liquid soap. A pennyworth or two can be got at the druggists, and if tightly corked it will keep for months. Rub it on with the fingers. We find nothing better than this for soreness of the chest or joints, or for lameness, stiff neck, &c.

To Make Lemonade.—Dissolve in a quart of water half a pound of loaf sugar, with two drachms of acetic acid and four ounces of tartaric acid; when cold, add two pennyworth of essence of lemons. One sixth of this mixture is to be put into each bottle; fill up with water; add thirty grains of carbonate of soda, and cork tightly.

Rheumatism.—Bathe the parts affected in which potatoes have been boiled, as hot as can be borne, just before going to bed; by the next morning the pain will be much relieved, if not totally removed. One application of this simple remedy has cured the most obstinate rheumatic pains.

Good and Cheap Vinegar.—Good vinegar may be made by adding three quarts of molasses to eight gallons of clear rain water, the same put into a good cask and well shook up a few times. Then put in two or three spoonfuls of good yeast. Place the cask, if in summer, out-doors, at the warmest side of the house; but if in winter, near the chimney, where it may be kept warm. In ten or fifteen days place in the liquor a sheet of brown paper, torn into strips, dipped into molasses, and good vinegar will be produced.

To Preserve Milk.—Use bottles, which must be perfectly clean, sweet, and dry; draw the milk from the cow into the bottles, and as they are filled, immediately cork them well up, and fasten the corks with pack thread or wire; then spread a little straw at the bottom of a boiler on which place the bottles, with straw between them, until the boiler contains a sufficient quantity. Fill up with cold water: heat the water, and as soon as it begins to boil, draw the fire, and let the whole gradually cool. When quite cold, take out the bottles, and pack them in sawdust in hampers, and stow them in the coollest part of the house. Milk preserved in this manner, and allowed to remain even eighteen months in the bottle, will be as sweet as when first milked from the cow.

To Restore the Colour of the Teeth.—Dissolve two ounces of borax in three pints of water; before quite cold, add thereto one teaspoonful of tincture of myrrh, and one tablespoonful of spirits of camphor. Bottle the mixture for use. One wineglass of the solution, added to half a pint of tepid water, is sufficient for each application. This solution, applied daily, preserves and beautifies the teeth, extirpates tartarous adhesion, produces a pearl-like whiteness, arrests decay, and induces a healthy action to the gums.

Baked Apple and Almond Pudding.—A quarter of a pound of sweet almonds and a quarter of a pound of loaf sugar; pound all well together, then add the well-beaten yolks of six eggs. Grate the peel of one lemon, add the juice of it and one table-spoonful of flour. Mix well all together; whip the whites of the six eggs to a stiff froth, and mix them with the other ingredients before baking. Pour the whole upon a thick layer of stewed apples already prepared in a baking tin, and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

The Queen of Puddings.—One pint of nice fine bread crumbs to one quart of milk, one cup of sugar, the yolks of four eggs beaten, the grated rind of a lemon, a piece of butter the size of an egg. Bake until done, but not watery. Whip the whites of the eggs stiff, and beat in a teacupful of sugar, in which has been stirred the juice of the lemon. Spread over the pudding a layer of jelly, or any sweetmeats you prefer. Pour the whites of the eggs over this, and replace in the oven and bake lightly. To be eaten with cream. Is second only to ice cream.

Apple Marmalade.—Peel and core two pounds subacid apples, and put them in an enamelled saucepan with one pint of sweet cider, or half a pint of pure wine, and one pound of crushed sugar, and cook them by a gentle heat three hours or longer, until the fruit is very soft, and then squeeze it, first through a collander and then through a sieve. If not sufficiently sweet, add powdered sugar to suit your taste, and put away in jars made air-tight with a piece of wet bladder. It is delicious when with cream or milk.

Cement for Attaching Metal to Glass or Porcelain.—Take two ounces of a thick solution of glue, and mix with one ounce of linseed-oil varnish, or three quarters of an ounce of Venice turpentine. Boil together, agitating until the mixture becomes as intimate as possible. The pieces cemented should be fastened together for the space of fifty or or sixty hours.

To Imitate Ground Glass.—Dab the glass over with a lump of glaziers' putty, carefully and uniformly, until the surface is equally covered. This is an excellent imitation of ground glass, and is not disturbed by rain or damp air. This is very useful for kitchen windows, for offices, glass doors, &c.

To Remove Ink Stains.—Procure a two ounce phial, put into it a pennyworth of oxallic acid, and fill it up with warm water; place on the stain a piece of white linen rag; shake the above solution, and then pour a few drops of it on the linen rag stretched on the stain. When the stain disappears, wash in clean water. Remember that oxalic acid is poison.

To Take out Mildew.—Mix soft soap with starch, powdered, half as much salt, and the juice of a lemon; lay it on the part on both sides with a painter's brush. Let it lie on the grass day and night till the stain comes out.

Scouring Drops, for Taking Grease Spots from Cloths, &c.—Spirits of turpentine, one ounce, scented with a few drops of essence of lemon.

To Clean Canary Birds.—These pretty things are, like meaner objects, often covered with vermin, and may be effectually relieved of them by placing a clean white cloth over their cage at night. In the morning it will be covered with small red spots, so small as hardly to be seen, except by the aid of a glass; these are the vermin, a source of great annoyance to the birds.

Musk Soap.—Take four ounces of dried root of mallows in fine powder, four ounces of rice powder, two ounces of oil of tartar, two ounces of oil of sweet almonds, six ounces of Florentine iris root, and one drachm of essence of musk. Blend the whole thoroughly, and make it up into stiff paste with orange flower water, then mould it into round balls or cakes.

Oatmeal Paste for Chapped Hands.—Take fresh lard, four ounces; honey, six ounces; oatmeal, six or eight ounces; three yokes of eggs; gum arabic, in powder, one ounce. Mix the honey and the gum first, then the eggs, next the lard, gradually incorporating it in small portions; finally add the oatmeal, to make the whole into a paste. With this preparation the skin may be washed precisely in the same way as with soap. Being entirely free from alkali, which all soap contains, it leaves the skin exceedingly soft and supple after its use, and tends to heal chapped hands by its mild, detersive qualities. In this respect it is superior to the famous Amadine.

To Take the Stains of Dye from the Hands.—Take a small quantity of oil of vitriol, and pour it into some cold water in a washhand basin, and wash your hands in it without soap. The dye will then come off. You may afterwards cleanse them completely in hot soap and water, taking care that all the acid is washed off before the soap is applied. If the vitriol water is not made very strong it will not injure the most delicate hands, nor leave any red, coarse appearance.

Chicken and Ham Patties.—Skin and mince very fine the white fleshy parts of cold chicken, and about half the same quantity of lean ham, or well flavoured tongue. Get some good gravy, seasoned with lemon-peel, a little grated nutmeg, white pepper, salt, and a little cayenne, with a lump of butter rolled in flour; and stir the mince in it till quite hot, then fill up your patties. Veal and ham patties may be made the same way.

Eel Pie.—Skin and clean your eels, cut them in pieces, laying aside the heads and tails. Season them with pepper and salt, and lay them in your dish with about half a tumbler of water; cover it with paste, and bake it about an hour. Some add a tablespoonful of lemon-juice, but it is not essential.

New Remedy for Headaches.—A doctor in Paris has just published a work describing a new remedy for headaches. He uses a mixture of ice and salt, in proportion of one to one half, as a cold mixture, and this he applies, by means of a little purse of silk gauze, with a rim of gutta percha to limited spots on the head, when rheumatic headaches are felt. It is said to give instantaneous relief. The skin is subjected to this process from half a minute to one and a half minutes, and is rendered hard and white by the application.

To Clean Gold Lace.—Take three quarters of an ounce of curd soap, and a piece of soda, the size of a small hazel nut; gently boil these in a pint of water, till the soap is all dissolved; wash the lace clean in this, and rince it well in clean water; then take two teaspoonfuls of turmeric, and one pint of water; let them simmer together over the fire for a quarter of an hour; then put the cleaned lace into it, and let it barely simmer for ten minutes longer; after this, take out the lace, rince it with cold water, shake it out, lay it beneath two or three folds of brown paper, and iron it between the paper with a warm iron. There is no method of preserving gold lace from tarnishing; for the small quantity of sulpher that is retained by the silver used in the manufacture of gold lace will, in the course of time, cause the gilt to become discoloured.

Oyster Ketchup.—Procure some fine fresh oysters, open sufficient to fill a pint measure; save the liquor, and scald the oysters in it, with a pint of good cider or pale ale. Strain the oysters, and put them into a mortar with three ounces of salt, a drachm of cayenne pepper, and two drachms of pounded mace. Pound the whole until reduced to a pulp, and then add it to the liquor in which they were scalded; boil it again five minutes, and skim it. Rub the whole carefully through a sieve; bottle and cork close when cold.

To cure Neuralgia.—Put half a drachm of sal ammonia in an ounce of camphor. Take a teaspoonful at a dose, and repeat the dose several times, at intervals of five minutes, if the pain be not relieved at once. Half a dozen different persons have tried the recipe, and in every case an immediate cure was effected.

THE WEATHER. January comes in with moderate weather for this generally cold month, but the wind will be variable producing sudden changes in the temperature yet never getting very severe. There will be a tolerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere but no great downfal will take place. It will be rather stormy about the tenth day, but not of very long continuance. High tides at the full moon of this month.

The Grimsby Packet leaves Grimsby, about 4 hours before high water at Hull; leaves Hull, for Grimsby, a little before high water. The Packets for Gainsborough, Selby, Leeds, Thorne, Doncaster, Sheffield, York, Goole, &c., leave Hull from 2 to 3 hours before high water.

THE WEATHER. There is a moderate quantity of moisture at the opening of this month but the temperature of the air will not be very low, as the month advances the temperature will get lower and by the 12th or 13th days the air will be very cold, after that time it will be more moderate, but on account of the moisture in the atmosphere not very pleasant weather is to be looked for in this month.

THE WEATHER. The air is full of moisture and downfal in some quantity must be looked for. Towards the end of the first week the air will get a little dryer, but the wind will be frequently changing from the north-west, round by the east, and as the wind will be so frequently changing the weather will as frequently change with it, indeed on the whole the weather for this month will be anything but agreeable, and towards the latter end of the month east and north-east winds will be very general.

THE WEATHER. This month comes in with a low temperature and cold east winds; shortly after the month begins, the quantity of moisture in the atmosphere considerably increases, and a large share of downfal may be looked for, which will continue, more or less, until the middle of the month, when the wind will keep more to the easterly points, and a cold, dryer air will be the effect of this. The end of the month will be a little brighter and finer, but on the whole it will be a cold and unpleasant month.

THE WEATHER. May comes in with tolerably fine weather, but the wind still inclines to blow from the east, and will continue to do so for some time which will keep the temperature of the air lower than it usually is in this month. The wind will occasionally be from the north-east when it will be very cold and unpleasant, it will also sometimes be from the south east when it may be a little more moderate, but on the whole May for this year will not be what may be called a fine month.

THE WEATHER. June comes in with the air much dryer than it was in the last month and the weather will be proportionately fine, but the wind will be changeable and inclined to blow from the north-east, which will cause unpleasant coldness in the air in this month, which ought to be one of the genial ones. The latter part of the month will be finer than the early part, and warm weather may be expected for the last few days. High tides at the new moon of this month.

THE WEATHER. July comes in with a considerable quantity of moisture in the air and therefore downfal may be looked for; the wind will be variable from the north-east, passing round by the north until it gets south-west, and then back again to the north and north-east points. There will be a short period of fine weather about the middle of the month, but on the whole the weather will not be favourable for the month of July. High Tides at the new moon of this month

THE WEATHER. There is still a quantity of moisture in the atmosphere and therefore some rain is to be expected, but the air will, before many days of the month have passed over, get dryer, and fine summer weather may be looked for, after the 11th or 12th day the wind will be more inclined to blow from the west, and with the west wind we shall have the weather fine and much dryer air, but we do not anticipate any hot weather during this present August

THE WEATHER. The quantity of moisture in the air is not very large, and fine September weather may be expected, with the wind from the west and south-west quarters; as the month advances the air will still get dryer and little rain must be expected until the extreme end of the month, when the moistnre in the atmosphere will be increased a little and showers in some places will take place, but those will only be partial and no where in any great quantity.

THE WEATHER. There is a considerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, and consequently dull November weather will prevail with the usual unpleasant fogs so common in this month, and for the present year they will be more common than usual, the temperature of the air will be low with the wind frequently from the north-west, and on the whole the weather for the present month will be anything but pleasant. High tides at the full moon of this month.

THE WEATHER. There is still a full share of moisture in the atmosphere but not so much as in the last month, but the air will be cold and winter weather begins to show itself. It appears that the temperature of the air will be low for the whole of the month, and therefore downfal will most likely be more in the form of snow than rain. High tides again at the full moon of this month. D

ECLIPSES, &c.

In the year 1867 there will be Four Eclipses; two of the sun and two of the moon.

The first is an Eclipse of the Sun on March 6th. The following are the times for Hull;

Beginning of the Eclipse March 6th.....8 h. 15m. 52s. morning.
Middle of the Eclipse ... .9 h. 21m. 28s. ,,
End of the Eclipse .....10h. 50m. 34s. ,,

Magnitude of the Eclipse 9 digits on the Sun's northern limb.

The second is a partial Eclipse of the Moon on March the 20th, but invisible iu these parts of the World.

The third is a total Eclipse of the Sun on August 29th, but invisible in those parts, being only visible to the south parts of South-America, and through the South Atlantic Ocean.

The fourth is a partial eclipse of the Moon on September 13th, and visible in this part of the World.

First contact with the Punumbra Sep. 13th..9 h. 41m. 58s. afternoon.
First contact with the Dark Shadow .....10h. 56m. 4s. ,, Middle of the Eclipse Sep. 14th.....0 h. 24m. 52s. morning
Last contact with the Dark Shadow .....1 h. 53m. 40s. ,,
Last contact with the Penumbra ....3 h. 7 m. 46s. ,,

Magnitude of the eclipse 8 digits on the Moon's northern limb.

The beautiful planet Venus will be a morning star from January 1st, until September 25th, and then an evening star to the end of the year; but she will be less conspicuous as a morning and evening star this year, then she has been for some time past.

Jupiter will be an evening star from January 1st, until February 3rd, then a morning star until August 26th, and then an evening star to the end of the year.

The planet Saturn will be in the best situation for observation with the Telescope during thr months of April, May, and June. The ring of Saturn is now opening very fast, and although the planet is n low signs, he will be a very beautiful object for the telescope, in those places where the observer can have a clear horizon.

The planet Jupiter will be in the best situation for observation in July, August, and September, but even in those months he will not be very well seen, on account of being in very low signs.

The planet Mars will be a very conspicuous object for the telescope at the early part of the year.

DR. HERSCHELL'S WEATHER TABLE,

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.
2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.
3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of theMoon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.
4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.
5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.
6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

GARDENERS' CALENDAR.

JANUARY.—Prepare for all sowing and planting. If this had been done in December, it would have been better; the ground is now generally too moist for putting seed in. If you choose to sow peas, though it is not a good practise, sow them early enough.

FEBRUARY.—Prepare your ground for onions; soot, or common kennel-muck (or sludge, as it is called in some places,) is the best manure for them. Sow carrot and spinach seed. If you have any cauliflower plants under frames, draw the glasses down whenever the weather is open and mild.

MARCH.—Sow asparagus, celery, cauliflowers, brussels sprouts, beets, brocoli, spinage, onions, dutch turnips, peas, beans, savoys, parsnips, and turnip radishes. Plant sea-kale, kidney-beans, and cauliflowers from frames. Graft fruit trees, &c

APRIL.—Prick and plant out all the cabbage kind. All carrots, parsnips, beets, &c., may now be sown. Prepare your ground for planting out cucumber plants. Plant slips and cuttings of kitchen herbs.

MAY.—Sow capsicums, cauliflowers, carrots, lettuces, spinage, cucumbers, peas, red beet for pickling, and kidney and french beans. Transplant cabbages, winter greens, lettuces, cauliflowers, and celery.

JUNE.—Sow beans, peas, cucumbers for pickling, radishes, spinach, cabbages, endive, carrots, brocoli and borecole; kidney-beans once a fortnight; lettuce and small salad once in ten days.

JULY.—Sow turnips, french beans, lettuces, and black spanish radishes. Plant out brocoli, cauliflowers, savoys, leeks, and winter cabbages, and earth up celery. Gather medicinal flowers and sweet herbs, &c.

AUGUST.—A variety of esculent vegetables must be sown at this time for the autumn and winter crops. Plant young seedlings; hoe and earth round cauliflowers, Propagate aromatic plants, &c., by parting the roots.

SEPTEMBER.—Sow vegetable seeds for a spring crop, and plant cauliflowers, brocoli, savoys, german greens, leeks, lettuce, celery, and perennial and aromatic pot herbs. Hoe winter spinach and turnips, earth up celery, weed cauliflowers and young onions; prick out cabbage plants.

OCTOBER.—Plant cabbages, endive, brocoli, &c. Sow small salad, radishes, and lettuce; a few mazagan beans and hotspur peas to stand the winter. Tie up endive and earth up celery and cardoons.

NOVEMBER.—Force sea cale, rhubarb, and asparagus. Prune and plant fruit trees. Transplant seeding stocks, and suckers taken from the roots of pear, codlin, plum, and quince trees, to prepare them for budding or grafting different fruits upon. Shelter choice flowers.

DECEMBER.—Tie up endive, cardoons, and white beet. Take up edible and full-grown vegetables with esculent leaves, and plant the latter in sand, in an open shed for use

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE MICROSCOPE.—When the oxy-hydrogen microscope was first exhibited in Edinburgh, a poor woman, whose riches would never retard her ascent to the kingdom above, took her seat in the lecture-room where the wonders of the instrument were shown, and which were for the first time to meet her sight. A piece of lace was magnified into a salmon net, a flea was metamorphosed into an Elephant, and other like marvels were performed before the eyes of the venerable dame, who sat in silent astonishment, staring open-mouthed at the disc. But when at length a milliner's needle was transformed into a poplar tree, and confronted her with its huge eye, she could 'hold in' no longer. 'My goodness!' she exclaimed, 'a camel could get through that ! There's some hope for the rich folk yet.

AN itinerant lecturer, abounding in self-conceit, so much so that he sometimes mistakes impertinent interrogations for wholesome enquiries, and makes them accordingly, one day saw a young man sitting before his door quietly smoking his cigar. 'Young man,' said he, in a severe tone, 'don't you know that he who uses tobacco is a fool?'—'Well,' replied the young man, mildly, 'it may be so; but there is another fact that you are not aware of, and which I wish to impress on your mind; that there are a great many fools who dont use it !' The phrenologist drew the inference and discontinued the conversation.

AN ILLUSION DISPELLED.—A lawyer built himself an office in the form of a hexagon, or six-square. The novelty of the structure attracted the attention of some Irishmen who were passing by; they made a full stop and examined the building very critically. The lawyer somewhat disgusted by their curiosity, lifted up the window, put out his head, and addressed them. 'What do you stand there for, like a pack of blockheads, gazing at my office? Do you take it for a church?'—'Sure,' said one of them, 'I was thinking so, till I saw the divil poke his head out of the windy!

BACHELORS, ATTENTION! The attention of bachelors is invited to the following 'wail;'—There are some sad sights in the world; a city sacked and burnt—a battle field after a great slaughter—a London in the midst of a plague—a ship burning at sea—a family pining in starvation—a jug of treacle upset upon the pavement. All bad, it is true. But, to us—the saddest sight of all, is an old bachelor, wearing towards the end of his journey of life, his great duties undone. Poor fellow! just look at him: his shirt buttons off—his stockings out at toes—not a son or daughter, not a relative to drop a tear, close his eyes in death, or leave his money to—nobody, in fact, to care for him—'shunn'd by saint an' sinner!' Were we such a man—or rather half of a man—the mild reproving eye of a widow or maiden lady would drive us mad! But there is still hope. Uglier and older men than any of our friends have married beautiful wives, who trained them admirably, and spent their money elegantly!

ABSTRACTS OF IMPORTANT

Acts of Parliament passed last Session.

29th Victoria, 1866.

Habeas Corpus Suspension Act, (Ireland.) 29*th Vict., cap.* 1. 17*th February,* 1866.

Whereas, a treasonable conspiracy now unfortunately exists in Ireland.

Therefore, for the better preservation of Her Majesty's most sacred Person, and for securing the Peace, the Laws, and liberties of this Kingdom, be it enacted, by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lord Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

1—That every person who shall be in prison in Ireland, at or on the day on which this act shall receive Her Majesty's royal assent, or after, by warrant of Her Majesty's Privy Council for Ireland, or the Lord Lieutenant, for High Treason, or Treason, Felony, or treasonable practices or suspicion for the same, may be detained in safe custody, without bail, until the 1st day of September, 1866, and that, no judge or justice of the Peace shall bail or try any such person or persons so committed, without order from Her Majesty's Privy Council.

2—In cases where any person or persons have been before the passing of this act, or shall be during the time this act shall continue in force, arrested, committed, or detained in custody by force of a warrant of Her Majesty's Privy Council for Ireland, or the Lord Lieutenant, or his chief Secretary, for High Treason, or Treason Felony, or treasonable practices or suspicion of High Treason, or Treason Felony, or treasonable practices, it shall be lawful for any person or persons to whom such warrant shall be directed, to detain such person or persons so arrested, or committed to his or their custody, in any place whatever in Ireland; and that such person or persons shall be taken to be lawfully authorized to detain in safe custody, and to be the lawful Gaolers and Keepers of such person so arrested, committed or detained; and it shall be lawful for the Privy Council, Lord Lieutenant, or chief Secretary, to change the person or persons by whom and the place in which such person or persons so arrested, shall be detained in safe custody.

The Cattle Diseases Prevention Act, 1866. 29*th Vict., cap.* 2. 20*th February,* 1866.

1—This Act shall be cited as "The Cattle Diseases Prevention Act, 1866."

2—Every local authority shall cause all animals affected with the Cattle Plague within its district, to be Slaughtered, and shall, by way of compensation for every animal so slaughtered, pay to the owner thereof, such sum not exceeding Twenty pounds, and not exceeding one half of the value of the animal immediately before it was affected with the Cattle Plague, as to such local authority may seem fit.

3—Every local authority shall cause every animal that has died of Cattle Plague, or has been Slaughtered in consequence of being affected with Cattle Plague within its district, to be buried as soon as possible, in its Skin in some proper place, and to be covered with a sufficient quantity of quicklime or other disinfectant, and with not less than six feet of earth. Every local authority shall, within its district, cause the Yard, Shed, Stable, Field, or other Premises, in which any animal affected with Cattle Plague has been kept while affected by the disease, or has died or been slaughtered, to be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, and all Hay, Straw, Litter, Dung, or other Articles that have been used, in or about any such animal to be burnt or otherwise destroyed; and no fresh animal shall be admitted into any Yard, Shed, Stable, Field, or other Premises, in which any Animal affected with Cattle Plague has been kept while affected by the Disease, or has died or been Slaughtered, until the expiration of thirty days after the cleansing and disinfecting of such premises in pursuance of this Act; and every local authority shall direct the disinfecting the clothes of, and the use of due precautions by Inspectors, Cattle Overseers, and others in contact with Animals affetced by the Cattle Plague, with a view to prevent the spreading of Contagion.

