SIR JAMES MURRAY'S FLUID MAGNESIA.

PREPARED under the immediate care of the Inventor, and established for nearly forty years by the PROFESSION, for removing BILE, ACIDITIES, and INDIGESTION, restoring APPETITE, preserving a moderate state of the bowels, and dissolving uric acid in GRAVEL and GOUT; also, as an easy remedy for SEA-SICKNESS, and for the febrile affections incident to childhood it is invaluable.

Dr. James Johnson states, in his Review of Dr. MURRAY'S INVENTION—"PELLUCID SOLUTION OF MAGNESIA.—This very useful and elegant preparation we have been trying for some months, as an aperient anti-acid in dyspeptic complaints, attended with acidity and constipation, and with very great benefit; we always recommend the original."

Sir Philip Crampton, Bart., says—Sir J. Murray's Fluid Magnesia is a very valuable addition to Materia Medica."

Mr. Mayo.—"It is by far the best form in which that medicine has been hitherto prepared for use."

Dr. Kennedy, Master of the Lying-in Hospital, Dublin, considers "the Fluid Magnesia of Sir James Murray to be a very valuable and convenient remedy in cases of irritation or acidity of the stomach, but more particularly during pregnancy, febrile complaints, infantile diseases, or sea-sickness."

Dr. S. B. Labatt, Richard Carmichael, and J. Kirby, Esqs., Surgeons, of Dublin, "consider the exhibition of Magnesia in Solution, to be an importan improvement on the old method of mechanical mixture, and particularly well adapted to correct those acids which generally prevail in cases of gout, gravel, and heartburn."

Sir James Clarke, Sir A. Cooper, Dr. Bright, and Messrs. Guthrie and Herbert Mayo, of London, strongly recommend Murray's Fluid Magnesia, as being infinitely more safe and convenient than the solid, and free from the danger attending the constant use of soda or potass.

Drs. Evory Kennedy, Beatty, Burke, of the Rifle Brigade, Comins, Deputy Inspector of Hospitals, and Surgeon Hayden of Dublin, have given letters to the same effect.

Sir Humphrey Davy, in 1809, tesitfied that this Solution forms soluble combinations with uric acid salts in cases of gout and gravel, thereby counteracting their injurious tendency, when other alkalies, and even Magnesia itself had failed.

With the Acidulated Sprup, this Fluid Magnesia forms the most delightful of saline drinks.

Physicians will please specify "MURRAY'S FLUID MAGNESIA" in their prescriptions, to avoid the danger of adulterations and substitutions;

Sold by the sole Consignee, Mr. BAILEY, of Horseley Fields Chemical Works, Wolverhampton, and by all wholesale and retail Druggists and Medicine Agents throughout the British Empire, in Bottles, 1*s.*, 2*s.* 6*d.*, 3*s.* 6*d.*, 5*s.* 6*d.*, 11*s.*, and 21*s.* each.

☞ The Acidulated Syrup in Bottles, 2*s.* each.

N.B.—Be sure to ask for "Sir James Murray's Preparation," and to see that his name is stamped on each label in green ink, as follows:—"James Murray, Physician to the Lord Lieutenant."

In issuing this Guide and Directory, I beg to state that I have spared no effort to ensure its completeness and correctness, and I have been assisted in my endeavour by several gentlemen in the district over which this work extends: to them I return my grateful thanks, and I hope the labour they have bestowed upon this book will be as highly appreciated by the persons for whose use it is designed as it is by the publisher.

To the nobility, gentry, and inhabitants generally, who have favoured me by their subscriptions, my thanks are likewise due.

I have had the misfortune to have been preceded in the district by a class of directory publishers, whose characters I will not venture to describe, and the consequence has been that a large number of tradesmen whom they had victimised have reluctantly been induced to place confidence in the genuineness of the present publication.

It is my intention to continue this Directory at regular intervals, and any suggestions that can tend to its improvement I shall be most happy to receive.

BRENTFORD.