4—A local authority may, if it thinks fit, cause to be Slaughtered any Animal that has been in the same Shed or Stable, or in the Herd or Flock, or in contact with any Animal affected with Cattle Plague within its district; and the owner of any Animal so Slaughtered, may either dispose of the Carcase on his own account, or may require the local authority to dispose of the same, in which case, such local authority shall pay to the owner thereof, by way of compensation, such sum, not exceeding Twenty-five pounds, as may equal three fourths of the value of the Animal Slaughtered.

5—The local authority may require the value of any Animal Slaughtered under this act, to be ascertained by officers of the local authority—or by Arbitration, and generally may impose conditions as to evidence of the Slaughter, and value of the Animals Slaughtered. Provided that no compensation shall in any case be paid in respect of any Animal found affected with Cattle Plague in a Market, or on a Highway, or in respect of any Animal which has been moved or otherwise dealt with, in contravention of this Act, or any order of a local authority made in pursuance thereof.

6—All Cattle brought by Sea from any place in great Britain, or from any place or town in great Britain, shall be marked by Clipping the Hair off the end of the Tail, and no such Cattle shall be removed alive from such Town or place except by Sea.

7—Every local authority shall report to the Privy Council, the state of the Cattle Plague in their district, and give such other information with respect to the Cattle Plague, in such form and at such time, as the Privy Council may require.

8—If any person acts in contravention of any provisions of this Act contained, or any order made by a local authority in pursuance of this Act, he shall for each offence, incur a penalty not exceeding Twenty pounds, and where any such offence is committed with respect to more than four Animals, a penalty not exceeding Five pounds for each Animal may be imposed instead of the penalty of Twenty pounds.

9—Penalties under this Act, and expenses directed to be recovered in a summary manner, may be recovered before two Justices.

Jamaica Government Act. 29th Vict., cap. 12.

Whereas, two Acts were passed by the Legislature of Jamaica, during a Session held in the present year, whereby it was enacted,

1—That from and after the coming into operation of this Act, the Legislative Council and House of Assembly of Jamaica, and all and every the functions and privileges of those two bodies shall cease and determine.

2—In place of the legislature abolished, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty the Queen, to create and constitute a Government for Jamaica, in such form, as Her Majesty may best seem fitting.

Be it therefore enacted, that so much of the said recited Acts shall come into operation in the Island of Jamaic, so soon as the assent of Her Majesty in Council shall be proclaimed in the said Island.

The Parliamentary Oaths Act, 1866. 29 Vict., cap. 19. 30*th April*, 1866.

Whereas, it is expedient the one uniform oath should be taken by Members of both Houses of Parliament, on taking their seats in every Parliament.

Be it therefore enacted as follows :—

1—The oath to be made and subscribed by Members of both Houses of Parliament, on taking their seats in every Parliament, shall be in the form fotlowing.

" I, A. B., do swear, that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to " Her Majesty Queen Victoria ; and I do faithfully promise to maintain " and support the succession to the Crown, as the same stands limited
" and settled by virtue of the Act passed in the Reign of King William
" the Third, intituled " an Act for the further limitation of the Crown,
" and better securing the rights and liberties of the subject," and of the " subsequent Acts of Union with Scotland and Ireland. So help me God."

2—Where in the oath hereby appointed the name of Her present Majesty is expressed, the name of the Sovereign of this kingdom for the time being, shall be substituted from time to time with proper words of reference.

3—The oath hereby appointed, shall in every Parliament, be solemnly and publicly made and subscribed by every Member of the House of Peers, at the Table in the middle of the said House, before he takes his place in the said House, and whilst a full House of Peers is there with their Speaker in his place, and by every Member of the House of Commons at the Table in the middle of the said House, and whilst a full House of Commons is there duly sitting, with their Speaker in his Chair, at such hours and according to such regulations as each House may by its standing orders direct.

4—Every person of the persuasion of the people called Quakers, and every other person for the time being permitted to make a solemn Affirmation or Declaration, instead of taking an Oath, may, instead of taking the Oath hereby appointed, make and subscribe a solemn Affirmation in the form of the Oath hereby appointed, substituting the words "solemnly, sincerely, and truly declare and affirm," for the word "swear" and omitting the words "So help me God."

5—If any Member of the House of Peers votes by himself or his proxy in the House of Peers, or sits as a Peer during any debate in the said House without having made and subscribed the Oath hereby appointed, he shall for every such offence be subject to a penalty of Five Hundred Pounds, to be recovered by action in one of Her Majesty's Superior Courts at Westminster ; and if any Member of the House of Commons votes as such in the said House, or sits during any debate after the Speaker has been chosen, without having made and subscribed the Oath hereby appointed, he shall be subject to a like penalty for every such offence, and in addition to such penalty, his seat shall be vacated in the same manner as if he were dead.

Princess Helena's Annuity. 29*th Vict., cap.* 7. 23*rd March*, 1866.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

We, Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, in Parliament assembled, having taken into consideration Your Majesty's most Gracions Message, that Your Majesty has agreed to a Marriage proposed between Her Royal Highness the Princess Helena Augusta Victoria, and Prince Christian, of Schleswig Holstein—Sonderbourg—Augustenburg, do humbly beseech your Majesty that it may be enacted; and be it enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament asssmbled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1—It shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to grant unto Her Royal Highness the Princess Helena Augusta Victoria, or to such persons as Her Majesty thinks fit to be named in such Letters Patent in trust, or for the use of Her Royal Highness, an Annuity of Six Thousand Pounds, to be settled on Her Royal Highness for life, in such manner as Her Majesty thinks proper, such Annuity to commence from the date of the Marriage of Her Royal Highness, with Prince Christian aforesaid, to be free from all Taxes, Assessments and Charges, and to be paid quarterly, on the 5th day of January, the 5th day of April, the 5th day of July, and the 10th day of October.

2—The above Annuity shall be charged on, and payable out of the Consolidated Fund, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or the Growing Produce thereof.

Prince Alfred's Annuity. 29*th Vict., cap.* 8. 23*rd March,* 1866.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

We, Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, in Parliament assembled, having taken into consideration your Majesty's most Gracious Message, that Your Majesty is desirous of making competent provision for the honourable support and maintenance of your Majesty's second Son, His Royal Highness Prince Alfred Earnest Albert, on his coming of age, do most humbly beseech Your Majesty that it may be enacted; and be it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same.

1—It shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to grant unto His said Royal Highness, or to such persons as Her Majesty may think fit to name in the said Letters Patent, in trust for His said Royal Highness, and subject to such conditions as Her Majesty may direct, an annuity of Fifteen Thousand Pounds for His life, such Annuity to commence from the 6th day of August, 1865, the day on which His said Royal Highness came of age.

2—Provided that in the event of His said Royal Highness succeeding to any Sovereignty or Principality abroad, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty or Her Successors, with the consent of Parliament, to revoke or reduce the said Annuity by Warrant under the Sign Manual.

3—The Annuity granted in pursuance of this Act, shall, if Her Majesty think fit to direct, be a personal and inalienable provision, and the same shall be charged on, and payable out of the Consolidated Fund, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or the Growing Produce thereof.

Princess Mary of Cambridge's Annuity. 29*th and* 30*th Vict., cap.* 48. 28*th June,* 1866.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

We, Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, in Parliament assembled, having taken into consideration Your Majesty's Most Gracious Message, that Your Majesty has agreed to a Marriage proposed between Her Royal Highness the Princess Mary Adelaide Wilhelmina Elizabeth, and His Serene Highness Francis Paul Louis Alexander, Prince of Teck, do most humbly beseech your Majesty that it may be enacted, and be it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords, Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

1—It shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to grant to Her Royal Highness the Princess Mary Adelaide Wilhelmina Elizabeth, younger daughter of His late Royal Highness, the Duke of Cambridge, or to such persons as Her Majesty thinks fit to be named in such Letters Patent, in trust or for the use of Her Royal Highness, an Annuity of Two Thousand Pounds, to be settled on Her Royal Highness for life, in such manner as Her Majesty thinks proper, such Annuity to commence from the date of the Marriage of Her Royal Highness, with His Serene Highness Francis Paul Louis Alexander Prince of Teck aforesaid, to be free from all Taxes, Assessments and Charges, and to be paid quarterly, on the Fifth day of January, the Fifth day of April, the Fifth day of July, and the 10th day of October: the first payment to be made on such of the said quarterly days as happens next, after the said Marriage of such portion of the said Annuity as may have accrued between the date of such Marriage, and such quarterly day, and a proportionate part to be payable for the period from the last quarterly day of payment, to the day of the determination thereof.

2—The above Annuity shall be in addition to the Annuity now enjoyed by Her said Royal Highness, under the Act of the Session of the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Years of the Reign of Her present Majesty, chapter seventy-seven, and shall be charged on, and payable out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or the Growing produce thereof.

The Cattle Assurance Act, 1866. 29*th Vict., cap* 34. 11*th June*, 1866.

Whereas, it is expedient to give further facilities for the establishment of Societies for the Assurance of Cattle and other Animals, under the Friendly Societies Acts.

Be it therefore enacted,

1—Notwithstanding anything in the Act passed in the Session holden in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Years of Her Majesty, chapter sixty-three, entituled " an Act to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Friendly Societies," a Society may be established under the provisions of the said Act, for the Assurance to any amount against loss by Death of Neat Cattle, Sheep, Lambs, Swine, and Horses, from Disease or otherwise; and neither the provisions in section nine of the said Act, that no member shall subscribe or contract for a sum payable on death, or any other contingency exceeding Two Hundred Pounds, nor section thirty-eight of the said Act, shall apply to any such Society so established, or which may hereafter be so established for such purpose.

2—All Contributions, Premiums, and other Payments payable by any member of any such Society, under the Rules thereof, in respect of any assurance effected by him, shall be considered as a Debt due by him to the Society, and shall be recoverable as such in the County Court of the district, within which the usual or principal place of Business of the Society is situate, in Scotland, in the Sheriff's Court of the County, and in Ireland, before the Assistant Barrister, within his district.

Postmaster General. 29*th and* 30*th Vict., cap.* 55. 30*th July*, 1866.

Whereas, it has been considered that the office of Postmaster General is a "new office or place of profit under the Crown," according to the true intent of the Act passed in the sixth year of the Reign of Queen Anne, chapter seven, and that the person holding the same, is thereby incapacitated from sitting or voting as a Member of the House of Commons, and it is expedient that provision should be made for enabling the holder of the said office to sit in the House of Commons.

1—The office of Postmaster General shall not, after the passing of this Act, be deemed to be a new Office or Place of profit, within the meaning of the said Act of the sixth year of the Reign of Queen Anne, or such an office as disqualifies the holder thereof from being elected, or sitting or voting as a Member of the House of Commons; subject to the Proviso, that if a Member of the House of Commons accept the said office, he shall thereby, though eligible for re-election, vacate his seat, and a new writ shall be issued for an Election as if he were dead.

The Savings Bank Investment Act, 1866. 29 Vict., cap. 5.

Whereas, in pursuance of divers Acts of Parliament, the Investments made by the Commissioners for the reduction of the National Debt, of the Money's remitted to them on account of Ordinary Savings Banks, and Post-Office Savings Banks, consist in part of Capital Stocks of Annuities, standing in their names in the books of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, in two separate accounts, the one intituled "The account of the Fund for the Banks of Savings," and the other "The account of the Post-Office Savings Banks Fund;" and whereas, it is expedient to make further provision in relation to the said Investments.

Be it therefore enacted as follows:—

1—The Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may, if they think it advantageous to the public service, by warrant addressed to the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, direct them to cancel any amount the said Commissioners of the Treasury may think fit, not exceeding in the whole Two Million Five Hundred Thousand Pounds of the Capital Stocks of Annuities, standing on each of the said Savings Bank Accounts, and to substitute for the Stock so cancelled on each account, an Annuity terminable at the expiration of a period not exceeding thirty years, and equivalent in value to the amount of Stock cancelled, such value to be certified to the said Commissioners of the Treasury, under the hands of the Comptroller General, or Assistant Comptroller General, and of the Actuary of the National Debt Office, and to be ascertained according to the tables for the time being in force, in rotation to the grant of annuities by the Commissioners for the reduction of the National Debt under the Act, tenth, George the fourth, chapter twenty-four.

2—Upon the cancellation of any Capital Stock in pursuance of this Act, all dividends payable thereon, shall cease to be payable from and after the last day on which they were due, previously to such cancellation, and the terminable Annuity substituted for such Stock shall be chargeable upon, and payable out of the consolidated fund of the United Kingdom, or the growing produce thereof, in such proportions, and at such times as may be fixed by the warrant of the said Commissioners of the Treasury.

3—The Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may, from time to time, vary the periods at which payments are to be made from the Consolidated Fund to the Commissioners for the reduction of the National Debt, on account of any annual charges created by any act for the time being in force for Savings Banks and Post Office Savings Banks.

4—This Act may be cited for all purposes as the "Savings Bank Investment Act," 1866.

LIST OF FAIRS.

William Adams earnestly requests that Town Clerks, Clerks of the Markets, and others interested, will aid him in his endeavour to make this List as correct as possible; in doing so they will benefit alike themselves, the public, and the proprietor, who will gratefully receieve information of any error now existing in this part of his work, or of any event which may occur in future to render an alteration necessary.

William Adams begs to observe, that the sooner such assistance can be afforded him, prior to the next publication, the more advantageous it is likely to prove, as, from the large and increasing demand for his Almanack, he is obliged to put it early to press. No communication will be available, unless authenticated by the writer's name and address.

PRACTICAL RECEIPTS.

To kill Cockroaches.—A teacup full of well bruised plaster of Paris, mixed with double the quantity of oatmeal, to which add a little sugar (the latter is not essential), then strew it on the floor or in the chinks where they frequent.

Mixtures for Asthma.—Syrup of squills, 4 ounces; milk of gum ammoniacum, 6 ounces; wine of ipecacuhana, 2 ounces. Mix. The dose is a small teaspoonful four or five times daily. Expectorant. Infusion of gentian, 4 ounces; infusion of cascarilla, 6 ounces; simple syrup, 2 ounces. Mix. Dose, two tablespoonfuls three times a day. Tonic.

An Easy Method of Exterminating Rats and Mice.—Mix powdered nux vomica with oatmeal, and lay it in their haunts, observing proper precaution to prevent accidents. Another method is, to mix oatmeal with a little powdered phosphorus.

Tooth Powder.—Cream of tarter and chalk, of each half an ounce; myrrh, powdered, one drachm; orris root, powdered, half a drachm; powdered bark, two drachms. Mix all together, and rub down the mass in a mortar.

Cherry Brandy.—Procure some wide necked bottles, and fill them two-thirds with the cherries called "brandy black;" pour in sifted sugar to fill up about half the remaining space, and then as much French brandy as will cover the fruit. Cork securely; and let them stand two months before they are opened.

Excellent Ginger Wine.—Boil together, for half an hour, seven quarts of water; six pounds of sugar, two ounces of the best ginger bruised; and the rinds of three good sized lemons. When lukewarm, put the whole into a cask, with the juice of the lemons, and a quarter of a pound of sun raisins; add one spoonful of new yeast, and stir the wine every day for ten days. When the fermentation has ceased, add half an ounce of isinglass, and half a pint of brandy; bung close, and in about two months it will be fit to bottle.

Genuine Marking Ink.—Take one drachm of nitrate silver (lunar caustic), dissolve it in a glass mortar, in double its weight of pure water. This forms the ink. Then dissolve one drachm of salts of tartar in one ounce of water, in another vessel; this is the liquid with which the linen must be previously wetted, then allowed to dry, and afterwards to be written on.

Red Sealing Wax.—Shell-lac (very pale) four ounces; cautiously melt in a bright copper pan over a clear charcoal fire, and when fused add Venice turpentine, one and a quarter ounce; mix, and further add vermillion, three ounces; remove the pan from the fire, cool a little, weigh it into pieces, and roll them into circular sticks on a warm stone slab by means of a polished wooden block; or it may be poured into moulds whilst in a state of fusion.

French Polish.—Take one ounce each, mastic, sandarac, seed-lac, shell-lac, gum-lac, and gum-rabic; reduce to powder, and add a quarter of an ounce of virgin-wax; put the whole into a bottle, with one quart of spirits of wine; let it stand twelve hours, and it will be fit for use. To apply it, make a ball of cloth, and put on it occasionally a little of the polish; then wrap the ball in a piece of calico, which slightly touch with raw linseed-oil; rub the furniture (not hard) with a circular motion until a gloss is produced; finish in the same manner, but instead of all polish, use one-third polish to two-thirds spirits of wine;

Or, put into a glass bottle, one ounce of gum-lac, two drachms of mastic in drops, four drachms of sandarac, three ounces of shell-lac, and half an ounce of gum-dragon; reduce the whole to a powder; add to it a piece of camphor, the size of a nut, and pour on it eight ounces of spirits of wine; stop the bottle close, but take care when the gums are dissolving, that it is not more than half full; it may be placed by a gentle fire, or on a German stove; but a bath of hot sand is preferable, as avoiding all danger, the compound being so very apt to catch fire. Apply it as before.

Black Sealing Wax.—Shell-lac, sixty parts; ivory black, in an impalpable powder, thirty parts; Venice turpentine, twenty parts. (For mode of procedure see Red Sealing Wax.

To make Mushroom Spawn.—Take equal quantities of fresh horse and cow dung, and add to it 1-4th of that quantity of road-sand; mix them together, adding has much water as will make it into stiff mortar; turn it over several times, and beat it in the same way as a bricklayer would his mortar; then let it stand for a day or two, till it has become more firm, when it should be formed into bricks by means of a mould made 9 inches square by 3 inches deep, The brick so formed should then be placed on a south border, or some similar situation, to become dry, turning them over once a day, or once every other day, as they may require it. The time they will require to dry depends on the weather; but it will require a week of the hottest sunshine in summer to dry them sufficiently. After they have become dry, place them in a dry shed, flatwise two in width, in the same manner as building the foundation of a wall, when laid something like a dozen in length and two in width; lay a coat of mushroom spawn that is pounded nearly to dust all over them; then place another layer of bricks on the top of them, and so on, till you have six or seven layers of bricks and as many of mushroom spawn; then the whole should be covered over with hay or long litter to the thickness of 6 or 8 inches, beating it close to exclude the air as much as possible. It will require to be carefully watched to see that it does not get too hot, as the temperature should not be allowed to become more than 60 or 62 degrees. In case it should become too hot, some of the bricks must be removed and packed together in less quantities, which will soon rectify that evil. The bricks should remain this way until they have become well inpregnated with spawn, when it should be removed to some dry loft and kept till wanted. If it is kept dry it will keep good for years.

To Paint Magic Lantern Slides.—The colours used in painting, magic lantern slides, are those which are transparent, such as the lakes, sap-green, Prussian blue, distilled verdigris, gamboge, &c., ground in oil, and tempered with mastic varnish. Copal varnish may be used in the dark shades. Draw on paper the subject you intend to paint, and fix it at each end of the glass; trace the outlines of the design with a fine hair pencil in strong tints in their proper colours, and when these are dry, fill up in their proper tints; shade with black, bistre, and vandyke brown, as you find convenient.

Ginger Drops.—Beat two ounces of fresh candied orangerind in a mortar, with a little refined sugar, to a paste; then mix one ounce of powdered white ginger with one pound of sugar. Wet the sugar with a little water, and boil all together to a candy, and drop it on a marble slab.

Simple Method of Cleaning Silk.—Grate raw patatoes to a fine pulp in water, and pass the liquid matter through a coarse sieve into another vessel of water; let the mixture stand undisturbed until the fine white particles of potatoe are precipitated; then pour the mucilaginous liquor from the facula, and preserve it for use. The article to be cleaned should be spread upon a linen cloth upon the table, and washed with a sponge dipped in the potatoe liquor, until the dirt is perfectly separated; then rinsed in clear water several times. Two middle-sized potatoes will be sufficient for one pint of water.

Mixture for Destroying Flies—Infusion of quassia, one pint; brown sugar, four ounces; ground pepper, two ounces. To be well mixed together, and put in small yellow dishes when required.

Remedy for the Tooth-ache.—Take of alum, in powder, two drachms; spirits of nitre, seven drachms. Mix, and apply it to the teeth.

Gargle for relaxed sore-throat.—Cayenne pepper gargle, five ounces; infusion of roses, two ounces; syrup of roses, one ounce. Mix.

British Port Wine.—Juice of elderberries, three gallons; port wine, two gallons; cider, twelve gallons; brandy, one gallon; log-wood, half a pound, isinglass, five or six ounces, dissolved in one gallon of cider; bung it down. In about two months it will be fit to bottle; but should not be drunk under the twelvemonth.

 To make the above wine have a rough flavour, there should be added two ounces and a half of alum. If a crust be wished to be formed on the inside of the bottle, half a spoonful of finely-powdered cream of tartar should be added to each bottle before corking.

Prevention of Hydrophobia.—In some countries, instead of the common muzzle, which irritates the dog by keeping the mouth closed, and prevents drinking, the dogs wear a kind of nose-bag, strapped sufficiently tight to the head, which does not confine the mouth, but permits drinking. With this guard a dog cannot bite. The expense is very trifling.

Remedy for the Hooping Cough.—Take of powdered cantharides, powdered camphor, of each one scruple; extract of bark, three drachms. Rub these well together, and divide into powders of eight grains each. Dose—One every three or four hours. To be used only in advanced stages of the disease.

To make Ginger Beer.—Two gallons of ginger beer may be made as follows:—Put two gallons of cold water into a pot upon the fire; add to it two ounces of good ginger bruised, and two pounds of white or brown sugar. Let all this come to the boil, and continue boiling for about half an hour. Then skim the liquor and pour it into a jar or tub, along with one sliced lemon and half an ounce of cream of tartar. When nearly cold, put in a teacupful of yeast to cause the liquor to work. The beer is now made; and after it has worked for two days, strain it and bottle it for use. Tie down the cork firmly.

To prepare Clay for Grafting.—Take a quantity of good clay, and mix it with some new horse and cow-dung, and a little straw cut small, and beat it well to make it tough.

To prevent Mildew on all sorts of Trees.—The best preventive against mildew is to keep the plant subject to it occasionally syringed with a decoction of elder leaves, which will prevent the fungus growing on them.

To restore the growth of Hair.—Mix equal parts of olive oil and spirits of rosemary, add a few drops of oil of nutmeg, and anoint the head very sparingly before going to bed.

French Polish for Boots and Shoes.— Logwood chips, half a pound; glue, a quarter of a pound; indigo, pounded very fine, a quarter of an ounce; soft soap, a quarter of an ounce; isinglass, a quarter of an ounce. Boil these ingredients in two pints of vinegar and one of water during ten minutes after ebullition; then strain the liquid. When cold it is fit for use.

 To apply the French polish, the dirt must be washed from the boots or shoes; when these are quite dry the liquid polish is put on with a bit of sponge.

To Varnish Cardwork.—Before varnishing cardwork, it must receive two or three coats of size, to prevent the absorption of the varnish, and any injury to the design. The size may be made by dissolving a little isinglass in hot water, or by boiling some parchment cuttings until dissolved. In either case the solution must be strained through a piece of clean muslin, and for very nice purposes, should be clarified with a little white of egg. A small clean brush, called by painters a "sash tool," is the best for applying the size, as well as the varnish. A light delicate touch must be adopted, especially for the first coat, lest the ink or colours be started, or smothered.

How to dry a Lady's Long Hair.—As we trust, many of our lady readers will adopt the suggestions submitted to them, it may not be amiss to inform them how a lady's long hair may be instantly dried. They must submit it to a vapour of benzoin. The lady should recline on a chaise longue or a sofa, with her long hair hanging over the end. A pan containing two or three bits of ignited charcoal is then placed under it, and a little powdered benzoin sprinkled upon the lighted fuel. The thick smoke which rises and is strongly impregnated with benzonic acid, rapidly absorbs the moisture in the hair, which should be previously well wiped with towels, so as to be as free from wet as possible; and in a few seconds the air is perfectly dry, beautifully perfumed, and ready for the operation of the brush. This operation should never be neglected, except in case of illness, as the omission of the brushing of a single morning will leave an accumulation of scurf.

To Protect Dahlias from Earwigs.—Put a water-pan round the bottom of the stalk, or dip a piece of wool or cotton in oil and slightly tie it round the stalk, about a foot from the earth. The stakes which you will put into the ground to support your plants must also be surrounded by the oiled cotton or wool, or the insects will climb up them to the blossoms and tender tops of the stems.

Washing Kid Gloves.—We find the following receipt in "The Magazine of Domestic Economy."—"Have ready a little new milk in one saucer, and a piece of brown soap in another, and a clean cloth or towel, folded three or four times. On the cloth, spread out the gloves smooth and neat. Take a piece of flannel, dip it in the milk, then rub off a good quantity of soap to the wetted flannel, and commence to rub the gloves downwards towards the fingers, holding it firmly with the left hand. Continue this process, until the glove, if white, looks of a dingy yellow, though clean; if coloured, till it looks dark and spoiled. Lay it to dry, and the fair operator will soon be gratified to see, that her old gloves are nearly new. They will be soft, glossy, smooth, sharp, and elastic."

To Destroy Vermin in the Hair of Children.—The most effectual mode of destroying vermin in the hair, is to dissolve five grains of bichloride of mercury (corrosive sublimate) in half pint of distilled water, and wet the hair well with the solution.

 This lotion must be used with caution as it is a deadly poison, if taken into the stomach.

Savoury Toasts.—Cut some slices of bread free from crust, about half an inch thick, and two inches and a half square; butter the tops thickly, spread a little mustard on them, and then cover them with a deep layer of grated cheese and ham seasoned rather highly with cayenne; fry them in butter, and do not turn them in the pan; lift them out, and place them in a Dutch oven for four minutes to dissolve the cheese; serve them very hot.

Perfume for Gloves.—Extract of embergris, two minims; spirits of wine, one ounce. Rub the gloves inside with a piece of cotton impregnated with this perfume.

 Boots and shoes may be treated in the same manner.

VARIETIES.

A BABY IN THE HOUSE.—A correspondent, who seems to have had some trouble with his first-born, thus relates his experience:—I have one of those interesting "animals" at my house. It came when it rained, dark as pitch, my umbrella at the office. The doctor lived five miles due west, and the nurse six miles due east, and when I got home the milkman was at the door. It is a funny little chip, that baby: Solferino colour, and the length of a Bologna Sausage. Cross? I guess not! Un'um. It commenced chasing me down the pathway of life just when muslin, linen, and white flannel were at the highest. A poor little thing is that baby; a speck of a nose like a wart; head as bald as a squash, and no place to hitch a waterfall; a mouth just suited to come the gum game and chew milk. I have bumped it, stuffed my fur cap down its throat, given it the smoothing iron to play with—but that little red lump, that looks as thongh it could'nt hold blood enough to keep a musquito from fainting, persists in yelling like thunder! It shows a great desire to swallow its fists, and the other day they dropped down its throat; all that prevented their going clear through was the crook in its elbows. It stopped its music, and I was happy for a couple of minutes. It's a pleasure to have a baby in the house—one of the stomach-ache kind. Think of the pleasure of a father, en desabille, trembling in the midnight hour, with his warm feet upon a square yard of cold oil cloth, dropping paregoric in a teaspoon by moonlight; somebody thumping on the door; wife of your bosom shouting "hurry!" and the baby yelling till the plaster drops from the ceiling. It's a nice time to think of dress coats, pants, ties, and little kids! Shades of departed cocktails, what comfort! What a picture for an artist in plaster of Paris! Its ma says the darling is troubled with wind on its stomach; it beats all the instruments you ever heard. I have a cradle with a miraculous soothing-syrup bottle on the dash board. Its mother says only wait till it gets bleached (its been vaccinated) and old enough to crawl around and feed on pins. Yes, I am going to wait. Wont it be delightful! "John, run for the doctor! sis has fallen in the slop pail, and is choking with a potatoe skin;" "sis has fallen down stairs;" "sis has swallowed the tack hammer;" shows signs of mumps, measles, croup, colic, or some other dreadful thing, to let the doctor take all the money laid by for my summer excursion. And all this comes of my champooing and curling my hair, wearing nice clothes, looking handsome, going a courting, and making my wife fall in love and marry me.

THE CHOICE.—A Quaker, residing at Paris, was waited on by four workmen, in order to make their compliments, and ask for their usual New Year's gifts.

'Well, my friends,' said the Quaker, 'here are your gifts; choose fifteen franes or the Bible.' 'I dont know how to read,' said the first, 'so I take the fifteen francs.' 'I can read,' said the second, 'but I have pressing wants.' He took the fifteen francs. The third also made the same choice. He now came to the fourth, a lad about fourteen—The Quaker looked at him with an air of kindness: 'Will thou, too, take these three five franc pieces, which thou may obtain at any time by thy labour and industry?' 'As you say the book is good, I will take it, and read it to my mother,' replied the boy. He took the Bible, opened it, and found between the leaves a gold piece of forty francs. The others hung down their heads; and the Quaker told them he was sorry they had not made a better choice.

PETER THE GREAT.—It being term while the Czar was in London, he was taken into Westminster Hall; he enquired who all those busy people in black gowns and flowing wigs were, and what they were about? Being answered, 'they are lawyers, sire;'—'Lawyers!' said he, with marks of astonishment, 'why I have but two in my whole dominions, and I believe I shall hang one of them the moment I get home.'

THE IRISHMAN'S SHEEP'S HEAD.—An Irishman having bought a sheep's head, had been to a friend for direction to dress it. As he was returning, repeating the method, and holding his purchase under his arm, a dog snatched it, and ran away. 'Now my dear joy,' said the Irishman, 'What a fool you make of yourself! what use will it be to you, as you don't know how it is to be dressed!'

SHARP ENOUGH ALREADY.—A solicitor, who was remarkable for the length and sharpness of his nose, once told a lady, that if she did not immediately settle a matter in dispute, he would file a bill against her. 'Indeed, sir,' said the lady, 'there is no necessity for you to file your bill, for I am sure its sharp enough already.'

PROMPT REPLY.—'Why did Adam bite the apple?' said a schoolmaster to a country lad. 'Because he had no knife,' said the urchin.

COURAGE.—A man at a fair was asked if his horse was timid. 'Not at all,' said he, 'he frequently spends the whole night by himself in a stable.'

HUMBUG EXPLAINED.—A disreputable woman was being examined at the Old Bailey, a few Sessions ago, as a witness, when, to a question put by that excellent pleader, Clarkson, she replied, 'Don't think to humbug me.' Upon which the impartial Recorder said, 'Answer the question directly, woman, or I will commit you.' 'Aye,' says Clarkson, 'and tell us what you mean by humbug?' 'Why,' says the woman, 'If I was to tell you, Mr. Clarkson, that the Recorder was a Gentleman, that would be humbugging you and the Court too.'

A WITTY REPLY.—'Shall I cut this loin of mutton saddlewise?' said a gentleman. 'No,' said one of his guests, 'cut it bridlewise, for then I may chance to get a bit in my mouth.

SERMONS AND SALUTATIONS.—A good sermon is like a kiss—it requires but two heads and a little application.

A lady compositor explained to her 'fellow' the other day the difference between printing and publishing, and at the conclusion of her remarks, by way of illustration, she said, 'You may print a kiss on my cheek, but you must not publish it.'

A COUPLE OF LEGS.—It had been a stormy November day, when a commercial traveller alighted at the door of the Swan Inn. Mr. A., the lawyer, sat on one side of the fire; the new comer, in what was called traveller's chair, on the other, Mr. A's leg was covered with a black silk stocking, the traveller's was cased in stout leather, when a bet was laid that the wearer of the silks would hold his leg longer in hot water than the wearer of the leathers. The experiment was tried in boiling water. In two minutes the stranger was in agony, while the lawyer looked on with astonishing composure—for his was a cork leg.

"Here you little rascal, walk up and give an account of yourself. Where have you been?"—"After the girls, father."—"After the girls! Did you ever know me do so when I was a boy?" "No, sir, but mother did."

TO KEEP AWAY CREDITORS.—Creditors are a species of parasite, infesting the human race, and usually brought on by luxurious living. Persons who are troubled with them may free themselves by the Bankrupt treatment; but this always leaves an unpleasant irritation behind, and spots that are never wholly effaced. Take water instead of beer, or beer instead of wines and spirits; toss the cigar case into the fire-place; eat mutton instead of venison, and mutton broth instead of turtle soop; if needs be, clean your own boots and shoes, and brush your own clothes. Employ time profitably. Never borrow, seldom lend. Avoid betting and gaming. Keep regular accounts, and examine your position from day to day, determining to eat nothing that is unpaid for, nor to allow your tailor or your dressmaker to say that your garments are not your own. By this process you will soon get rid of the annoyance, and your mental and bodily health will wonderfully improve.

THE WEATHER. January comes in with stormy cold weather and much downfall which will continue until at least the middle of the month, indeed we have not had greater appearances of stormy winterly weather than there are at the early part of this month; at the latter part, the weather will be more settled but still cold, and the wind will be very variable and never long from the same quarter. The tides will be rather high at the full moon of this month.

The Grimsby Packet leaves Grimsby about 4 hours before high water at Hull; leaves Hull, for Grimsby, a little before high water. The Packets for Gainsborough, Selby, Leeds, Thorne, Doncaster, Sheffield, York, Goole, &c., leave Hull from 2 to 3 hours before high water.

THE WEATHER. The weather will be more moderate than it was during the last month, but still there is a considerable quantity of moisture in the air, but as the month advances the air will get dryer although February is seldom a dry month and there will be no very great share of moisture in it for the present year. High tides at the full moon; and if the wind at that time be from the west or north-west, the tides at this time may do some damage by their overflow.

THE WEATHER. At the begining of this month there is still a considerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, but as the month advances the air will get a little dryer, particularly after the sun has crossed the equinox, but very fine weather is not to be looked for during the present March, but we shall not have the wind so much from the east as we usually have it in this month. High tides again at the full moon.

THE WEATHER. There is still a good share of moisture in the atmosphere particularly at the early part of the month, but as April advances the weather will get finer, with the wind from the west and south-west, and a less share of east wind than is usual in this month; after the middle of the month we may have the wind a little more from the east, but on the whole the latter part of the month will be much finer and the air dryer.

THE WEATHER. The general appearance in the state of the air has taken a decided change for the better, and with some refreshing showers, fine May weather is to be looked for, and to all appearance we shall have a finer May than we have had for some years, and when this month is fine it is undoubtedly the most beautiful in the whole year. The wind will be sometimes from the east when the temperature of the air will be colder, but clear, bright weather will most commonly prevail.

THE WEATHER. June comes in with moderately fine weather, the quantity of moisture will not be very great, and generally clear weather with some refreshing showers. It may not be quite so fine as the last month but on the whole it will be a finer June than we have had for some years past; the barometer will be tolerably high and steady. High tides at the new moon of this month, but not so high as they would have been if the moon had had less latitude at this time.

THE WEATHER. The month of July is generally a wet month, but we think for the present year we shall have more than a usual quantity of moisture, at least until after the 20th day of the month, but even for the whole month there will be an excess of moisture in the atmosphere, and therefore the fall of rain will be proportionately great. High tides at the new moon of this month, particularly if the wind at that time be from the west or north-west quarters.

THE WEATHER. This month comes in with a good share of moisture in the atmosphere, though less in quantity than last month; but thunder storms may be looked for in some places, but generally not accompanied with destructive effects, and we do not think that violent hot weather will be very prevalent in the present August. The tides will again be rather high at the new m[illegible] but not so high as in the last month.

THE WEATHER. The air is getting dryer with the barometer tolerably high, and fine weather for getting in the harvest may be expected; there may be some showers, but nothing in quantity to injure the crops that want getting in, and with proper care the whole of the harvest may be well got and in good condition. The wind will be changing frequently, but on the whole the present September may be considered a fine month.

THE WEATHER. October comes in with fine weather, and very little moisture in the atmosphere, and the fine weather continues for some time. The wind will be changeable, but not cold, and little rain may be looked for until after the 20th, and even then we shall have it in very small quantity, for the present October appears to promise the finest we have had for some years past.

THE WEATHER. The dull and heavy fogs which usually bring in the month of November will not shew themselves much, at least, at the early part of this month, but fine weather, for the season, will be found more general, with little moisture in the atmosphere indeed we think that the weather in this month will be finer than we have had it generally at this time of the year. As the month closes we may have the weather more like that of November.

THE WEATHER. This month comes in with moderately fine weather and a dry but rather cold air, pleasant and healthy, and for the end of the year finer weather could not be. There is a little moisture in the atmosphere, but not in excess, and no great downfal is to be expected, but fine December weather to the end of the month. High tides at the full moon of this month. D

ECLIPSES, &c.

In the year 1868 there will be two Eclipses of the Sun, but none of the Moon. There will also be a Transit of Mercury over the Sun.

The first is an Annular Eclipse of the Sun, on February 22nd, but invisible in this part of the world; it will be central over the Continent of Africa, and also of South America; a small part of it will be visible in Spain and France, but not in any part of England.

The second is a total Eclipse of the Sun, on August 17th, but invisible in this country, being visible in the E. Indies and in Australia.

On November 5th there will be a transit of the Planet "Mercury" over the disc of the Sun, and partly visible in this part of the world; the following are the times as calculated for Hull:—

First contact of Mercury with the Sun, Nov. 5..5h. 23m. 19s. mg.
Least distance of the Centres 12-15.....7h. 12m. 31s. —
Sun rises at Hull .....7h. 31m. 0s. —
Last contact of Mercury with the Sun .....9h. 1m. 37s. —

so only the latter part of the Transit will be visible here, and at the end of the Transit the Sun will be only very low down or near to the horizon.

The beautiful Planet Venus will be an evening star from January 1st until July 16th, then a morning star to the end of the year.

The Planet Jupiter will be an evening star from January 1st until March 10th, then a morning star until October 1st, and afterwards an evening star to the end of the year.

To those who are furnished with telescopes, and particularly those who live in the country, the Planet Saturn will be a very beautiful object during the months of April, May, June, and July, the ring is now very open, and will look very fine through powerful telescopes, with powers from 200 to 400 times.

Jupiter with his belts and Moons will be best seen during the months of September, October, and November. This Planet is well seen with powers from 100 to 200 times.

Venus will be a fine object for the telescope during the early months of the year, particularly during April and May.

The Planet Mars will not be in a favorable situation for viewing during the whole of the year 1868.

On January 27th the Moon will pass over the Planet Jupiter at a little after eight in the evening.

DR. HERSCHELL'S WEATHER TABLE.

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

Moon Changes.	In Summer.	In Winter.
Between Midnight & 2 in the Morn.	Fair - - - - - -	Frost, unless Wind be S. or S. W.
2 and 4 - - -	Cold with Showers -	Snow and Stormy
4 and 6 - - -	Rain - - - - -	Rain
6 and 8 - - -	Wind and Rain - -	Stormy
8 and 10 - - -	Changeable - -	Cold Rain if Wind W. Snow if E.
10 and 12 - - -	Frequent Showers -	Cold and High Winds
12 and 2 Aftern.	Very Rainy - - -	Snow or Rain
2 and 4 - - -	Changeable - - -	Fair and Mild
4 and 6 - - -	Fair - - - - - -	Fair
6 and 8 - - -	Fair, if Wind N. W. Rain, if S. or S. W.	Fair and Frosty, if Wind N. or N. E. Rain or Snow, if S. or S. W.
8 and 10 - - -	Ditto ditto - - -	Ditto ditto
10 and Midnight.	Fair - - - - - -	Fair and Frosty

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.
2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.
3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.
4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.
5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.
6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

GARDENERS' CALENDAR.

JANUARY.—Prepare for all sowing and planting. If this had been done in December, it would have been better; the ground is now generally too moist for putting seed in. If you choose to sow peas, though it is not a good practise, sow them early enough.

FEBRUARY.—Prepare your ground for onions; soot, or common kennel-muck (or sludge, as it is called in some places,) is the best manure for them. Sow carrot and spinach seed. If you have any cauliflower plants under frames, draw the glasses down whenever the weather is open and mild.

MARCH.—Sow asparagus, celery, cauliflowers, brussels sprouts, beets, brocoli, spinage, onions, dutch turnips, peas, beans, savoys, parsnips, and turnip radishes. Plant sea-kale, kidney-beans, and cauliflowers from frames. Graft fruit trees, &c

APRIL.—Prick and plant out all the cabbage kind. All carrots, parsnips, beets, &c., may now be sown. Prepare your ground for planting out cucumber plants. Plant slips and cuttings of kitchen herbs.

MAY.—Sow capsicums, cauliflowers, carrots, lettuces, spinage, cucumbers, peas, red beet for pickling, and kidney and french beans. Transplant cabbages, winter greens, lettuces, cauliflowers, and celery.

JUNE.—Sow beans, peas, cucumbers for pickling, radishes, spinach, cabbages, endive, carrots, brocoli and borecole; kidney-beans once a fortnight; lettuce and small salad once in ten days.

JULY.—Sow turnips, french beans, lettuces, and black spanish radishes. Plant out brocoli, cauliflowers, savoys, leeks, and winter cabbages, and earth up celery. Gather medicinal flowers and sweet herbs, &c.

AUGUST.—A variety of esculent vegetables must be sown at this time for the autumn and winter crops. Plant young seedlings; hoe and earth round cauliflowers, Propagate aromatic plants, &c., by parting the roots.

SEPTEMBER.—Sow vegetable seeds for a spring crop, and plant cauliflowers, brocoli, savoys, german greens, leeks, lettuce, celery, and perennial and aromatic pot herbs. Hoe winter spinach and turnips, earth up celery, weed cauliflowers and young onions; prick out cabbage plants.

OCTOBER.—Plant cabbages, endive, brocoli, &c. Sow small salad, radishes, and lettuce; a few mazagan beans and hotspur peas to stand the winter. Tie up endive and earth up celery and cardoons.

NOVEMBER.—Force sea cale, rhubarb, and asparagus. Prune and plant fruit trees. Transplant seeding stocks, and suckers taken from the roots of pear, codlin, plum, and quince trees, to prepare them for budding or grafting different fruits upon. Shelter choice flowers.

DECEMBER.—Tie up endive, cardoons, and white beet. Take up edible and full-grown vegetables with esculent leaves, and plant the latter in sand, in an open shed for use

LIST OF FAIRS.

William Adams earnestly requests that Town Clerks, Clerks of the Markets, and others interested, will aid him in his endeavour to make this List as correct as possible; in doing so they will benefit alike themselves, the public, and the proprietor, who will gratefully receive information of any error now existing in this part of his work, or of any event which may occur in future to render an alteration necessary.

William Adams begs to observe, that the sooner such assistance can be afforded him, prior to the next publication, the more advantageous it is likely to prove, as, from the large and increasing demand for his Almanack, he is obliged to put it early to press. No communication will be available, unless authenticated by the writer's name and address.

ODDS AND ENDS.

One Benjamin Ginning, presenting the poor with two hundred pounds, some one said,' Not a bad B Ginning, either.'

'Well, wife, I don't see, for my part, how they send letters on them 'ere wires without tearing them all to bits.' 'La me! they dont send the paper; they just send the writing in a fluid state.'

A tradesman recently told a youth in his shop to write in large letters on a sheet of paper, 'Wanted, a stout lad as light porter.' The young scapegrace, either from ignorance or design, wrote, 'Wanted, a stout lad as likes porter.'

Two ladies were conversing together at the tea-table about the position of Hereford, and as the servantmaid entered the room, one happened to say, 'We lie on a bed of gravel.' The girl astounded, exclaimed, 'Lors, misses! we don't. We lie on a bed of good feathers.'

At a ball, Bill Blunt was hauled into a lady's presence to apologise for an alleged insult.—'Miss L, I understand I have insulted you?' quoth Bill.—'You have, sir.'—'What did I say, Miss L.'—'You told me to go to Jericho.'—'Well,' said Bill,' I have come at the request of several persons to tell you that you need'nt go.'

An amusing circumstance occured in a singing class. A Mr. Paine was the teacher, and Miss Patience one of the pupils. In the course of the evening the teacher gave out the tune to the words—

'Come, gentle patience, smile on pain.'

The pupils were so excited by laughter that it was found impossible to sing the line. Soon the teacher gave out another, in which were the following lines—

'Oh give me tears for other's woes,
And patience for my own.'

The risibilities of the school was so effected that all singing was deferred until another occasion.

My Lord B—had married three wives, who were all his servants; a beggar-woman meeting him one day in the streets, made him a very low curtsy. 'Ah, bless your lordship,' said she, 'and send you a long life; if you do but live long enough, we shall all be ladies in time.'

An April Fool. An elderly lady telling her age, remarked that she was born on the 22nd April. Her husband, who was present, observed: 'I always thought you was born on the first of April. 'People might well judge so,' responded the matron, in the choice I made of a husband.

Coming to the Point. 'Tom,' said a girl to her sweetheart, 'you have been paying your distresses to me long enough. It is time you were making known your contentions, so as not to keep me in expense any longer.'

Very Particular. A gentleman advertises in the Morning Post for a wife. What young lady will not suit? He only requires sweetness of disposition, sauvity of manners, refined taste and education, physical charms, and intellectual attributes.

ABSTRACTS OF IMPORTANT

ACTS OF PARLIAMENT PASSED LAST SESSION.

30th Victoria, 1867.

THE NEW REFORM ACT.

Whereas, it is expedient to amend the Laws relating to the Representation of the People in England and Wales.

Be it enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Temporal and Spiritual, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

This Act shall be cited for all purposes, as "The Representation of the People's Act, 1867."

PART I.—FRANCHISES.

Occupation Franchise for Voters in Boroughs.

Every man shall, in and after the year 1868, be entitled to be registered as a Voter, and when registered, to vote for a Member or Members to serve in Parliament for a Borough, who is qualified as under.

1.—Is of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity:—and
2.—Is on the last day of July in any year, and has, during the whole of the preceding twelve calendar months, been an inhabitant occupier, as owner or tenant of any dwelling-house within the Borough:—and
3.—Has been rated as an ordinary occupier to all rates made for the relief of the poor in respect of such premises.

Lodger Franchise for Voters in Boroughs.

Every man shall, in and after the year 1868, be entitled to be registered as a Voter, and when registered, to vote for a Member or Members to serve in Parliament for a Borough, who is qualified as under.

1.—Is of full age and not subject to any legal incapacity:—and
2.—As a Lodger has occupied in the same Borough, separately and as sole tenant, for the twelve months preceding the last day of July in any year the same lodgings, such lodgings being part of one and the same dwelling-house, and of a clear yearly value, if let unfurnished, of ten pounds or upwards:—and
3.—Has resided in such lodgings during the twelve months immediately preceding the last day of July, and has claimed to be registered as a Voter at the next ensuing Registration of Voters.

Property Qualification for Voters in Counties.