THE town of Brentford is seven miles west of Hyde Park corner, and derives its name from a brook called the Brent, which rises in the parish of Hendon, and here flows into the Thames. The freeholders of Middlesex assemble here to choose their representatives. That part of the town called Old Brentford, is in the parish of Great Ealing, and is opposite Kew Green. New Brentford is partly in the parish of Hanwell, and forms a township of its own name, supporting its own poor. Brentford End is a hamlet of Isleworth. Brentford Church, dedicated to St. Lawrence, was, with the exception of its tower, rebuilt in 1764, and is situate in the centre of the town; it contains numerous monuments, among which may be mentioned those belonging to the ancient families of the Clitheroes and the Hawleys, and one by Flaxman to the memory of Dr. Ewin. A handsome painted glass window has recently been added to this Church, executed by Mr. Powell, of the Whitefriars Glass Works, and it is worthy of mention that the Rev. John Horne, afterwards the Rev. John Horne Tooke, and afterwards John Horne Tooke, Esq., Member of Parliament for Old Sarum, officiated here as minister for many years. The living is an Incumbency, and adjoining the clergyman's residence is a curious old mansion, formerly occupied by Sir William Noys, Attorney-General to Charles the First. St. George's is a Chapel of Ease, and contains, over the altar, a fine old painting representing the Lord's Supper by Zoffani, from whom it was a present.

The Grand Junction Water Works is situate at the entrance of the town near Kew Bridge, and is remarkable for its immense chimney, which is nearly 150 feet high. By the machinery of these works 40,000 gallons of water are said to be propelled every minute to supply the metropolis. The Gas Works are on the same side of the road, and a short distance further on, on the opposite side, is Messrs. Haig's distillery, one of the most extensive establishments of the kind in the world. There are also, in Brentford, large breweries, malt-houses, brick works, and a soap factory. Population in 1851—Old Brentford, 6,057; New, 2,063; total 8,120.

KEW.

KEW is six miles from Hyde Park Corner, in the Hundred of Kingston, and the county of Surrey. The Botanic Gardens and Royal Pleasure Grounds are the finest in the country, and are frequented by large numbers of people. The population is upwards of 1,000. The Vicarage is valued at £409, and is in the presentation of King's College, Cambridge. The Church, which was built in 1714, is dedicated to St. Anne. It contains the organ which George III. used to play, and which was a present from George IV. The Queen's Free School, on Kew Green, was endowed by Lady Capel in 1721, and the foundation stone was laid in 1824, by the Duke of Clarence, afterwards William IV. The Botanic Gardens and the Royal Pleasure Grounds are objects of great attraction. They are now open to the public during the summer months, on Sundays as well as other days.

ISLEWORTH.

THIS village is pleasantly situated on the banks of the Thames, about a mile below Richmond on the Middlesex side. The walks and rides in the neighbourhood are most diversified and agreeable, and the parish is celebrated for its salubrity, supposed to be owing to the excellent quality of the soil and the purity of the water. The Church, with its "ivy mantled tower," is well known as one of the most picturesque objects in the scenery of the Thames. It is a living in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, of the value of about £800 a year. The present Vicar, the Rev. Henry Glossop, has held it upwards of 30 years. Great improvements and alterations have recently been made in the Church and Churchyard, the latter being now one of the largest and best arranged in the county of Middlesex. A new Church is about to be erected near the Railway station, to meet the requirements of the rapidly increasing population in the locality. His Grace the Duke of Northumberland has given £2,000 and a site, and the Vicar will allow £150 a year out of the vicarial rent charge towards its endowment. The Wesleyans, the Independents, the Society of Friends, and the Roman Catholics have each places of worship in Isleworth; there are also National Schools, Infant Schools, Sunday Schools, and Industrial Schools, some of which are endowed, the others supported by voluntary contributions. Syon House, the residence of the Duke of Northumberland, is a splendid quadrangular embattled mansion, erected on the site of Syon Monastery, one of the religious houses built by Henry the Fifth. Its beauties are well known to the public, from the liberal manner in which his Grace threw it open during the Great Exhibition in 1851.