Every man shall, in and after the year 1868, be entitled to be registered as a Voter, and when registered, to vote for a Member or Members to serve in Parliament for a County, who is qualified as follows:—

1.—Is of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity, and is seized at law or in equity of any lands or tenements of freehold, copyhold, or any other tenure whatsoever, for his own life, or for the life of another, or for any lives whatsoever, or for any larger estate of the clear yearly value of not less than £5 over and above the rents and charges payable out of or in respect of the same, or who is entitled, either as lessee or assignee, to any lands or tenements of freehold or of any other tenure whatsoever, for the unexpired residue, whatever it may be, of any term originally created for a period of not less than sixty years, (whether determinable on a life or lives or not), of the clear yearly value of not less than £5 over and above all rents and charges payable out of or in respect of the same.

Occupation Faanchise for Voters in Counties.

Every man shall, in and after the year 1868, be entitled to be registered as a voter, and when registered, to vote for a Member or Members to serve in Parliament for a County, who is qualified as follows:—

1.—Is of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity:—and
2.—Is on the last day of July in any year, and has been during the twelve months immediately preceding, been the occupier, as owner or tenant, of lands or tenements within the County, of the rateable value of £12 or upwards:—and
3.—Has during the time of such occupation been rated to all rates made for the relief of the poor in respect of the said premises:—and
4.—Has on or before the 20th day of July in the same year, paid all Poor Rates that have become payable in respect of the same premises up to the preceding 5th day of January.

Restrictions as to the Number of Votes in certain Counties and Boroughs, and in the City of London.

At a contested Election for any County or Borough represented by three Members no person shall vote for more than two candidates. At a contested Election for the City of London no person shall vote for more than three Candidates.

Electors Employed for Reward.

No Elector, who, within six months before, or during any Election for any County or Borough, shall have been retained, hired or employed by any Candidate, as agent, canvasser, clerk, messenger, or in any other like employment, shall be entitled to vote at such Election.

Totness, Reigate, Yarmouth and Lancaster.

From and after the end of this present Parliament, the Boroughs of Totness, Reigate, Great Yarmonth, and Lancaster shall respectively cease to return any Member or Members to serve in Parliament.

Part II.—DISTRIBUTION OF SEATS.

Boroughs to Return One Member each.

From and after the end of this present Parliament, no Borough which had a less population than 10,000 at the Census of 1861 shall return more than one Member to serve in Parliament, such Boroughs being enumerated in Schedule (A.) annexed to the Act, and are as follows:—

Honiton	Knaresborough	Lewes
Retford	Andover	Cirencester
Wells	Leominster	Bodmin
Evesham	Tewkesbury	Great Marlow
Marlborough	Ludlow	Devizes
Harwick	Ripon	Hertford
Richmond	Huntingdon	Dorchester
Lymington	Maldon	Lichfield
Chippenham	Buckingham	Cockermouth
Bridport	Newport, (Isle of Wight)	Bridgnorth
Stamford	New Malton	Guildford
Chipping Wycombe	Tavistock	Chichester
Poole		Windsor.

Boroughs to Return Three Members each.

From and after the end of this present Parliament, the City of Manchester, and the Boroughs of Liverpool, Birmingham, and Leeds, shall each respectively return three Members to serve in Parliament.

New Boroughs.

Each of the places named in Schedule (B) annexed to this Act shall be a Borough, viz.:—Chelsea, Darlington, The Hartlepools, Stockton, Gravesend, Burnley, Staleybridge, Wednesbury, Middlesborough, (Yorkshire), and Dewsbury; and in all future Parliaments the Borough of Chelsea shall return two Members, and each of the other Boroughs shall return one Member to serve in Parliament.

Merthyr Tydfil, and Salford.

From and after the end of the present Parliament, the Boroughs of Merthyr Tydfil and Salford shall each return two Members instead of one to serve in future Parliaments.

Tower Hamlets.

The Borough of Tower Hamlets shall be divided into two divisions, and each division shall, in all future Parliaments, be a separate borough, returning two Members to serve in Parliament. The said divisions shall be known by the name of the borough of Hackney, and the borough of the Tower Hamlets.

University of London.

In all future Parliaments the University of London shall return one Member to serve in Parliament.

Electors for Members of the University of London.

Every man whose name is for the time being on the register of graduates constituting the Convocation of the University of London shall, if of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity, be entitled to vote in the election of a Member to serve in any future Parliament for the said University.

PART III.—SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Incidents of Franchise.

Different premises occupied in immediate succession by any person as owner or tenant during the twelve calendar months next previous to the last day in July in any year, shall, unless and except as herein or otherwise provided, have the same effect in qualifying such person to vote for a county or borough as a continued occupation of the same premises in the manner herein provided.

Payment of Expenses.

It shall not be lawful for any Candidate, or anyone on his behalf, at any election for any Borough, except the several Boroughs of East Retford, Shoreham, Cricklade, Much Wenlock, and Aylesbury, to pay any money on account of the conveyance of any voter to the poll, either to the voter himself, or to any other person; and if any such Candidate, or any person on his behalf shall do so, such payment shall be deemed to be an illegal payment, within the meaning of "The Corrupt Practices Prevention Act, 1854."

Election in the University of London.

The Vice-Chancellor of the University of London shall be the returning officer for such University; and the writ for any election of a Member to serve in Parliament for such University shall be directed to such Vice-Chancellor. The Vice-Chancellor shall proceed to election within six days after the receipt of such writ, giving three clear days' notice of the day and place of election; and the Vice-Chancellor shall, after such election, certify the same, together with such writ according to the directions thereof. At every contested election the polling shall commence at eight o'clock in the morning of the day next following the day fixed for the election, and may continue for not more than five days; but no poll shall be kept open later than four o'clock in the afternoon.

Returning Officer.

No returning officer for any County or Borough, nor his deputy, nor any partner or Clerk of either of them, shall act as agent for any Candidate in the management or conduct of his election as a Member to serve in Parliament for such County or Borough; and if they or any of them shall so act he shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

Dissolution of Parliament.

Whereas great inconvenience may arise from the enactments now in force limiting the duration of the Parliament in being at the demise of the Crown;—Be it therefore enacted,

That the Parliament in being at any future demise of the Crown shall not be determined or dissolved by such demise, but shall continue so long as it would have continued but for such demise, unless it should be sooner prorogued, or dissolved by the Crown, anything in the Act passed in the Sixth year of her late Majesty Queen Anne, chapter seven, in any way notwithstanding.

Members holding offices of Profit from the Crown not required to vacate their Seats on acceptance of another office.

Whereas it is expedient to amend the Law relating to offices of profit, the acceptance of which from the Crown, vacates the Seats of Members accepting the same, but does not render them incapable of being re-elected;—Be it therefore enacted,

That where a person has been returned as a Member to serve in Parliament since the acceptance by him from the Crown of any office of profit from the Crown, the subsequent acceptance by him from the Crown, of any other office or offices in lieu of and in immediate succession the one to the other shall not vacate his seat.

Effect of Dissolution of Parliament before January 1, 1869.

Notwithstanding anything in this Act contained in the event of a vacancy in the representation of any constituency, or of a dissolution of Parliament taking place, and a writ or writs being issued, before the first day of January 1869, for the election of Members to serve in the present or any new Parliament, each election shall take place in the same manner in all respects as if no alteration had been made by this Act in the franchises of electors, or in the places authorized to return a Member or Members to serve in Parliament, with this exception, that the Boroughs by this Act disfranchised shall not be entitled to return Members to serve in such new Parliament.

MISCELLANEOUS ACTS.

The Bunhill Fields Burial Ground Preservation Act, 30th and 31st Victoria, cap. 38.

Whereas, the piece of Land commonly called Bunhill Fields Burial Ground formerly belonged to the Prebend of Halliwell and Finsbury, but is now absolutely vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England.

And whereas, the Manor of Halliwell and Finsbury, including the said Burial Ground, has been for many hundred years past in the actual possession and occupation of the Mayor, Comonalty, and Citizens of the City of London, under successive leases granted by the said Prebend of Halliwell and Finsbury.

And whereas, the said Burial Ground has been for the period of two hundred years past appropriated by the said Mayor, Comonalty, and Citizens as a Churchyard or Burial Ground, and many funerals have been publicly performed there since the year 1685, by Clerks in Holy Orders, according to the rites and usages of the Church of England.

And whereas, it is expedient that provision should be made, in manner hereinafter appearing, for effectually protecting the said Burial Ground from desecration, and for the perpetual preservation thereof from damage or injury as an open space, free to the public under the care and regulation hereinafter specified; and the said Mayor, Comonalty, and Citizens are willing to continue such care and regulation at their own costs and charges until the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England shall take the same upon themselves in manner hereinafter mentioned.

Be it therefore enacted:—

1.—That the said Burial Ground shall at all times hereafter be held, used, and enjoyed as an open space, accessible to the public at such times and under such regulations in all respects, and shall be enclosed with such wall or fence, and be laid out with such ornamental and other walks, and otherwise as the Corporation of London shall from to time think proper and expedient, subject and without prejudice to the provisions hereinafter contained; and no House or other Building, whether for the purposes of residence or trade, or for any other purpose, shall from henceforth and for ever hereafter be built or erected upon the Burial Ground, or any part thereof, other than, and except such house (if any) as may from time to time be provided by the Corporation for the residence of a Keeper of the Burial Ground and such walks, fences, or other erections as the Corporation shall think proper, with a view to the protection and preservation of the Burial Ground under the provisions of this Act.

2.—The Corporation shall keep in repair and in a good and decent state of preservation, all and singular the Fences, Walks, Graves, Tombstones, and premises for the time being in or about the Burial Ground, and shall from time to time renew and replace such of them as shall be worn out or decayed, and shall also cover with turf or gravel, or lay out in ornamental beds or gardens, or plant with trees or shrubs, such portions of the Burial Ground as shall not for the time being be used or occupied either as walks, or as the site of graves, vaults or tombs, and shall from time to time permit and suffer all persons desiring the same, to have access to the Burial Ground, or any part thereof, at all reasonable times, without fee or reward, under such regulations as the Corporation shall think fit.

3.—Provided always, that in case the Ecclesiastical Commissioners shall at any time hereafter desire to take upon themselves the charge and keeping up of the Burial Ground, and shall give a notification of such their desire, to the Town Clerk for the time being of the City of London, then, after the expiration of six calendar months from the delivery of such notice, the clauses herein before contained shall be thenceforth read and construed as if the words "the Ecclesiastical Commissioners" were, throughout the same clauses, substituted for the words "The Corporation," and the Corporation shall thenceforth be wholly relieved and discharged from the care, preservation, and regulation of the Burial Ground, and from all obligation and responsibility in relation thereto.

The Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1867. 30*th and* 31*st Vict., cap.* 35.
20*th June*, 1867.

Whereas, it is found that delay and inconvenience are frequently caused by the provisions contained in the 1st Section of the Act 22 & 23 Victoria, ch. 17, in cases not within the mischief for remedy whereof the same Act was made and passed, and it is expedient to restrict the operation thereof;

Be it therefore enacted:—

1.—Whenever any Bill of Indictment shall be preferred to any Grand Jury, under the Provisions of the 22 & 23, Victoria, ch. 17, against any person who has not been committed to or detained in Custody, or bound by recognizance to answer such Indictment, and the person accused thereby shall be acquitted thereon, it shall be lawful for the Court before which such Indictment shall be tried, in its discretion, to direct and order that the prosecutor, or other person, by or at whose instance such Indictment shall have been preferred, shall pay to the accused person the just and reasonable Costs, Charges, and Expenses of such accused person and his witnesses (if any), caused or occasioned by or consequent upon the preferring of such Bill of Indictment, to be taxed by the proper officer of the Court; and upon nonpayment of such Costs, Charges, and Expenses, within one calendar month after the date of such direction and order, it shall be lawful for any of the Superior Courts of Law at Westminster, or any Judge thereof, or for the Justices and Judges of the Central Criminal Court, (if the Bill of Indictment has been preferred in that Court,) to issue against the person on whom such order is made, such and the like Writ or Writs, Process or Processes, as may now be lawfully issued by any of the said Superior Courts for enforcing Judgments thereof.

2.—And whereas complaint is frequently made by persons charged with indictable offences, upon their trial, that they are unable by reason of poverty to call witnesses on their behalf, and that injustice is thereby occasioned to them; and it is expedient to remove, as far as practicable, all just ground for such complaint. Therefore, in all cases where any person shall appear before any Justice or Justices charged with any indictable offence, such Justice or Justices before he or they shall commit such accused for trial or admit him to bail, shall demand and require of the accused person whether he desires to call any witness, and if such accused person shall, in answer to their demand, call or desire to call any witness or witnesses, such Justice or Justices shall, in the presence of such accused person, take the Statement on Oath or Affirmation of those who shall be so called as witnesses, and who shall know anything relating to the facts and circumstances of the case, or anything tending to prove the innocence of such accused person, and shall put the same into writing; and such depositions of such witnesses shall be read over to, and signed respectively by the witnesses who shall have been so examined, and shall be signed also by the Justice or Justices taking the same, and transmitted in due course of Law with the Depositions; and such Witnesses, not being witnesses merely to the character of the accused, as shall, in the opinion of the Justice or Justices, give evidence in any way material to the case or tending to prove the innocence of the accused, shall be bound by Recognizance to appear and give evidence upon the Trial: and afterwards, upon the trial of such accused person, all the Laws now in force relating to Deposition of Witnesses for the Prosecution, shall extend and be applicable to the Depositions of Witnesses hereby directed to be taken.

3.—The Court before which any accused person shall be prosecuted or tried, is hereby authorized and empowered, in its discretion, at the request of any person who shall appear before such Court on Recognizance, to give evidence on behalf of the person accused, to order payment unto such witness so appearing, such sum of money as to the Court shall seem reasonable and sufficient to compensate such witness for the expenses, trouble, and loss of time he shall have incurred or sustained in attending before the examining magistrate, and at or before such Court; and the amount of such expenses shall be ascertained by the certificate of such magistrate, granted before the attendance in Court; and the amount of all other expenses and compensations shall be ascertained by the proper officer of the Court, who shall, upon receipt of the sum of sixpence for each witness, make out and deliver to the person entitled thereto, an order for such expenses and compensation, together with the said fee of sixpence, upon such and the same Treasurers and officers as would now by law be liable to payment of an order for the expenses of the prosecutor or witnesses against such accused person. Provided always, that in no case shall any such allowances or compensation exceed the amount now by law permitted to be made to prosecutors and witnesses for the prosecution.

4.—And whereas, Relief has been given by the Statute 24 and 25 Vict., cap. 66, to persons refusing, from alleged conscientious motives, to be Sworn as Witnesses in criminal proceedings, and it is expedient to extend that relief to persons required to serve as Jurors. Therefore if any person summoned or required to serve as a juror in any civil or criminal proceeding, shall refuse or be unwilling, from alleged conscientious motives, to be sworn, it shall be lawful for the Court or Judge, or other presiding officer or person qualified to administer an oath to a juror, upon being satisfied of the sincerity of such objection, to permit such person, instead of being sworn, to make his or her Solemn Affirmation or Declaration in the words following.:—"I, A.B., do solemnly, sincerely, and truly affirm and declare that the taking of any oath is, according to my religious belief, unlawful; and I do also solemnly, sincerely, and truly affirm and declare, &c." Which solemn affirmation and declaration shall be of the same force and effect, and if untrue shall entail all the same consequences, as if such person had taken an oath in the usual form.

5.—Where any person shall be convicted, either summarily or otherwise, of larceny or other offence which includes the stealing of any property, and it shall appear to the Court by the evidence that the prisoner has sold the stolen property to any person, and that such person has had no knowledge that the same was stolen, and that any monies have been taken from the prisoner on his apprehension, it shall be lawful for the Court, on the application of such purchaser, and on the restitution of the stolen property to the prosecutor, to order that out of such monies a sum not exceeding the amount of the sale be delivered to the said purchaser.

6.—This Act shall not extend to Ireland.

7.—This Act shall come into operation on the 1st day of October, 1867.

The National Gallery Enlargement Act, 1867. 30*th and* 31*st Victoria, cap.* 41. 15*th July*, 1867.

Whereas, under the provisions of the Act of the 29th and 30th years of the reign of Her Majesty, cap. 83, called "The National Gallery Enlargement Act, 1867," the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Works and Public Buildings have acquired or are empowered to acquire certain Lands for the enlargement and improvement of the National Gallery.

And whereas, the said Commissioners have no power to acquire the same under the authority of that Act, otherwise than by agreement.

And whereas, no agreement has been made with the owners of the said Lands for the purchase thereof, and such owners are of themselves incapacitated from entering into any valid agreement for that purpose, and the lands being required and necessary for the enlargement and improvement of the National Gallery contemplated by the said Act, it is expedient that the said Commissioners should have such further powers of acquiring and appropriating the said lands as are hereinafter contained.

Be it therefore enacted:—

1.—The purposes of this Act are the acquisition and appropriation of additional lands for the enlargement and improvement of the National Gallery aforesaid, and the constructing and doing such works and things as are conducive to the attainment of the above purposes, or incidental thereto.

2.—The Commissioners of Her Majesty's Public Works and Buildings shall have the charge of carrying this Act into effect; but all prescribed lands, as and when they shall be acquired for or become appropriated to the purposes of this Act, shall be conveyed to Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, for the purposes of this Act, or for such other purposes of public utility as may be sanctioned by Parliament.

3.—The Commissioners may, out of any monies which have been or may be placed at their disposal by Parliament for that object, purchase, take, and use the whole or any part of the prescribed lands.

4.—The Commissioners, their surveyors, officers, and workmen, may at all reasonable times in the daytime, upon giving twenty-hours previous notice in writing, enter into and upon any of the prescribed lands for the purposes of surveying or valueing the same.

5.—Notwithstanding anything in this Act or in the Acts incorporated herewith contained, the amount of compensation to be paid by the Commissioners for the lands belonging to the Parochial Schools of the Parish of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, in the County of Middlesex, or in the School in the said Parish, founded by Archbishop Tenison, which may be compulsorily taken for the purposes of this Act, shall be estimated and adjudged for the cost of the reinstatement of Archbishop Tenison's School, within or in proximity to the Parish of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and of the reinstatement of the Parochial Schools within the said parish.

6.—The Commissioners may pull down and remove any buildings on the prescribed lands, and may construct thereon such buildings and works and do such other things as may, in their opinion, be necessary or expedient in order to carry into effect the purposes of this Act.

7.—No purchase shall be made by the Commissioners for the purposes of this Act without the consent, in writing, of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

8.—All contracts in writing, made by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works and Public Buildings, in the execution of any of the powers by this Act given to the Commissioners incorporated as aforesaid shall be valid, and shall be binding on the Commissioners as if she same had been under their Corporate Seal.

9.—A copy of the plan of the prescribed lands shall be deposited at the office of the Commissioners, and shall remain at the said office, to the end that all persons may at all times, on payment of a fee of one shilling, have liberty to inspect the same.

10.—This Act shall be cited for all purposes, as "The National Gallery Enlargement Act, 1867."

The County Courts Act, 1867.

The provisions of this Act are as follows:—

A plaint may be entered in the County Court of the district in which the defendants, or one of them shall dwell or carry on business at the time of action brought; or with leave of the Judge or Registrar, in the district where he has done so within six months, or where the cause of action wholly or in part arose.

Costs are not to be recoverable in the Superior Courts in any action of contract, where £20 is not recovered, or in tort where £10 is not recovered, unless the Judge shall certify, or a Judge in chambers so order it.

Where, in an action of contract brought in a Superior Court, the claim indorsed on the writ does not exceed £50, or is reduced by payment as an admitted sett-off to a sum not exceeding £50, the defendant may apply to a Judge in Chambers for the plaintiff to show cause why it should not be tried in the County Court in which the action might have been commenced, and the Judge may so order, and the proceedings are then to be continued in the County Courts.

The jurisdiction in equity is extended to suits of specific performance for the delivery up, reforming, or cancelling any agreement for the sale, purchase, or lease of property, where the value does not exceed £500.

In any action for malicious prosecution, illegal arrest, illegal distress, assault, false imprisonment, libel, slander, seduction, or other action of tort brought in a Superior Court, on affidavit, that the plaintiff has no visible means of paying the costs if a verdict be not found for him, a Judge of the court in which the action is brought, may order the plaintiff to give security for defendant's costs, failing which the action shall be stayed, or the cause may be remitted to a County Court for trial, and the costs allowed shall be the costs of the County Court only.

This Act is to be construed as one Act with the several County Court Acts, and to be cited as "The County Courts Act, 1867."

VARIETIES.

An American aptly described a gentleman's park, as "Nature with her hair combed."

Mrs Partington says she did not marry her second husband because she loved the male sex, but just because he was the size of her first protector, and could wear his old clothes out.

Miss Buchanan once rallying her cousin, an officer, on his courage, said, "Now, Mr. Harry, do you really mean to tell me you can walk up to a cannon's mouth without fear?"—"Yes," was the prompt reply, "or a Buchanan's either." And he did it.

The most extraordinary instance of patience on record, in modern times, is that of an American judge, who listened silently for two days while a couple of wordy attorneys contended about the construction of an act of the Legislature, and then ended the controversy by quietly remarking: "Gentlemen, the law is repealed."

Orator Henley excelled Barnum in his way. Once he attracted together to his chapel an immense number of shoemakers, by advertising that on the following Saturday he would lay open to the public a mode by which a pair of shoes might be made in four minutes, and demonstrate the ease and certainty of this new method by doing it in the face of the audience. He did so by producing a pair of boots, and cutting the feet off!

The question of negro suffrage was submitted to the voters of the State of Wisconsin at the annual election. The law required the ballots to be written or printed, "for negro suffrage." Those who opposed the measure were required to have written or printed on their tickets, after "suffrage," the word "no." An Irishman who, it was supposed, wanted to oppose negro voting, was seen to vote in favour of it, and also to be busily engaged in electioneering in that direction. Finally, he was accosted by a person of like sentiment, to know his reasons for so doing. "By Saint Patrick!" replied Pat, "and ain't they nagers—then let them suffer!"

How to Look after your Baggage.—My luggage was all right. No sneaking London thief had scrambled up behind and abstracted it. I ascertained this without moving from my seat. I will tell you how. It may be useful to you some day. Keep your eye on the shop-windows, and you will see cab, luggage, and all reflected therein. I am not going to boast that I was so clever as to find this out for myself; somebody told me. My instructor was the driver of a twopenny bus. In his love affairs he had been cut out by his own conductor, the bow-legged young man, who married Polly Perkins of Paddington Green. The driver had carried on with Polly "previous." They were in a swell family together, he as footman, and Polly as lady's-maid. One day they accompanied their mistress in the carriage to the London Bridge Railway Station, the loving pair in the rumble behind. When the mistress got out at the station she discharged them both with a month's wages, but without a character. Joe and Polly, unmindful of the laws of reflection, had been larking outside in the rumble, and the mistress had been a witness to all their goings on by means of the shop-windows. "It was a lesson to me, sir; and it may be to you, as regards luggage, if not as regards love."

PRACTICAL RECEIPTS.

Burns and Scalds.—If the injury be superficial, a little creosote may be applied to the part; and if it be a scald, the vesicle may be first pierced with a needle, and the aqueous fluid squeezed out. When creosote is not procurable, a liniment, formed of equal parts of soft soap, basilicon ointment, oil of turpentine, and water, may be used instead. When the part is very hot and painful, a poultice may be applied, on the surface of which a few drops of creosote, or the liniment should be spread with a knife. If the poultice be applied, it is advisable to keep it on until the next day, when a little spermacetti ointment, spread on some soft linen is to be used instead. Plunging the part into cold water, immediately on receipt of the injury, will frequently prevent any further remedy being necessary.

To Dye Scarlet. For a Silk Shawl.—First dissolve two ounces of white soap in boiling water; handle your shawl through this liquor, now and then rubbing such places with your hands as may appear dirty, till it is as clean as this water will make it. A second or even a third liquor may be used if necessary; the shawl must be rinsed out in warm water. Then take half an ounce of the best Spanish annatto, and dissolve it in hot water; pour this solution into a pan of warm water, and handle your shawl through this for a quarter of an hour; take it out and rinse it in clean water. Now dissolve a piece of alumn as big as a horse bean in warm water, and let your shawl remain in this half an hour; take it out and rinse in clean water. Boil a quarter of an ounce of the best cochineal for twenty minutes; then dip it out of your copper into a pan, and let your shawl remain in this for about twenty-five minutes, which will make it a full blood red. Then take out your shawl, and add to your liquor in the pan one quart more of that out of your copper, if you have as much remaining, and about one small wine glassful of the solution of tin. But observe, that too much solution impoverishes the colour. When cold, rinse it slightly out in spring water.

To Gild the Edges of Books, &c.—The gold applied to the edges of books, &c., is in the same state as for various ornamental purposes, namely an extremely thin leaf. Before the case or cover of the book is quite finished, the volume is struck forcibly against the back so as to make the fore-edge flat instead of concave. It is then placed in press, with the exposed edge uppermost. The edge is scraped smooth with a piece of steel, and is coated with a mixture of red chalk and water. The gold is blown out from small books, and spread on a leather cushion, where it is cut to the proper size by a smooth edged knife. A camel-hair pencil is dipped into white of egg mixed with water, and with this the partially dry edge of the book is moistened; the gold is then taken up on a flat kind of brush, and applied to the moistened edge, to which it instantly adheres. When all the three edges have been gilt in this way, and allowed to remain a very few minutes, the workman takes a burnisher formed of a very hard stone (usually bloodstone,) and setting the end of the handle against his shoulder, rubs the gold very forcibly, which gives the gold a high.degree of polish.

Sea Sickness.—Camphorated spirit, sal volatile, and Hoffman's ether, a few drops of each, mixed in a small quantity of water, or upon a small lump of sugar, have frequently afforded more relief than all the various remedies extolled for this unpleasant sensation.

Ointment for Chapped Hands.—Goulard's extract, one fluid ounce; rose-water one fluid ounce; spermacetti ointment two ounces. Melt the ointment, and rub it up with the extract of Goulard, mixed with the rose-water.

To Destroy Slugs—Slugs are very voracious, and often do considerable damage, not only to the kitchen garden, but to the flower beds also. If, now and then, a few slices of turnip be put about the beds, on a summer or autmnal evening, the slugs will congregate thereon, and may be destroyed.

Lemonade.—Bicarbonate of soda, two scruples; tartaric acid, thirty-five grains, sugar, quarter of an ounce; essence of lemon, three drops; water, one gill. This is to drink immediately.

Lemon Sherbet.—The fragrant essence of the rind of three or four lemons, obtained by the following process:—after clearing off every speck on the outer rind of the fruit, break off a large piece of loaf sugar, and rub the lemon on it till the yellow rind is completely absorbed; loaf sugar, four ounces; juice of three or four lemons; water, one quart.

To prevent the Growth of Moss on Fruit Trees.—The trees should be syringed with lime-water two or three times during autumn and winter; if performed every year it will prove effectual; urine or brine would be equally efficient, and likewise kill the moss growing on fruit trees, if they were washed well with it when the leaves are off.

To Prune Vines on Open Walls.—There are many ways of pruning; the two following are the best.

1. Cut all the young shoots left on the plant for bearing wood, short, leaving on each four or more buds, according to their strength, and train the plant in an horizontal manner, in the form of a peach tree, leaving in every part of it, a supply of fruit bearing buds, which are to be found only on the last year's shoots; all the superfluous and weak shoots, whether old or young, are cut off, and the remaining branches laid in at a distance from each other of about six inches, and during the summer a sufficiency of young shoots are laid in for the following year, after stopping them a short distance before the bunches of fruit. This is called the old method of pruning.

2. Cut down all the branches which produced the fruit the preceeding year, and having in the former summer left two shoots to grow as long as nature led them, choose the best of the two for a fruit-bearing branch, and lay it carefully in good ground for six to twelve or more feet long, according to its strength, and the strength of the mother plant; and if the plant be in a healthy state, almost every bud upon the young shoot will break forth, and show one, two, and three bunches of grapes. These side or lateral shoots which for fruit are to be stopped occasionally all the summer, just before the fruit, taking care to leave an eye or two before the fruit, to break forth as a leader of the sap, to nourish the bunches of grapes. If the vine plant be not vigorous in growth, the branch which produced the fruit should be cut off as soon as the fruit is all gathered, which will be the means of strengthening the young shoots intended to produce the succeeding year. Some persons lay in the long shoots left for bearing the fruit, straight, and others in a serpentine way; but either will do.

Green Writing Ink.—Take one ounce of verdigris, and having powdered it, put to it one quart of vinegar; after it has stood two or three days, strain of the liquid. Or, instead of this, use the crystals of verdigris dissolved in water; then dissolve, in one pint of either of these solutions, five drachms of gum arabic, and two drachms of white sugar.

Bottle Lemonade.—Dissolve half a pound of loaf sugar in one quart of water, and boil it over a slow fire; two drachms of acetic acid; four ounces of tartaric acid; when cold, add two-penny worth of essence of lemon. Put one-sixth of the above into each bottle filled with water, and add thirty grains of carbonate of soda; cork it immediately, and it will be fit for use.

To clean old Brass for Lackering.—First boil a strong lye of wood-ashes, which you may strengthen with soap lees; put in your brass work, and the lacker will immediately come off; then have ready a pickle of aqua-fortis and water, strong enough to take off the dirt; wash it immediately in clean water, dry it well, and lacker it.

To make Red Ink.—Take of the raspings of Brazil wood one quarter of a pound, and infuse them two or three days in vinegar, which should be colourless. Boil the infusion one hour over a gentle fire, and afterwards filter it, while hot, through paper laid in an earthenware cullender. Put it again over the fire and dissolve in it, first half an ounce of gum arabic, and afterwards of alum and white sugar, each half an ounce. Care should be taken that the Brazil wood be not adulterated with Brasiletto or Campeachy wood.

Preservation of Grain from Mice.—The following effectual method to prevent mice from eating the grain in stacks or mows, and cheese and other articles, cannot be made too generally known:—Mr. Macdonald, of Scalpa, of the Hebrides, having, some years ago suffered considerably by mice, put at the bottom, near the centre and top of each stack or mow, as it was raised, three or four stalks of wild mint, with the leaves on, gathered near a brook in a neighbouring field, and never after that had any of his grain consumed. He then tried the same experiment with cheese, and other articles kept in store and often injured by mice, and with equal effect, by laying a few leaves green or dry, on the articles to be preserved. From these results it must be inferred mice have an antipathy to the smell of mint, if so, it may be worth experiment to scatter a few drops of oil of peppermint in pantries and places where they frequent, as the effect will probably be the same.

Restoration after Suffocation.—From inattention or accident, children are sometimes smothered in beds and cradles. If the body be hot, it should be exposed to a current of air, and sprinkled with cold water, the lungs inflated, and the body treated as in the case of drowned persons.

THE WEATHER. The year commences with moderate weather for the season, followed by high winds and variable weather, but no great amount of downfall, and the temperature will not be very low until after the 20th, when we may expect some sharp winterly weather; but on the whole, January will be a dry month. High tides may be expected at the full moon.

The Grimsby Packet leaves Grimsby about 4 hours before high water at Hull; leaves Hull, for Grimsby, a little before high water. The Packets for Gainsborough, Selby, Leeds, Thorne, Doncaster, Sheffield, York, Goole, &c., leave Hull from 2 to 3 hours before high water.

THE WEATHER. There will be considerably more moisture than last month, and much downfall may be expected which will increase towards the latter part of the month; high winds will also prevail, and on the whole, February, seldom a very agreeable month, will be more than usually unpleasant. At the full moon high tides may be expected, and if the wind is from the North-west, owners of property at the river side should be careful to protect themselves.

THE WEATHER. March comes in with wet unpleasant weather, which will continue until about the middle of the month although the tendency will be to improve, and after the 20th, moderately fine weather may be expected, but on the whole it will be a wet month, with high winds towards the latter part. The tides as usual at the Equinox will be high, but nothing extraordinary may be expected; still if the wind be from North-west at the full moon, river-side property occupants should be cautious.

THE WEATHER. April comes in with cold weather but not much rain, the wind being from the East; however, after the first few days it will gradually get warmer, and after the 10th we may expect finer weather than we have had in April for the last two or three years, and which will continue until the end of the month, although towards the close it will become colder.

THE WEATHER. Although there is still a little moisture in the air, very little rain may be expected and we shall have fine summer weather until after the middle of the month, when more downfall may be looked for, but on the whole there will be much less than the average quantity of rain during this usually wet month. The temperature will not be so high as last year, but the weather more favourable for general farming operations.

THE WEATHER. September comes in with showery weather and as the month progresses it will become more unsettled with cold winds, and after the 15th, considerable downfall may be looked for and will continue throughout the month; on the whole it will be a cold and wet month with frequent high winds. The tides will not rise very high, unless the wind should be strong from the West or North-west, at the new or full moon.

THE WEATHER. The first few days will be fine seasonable weather, after which it will become more changeable, with wind from the East, still no great amount of downfall until about the 10th, when a considerable fall of snow or rain may be expected, after which, sharp winterly weather may be looked for until the end of the year. The Tides will be high, both at New and Full moon.

ECLIPSES, &c.

In the year 1869 there will be two Eclipses of the Sun and two of the Moon.

The first is a partial Eclipse of the Moon, on the 27th January, 1869; the following are the times for Hull:—

First Contact with the Penumbra, Jan. 27th	11h. 20m.	afternoon.
First Contact with Dark Shadow, Jan. 28th	0h. 31m.	morning.
Middle of the Eclipse, Jan. 28th	1h. 40m.	morning.
Last Contact with Dark Shadow, Jan. 28th	2h. 49m.	morning.
Last Contact with the Penumbra, Jan. 28th	4h. 0m.	morning.

Magnitude of the Eclipse 5 digits on the Moon's northern limb.

The second is an Annular Eclipse of the Sun on the 11th February, but invisible in this part of the world.

The third is a Partial Eclipse of the Moon on the 23rd July, but invisible here.

The fourth is a Total Eclipse of the Sun on the 7th August, but invisible in England. It will be visible over the whole of North America, and the North-eastern part of Asia.

The Planet Venus will be a Morning Star from January 1st until May 10th, then an Evening Star to the end of the year.

The Planet Jupiter will be an Evening Star from January 1st until April 16th, then a Morning Star until October 1st, and afterwards an Evening Star until the end of the year. From the 19th March until the 14th May Jupiter's Satellites will be invisible, in consequence of Jupiter being too near the Sun.

DR. HERSCHELL'S WEATHER TABLE.

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters, so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

Moon Changes.	In Summer.	In Winter.
Between Midnight & 2 in the Morn.	Fair - - - - - -	Frost, unless Wind be S. or S. W.
2 and 4 - - -	Cold with Showers -	Snow and Stormy
4 and 6 - - -	Rain - - - - -	Rain
6 and 8 - - -	Wind and Rain - -	Stormy
8 and 10 - - -	Changeable - -	Cold Rain if Wind W. Snow if E.
10 and 12 - - -	Frequent Showers -	Cold and High Winds
12 and 2 Aftern.	Very Rainy - - -	Snow or Rain
2 and 4 - - -	Changeable - - -	Fair and Mild
4 and 6 - - -	Fair - - - - - -	Fair
6 and 8 - - -	Fair, if Wind N. W. Rain, if S. or S. W.	Fair and Frosty, if Wind N. or N. E. Rain or Snow, if S. or S. W.
8 and 10 - - -	Ditto ditto - - -	Ditto ditto
10 and Midnight.	Fair - - - - - -	Fair and Frosty

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.
2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.
3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.
4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.
5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.
6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

NOTICE TO CARRIERS.

As great difficulty has heretofore been experienced in securing a correct List of Carriers, the Publisher would feel obliged by all Carriers calling at the Office, 23, Market-place, Hull, and examining the same, so that if not correctly inserted this year, they may be next.

GARDENERS' CALENDAR.

JANUARY.—Prepare for all sowing and planting. If this had been done in December, it would have been better; the ground is now generally too moist for putting seed in. If you choose to sow peas, though it is not a good practise, sow them early enough.

FEBRUARY.—Prepare your ground for onions; soot, or common kennel-muck (or sludge, as it is called in some places,) is the best manure for them. Sow carrot and spinach seed. If you have any cauliflower plants under frames, draw the glasses down whenever the weather is open and mild.

MARCH.—Sow asparagus, celery, cauliflowers, brussels sprouts, beets, brocoli, spinage, onions, dutch turnips, peas, beans, savoys, parsnips, and turnip radishes. Plant sea-kale, kidney-beans, and cauliflowers from frames. Graft fruit trees, &c

APRIL.—Prick and plant out all the cabbage kind. All carrots, parsnips, beets, &c., may now be sown. Prepare your ground for planting out cucumber plants. Plant slips and cuttings of kitchen herbs.

MAY.—Sow capsicums, cauliflowers, carrots, lettuces, spinage, cucumbers, peas, red beet for pickling, and kidney and french beans. Transplant cabbages, winter greens, lettuces, cauliflowers, and celery.

JUNE.—Sow beans, peas, cucumbers for pickling, radishes, spinach, cabbages, endive, carrots, brocoli and borecole; kidney-beans once a fortnight; lettuce and small salad once in ten days.

JULY.—Sow turnips, french beans, lettuces, and black spanish radishes. Plant out brocoli, cauliflowers, savoys, leeks, and winter cabbages, and earth up celery. Gather medicinal flowers and sweet herbs, &c.

AUGUST.—A variety of esculent vegetables must be sown at this time for the autumn and winter crops. Plant young seedlings; hoe and earth round cauliflowers, Propagate aromatic plants, &c., by parting the roots.

SEPTEMBER.—Sow vegetable seeds for a spring crop, and plant cauliflowers, brocoli, savoys, german greens, leeks, lettuce, celery, and perennial and aromatic pot herbs. Hoe winter spinach and turnips, earth up celery, weed cauliflowers and young onions; prick out cabbage plants.

OCTOBER.—Plant cabbages, endive, brocoli, &c. Sow small salad, radishes, and lettuce; a few mazagan beans and hotspur peas to stand the winter. Tie up endive and earth up celery and cardoons.

NOVEMBER.—Force sea cale, rhubarb, and asparagus. Prune and plant fruit trees. Transplant seeding stocks, and suckers taken from the roots of pear, codlin, plum, and quince trees, to prepare them for budding or grafting different fruits upon. Shelter choice flowers.

DECEMBER.—Tie up endive, cardoons, and white beet. Take up edible and full-grown vegetables with esculent leaves, and plant the latter in sand, in an open shed for use

ODDS AND ENDS.

The following, cut from the Providence (U.S.) Journal, exhibits the strength of the female mind in the Western country:—

NOTICE.

WHEREAS, my husband, Joseph H. Cornell, has advertised that I have left his bed and board, I desire to say that as for bed, he had none; that belonged to my mother. Board, also, was minus, unless whisky merits that designation. The public will therefore see that the notice of Mr. Cornell was entirely gratuitous and uncalled for

MRS. SUSIE L. CORNELL.

Providence, August 20, 1868.

There are portions of the extreme north of Europe in which the kiss of the maiden of the house is the accredited seal of hospitality. She takes off your stockings at night, and tucks you up with a kiss; then in the morning she comes in with the sunbeams and wakes you up with another kiss. We forget if she puts on your stockings for you.

"Why didn't you strike the dog with the butt of your musket?" asked a captain of an Irish private, who had pinned a savage mastiff to the ground with his bayonet. "Sure, and so I wud, plase yer Honor, if the baste had run at me wid his tail."

A lady, who has a great horror of tobacco, got into a railway carriage the other day, and inquired of a male neighbour, "Do you chew tobacco, sir?" "No madam, I don't," was the reply; "but I can get you a chew, if you want one."

A neglected husband reasons that "the British made a mistake in abolishing the law that compelled the widow to burn herself with the remains of her husband. If such a rule were applied here, the ladies would take better care of their husband's health."

An aged bachelor being asked if he ever witnessed a public execution, replied, "No, but I once saw a marriage."

An Illinois paper says there is a man in Olney so dirty that the assessors put him down as real estate.

The annexed conversation will be read with interest, as showing the possible depths to which the animal man may descend in haducing the fair sex:—An Englishman and pretty Hindoo were seated by an open window in Calcutta, one afternoon, and the lady plied the gentleman with many inquisitive questions with regard to the ladies of England. Amongst others she wanted to know if our widows burned themselves on the funeral pile of the husband? The wretch answered in verse—

"Do they burn, that they do,
The Englishman cried—
With a flame not so easy to smother,
Our widows, the moment one husband is dead
Immediately burn for another."

The Springfield Republican is responsible for the following: A worthy deacon in a town somewhere in North America, gave notice at a prayer meeting, the other night, of a church meeting that was to be held immediately after, and unconsciously added: "There is no objection to the female brethren remaining."

Referring to the Democratic clamour, that the millions that have been expended in putting down the rebellion have been wasted, the Hartford Post says:—"Imagine a pickpocket contemplating a policeman with the mournful remark, 'Ah! this is what we're taxed for—just to keep this fellow in idleness.'"

ABSTRACTS OF IMPORTANT
ACTS OF PARLIAMENT, PASSED LAST SESSION.

31 and 32 Victoria, chap. 48.

THE SCOTCH REFORM ACT.

PART I.

FRANCHISES.—Household Franchise for Boroughs.

Every man shall, in and after the year 1868 be entitled to be registered as a Voter, and when registered, to vote at elections for a Member or Members to serve in Parliament for a Burgh, who, when the Sheriff proceeds to consider his right to be inserted or retained in the Register of Voters, is qualified as follows: that is to say—

1.—Is of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity:—
2.—Is, and has been for a period of not less than twelve calendar months next preceding the last day of July, an inhabitant occupier, as owner or tenant, of any dwelling-house within the Burgh.

Provided that no man shall be registered who, at any time during the said period of twelve months, shall have been exempted from payment of Poor Rates on the ground of inability to pay; or shall have failed to pay the same; or who shall have been in receipt of Parochial Relief within the twelve calendar months next preceding the said last day of July. Provided also that no man shall under this section be entitled to be registered as a Voter by reason of his being a joint occupier of any dwelling-house.

Lodger Franchise for Boroughs.

Every man shall, in and after the year 1868, be entitled to be registered as a Voter, and when registered, to vote for a Member or Members to serve in Parliament for a Burgh, who is qualified as follows: that is to say—

1.—Is of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity; and
2.—As a Lodger has occupied in the same Burgh, separately, and as sole tenant, for the twelve months preceding the last day of July in any year, lodgings of a clear yearly value, if let unfurnished, of ten pounds and upwards; and
3.—Has resided in such lodgings during the twelve months immediately preceding the last day of July, and has claimed to be registered as a Voter at the next ensuing Registration of Voters.

Ownership Franchise for Counties.

Every man shall, in and after the year 1868, be entitled to be registered as a Voter, and when registered, to vote at the election of a Member or Members to serve in Parliament for a County, who is qualified as follows; that is to say—

1.—Is of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity; and
2.—Is, and has been for a period of not less than six calendar months next preceding the last day of July, the proprietor of Lands and Heritages, the clear yearly value of which, as appearing from the Valuation Roll of the County, shall be Five Pounds or upwards.

Occupation Franchise for Counties.

Every man shall be entitled to be registered as a Voter, and when registered, to vote at elections for a Member to serve in Parliament for a County, who is qualified as follows:

1.—Is of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity;
2.—Is, and has been during the twelve calendar months immediately preceding the last day of July, in the actual personal occupancy as tenant of Lands and Heritages within the County, of the annual value of fourteen pounds or upwards.

Provided that no man shall be entitled to be registered, who, at any time during the said period of twelve calendar months, shall have been exempted from Poor Rates on the ground of inability to pay; or who shall have been in receipt of Parochial Relief within the said period of twelve calendar months.

At a contested Election for the City of Glasgow, no person shall vote for more than two candidates.

Electors employed for reward within six months of an Election shall not be entitled to vote.

PART II.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEATS.

In all future Parliaments the Universities of Scotland shall return Two Members to serve in Parliament; the City of Glasgow shall return Three Members to serve in Parliament; and the Town of Dundee, and the Counties of Lanark, Ayr, and Aberdeen, shall each return Two Members to serve in Parliament; and one of the Members for the Universities of Scotland shall be returned jointly by the University of Edinburgh, and the University of St. Andrews; and the other of such Members shall be returned jointly by the University of Glasgow, and the University of Aberdeen.

From and after the end of the present Parliament, the County of Selkirk shall cease to return a Member to serve in Parliament, and the County of Peebles shall cease to return a Member to serve in Parliament, and the said Counties shall jointly return One Member to serve in Parliament; and the Towns and Burghs of Hawich, Galashiels, and Selkirk, shall be constituted into a District of Burghs, and such District shall return One Member to serve in Parliament.

From and after the end of the present Parliament, the following Counties shall be divided into two Divisions, viz:—Aberdeenshire, Ayrshire, and Lanarkshire; and each of such Divisions shall, in all future Parliaments, return One Member to serve in Parliament, in the same manner as if each such Division were a separate County.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Whereas in order to provide for the seats hereinbefore distributed, it is expedient that certain Boroughs in England, having small populations, should cease to return Members to serve in Parliament: Be it therefore enacted,—That from and after the end of this present Parliament, the Boroughs of Arundel, Ashburton, Dartmouth, Honiton, Lyme Regis, Thetford, and Wells shall respectively cease to return any Member to serve in Parliament.

Any person, either directly or indirectly, corruptly paying any Rate, on behalf of any Ratepayer for the purpose of enabling him to be registered as a Voter, thereby to influence his vote at any future Election; and any Candidate or other person, either directly or indirectly, paying any rate on behalf of any Voter for the purpose of inducing him to vote or refrain from voting, shall be guilty of bribery, and be punishable accordingly.

THE IRISH REFORM ACT.

31 and 32 Victoria, chap. 49.

This Act shall be cited for all purposes as "The Representation of the People (Ireland) Act, 1868."

This Act shall apply to Ireland only, but shall not in anywise affect the Election of Members to serve in Parliament for the University of Dublin.

PART I.—FRANCHISES.

Occupation Franchise in Cities, Towns, and Boroughs.

From and after the passing of this Act, the Fifth Section of the Act, 13 and 14 Victoria, cap. 69, and all other Sections or parts of the same Act, which relate to or affect the Franchise conferred by the said Fifth Section, or the Registration of Voters upon whom it is conferred, and in which are the words "Eight Pounds" in reference to the said Franchise, shall be read and construed as if the words "more than Four Pounds" had been used, so and in such manner, that the occupation of Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments rated at the net annual value of more than Four Pounds, shall be as effectual to qualify any man to be Registered as a Voter, and when Registered to Vote at any Election of Members to serve in Parliament, for any City, Town or Borough in Ireland, to be held after the passing of this Act, as the occupation of Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, rated at the net annual value of Eight Pounds and upwards, was before the passing of this Act.