The mansion lately erected by Earl Kilmorey, on the site of St. Margaret's (formerly the property of Lord Ailsa), is a noble piece of architecture; Isleworth House (the residence of the Dowager Lady Cooper), Gordon House, and many others, are justly admired. A very large proportion of the parish of Isleworth is cultivated for the supply of the London markets, and the fruits and vegetables grown here by Messrs. Wilmot, Norris, Knevett, Warren, Mann, Chapman, and others, are well known for their excellence by the frequenters of Covent-garden Market. The manufactories of Isleworth consist of Ashley's Roman Cement Mills; the enormous Corn Mills of Mr. S. Kidd; Messrs. Stanbrough's Corn Mill, with the Paris Chocolate Mills adjoining; Messrs. Farnell's extensive Brewery; and Mr. Beck's Timber and Slate Works.

The parish of Isleworth is very extensive, and comprises within its limits a population, according to the last census, of 7,004 persons. A pleasure fair is held in Isleworth-square, on the first Monday and Tuesday in July. Regattas of a very superior character have occasionally been got up here on the Thames, the course being from Sion House to St. Margaret's.

The original name of this place was Gistelesworde, afterwards, Istelworth, Yhistleworth, and Issleworth. In Queen Elizabeth's time it was called Thistleworth, but for the last two centuries it has gone by its present name. It is a word of three syllables, and pronounced as if spelt I-zel-worth—Ile-worth, and Iles-worth, being modes of pronouncing it only in use amongst a few of the lower orders.

The loop line of the Windsor Railway runs through the parish; and the North and South-western Junction (just completed), which unites the North-Western and South-Western, by joining the loop line near Brentford, places

Isleworth in immediate communication with the whole railway system of England, and must consequently greatly tend to its prosperity.

TWICKENHAM.

THIS parish is ten miles from London, delightfully situated in a bend of the river; it is one mile from Richmond, and three from Brentford. The benefice is a vicarage, in the presentation of the Dean and Canons of Windsor. The church contains the remains of many distinguished persons, and the medallion monument to Pope, erected by Warburton. The district church of the Holy Trinity was erected in 1840, principally by subscription. Among the sums given for this object were £500 by Sir William Clay, £500 by the Duke of Northumberland, £500 by H. Pownall, Esq., £500 by T. Twining, Esq., and £500 by Archdeacon Cambridge; also £100 by the Queen Dowager. The adjoining schools, for about 180, were built in memory of Archdeacon Cambridge by subscription. There is a Wesleyan and an Independent chapel. The Worshipful Company of Carpenters' almshouses are situated on Twickenham common. These almshouses were built in the year 1841, from designs and under the superintendence of William Fuller Pocock, Esq., the architect, then master of the company. They are governed by the worshipful master, wardens, and court of assistants of the Worshipful Company of Carpenters. The land purchased for the site consisted of upwards of six acres, formerly part of the estate of the immortal poet, Alexander Pope, Esq. The purchase was made with funds which the company were empowered to lay out in land, to be applied to any purpose they might select. The whole expense of the building was defrayed out of the general funds of the company, with the exception of a munificent donation of £500, and the court and living contributed liberally towards the endowment of the institution. There are ten houses and ten inmates, who are either liverymen, freemen, or the widows of liverymen and freemen, having arrived at the age of sixty years, and in need of assistance to make them comfortable in their old age. The whole is walled in, with a handsome iron railing and gates in front, and the grounds beautifully laid out.

Pope's villa and Strawberry hill, erected by the famous Horace Walpole, have been dismantled within the last few years. The bank of the Thames is adorned with many tasteful mansions, whose grounds are embellished with luxuriant trees and brilliant flowers. Among the notabilities may be mentioned the seat of Sir W. Clay, M.P., and Orleans house, which was occupied by Louis Philippe when Duke of Orleans, and which is now the residence of the Duke D'Aumale.