Lodger Franchise for Voters in Cities Towns and Boroughs.

Every man shall be entitled to be Registered as a Voter, and when registered, to Vote for a Member or Members to serve in Parliament for a City, Town or Borough, who is qualified as follows: that is to say—

1.—Is of full age and not subject to any legal incapacity; and
2.—As a Lodger has occupied in such City, Town or Borough, separately and as sole Tenant for the Twelve Months preceding the Twentieth day of July, in any year, the same Lodgings, such Lodgings being part of one and the same Dwelling-house, and of a clear yearly value, if let unfurnished, of Ten Pounds or upwards.

5.—In a County where premises are in the joint occupation of several persons as owners or tenants, and the aggregate rateable value of such premises is such as would, if divided amongst the several occupiers, so far as the value is concerned, confer on each of them a Vote; then each of such joint occupiers, shall, if otherwise qualified, be entitled to be registered as a Voter, and when registered, to vote at an Election for the County.

Provided, always that not more than Two persons, being such joint occupiers, shall be entitled to be Registered in respect of such premises, unless they shall have derived the same by Descent, Succession, Marriage, Marriage Settlement, or Devise, or unless they shall be bonâ fide engaged as partners carrying on trade or business thereon.

6.—No Elector who, within Six Months before or during any Election for any County, City, Town or Borough, shall have been retained, hired or employed, for all or any of the purposes of the Election, for reward, by or on behalf of any candidate at such Election, as Agent, Canvasser, Clerk or Messenger, or in any other like employment, shall be entitled to Vote at such Election, and if he shall so vote, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

MISCELLANEOUS ACTS.

The Capital Punishment Amendment Act, 31st Victoria, chap. 24.

Whereas it is expedient that Capital Punishment should be carried into effect within Prisons: Be it enacted as follows:—

1.—This Act may be cited as "The Capital Punishment Amendment Act, 1868."

2.—Judgment of Death to be executed on any Prisoner, sentenced after the passing of this act, on any indictment for Murder, shall be carried into effect within the walls of the Prison in which the offender is confined at the time of the execution.

3.—The Sheriff charged with the execution, and the Gaoler, Chaplain, and Surgeon of the Prison, and such other officers of the Prison as the Sheriff requires, shall be present at the execution.

Any Justice of the Peace for the County, Borough, or other Jurisdiction to which the Prison belongs, and such relatives of the prisoner, or other persons as it seems to the Sheriff or the Visiting Justices of the Prison proper to admit within the Prison for the purpose, may also be present at the execution.

4.—As soon as may be, after judgment of death has been executed on the offender, the Surgeon of the prison shall examine the body of the offender, and shall ascertain the fact of death, and shall sign a certificate thereof, and deliver the same to the Sheriff.

The Sheriff and Gaoler, and Chaplain of the Prison, and such Justices and other persons present (if any) as the Sheriff requires or allows, shall also sign a declaration to the effect that judgment of death has been executed on the offender.

5.—The Coroner of the jurisdiction to which the prison belongs wherein judgment of death is executed on any offender, shall, within twenty-four hours after the execution, hold an inquest on the body of the offender; and the Jury, at the inquest, shall inquire into and ascertain the identity of the body, and whether judgment of death was duly executed on the offender; and the inquisition shall be in duplicate, and one of the originals shall be delivered to the Sheriff.

6.—The body of the offender executed shall be buried within the walls of the prison, provided that if one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State is satisfied, on the representation of the Visiting Justices of a prison, that there is not convenient space within the walls thereof for the burial of offenders executed therein, he may, by writing under his hand, appoint some other fit place for that purpose.

The Judgments Extension Act, 31 and 32 Victoria, chap. 54.

N.B.—Before the passing of this Act, Judgments obtained by a Creditor against his Debtor in one part of the United Kingdom had no effect in any other part. So that if a Creditor sued his Debtor in England and obtained Judgment—but before that Judgment could be executed, the Debtor removed all his goods to Scotland, and went and resided there himself—the Creditor would be obliged to commence fresh proceedings against him in Scotland; and if, in like manner, after he had obtained Judgment, but before it was executed, the Creditor went away with all he had from Scotland to Ireland, neither the English nor the Irish Judgments would be of any use, but fresh proceedings would have to be commenced in Ireland. This gross failure of Justice has been removed by the following Act.

1.—Where any judgment shall hereafter be obtained or entered up in any of the Courts of Queen's Bench, Common Pleas, and Exchequer of Pleas at Westminster or Dublin respectively, for any debt, damages, or costs, on production to the Master of the Common Pleas at Dublin, where such judgments shall have been obtained or entered up in any of the said Courts of England, or to the Senior Master of the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster, where such judgment shall have been obtained or entered up in any of the said Courts in Ireland, of a Certificate of such judgment in one of the forms contained in the Schedule hereunto annexed, as the case may be, purporting to be signed by the proper officer of the Court where such judgment has been obtained or entered up; such Certificate shall be registered by such Master, in a Register to be kept in the Court of Common Pleas, at Dublin and Westminster respectively, for that purpose, and to be called in the Court of Common Pleas at Dublin, "The Register for English Judgments," and to be called in the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster, "The Register for Irish Judgments," and shall from the date of such Registration, be of the same force and effect, and all proceedings shall and may be had and taken as if such Certificate had been a Judgment originally obtained or entered up on the date of such Registration as aforesaid, in the Court in which it is so Registered, and all reasonable costs and charges attendant upon the obtaining and registering such Certificate, shall be recovered in like manner, as if the same were part of the original judgment.

Provided always, that no Certificate of any such Judgment shall be Registered as aforesaid, more than Twelve Months after the date of such Judgment, unless application shall have been first made to, and leave obtained from the Court or a Judge of the Court, in which it is sought to Register such Certificate.

2.—Where any Judgment shall hereafter be obtained or entered up in any of the Courts of Queen's Bench, Common Pleas or Exchequer, at Westminster or Dublin respectively, for any debt, damages, or costs, on production at the Office kept in Edinburgh for the Registration of Deeds, Bonds, Protests, and other writs registered in the books of Council and Session of a Certificate of such Judgment, in one of the forms contained in the Schedule hereto annexed, as the case may be, purporting to be signed by the proper officer of the Court where such Judgment has been obtained or entered up, such Certificate shall be Registered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and to be called "The Register for English and Irish Judgments," in like manner as a Bond executed according to the law of Scotland, with a clause of Registration for execution therein contained; and every Certificate so registered shall, from the date of such Registration, be of the same force as a decreet of the Court of Session, and all proceedings may be had on an extract of such certificate as if the judgment of which it is a certificate had been a decreet originally pronounced in the Court of Session on the date of such Registration aforesaid, and all reasonable costs, charges and expenses, attendant upon the obtaining and Registering such Certificate, shall be recovered in like manner as if the same were part of the original Judgment.

3.—Where a decreet has been obtained in the Court of Session, a certificate of an extract thereof, registered in England or Ireland, shall have the effect of a Judgment of the Court in which it is so registered.

The County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868,
31 and 32 Victoria, chap. 71.

N.B.—This Act was introduced into the House of Commons by C. M. NORWOOD, Esq., M.P. for Hull.

1.—This Act may be cited as "The County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868."

2.—If at any time after the passing of this Act, it appears to Her Majesty in Council, on the representation of the Lord Chancellor, expedient that any County Court should have Admiralty Jurisdiction, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by order in Council, to appoint that Court to have Admiralty Jurisdiction accordingly, and to assign to that Court as its district for Admiralty purposes any part or parts of any one or more district or districts of County Courts; and the district so constituted for that Court, with the parts of the Sea (if any) adjacent to that district to a distance of three miles from the shore thereof, shall be deemed its district for Admiralty purposes; and accordingly the Judge and all officers of the Court shall have jurisdiction and authority for those purposes throughout that district, as if the same was the district of the Court for all purposes.

3.—Any County Court having Admiralty Jurisdiction shall have Jurisdiction to try and determine the following causes (in this Act referred to as Admiralty clauses:)—

(1.)—As to any claim for SALVAGE—any cause in which the value of the property saved does not exceed one thousand pounds, or in which the amount claimed does not exceed three hundred pounds.

(2.)—As to any claim for TOWAGE, NECESSARIES, OR WAGES—any cause in which the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred and fifty pounds.

(3.)—As to any claim for DAMAGE TO CARGO, OR DAMAGE BY COLLISION—any cause in which the amount claimed does not exceed three hundred pounds.

(4.)—Any cause in respect of any such claim or claims, but in which the value of the property saved, or the amount claimed is beyond the amount limited as above mentioned, when the parties agree by a memorandum, signed by them or by their attorneys or agents, that any County Court having jurisdiction, and specified in the memorandum, shall have jurisdiction.

4.—The High Court of Admiralty of England, on motion by any party to an Admiralty cause pending in a County Court, may, if it shall think fit, with previous notice to the other party, transfer the same to the High Court of Admiralty, and may order security of costs, or propose such other terms as the Court may seem fit.

5.—If during the progress of an Admiralty Cause in the County Court, it appears to the Court that the subject matter exceeds the limit in respect of amount of the Admiralty Jurisdiction of the Court, the Court shall (unless the parties, by signed memorandum, agree that the Court shall retain jurisdiction,) by order, transfer the cause to the High Court of Admiralty.

6.—If during the progress of an Admiralty Cause, it should appear to the Court that the cause would be more conveniently prosecuted in some other County Court, or in the High Court of Admiralty, the Court may, by order, transfer it to such other County Court, or to the High Court of Admiralty of England, as the case may be; and the cause shall thenceforth be so prosecuted accordingly.

7.—If any person shall take into the High Court of Admiralty of England or in any Superior Court, proceedings which he might, without agreement, have taken in a County Court, (except by order of the Judge of the High Court of Admiralty), or of such Superior Court, or of a County Court having Admiralty Jurisdiction, and shall not recover a sum exceeding the amount to which the Jurisdiction of the County Court in that Admiralty Cause is limited by this Act; and also if any person, without agreement, shall, except by order as aforesaid, take proceedings as to Salvage in the High Court of Admiralty or in any Superior Court in respect of property saved, the value of which when saved does not exceed One Thousand Pounds, he shall not be entitled to Costs, unless the Judge of the High Court of Admiralty, or of a Superior Court before whom the cause is tried, shall certify that it was a proper Admiralty cause, to be tried in the High Court of Admiralty of England or in a Superior Court.

8.—In an Admiralty Cause in a County Court, the cause shall be heard and determined in like manner as ordinary Civil causes are now heard and determined in County Courts; save and except that in any Admiralty Cause of Salvage, Towage, or Collision, the County Court Judge shall, if he think fit, or on the request of either party to such cause, be assisted by two Nautical Assessors in the same way as the Judge of the High Court of Admiralty is now assisted.

9.—Such Nautical Assessors may be summoned by the Judge of a County Court in such manner as General Orders shall direct.

10.—The Registrar of each County Court, having Admiralty Jurisdiction, shall from time to time frame a list, to be approved by a Judge of the High Court of Admiralty, of Assessors, of persons of nautical skill and experience residing or having places of business within the District of the County Court, to act as Assessors in such Court, and shall cause the list to be published in the London Gazette.

11.—Every person named in the list of Assessors shall attend the Court under such circumstances, and in such rotation, and subject to such regulations, and shall receive such fees for his attendance as general orders shall direct; and for every wilful non-attendance shall be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to a penalty not exceeding five pounds.

12.—Proceedings in an Admiralty cause shall be commenced—

(1.)—In the County Court having Admiralty Jurisdiction within the district of which the vessel or property to which the cause relates is at the commencement of the proceedings.

(2.)—If the foregoing Rule be not applicable, then in the County Court having Admiralty Jurisdiction in the district of which the owner of the vessel or property to which the cause relates, or his agent in England resides; or if such owner or agent does not reside within any such district, then the County Court having Admiralty Jurisdiction in the district whereof is nearest to the place where such owner or agent resides.

(3.)—If from any reason the last foregoing Rule is not applicable, or cannot be acted upon, then in such County Court having Admiralty Jurisdiction as general orders direct.

(4.)—In any case in the County Court, or one of the County Courts having Admiralty Jurisdiction, in which the parties, by a memorandum, signed by them or by their attorneys or agents agree, shall have jurisdiction in the cause.

13.—In an Admiralty Cause in a County Court, if evidence be given to the satisfaction of the Judge (or in his absence the Registrar of the Court), that it is probable that the vessel or property to which the cause relates will be removed out of the jurisdiction of the Court before the Plaintiff's claim is satisfied, it shall be lawful for the said Judge, or in his absence the Registrar, to issue a Warrant for the arrest and detention of the said vessel, unless or until bail to the amount of the claim made in such cause, and to the reasonable costs of the Plaintiff in such cause be entered by the owner of such vessel.

14.—The Court of Passage of the Borough of Liverpool shall, upon an order in Council being made—which shall appoint the County Court of Lancashire, holden at Liverpool, to have Admiralty Jurisdiction—have the like Jurisdiction, Powers, and Authorities as by that order are conferred on the said County Court.

15.—An appeal may be made to the High Court of Admiralty of England from a final decree or order of a County Court in an Admiralty Cause, and by permission of the Judge of the County Court, from any interlocutory decree or order therein, on security for costs being first given and subject to such other provisions as general orders shall direct.

16.—On an appeal under this Act, when the appellant is unsuccessful, he shall pay the costs of the appeal, unless the appellate Court shall otherwise direct 17.—No appeal shall be allowed unless the amount decreed or ordered to be due exceeds the sum of Fifty Pounds.

LIST OF FAIRS.

William Adams earnestly requests that Town Clerks, Clerks of the Markets, and others interested, will aid him in his endeavour to make this List as correct as possible; in doing so they will benefit alike themselves, the public, and the proprietor, who will gratefully receieve information of any error now existing in this part of his work, or of any event which may occur in future to render an alteration necessary.

William Adams begs to observe, that the sooner such assistance can be afforded him, prior to the next publication, the more advantageous it is likely to prove, as, from the large and increasing demand for his Almanack, he is obliged to put it early to press. No communication will be available, unless authenticated by the writer's name and address.

PRACTICAL RECEIPTS.

Red Currant Jelly.—With three parts of fine ripe red currants mix one of white currants; put them into a clean preserving-pan, and stir them gently over a clear fire until the juice flows from them freely; then turn them into a fine hair sieve, and let them drain well, but without pressure. Pass the juice through a folded muslin, or a jelly bag; weigh it, and then boil it fast for a quarter of an hour; add for each pound, eight ounces of sugar coarsely powdered, stir this to it off the fire until it is dissolved, give the jelly eight minutes more of quick boiling, and pour it out. It will be firm, and of excellent colour and flavour. Be sure to clear off the scum as it rises, both before and after the sugar is put in, or the preserve will not be clear. Juice of red currants, three pounds; juice of white currants, one pound: fifteen minutes. Sugar, two pounds: eight minutes. An excellent jelly may be made with equal parts of the juice of red and of white currants, and of raspberries, with the same proportion of sugar and degree of boiling as mentioned in the foregoing receipt.

White Currant Jelly.—White currant jelly is made in the same way as red currant jelly, only it should have double refined sugar and not be boiled above ten minutes. White currant jelly should be put through a lawn sieve.

Black Currant Jelly.—To each pound of pickled fruit allow one gill of water; set them on the preserving-pan to scald, but do not let them boil; bruise them well with a silver fork, or wooden beater; take them off and squeeze them through a hair sieve, and to every pint of juice allow a pound of loaf or raw sugar: boil it ten minutes.

Best Blacking for Boots and Shoes.—Ivory black, one and a half ounce; treacle, one and a half ounce; sperm oil, three drachms; strong oil of vitriol, three drachms; common vinegar, half a pint. Mix the ivory black, treacle, and vinegar together, then mix the sperm oil and oil of vitriol separately, and add them to the other mixture.

How to wash Kid Gloves.—Have ready a little new milk in one saucer, and a piece of brown soap in another, and a clean cloth or towel folded three or four times. On the cloth, spread out the glove smooth and neat. Take a piece of flannel, dip it in the milk then rub off a good quantity of soap to the wet flannel, and commence to rub the glove downwards towards the fingers, holding it firmly with the left hand. Continue this process until the glove, if white, looks of a dingy yellow, though clean; if coloured, till it looks dark and spoiled. Lay it to dry; and old gloves will soon look nearly new. They will be soft, glossy, smooth, well-shaped, and elastic.

Summer Champagne.—To four parts of seltzer water add one of Moselle wine (or hock), and put a teaspoonful of powdered sugar into a wineglassful of this mixture; an ebullition takes place, and you have a sort of champagne which is more wholesome in hot weather than the genuine wine known by that name.

Lemon and Kali, or Sherbet.—Ground white sugar, 7d. to 8d. per pound, half a pound: tartaric acid, at 2s. per pound; carbonate of soda, at 4d. per pound; of each a quarter of a pound: essence of lemon, at 8d. per ounce, forty drops. All the powders should be well dried; add the essence to the sugar, then the other powders; stir all together, and mix by passing twice through a hair sieve. Must be kept in tightly-corked bottles, into which a damp spoon must not be inserted. All the materials may be obtained at a wholesale druggist's; the sugar must be ground, as, if merely powdered, the coarser parts remain undissolved.

Soda Water Powders.—One pound of carbonate of soda, 4d., and thirteen and a half ounces of tartaric acid, at 2s. per pound, supply the materials for 256 powders of each sort. Usual retail price 1d. for the two powders required for a draught. Put into blue papers thirty grains of carbonate of soda, and into white papers twenty-five grains of tartaric acid. Directions.—Dissolve the contents of the blue papers in half a tumbler of water, stir in the other powder, and drink during effervescence. Soda powders furnish a saline beverage which is very slightly laxative, and well calculated to allay the thirst in hot weather.

Sore Throat.—Those subject to sore throat will find the following preparation simple, cheap, and highly efficacious when used in the early stage:—Pour a pint of boiling water upon twenty-five or thirty leaves of common sage; let the infusion stand for half an hour. Add vinegar sufficient to make it moderately acid, and honey according to the taste. This combination of the astringent and the emollient principle seldom fails to produce the desired effect. The infusion must be used as a gargle several times a day. It has this advantage over many gargles—it is pleasant to the taste, and may be swallowed occasionally, not only without danger, but with advantage.

Hooping Cough.—Dissolve a scruple of salt of tartar in a quarter pint of water; add to it ten grains of cochineal; sweeten it with sugar. Give to an infant a fourth part of a tablespoonful four times a day; two years old, half a spoonful; from four years a tablespoonful. Great care is required in the administration of medicines to infants. We can assure paternal enquirers that the foregoing may be depended upon.

Excellent Remedy for Sprains.—Put the white of an egg into a saucer; keep stirring it with a piece of alum about the size of a walnut, until it becomes a thick jelly; apply a portion of it on a piece of lint or tow large enough to cover the sprain, changing it for a fresh one as often as it feels warm or dry: the limb is to be kept in a horizontal position by placing it on a chair.

Remedy for Blistered Feet.—Rub the feet, on going to bed, with spirits mixed with tallow, dropped from a lighted candle into the palm of the hand.

Bunions may be checked in their early devolopment by binding the joint with adhesive plaster, and keeping it on as long as any uneasiness is felt. The bandaging should be perfect, and it might be well to extend it round the foot. An inflamed bunion should be poulticed, and larger shoes be worn. Iodine, twelve grains; lard or spermaceti ointment, half an ounce, makes a capital ointment for bunions. It should be rubbed on gently twice or thrice a day.

Destruction of Rats.—Melt hog's lard in a bottle plunged in water, heated to about 150 degrees of Fahrenheit; introduce into it half an ounce of phosphorus for every pound of lard; then add a pint of proof spirit, or whisky; cork the bottle firmly after its contents have been heated to 150 degrees, taking it at the same time out of the water, and agitate smartly till the phosphorus becomes uniformly diffused, forming a milky-looking liquid. This liquid, being cooled, will afford a white compound of phosphorus and lard, from which the spirit spontaneously separates, and poured off to be used again, for none of it enters into the combination, but it merely serves to comminute the phosphorus, and diffuse it in very fine particles through the lard. This compound on being warmed very gently, may be poured out into a mixture of wheat, flour and sugar, incorporated therewith, and then flavoured with oil of rhodium, or not, at pleasure. The flavour may be varied with oil of aniseed, &c. This dough, being made into pellets, is to be laid in rat-holes. By its luminousness in the dark, it attracts their notice, and being agreeable to their palates and noses, it is readily eaten, and proves certainly fatal.

To Destroy Flies in a room, take half a teaspoonful of black pepper in powder, one teaspoonful of brown sugar, and one tablespoonful of cream, mix them well together, and place them in the room on a plate, where the flies are troublesome, and they will soon disappear.

Bugs.—Spirits of naptha rubbed with a small painter's brush into every part of a bedstead is a certain way of getting rid of bugs. The mattress and binding of the bed should be examined, and the same process attended to, as they generally harbour more in these parts than in the bedstead. Three pennyworth of naptha is sufficient for one bed.

Ink for Zinc Garden Labels.—Verdigris, one ounce; sal ammoniac one ounce; lamp black, half an ounce; water, half a pint. Mix in an earthenware mortar, without using a metal spatula. Should be put up in small one-ounce bottles ready for sale. Directions—To be shaken before use, and used with a clean quill pen, on bright zinc. Cost: verdigris, 3d. per ounce; sal ammoniac, 8d. per pound; lamp black, 4d. per pound.

Marking Ink without preparation.--Dissolve, separately, one ounce of nitrate of silver (4s. 6d. per ounce), and one and a half ounce of sub-carbonate soda (best washing soda), in distilled or rain water. Mix the solutions, and collect and wash the precipate in a filter; whilst still moist, rub it up in a marble or wedgewood mortar with three drachms of tartaric acid; add two ounces of distilled water, mix six drachms of white sugar, and ten drachms of powdered gum arabic, half an ounce of archil, and water to make up six ounces in measure. Cost: one ounce of nitrate of silver, 4s. 6d.; soda, tartaric acid, sugar and gum, 3d.; archil 10d. per pint. It is usually put up in one or two-drachm bottles, labelled, and sold at 8d. The above quantity would make 24 two drachm bottles.—Bottles from 8d. to 10d. per dozen.

Liquid Glue.—Several preparations were much in vogue a few years since under this title. The liquid glue of the shops is made by dissolving shellac in water, by boiling it along with borax, which possesses the peculiar property of causing the solution of the resinous lac. This preparation is convenient from its cheapness and freedom from smell; but it gives way if exposed to long-continued damp, which that made with naptha resists. Of the use of common glue very little need be said; it should always be prepared in a gluepot or double vessel, to prevent its being burned, which injures it very materially; the objection to the use of this contrivance is, that it renders it impossible to heat the glue in the inner vessel to the boiling point; this inconvenience can be obviated by employing in the outer vessel some liquid which boils at a higher temperature than pure water, such as a saturated solution of salt (made by adding one-third as much salt as water. This boils at 224° Fahr., 12° above the heat of boiling water, and enables the glue in the inner vessel to be heated to a much higher temperature than when pure water is employed. If a saturated solution of nitre is used, the temperature rises still higher.

Diamond Cement.—Soak isinglass in water till it is soft; then dissolve it in the smallest possible quantity of proof spirit, by the aid of a gentle heat; in two ounces of this mixture dissolve ten grains of ammoniacum, and whilst still liquid, add half a drachm of mastic, dissolved in three drachms of rectified spirit; stir well together, and put into small bottles for sale. Cost: isinglass, 1s. per ounce; rectified spirit, 2s. 6d. per pint; ammoniacum, 3d. per ounce; mastic, 1s. per ounce. This cement is usually sold at 1s. per two-drachm bottle. Directions for use.—Liquefy the cement by plunging the bottle in hot water, and use it directly. The cement improves the oftener the bottle is thus warmed; it resists the action of water and moisture perfectly.

Anglo-Japanese Work.—This is an elegant and easy domestic art. Take yellow withered leaves, dissolve gum, black paint, copal varnish, &c. Any articles may be ornamented with these simple materials. An old tea-caddy, flower-pots, fire-screens, screens of all descriptions, work-boxes, &c. Select perfect leaves, dry and press them between the leaves of books; rub the surface of the article to be ornamented with fine sand-paper, then give it a coat of fine black paint, which should be procured mixed at a colour shop. When dry, rub smooth with pumice stone, and give two other coats. Dry. Arrange leaves in any manner and variety, according to taste. Gum the leaves on the under side, and press them upon their places. Then dissolve some isinglass in hot water, and brush it over the work. Dry. Give three coats of copal varnish, allowing time for each coat to dry. Articles thus ornamented last for years, and are very pleasing.

Blond Lace may be revived by breathing upon it, and shaking and flapping it. The use of the iron turns the lace yellow.

Ornamental Leather Work.—An excellent imitation of carved oak, suitable for frames, boxes, vases, and ornaments in endless variety, may be made of a description of leather called basil. The art consists in simply cutting out this material in imitation of natural objects, and in impressing upon it by simple tools, either with or without the aid of heat, such marks and characteristics as are necessary to the imitation. The rules given with regard to the imitation of leaves and flowers apply to ornamental leather work. Begin with a simple object, and proceed by degrees to those that are more complicated. Cut out an ivy, or an oak leaf, and impress the veins upon it; then arrange these in groups, and affix them to frames, or otherwise. The tools required are ivory or steel points of various sizes, punches, and tin shapes, such as are used for confectionery. The points may be made out of the handles of old tooth-brushes. Before cutting out the leaves the leather should be well soaked in water, until it is quite pliable. When dry it will retain the artistic shape. Leaves and stems are fastened together by means of liquid glue, and varnished with any of the drying varnishes, or with sealing wax dissolved to a suitable consistency in spirits of wine. Wire, cork, gutta percha, bits of stems of trees, &c., may severally be used to aid in the formation of groups of buds, flowers, seed vessels, &c.

Cement for Broken China, Glass, &c.—Dissolve half an ounce of gum acacia in a wineglass of boiling water; add plaster of Paris sufficient to form a thick paste, and apply it with a brush to the parts required to be cemented together.

Cleaning Silks, Satins, Coloured Woollen Dresses, &c.—Four ounces of soft soap, four ounces of honey, the white of an egg, and a wineglassful of gin; mix well together, and scour the article with a rather hard brush thoroughly; afterwards rinse it in cold water, leave to drain, and iron whilst quite damp.

Cleaning Straw Bonnets.—They may be washed with soap and water, rinsed in clear water, and dried in the air. Then wash them over with white of egg well beaten. Remove the wire before washing. Old straw bonnets may be picked to pieces, and put together for children, the head parts being cut out.

Decoction of Sarsaparilla.—Take four ounces of the root, slice it down, put the slices into four pints of water, and simmer for four hours. Take out the sarsaparilla, and beat it into a mash; put it into the liquor again, and boil down to two pints, then strain and cool the liquor. Dose, a wineglassful three times a day. Use—to purify the blood after a course of mercury, or indeed, whenever any taint is given to the constitution, vitiating the bloood, and producing eruptive affections.

THE WEATHER. There is still a considerable quantity of moisture in the atmosphere, and although the tendency is to improve, the weather will continue somewhat unsettled until about the 20th, after which it will be moderately fine, but high winds will prevail until near the end of the month, when pleasant genial weather may be looked for. The tides at the full moon will not be very high, unless the wind is strong from the North or North-west.

THE WEATHER. At the commencement of the month it will be fine, mild weather, but it will gradually get colder, and after the 10th. sharp, winterly weather may be expected, which will continue until the end, and on the whole, December will be a fine winter's month with less than the usual quantity of downfall.

D

ECLIPSES, &c.

In the year 1870 there will be four Eclipses of the Sun and two of the Moon.

The second is a partial Eclipse of the Sun, on the 31st January, invisible in this part of the world.

The third is a partial Eclipse of the Sun, on the 28th June, visible only in New Zealand, and the South Eastern part of Australia.

The fourth is a total Eclipse of the Moon, on the 12th July; the following are the times for Hull:—

First Contact with the Penumbra, July 12th	7h.	48m.	afternoon.
First Contact with Dark Shadow, July 12th	8h.	46m.	afternoon.
Beginning of Total Phase, July 12th	9h.	46m.	afternoon.
Middle of Eclipse, July 12th	10h.	36m.	afternoon.
End of Total Phase, July 12th	11h.	26m.	afternoon.
Last Contact with Dark Shadow, July 13th	0h.	25m.	morning.
Last Contact with Penumbra, July 13th	1h.	24m.	morning.

The fifth is a partial Eclipse of the Sun, on the 27th July, invisible here.

The sixth is a total Eclipse of the Sun, on the 22nd December, visible at Hull as a partial Eclipse as follows:—

Greatest Phase	0h.	27m.	afternoon.
End of Eclipse	1h.	44m.	afternoon.
Magnitude of the Eclipse	8 Digits.

The Planet Venus will be an Evening Star from the 1st January until the 22nd February, a Morning Star from then to the 12th December, and an Evening Star to the end of the year.

The Planet Jupiter will be an Evening Star from the 1st January until the 23rd May, then a Morning Star to the 11th December, and afterwards an Evening Star to the end of the year.

From the 30th April to the 20th June, Jupiter's Satellites will be invisible in consequence of Jupiter being too near the Sun.

Saturn and Mars are both unfavourably situated for viewing until the latter part of the year.

There will be three occultations of Saturn by the Moon, viz:—on the 20th April, 11th July, and 30th September.

DR. HERSCHELL'S WEATHER TABLE.

Improved and Illustrated by the Rev. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated Wesleyan Preacher.

The Table and the accompanying remarks, are the result of many years' actual observation; the whole being constructed on a due consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon in their several positions respecting the Earth; and will by simple inspection, show the observer what kind of Weather will most probably follow the entrance of the Moon into any of her quarters, so that so near the truth as to be seldom or never found to fail.

Moon Changes	In Summer.	In Winter.
Between Midnight & 2 in the Morn.	Fair - - - - - -	Frost, unless Wind be S. or S. W.
2 and 4 - - -	Cold with Showers -	Snow and Stormy
4 and 6 - - -	Rain - - - - -	Rain
6 and 8 - - -	Wind and Rain - -	Stormy
8 and 10 - - -	Changeable - -	Cold Rain if Wind W. Snow if E.
10 and 12 - - -	Frequent Showers -	Cold and High Winds
12 and 2 Aftern.	Very Rainy - - -	Snow or Rain
2 and 4 - - -	Changeable - - -	Fair and Mild
4 and 6 - - -	Fair - - - - - -	Fair
6 and 8 - - -	Fair, if Wind N. W. Rain, if S. or S. W.	Fair and Frosty, if Wind N. or N. E. Rain or Snow, if S. or S. W.
8 and 10 - - -	Ditto ditto - - -	Ditto ditto
10 and Midnight.	Fair - - - - - -	Fair and Frosty

1. The nearer the time of the Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, is to MIDNIGHT, the fairer will the Weather be during the seven following days.

2. The space for this calculation occupies from ten at night till two next morning.

3. The nearer to MIDDAY, or NOON, these Phases of the Moon happen, the more foul or wet the weather may be expected during the seven following days.

4. The space for this calculation occupies from ten in the forenoon till two in the afternoon. These observations refer principally to Summer, though they affect Spring and Autumn nearly the same.

5. The Moon's Change, First Quarter, Full, and Last Quarter, happening during six of the afternoon hours, i.e. from four to ten, may be followed by fair weather; but this is mostly dependent on the WIND, as noted in the Table.

6. Though the Weather, from a variety of irregular causes, is more uncertain in the latter part of Autumn, the whole of Winter, and the beginning of Spring; yet in the main, the above observations will apply to those periods also.

MONTHLY NOTICES.

MARCH 1.—Auditors and assessors of Boroughs to be elected.

MARCH 25.—Overseers are to be appointed on this day, or within 14 days after. Those whose year has expired, must verify their accounts by oath before one justice, within 14 days, to be delivered to their successors after the appointment of such successors. Constables, headboroughs, and tithingmen, are to deliver their accounts every 3 months, and within 14 days after they leave office, to the overseers, who are within the following 14 day , to lay them before the inhabitants, and, if approved by a majority, they shall be allowed; but if not, the constables, &c. may appeal to a justice. Surveyors of Highways elected, accounts to be made up within 14 days.

MARCH 30.—Poor-law Guardians to be elected.

APRIL 5.-The returns for making the assessment of direct taxes are delivered soon after this day. The person making the return rates himself for the persons and articles subject to taxes kept and used by him between the 5th of April, and the 5th of April. If he wishes to give up keeping any servant, &c., he should do so on the 4th of April.

JUNE 10.—Clerks of the Peace for counties to issue precepts to overseers to publish lists of voters

JUNE 20.—Overseers to fix on church doors notices to persons qualified to vote for counties, to make claims. Persons on the register need not make a new claim, unless they have changed their qualification. Overseers in boroughs to publish notices to electors respecting payment of poor rates and assessed taxes as a qualification for voting.

JULY 20.-Assessed taxes and poor rates due on 5th January, must be paid on or before this day, by all electors of cities or boroughs, or they will be disqualified from voting.- Last day for sending in claims for voting in counties.

July 31.—Overseers to make out lists of borough electors.

August 1.—Overseers to publish lists of voters for counties; town-clerks in boroughs to publish lists of freemen.

NOTICE TO CARRIERS.

As great difficulty has heretofore been experienced in securing a correct List of Carriers, the Publisher would feel obliged by all Carriers calling at the Office, 23, Market-place, Hull, and examining the same, so that if not correctly inserted this year, they may be next.

GARDENERS' CALENDAR.

JANUARY.—Prepare for all sowing and planting. If this had been done in December, it would have been better; the ground is now generally too moist for putting seed in. If you choose to sow peas, though it is not a good practise, sow them early enough.

FEBRUARY.—Prepare your ground for onions; soot, or common kennel-muck (or sludge, as it is called in some places,) is the best manure for them. Sow carrot and spinach seed. If you have any cauliflower plants under frames, draw the glasses down whenever the weather is open and mild.

MARCH.—Sow asparagus, celery, cauliflowers, brussels sprouts, beets, brocoli, spinage, onions, dutch turnips, peas, beans, savoys, parsnips, and turnip radishes. Plant sea-kale, kidney-beans, and cauliflowers from frames. Graft fruit trees, &c

APRIL.—Prick and plant out all the cabbage kind. All carrots, parsnips, beets, &c., may now be sown. Prepare your ground for planting out cucumber plants. Plant slips and cuttings of kitchen herbs.

MAY.—Sow capsicums, cauliflowers, carrots, lettuces, spinage, cucumbers, peas, red beet for pickling, and kidney and french beans. Transplant cabbages, winter greens, lettuces, cauliflowers, and celery.

JUNE.—Sow beans, peas, cucumbers for pickling, radishes, spinach, cabbages, endive, carrots, brocoli and borecole; kidney-beans once a fortnight; lettuce and small salad once in ten days.

JULY.—Sow turnips, french beans, lettuces, and black spanish radishes. Plant out brocoli, cauliflowers, savoys, leeks, and wincer cabbages, and earth up celery. Gather medicinal flowers and sweet herbs, &c.

AUGUST.—A variety of esculent vegetables must be sown at this time for the autumn and winter crops. Plant young seedlings; hoe and earth round cauliflowers, Propagate aromatic plants, &c., by parting the roots.

SEPTEMBER.—Sow vegetable seeds for a spring crop, and plant cauliflowers, brocoli, savoys, german greens, leeks, lettuce, celery, and perennial and aromatic pot herbs. Hoe winter spinach and turnips, earth up celery, weed cauliflowers and young onions; prick out cabbage plants.

OCTOBER.—Plant cabbages, endive, brocoli, &c. Sow small salad, radishes, and lettuce; a few mazagan beans and hotspur peas to stand the winter. Tie up endive and earth up celery and cardoons.

NOVEMBER.—Force sea cale, rhubarb, and asparagus. Prune and plant fruit trees. Transplant seeding stocks, and suckers taken from the roots of pear, codlin, plum, and quince trees, to prepare them for budding or grafting different fruits upon. Shelter choice flowers.

DECEMBER.—Tie up endive, cardoons, and white beet. Take up edible and full-grown vegetables with esculent leaves, and plant the latter in sand, in an open shed for use

ABSTRACTS OF

Important Acts of Parliament,

PASSED LAST SESSION.

THE IRISH CHURCH ACT.

Sec. 1—This Act may be cited as "The Irish Church Act, 1869."

Sec. 2 decrees the dissolution of the legislative union between the Churches of England and Ireland, and said church shall cease to be established by law. Commissioners are appointed for carrying out this act.

By sec. 10 all future appointments are prohibited; and the property of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners is vested in the Commissioners appointed by this act; as is also the church property on January 1, 1871, under the following conditions:—that the profits of any property, real or personal, to which any Archbishop, Bishop, or person holding any benefice or cathedral preferment is entitled, shall remain in those persons for their lives, subject to the provision for commutation hereafter mentioned: but if any of these persons die, then the Commissioners are to exercise the same power as the deceased, and the tenants to enjoy the same privileges as under him, subject to the 3 and 4 William IV., c. 37, for the suppression of sees, and 23 and 24 Victoria, c. 150. From January, 1, 1871, Sec. 13 dissolves all ecclesiastical corporations and decrees that the Irish Bishops shall no longer sit in the House of Lords, but are to enjoy for life the same title and precidence.

Sec. 14 to 18 are very important to the Clergy pecuniarily interested in the church.

Sec. 14 provides that any ecclesiastical person who after January 1, 1871, still continues to perform the duties he did before this act, and all incapacitated persons shall receive as an annuity the net amount they have hitherto received; and not only so, but the Commissioners must take into account all increased amounts which would have fallen in if this act had not been passed. As regards Curates:—when a man is permanent curate, that is one who has been necessarily employed (we can find no other definition,) he will receive an annuity equal to his income; but the other unfortunate curates are to receive only what the Commissioners may think just. Diocesan and district schoolmasters, clerks, and sextons are better off than the curates, for they will get an annuity equivalent to their annual income; but any person holding any appointment connected with the church for two years before 1871, is to receive a gratuity not exceeding one year's salary. Lay patrons of livings, &c. are to receive compensation on application made within three years in writing, always excepting corporations dissolved by this Act.

Sec. 19 repeals the laws prohibiting the holding of synods; and to secure a uniform ritual: the relations between the various members of the new church is to be considered one of the contract. The Irish Church having now become a voluntary association, all ecclesiastical courts are consequently abolished.

Sec. 22 empowers the Queen to incorporate the church body, and enables them to hold lands, the statute of Mortmain notwithstanding.

Sec. 23 permits any annuitant under this Act, or any person having a life interest in any ecclesiastical property, to commute the same for a capital sum.

The following enactments are made with respect to churches vested in the Commissioners:—

1.—Where any church appears to the Commissioners to be ruinous, or if it be wholly disused as a place of worship, and yet deserving of being maintained as a national monument, by reason of its architectural character or antiquity, the Commissioners shall (by order) vest such church in the Secretary of the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland, to be held by such Secretary, his heirs and assigns, upon trust for the Commissioners of Public Works, to be preserved as a national monument, and not to be used as a place of public worship.

2.—Where any church is in actual use at the time of passing this Act, and the representative body at any time within six months after the 1st Jan., 1871, apply to the Commissioners requiring such church for religious purposes, taking down, or erecting or enlarging another church or churches in lieu thereof, the Commissioners shall (by order) vest the church in the said representative body of the said church, subject to any life estate or interest that is existing therein.

3.—But if no application is made within the prescribed period, and such church was erected at the private expense of any person, the Commissioners shall, on the application of the person who erected such church, if alive, or of his representative, if he died since the year 1800, by order vest such church in the applicant or in such person as he or they may direct.

4.—Where any church, vested in the Commissioners under this Act, is not disposed of under the preceding sections, the Commissioners to dispose thereof as they think expedient.

5.—Where any church, school-house, together with any land occupied or belonging thereto, by this Act vested in the Commissioners shall be included in the order.

6.—And every such vesting order shall be deemed to be subject to all rights of sepulture as may be subsisting at the date of such order.

The following enactments are made with respect to burial grounds vested in the Commissioners:—

1.—Where any church, vested in the representative body, has a burial ground annexed, but not separated therefrom by any carriage highway, or one granted by a private donor to, or exclusively used by the parishioners attending the said church, such burial ground shall be included with the church in order made by the Commissioners, subject to any life estate or interest subsisting therein, and pass to the said representative body accordingly, but without prejudice to such rights of burial as may be subsisting or thereafter be declared to subsist therein by Act of Parliament; or the Commissioners shall, at the option of the said representative body, vest such burial ground in the Guardians of the Poor-law Union, within which the same may be situate, subject to a right of way; and the Guardians shall not allow any funeral to take place during the usual time of the ordinary services in the church, and shall make such other regulations as may be found necessary from time to time, and shall keep the fences, gates, roads, &c. in good repair, and, as far as may be consistent with the provisions of this Act, hold such burial ground for the same purposes as if it were a burial ground taken by such guardians, being a burial board under the provisions of "The Burial Act (Ireland,) 1856," but without prejudice to such rights of burial as may be subsisting therein at the date of such order, or may thereafter be declared to subsist therein by Act of Parliament.

2.—Where any church, conveyed to the Secretary to the Commissioners of Public Works for Ireland, has a burial ground, adjacent thereto, and in every case other than those before provided for in which a burial ground is vested in the Commissioners under this Act, unless it is in any private park, demesne or ornamental grounds, the Commissioners shall vest such burial ground in the Guardians of the Poor of the Poor Law Union, within which the same may be situate, and the Commissioners may in the case of burial grounds situate in such private grounds aforesaid, vest the same in such person and in such manner as the Lord Lieutenant in council may direct in each particular instance.

Where there is any ecclesiastical residence vested in the Commissioners, which at the time of passing this Act, or within six months prior thereto, is or has been occupied as a residence by any ecclesiastical person performing the services in any church vested in the representative body of said church, the Commissioners shall on application of said body, by order vest in that body such residence, subject to such life estate as may be then subsisting therein, upon payment to the Commissioners where there is no building charge affecting the same, of a sum equal to ten times the amount of the annual value of the site of such residence estimated as land, the value to be determined in case of disagreement by arbitration: and where there is a building charge affecting the same, on payment to the Commissioners of either the amount of such building charge, or a sum equal to the value of the residence taken at ten years' purchase of the annual value as estimated by the general tenement valuation; such valuation and payment to be made, if there be no life estate or interest subsisting at the time of the making of the vesting order, but if there be a life estate or interest, then the valuation, and also the payments to the Commissioners is to be made immediately after determination of such life estate or interest.

Where the payment of the amount of any building charge, or sum as aforesaid is deferred in pursuance of this section, the amount shall be deemed to be a lieu on said residence, in the nature of a lien for unpaid purchase money, but it shall not bear interest until the same becomes payable in pursuance of this section.

Where any ecclesiastical residence is vested in the representative body of the said church, the Commissioners may, on application by order, vest a further portion of land in said body:—that is to say (1) in the case of a see house a quantity of land not exceeding thirty acres, being land usually occupied with the said see house; (2) in the case of any other ecclesiastical residence a quantity of land not exceeding ten acres, being land usually occupied with the said ecclesiastical residence. And there shall be paid to the Commissioners by the representative body as the price of the land, such sum as may be agreed upon or may be determined by arbitration.

Sec. 29 gives the sum of £500,000 as payment in full of all private enactments.

All plate, furniture, and other moveable chattels belonging to any church shall vest in the representative church body when incorporated: and, subject to the life enjoyment of same by the existing incumbents, all moveable chattels held and enjoyed by the incumbent for the time being of any see, cathedral, preferment and benefice in his corporate right, together with or as incident to the occupation of any ecclesiastical residence, shall also vest in the same body; and where any property is vested in any ecclesiastical or cathedral corporation in Ireland in trust for the poor, or any other charitable purpose, the dissolution of such corporation shall not affect the continuance of the trust, but such property shall immediately upon such dissolution vest in the representative body of the church, or, in default of, and until the same shall be constituted in the Commissioners but subject always to the trusts affecting the same, and under the same supervision local or otherwise, as theretofore, or as near thereto as the circumstances of the case will admit; and in all cases where ecclesiastical persons are at present in right of their dignities or offices entitled to be members of any lay corporations, constituted for the management of any private endowments, or are trustees for the management of property belonging to institutions of private foundation for purposes not ecclesiastical, then the persons (if any) who shall hereafter at any time discharge duties similar or analogous to those now discharged by such ecclesiastical persons shall be entitled to succeed in their room.

No application by the tenants for the purchase of the fee-simple of any land shall be made after the expiration of three years from the 1st January, 1871; and the Commissioners may at any time after the 1st January, 1871, sell any rent charge in lieu of tithes vested in them under this Act, to the owner of the land charged, in consideration of a sum equal to twenty-two and a half times the amount of such rent charge; and upon any such sale being so made, the Commissioners shall by order declare the rent charge to be merged in the land out of which it is issued, and the same shall merge and be extinguished accordingly.

Upon the application of any owner so purchasing, the Commissioners may by order declare his purchase money or part to be payable by instalments, and the land out of which such rent charge issued to be accordingly charged: as from a day to be mentioned in such order for 52 years thence next ensuing, with an annual sum calculated at the rate of £4 9s 0d per cent. on the purchase money, less such sum in the pound as such owner shall be ascertained by the Commissioners to have been on an average of 5 years preceding the passing of this Act, entitled to deduct for poor rates, from the tithe rent charge payable by him; or for less number of years at an equivalent annual sum, so as to discharge the principal and interest in such number of years. The annual sum charged by such order shall have priority over all charges and incumbrances except quit and crown rents, shall be payable by the same persons, be recoverable in the same manner, and subject to same charges, if any, as the rent charge in lieu of tithes heretofore payable out of the same lands.

The word "Owner" for the purposes of this section, shall mean the person for the time being liable to pay rent charge in lieu of tithes under the provisions of the Act of the 1st and 2nd Vic. c. 109.

Sec. 33 and 34 empowers the Commissioners to purchase the surrender or assignment of any subsisting lease of tithe rent charge, made by ecclesiastical person or corporation, and after the 1st January, 1871, sell by auction or otherwise, any real or personal property vested in them by this Act, subject to the other provisions of this Act, and the following conditions:—

1—They shall not sell to the public any rent or right to mines or quarries in any land, where the fee simple of the land is vested in some person other than the Commissioners, until they have given notice to the owner that they are willing to sell the same to him at the price hereinafter mentioned, and the owner has declined to accept their offer.