Twickenham is celebrated for its strawberries and raspberries, which are sent in large quantities to the London markets.

RICHMOND.

THIS town is one of the prettiest in the country, and is nine miles from London. It is rich in ancient recollections, very ample details of which are published in sixpenny guide books. The living is a vicarage, in the gift of King's College, Cambridge. The Church is dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene. St. John's District Church, on the Kew road, was erected in 1831, the curacy of which is in the gift of the vicar of Richmond.

We take the following from a Handbook of the Environs of London, published by Ingram, Cooke, and Co. :—

"On a bright summer's day, the beautiful scenery of Richmond and the river reminds one of the olden appellation of the place Shene, or Sheen, bright or splendid. Mr. Hofland has left us an unaffected picture of the peculiar charm of the place :—'The amateur painter may find here abundance of subjects on which to exercise his pencil, or gratify his taste for nature and art; admiration of the former, and knowledge of the latter, being alike called into action by the scenery around him. The placid stream, verifying Denham's description—

Strong without rage, without o'erflowing full—presents on one side emerald turf, of the finest texture and brightest verdure, lofty elms, interspersed with chesnuts, poplars, acacias, and all the lighter shrubs, shading noble mansions with hanging gardens, and elegant cottages ornes; while, on the other, is seen the ancient village of Richmond, rising terrace-wise, and exhibiting every form of stately and of rural dwelling. A peculiar air of cheerfulness everywhere pervades the scene, which is alike remote from the noise and confusion attendant on the metropolis, and the sequestration which belongs to isolated dwellings in more remote districts. The pleasures of society, the tranquillity of retirement, are nowhere better combined, and completely enjoyed, than in this beautiful village and its vicinity.' The bridge connects Richmond with Twickenham; it consists of five stone arches, and was built from Payne and Couse's design, in 1779. The olden celebrities of Richmond are too numerous to be pressed into a page; of its Tudor palace, a gateway remains on the Green.

Here Thomson sung the Seasons, and their change; and the poet lies buried in the old church, where also rest Mrs. Yates, the tragic actress, and her husband, and Edmund Kean. The Royal Park abounds with fine forest scenery, and the herd of fallow and red deer is very numerous. One of the lodges is the residence of Lord John Russell; and on the hill side the Marquis of Lansdowne has a mansion, embosomed in shrubbery and picturesque wood. These statesmen, by the way, are not by some scores the first who have found relief from the fatigues of office amidst the 'pendant woods' and embowering walks of Richmond. The highest point in the Park commands views of Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's, with the Hampstead, Highgate, and Harrow hills; but Windsor Castle has been shut out of the prospect by the new plantation near the terrace. Lord Byron provokingly describes the prospect as all smoke and water; Thomson and Maurice have, however, enshrined its beauties in the amber of their verse; though the former modifies his enthusiam with the line—

To where the silver Thames first rural grows.

From the hill there is a delightful forest walk to Petersham and Ham House, with a fine gallery of portraits by Vandyck and Lely, and tapestry, carvings, &c. At Richmond, the angler will find the first and most extensive deep or preserve on the river."

KINGSTON.

THIS town is situated ten miles from Hyde Park corner, and was anciently a place of great importance. Several monarchs were crowned here, and the stone on which the coronation ceremony is supposed to have taken place is still preserved. There has been a bridge at Kingston for several centuries, but the present handsome bridge was not opened until 1827. The Town Hall was erected in 1838. A market is held here on Saturdays. The Lent assizes for the county of Surrey are held in this town. Under the Municipal Corporation Act of 1834, the Corporation consists of a mayor, six aldermen, and eighteen councillors.

Quarter sessions for the county are held at Kingston in October, and petty sessions every Saturday.

All Saints Church is a very ancient structure, and the living is in the gift of King's College, Cambridge. A church dedicated to St. Peter, was, some years since, erected at Norbiton, and one to St. Mark was erected at Surbiton.

The population in 1851 was 10,630, showing an increase in ten years of 2,536.