2—Perpetuity rent shall be offered to the owner of the land, out of which they issue at a capital sum equal to 25 times the annual amount of such rents.

3—The price of the rights to mines or quarries shall be fixed by the Commissioners by order.

4—They shall not sell to the public the fee simple of any land in which any Archbishop, Bishop, or person holding any such benefice or cathedral preferment as aforesaid, as a life interest during the continuance of such life interest.

5—They shall not sell to the public the fee simple of land held from or under them by lease or tenancy; until notice is given to the lessee or tenant that they are willing to sell him for a price to be named in such notice, and such lessee or tenant has declined to accept their offer: and they shall not sell the fee simple of land, held from or under them by virtue of any lease for 21 years, or for 40 years until the expiration of 3 years from the 1st January, 1871.

6—Notice of terms of offer shall be given by them to the owner:—by post addressed to his last known place of abode, but where not known to be advertised in Dublin Gazette or other newspapers.

7—An owner shall be deemed to have declined to accept offer, if he do not in writing, and pay the purchase money to them within 3 months after such notice is given.

8—"Owner of land" to include a "limited owner," as defined by the "Landed Property (Ireland) Improvement Act, 1860"; and any limited owner may raise the purchase money by mortgage (at interest not to exceed £5 per cent. per annum,) of land of which he is limited owner.

Any person purchasing from the Commissioners shall hold the lands, &c., subject to all tenants' rights of renewal, to which the same were subject at the time of sale.

Sec. 35—Every order made by them to act as a conveyance or mortgage, shall be liable to the ordinary stamp duty; and all monies received to be paid into Bank as may be determined by Commissioners of Treasury.

Sec. 37 orders that accounts of capital and revenues, within three months after the expiration of each year, shall be transmitted to the Comptroller and Auditor General, to be audited and laid before both Houses of Parliament not later than 2 months after:—expenses thereof to be defrayed accordingly.

Where the Commissioners sell any land, they may credit the purchaser with such part of the purchase money: not exceeding three fourth parts, with interest at four per cent on mortgage, and any such purchase money may be made payable by half yearly instalments, not exceeding sixty four in number.

Where the Commissioners are authorised to pay any capital sum, they may elect to pay same by half yearly instalments not to exceed eight in number, with interest at three and a half per cent. on any part of capital remaining unpaid.

Where the representative body of the church is liable to pay any capital sum to Commissioners it may be paid by twenty two yearly instalments, with interest at three and a half per cent. on amount unpaid, to be secured as Commissioners think expedient.

If the Commissioners wish, they may sell any land in the Landed Estates Courts.

Any surveyor or other person employed by the Commissioners may enter upon land, or buildings at all reasonable times during the day, upon making full compensation for damage he may do.

If any vacancy occur in any archbishopric, bishopric, benefice, or cathedral preferment, in or connected with the Church between the date of passing this Act, and the 1st January, 1871, the following enactments are made with respect to such vacancy:—

2—That Her Majesty may in the case of a vacant archbishopric, on the requisition of three Bishops of the province; in the case of a Bishop, on the requisition of the Archbishop of the province, or of any three Bishops of the same province, fill up the vacancy; but no Archbishop or Bishop so appointed shall be qualified to sit in the House of Lords.

3—In the case of any vacant benefice, &c., such vacancy may be filled up by the same person who would have been qualified if this Act had not passed.

4—Every person appointed to fill any vacancy, shall not be entitled to compensation in respect of any annuity or interest which he may be deprived by virtue of this Act.

5—The Commissioners may pay to the person appointed to fill such vacancy, for the time he may occupy his office, between the passing of this Act and the 1st January, 1871, a sum equal, as nearly as they can determine, to the net annual income of the office to which he is appointed, or a proportionate part thereof, according as he holds his office for the whole time or a portion only of such time.

In case of any commutation, the Commissioners may at the desire of the holder of any archbishopric, bishopric, benefice, or cathedral preferment, exclude from such commutation any house or land reserved to such holder by this Act, which shall be in his actual occupation; but in case the building charges, if any, to which he shall be entitled shall not become payable, but payable at the termination of his life interest.

The surplus is to be used as Parliament may hereafter direct.

Nothing in this Act affects the patronage or right of presentation to any proprietary or district parochial church, or endowed chapel-of-ease which has been endowed out of private funds, or affect the property in any such church or chapel, or the property held for the purposes of or appropriated to the use of the same, or affect the continuance of the trust relating thereto as originally constituted.

The New Bankruptcy Act, 1869.

32 and 33 Victoria, chap. 71.

An Act to consolidate and amend the Law of Bankruptcy.

Sec. 1—This Act may be cited as "The Bankruptcy Act, 1869."

Sec. 2—This Act shall not apply to Scotland or Ireland.

Sec. 3—This Act shall not come into operation until the 1st Jan., 1870.

Adjudication.

Sec. 6 empowers a single, or two or more creditors, if debt due to single creditor, or aggregate amount of debts due to such several creditors amount to not less than £50 they can make the debtor a Bankrupt.

Sec. 7—A debtor's summons may be granted by the Court, on a creditor proving to its satisfaction that debt due to him will support a petition against whom the summons is sought, and that he has failed to obtain his debt after using reasonable efforts to do so.

Appointment of Trustee.

Sec. 14—When an order has been made adjudging a debtor bankrupt, his property shall become divisible amongst his creditors in proportion to the debts proved by them, and to divide the same the court shall call a general meeting of his creditors, and they shall do as follows:—

1—They shall appoint some fit person (creditor or not) to act as trustee of the property, at such renumeration as they may determine, if any.

2—They shall, when trustee appointed, declare what security he is to give before he enters office.

3—They shall also appoint five fit persons (creditors) to see that the bankrupt's property, &c., be properly administered.

Administration of Property.

Sec. 19 orders that the bankrupt shall to the utmost of his power, aid in the realization of his property, the distribution of it amongst his creditors, produce statement of his affairs to first meeting of creditors, be examined thereon by the court on day named, subject to adjournment; also give inventory of his property, list of creditors and debtors, and of debts due to and from attend meetings, wait on the trustee and execute such powers of attorney and deeds, &c., as relate to the distribution of the property and proceeds thereof amongst his creditors, as may be required by trustee or by special order directed by the court.

Sec. 25—That subject to the provisions of this Act, the trustee shall have power to do the following things:—

2—To carry on the business for the purpose of winding up the same.

6—States that he shall sell the property, goodwill, if any, and book debts as he shall think fit.

Sec. 29 orders that where a trustee is a solicitor he may contract to receive a remuneration for his services (including professional services) and such shall be lawful, but no other trustee shall be allowed anything without the consent of the committee of inspection.

Close of Bankruptcy.

Sec. 47—That when the whole property has been realized, or as much as can, or a composition or arrangement completed, the trustee shall report to the court; and if it is satisfied that the whole has been realized for the benefit of the creditors, or so much as can, or a composition or arrangement been completed, shall make an order that the bankruptcy has closed, and shall be deemed to have closed at and after the date of such order. The order must also be published in the London Gazette.

Discharge of Bankrupt.

Sec. 48—That when a bankruptcy is closed, the bankrupt may apply to court for an order of discharge, but it shall not be granted unless it is proved to the court that one of the following conditions has been fulfilled:—either that a dividend of not less than 10s. in the £ has been paid out of his property, or might have been paid except through the negligence or fraud of the trustee, or that a special resolution of his creditors has been passed to the effect that his bankruptcy or failure to pay 10s. in the £, has arisen from circumstances for which he cannot justly be held responsible, and they desire order of discharge should be granted him.

Liquidation of arrangement.

Sec. 125—The following regulations shall be made respecting the liquidation by arrangement of the debtor:—

1—A debtor unable to pay his debts may summons a general meeting of his creditors, and they may, by special resolution, declare the affairs of debtor are to be liquidated by arrangement, and not in bankruptcy, and may at that or other meeting, held at an interval of not more than a week, appoint a trustee with or without committee of inspection.

3—The debtor, unless prevented by sickness or other causes atisfactory to such meeting, shall be present at meeting at which special resolution is passed, and answer any enquiries made of him, and if prevented from being there, some one on his behalf shall produce a statement showing his assets and debts, and names and addresses of creditors to whom his debts are due.

4—The special resolution, together with statement of assets and debts, the name of trustee, of members, if any, and committee of inspection, shall be presented to registrar; and it shall be his duty to enquire whether it has been passed in manner directed by this section, but if satisfied that it was so passed that a trustee has been appointed with or without committee of inspection, he shall register resolution and statement of debtor, and such resolution and statement shall be open for inspection, and the liquidation by arrangement shall commence as from date of appointment of trustee.

10—Orders trustee to report to registrar the discharge of debtor, and a certificate of discharge given by registrar, shall have same effect as an order of discharge given to a bankrupt under this Act.

Composition with Creditors.

Sec. 126—The creditors of a debtor unable to pay his debts, may, without proceedings in bankruptcy, by an extraordinary resolution, resolve that a composition be accepted in satisfaction of debts due to them from debtor

An extraordinary resolution of creditors shall be one, which has been passed by a majority in number and three-fourths in value of the creditors, assembled at a general meeting of which notice has been given, and has been confirmed by majority in number and value of creditors assembled at a subsequent general meeting, of which notice has been given, and held at an interval of not less than 7, nor more than 14 days from date of meeting at which resolution was first passed.

LIST OF FAIRS.

William Adams earnestly requests that Town Clerks, Clerks of the Markets, and others interested, will aid him in his endeavour to make this List as correct as possible; in doing so they will benefit alike themselves, the public, and the proprietor, who will gratefully receive information of any error now existing in this part of his work, or of any event which may occur in future to render an alteration necessary.

William Adams begs to observe, that the sooner such assistance can be afforded him, prior to the next publication, the more advantageous it is likely to prove, as, from the large and increasing demand for his Almanack, he is obliged to put it early to press. No communication will be available, unless authenticated by the writer's name and address.

PRACTICAL RECEIPTS.

Gooseberry Vinegar.—INGREDIENTS.—2 pecks of crystal gooseberries, 6 gallons of water, 12 lbs. of foots sugar of the coarsest brown quality. MODE.—Mash the gooseberries (which should be quite ripe) in a tub with a mallett; put to them the water nearly milk-warm; let this stand 24 hours; then strain it through a sieve, and put the sugar to it; mix it well, and tun it. These proportions are for a 9-gallon cask; and if it be not quite full, more water must be added. Let the mixture be stirred from the bottom of the cask two or three times daily for three or four days, to assist the melting of the sugar; then paste a piece of linen cloth over the bunghole, and set the cask in a warm place, but not in the sun; any corner of a warm kitchen is the best. The following spring it should be drawn off into stone bottles, and the vinegar will be fit for use twelve months after it is made. This will be found a most excellent preparation, greatly superior to much that is sold under the name of the best white wine vinegar. Many years' experience has proved that pickles made from this vinegar will keep, when bought vinegar will not preserve the ingredients. The cost per gallon is merely nominal, especially to those who reside in the country and grow their own gooseberries; the coarse sugar is then the only ingredient to be purchased. Time.—To remain in the cask nine months. Average cost, when the gooseberries have to be purchased, 1s. per gallon; when they are grown at home, 6d. per gallon. Seasonable.—This should be made the end of June or the beginning of July, when gooseberries are ripe and plentiful.

Orange Brandy.—INGREDIENTS.—To every ½ gallon of brandy allow ¾ pint of Seville orange-juice, 1¼lb. of loaf sugar. MODE.—To bring out the full flavour of the orange-peel, rub a few lumps of the sugar on 2 or 3 unpared oranges, and put these lumps to the rest. Mix the brandy with the orange-juice, strained, the rinds of 6 of the oranges pared very thin, and the sugar. Let all stand in a closely-covered jar for about 3 days, stirring it 3 or 4 times a day. When clear, it should be bottled and closely corked for a year; it will then be ready for use, but will keep any length of time. This is a most excellent stomachic when taken pure in small quantities; or, as the strength of the brandy is very little deteriorated by the other ingredients, it may be diluted with water. Time.—To be stirred every day for 3 days. Average cost 7s. Sufficient to make 2 quarts. Seasonable.—Make this in March.

Christmas Cake.—INGREDIENTS.—5 teacupfuls of flour, 1 teacupful of melted butter, 1 teacupful of cream, 1 teacupful of treacle, 1 teacupful of moist sugar, 2 eggs, ½ oz. of powdered ginger, ½lb. of raisins, 1 teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, 1 tablespoonful of vinegar. MODE.—Make the butter sufficiently warm to melt it, but do not allow it to oil; put the flour into a basin; add to it the sugar, ginger, and raisins, which should be stoned and cut into small pieces. When these dry ingredients are thoroughly mixed, stir in the butter, cream, treacle, and well-whisked eggs, and beat the mixture for a few minutes. Dissolve the soda in the vinegar, add it to the dough, and be particular that these latter ingredients are well incorporated with the others; put the cake into a buttered mould or tin, place it in a moderate oven immediately, and bake it from 1¾ to 2¼ hours. Time.—1¾ to 2¼ hours. Average cost, 1s. 6d.

Victoria Buns.—INGREDIENTS.—2 oz. of pounded loaf sugar, 1 egg, 1½ oz. of ground rice, 2 oz of butter, 1½ oz. of currants, a few thin slices of candied peel; flour. MODE.—Whisk the egg, stir in the sugar, and beat these ingredients well together; beat the butter to a cream, stir in the ground rice, currants, and candied peel, and as much flour as will make it of such a consistency that it may be rolled into 7 or 8 balls. Put these on to a buttered tin, and bake them from ½ to ¾ hour. They should be put into the oven immediately, or they will become heavy; and the oven should be tolerably brisk. Time.—½ to ¾ hour. Average cost, 6d. Sufficient to make 7 or 8 buns. Seasonable at any time.

Muffins.—INGREDIENTS.—To every quart of milk allow 1½ oz. of German yeast, a little salt; flour. MODE.—Warm the milk, add to it the yeast, and mix these well together; put them into a pan, and stir in sufficient flour to make the whole into a dough of rather a soft consistence; cover it over with a cloth, and place it in a warm place to rise, and, when light and nicely risen, divide the dough into pieces, and round them to the proper shape with the hands; place them, in a layer of flour about two inches thick, on wooden trays, and let them rise again; when this is effected, they each will exhibit a semi-globular shape. Then place them carefully on a hot-plate or stove, and bake them until they are slightly browned, turning them when they are done on one side. Muffins are not easily made, and are more generally purchased than manufactured at home. To toast them, divide the edge of the muffin all round, by pulling it open, to the depth of about an inch, with the fingers. Put it on a toasting-fork, and hold it before a very clear fire until one side is nicely browned, but not burnt; turn, and toast it on the other. Do not toast them too quickly, as, if this is done, the middle of the muffin will not be warmed through. When done, divide them by pulling them open; butter them slightly on both sides, put them together again, and cut them into halves: when sufficient are toasted and buttered, pile them on a very hot dish, and send them very quickly to table. Time.—From 20 minutes to ½ hour to bake them. Sufficient.—Allow 1 muffin to each person.

Crumpets.—These are made in the same manner as muffins; only, in making the mixture, let it be more like batter than dough. Let it rise for about ½ hour; pour it into iron rings, which should be ready on a hot-plate; bake them, and when one side appears done, turn them quickly on the other. To toast them, have ready a very bright clear fire; put the crumpet on a toasting-fork, and hold it before the fire, not too close, until it is nicely brown on one side, but do not allow it to blacken. Turn it, and brown the other side; then spread it with good butter, cut it in half, and, when all are done pile them on a hot dish, and send them quickly to table. Muffins and crumpets should always be served on separate dishes, and both toasted and served as expeditiously as possible. Time.—From 10 to 15 minutes. Sufficient.—Allow 2 crumpets to each person.

Rice Bread.—Ingredients.—To every lb. of rice allow 4 lbs. of of wheat flour, nearly 3 tablespoonfuls of yeast, ¼ oz. of salt. Mode.—Boil the rice in water until it is quite tender; pour off the water, and put the rice, before it is cold, to the flour. Mix these well together with the yeast, salt, and sufficient warm water to make the whole into a smooth dough; let it rise by the side of the fire, then form it into loaves, and bake them from 1½ to 2 hours, according to their size. If the rice is boiled in milk instead of water, it makes very delicious bread or cakes. When boiled in this manner, it may be mixed with the flour without straining the liquid from it. Time.—1½ to 2 hours.

Dessert Biscuits, which may be flavoured with Ground Ginger, Cinnamon, &c.—Ingredients.—1 lb. of flour, ½ lb. of butter, ½ lb. of sifted sugar, the yolks of 6 eggs, flavouring to taste. Mode.—Put the butter into a basin; warm it, but do not allow it to oil; then with the hand beat it to a cream. Add the flour by degrees, then the sugar and flavouring, and moisten the whole with the yolks of the eggs, which should be well beaten. When all the ingredients are thoroughly incorporated, drop the mixture from a spoon on to a buttered paper, leaving a distance between each cake, as they spread as soon as they begin to get warm. Bake in rather a slow oven from 12 to 18 minutes, and do not let the biscuits acquire too much colour. In making the above quantity, half may be flavoured with ground ginger and the other half with essence of lemons or currants, to make a variety. With whatever the preparation is flavoured, so are the biscuits called; and an endless variety may be made in this manner. Time.—12 to 18 minutes, or rather longer, in a very slow oven. Average cost, 1s. 6d. Sufficient to make from 3 to 4 dozen cakes.

Thick Gingerbread.—INGREDIENTS.—1 lb. of treacle, ¼ lb. of butter, ¼ lb. of coarse brown sugar, 1½ lb. of flour, 1 oz. of ginger, ½ oz. of ground allspice, 1 teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, ¼ pint of warm milk, 3 eggs. MODE.—Put the flour into a basin, with the sugar, ginger, and allspice; mix these together; warm the butter, and add it, with the treacle, to the other ingredients. Stir well; make the milk just warm, dissolve the carbonate of soda in it, and mix the whole into a nice smooth dough with the eggs, which should be previously well whisked; pour the mixture into a buttered tin, and bake it from ¾ to 1 hour, or longer, should the gingerbread be very thick. Just before it is done, brush the top over with the yolk of an egg beaten up with a little milk, and put it back in the oven to finish baking. Time.—¾ to 1 hour. Average cost, 1s. per square.

Bites and Stings.—The Bites or Stings of Insects, such as gnats, bees, wasps, &c., need cause very little alarm, and are, generally speaking, easily cured. They are very serious, however, when they take place on some delicate part of the body, such as near the eye, or in the throat. The treatment is very simple in most cases, and consists in taking out the sting, if it is left behind, with a needle, and applying to the part a liniment made of finely-scraped chalk and olive-oil, mixed together to about the thickness of cream. Bathing the part bitten with warm turpentine or warm vinegar is also of great use. If the person feels faint, he should lie quietly on his back, and take a little brandy-and-water, or sal-volatile and water. When the inside of the throat is the part stung, there is great danger of violent inflammation taking place. In this case, from 8 to 12 leeches should be immediately put to the outside of the throat, and when they drop off, the part to which they had been applied should be well fomented with warm water. The inside of the throat is to be constantly gargled with salt and water. Bits of ice are to be sucked. Rubbing the face and hands well-over with plain olive-oil, before going to bed, will often keep gnats and mosquitoes from biting during the night. Strong scent, such as eau-de-Cologne, will have the same effect.

To Cure a Cold.—Put a large teacupful of linseed, ¼ lb. of sun raisins and 2 oz. of stick liquorice, into 2 quarts of soft water, and let it simmer over a slow fire till reduced to one quart; add to it ¼ lb. of pounded sugar-candy, a tablespoonful of old rum, and a tablespoonful of the best white-wine-vinegar, or lemon-juice. The rum and vinegar should be added as the decoction is taken; for, if they are put in at first, the whole soon becomes flat and less efficacious. The dose is half a pint, made warm, on going to bed; and a little may be taken whenever the cough is troublesome. The worst cold is generally cured by this remedy in two or three days; and, if taken in time, it is considered infallible.

Palpitation of the Heart.—Where palpitation occurs as symptomatic of indigestion, the treatment must be directed to remedy that disorder; when it is consequent on a plethoric state, purgatives will be effectual. In this case the patient should abstain from every kind of diet likely to produce a plethoric condition of body. Animal food and fermented liquor must be particularly avoided. Too much indulgence in sleep will also prove injurious. When the attacks arise from nervous irritibility the excitement must be allayed by change of air and a tonic diet. Should the palpitation originate from organic derangement, it must be, of course, beyond domestic management. Luxurious living, indolence, and tight-lacing often produce this affection: such cases are to be conquered with a little resolution.

Cure for Stammering.—When there is no malformation of the organs of articulation, stammering may be remedied by reading aloud with the teeth closed. This should be practised for two hours a day, for three or four months. The advocate of this simple remedy says, "I can speak with certainty of its utility."

Cure for the Tooth-ache.—Take a piece of sheet zinc, about the size of a sixpence, and a piece of silver, say a shilling; place them together, and hold the defective tooth between them or contiguous to them; in a few minutes the pain will be gone, as if by magic. The zinc and silver, acting as a galvanic battery, will produce on the nerves of the tooth sufficient electricity to establish a current and consequently to relieve the pain. Again—A small piece of the pellitory root will, by the flow of saliva it causes, afford relief. Creosote, or a few drops of tincture of myrrh, or friar's balsam, on cotton, put on the tooth, will often subdue the pain. A small piece of camphor, however, retained in the mouth, is the most reliable and likely means of conquering the paroxysm of this dreaded enemy.

For Cure of Ringworm.—Take of subcarbonate of soda 1 drachm which dissolve in ½ pint of vinegar. Wash the head every morning with soft soap, and apply the lotion night and morning. One teaspoonful of sulphur and treacle should also be given occasionally night and morning. The hair should be cut close, and round the spot it should be shaved off, and the part night and morning, bathed with a lotion made by dissolving a drachm of white vitriol in 6 oz. of water. A small piece of either of the two subjoined ointments rubbed into the part when the lotion has dried in. No. 1.—Take of citron ointment 1 drachm; sulphur and tar ointment, of each ½ oz.; mix thoroughly, and apply twice a day. No. 2.—Take of simple cerate 1 oz.; creosote 1 drachm; calomel 30 grains: mix and use in the same manner as the first. Concurrent with these external remedies, the child should take an alterative powder every morning, or, if they act too much on the bowels, only every second day. The following will be found to answer all the intentions desired.

Alterative Powders for Ringworm.—Take of

Sulphuret of antimony, precipitated	24 grains.
Grey Powder	12 grains.
Calomel	6 grains.
Jalap Powder	36 grains.

Mix carefully, and divide into 12 powders for a child from 1 to 2 years old; into 9 powders for a child from 2 to 4 years; and into 6 powders for a child from 4 to 6 years. Where the patient is older, the strength may be increased by enlarging the quantities of the drugs ordered, or by giving one and a half or two powders for one dose. The ointment is to be well washed off every morning with soap-and-water, and the part bathed with the lotion before re-applying the ointment. An imperative fact must be remembered by mother or nurse,—never to use the same comb employed for the child with ringworm, for the healthy children, or let the affected little one sleep with those free from the disease; and, for fear of any contact by hands or otherwise, to keep the child's head enveloped in a nightcap, till the eruption is completely cured.

Caution in Visiting a Sick-Room.—Never venture into a sick-room if you are in a violent perspiration (if circumstances require your continuance there), for the moment your body becomes cold it is in a state likely to absorb the infection and give you the disease.
