PATENT KITCHENERS.

THE advantages of a modern Kitchener, or semi-closed Range, when fitted with all the recent improvements, over every other form of Stove for cooking purposes, are now so generally admitted, that the old open fire Ranges are rapidly becoming obsolete, and the sale of Kitcheners is widely extending.

To secure a large trade in this department of their business, by a low scale of prices for substantial and efficient Ranges, GRAY and LUCAS have made special arrangements with two or three eminent manufacturing firms, and have secured the exclusive agency for the sale of their Kitcheners in this district. These satisfactory terms enable GRAY and LUCAS to offer a remarkably low list of prices, and they invite the inspection of their stock by intending purchasers, before deciding. Practically acquainted with the details of Kitcheners generally, and the special points of difference as to arrangement and principle between the various kinds now before the public, GRAY and LUCAS will be happy to supply any information that may be desired.

It should be understood that each range in their Catalogue is warranted perfect in construction, and thoroughly efficient for all its intended purposes—provided only that it be properly fixed. They are made in a great variety of sizes, from 2 feet 6 inches in width upwards, at prices ranging from £2 17s. 6d. to £45. As the success of any Kitchener depends so greatly upon a correct method of setting, GRAY and LUCAS are agreeable to undertake the fixing whenever desired, and they guarantee the satisfactory operation of every Range in all respects, when fixed by them. They send competent and respectable workmen to all parts, and undertake the whole of the necessary work for a moderate agreed price. Any of these Ranges can be fitted with Wrought Iron Boilers, adapted for heating a conservatory, or the furnishing of hot water supply to a bath-room, or through the house generally.

G. and L. will forward their Illustrated Descriptive Catalogue of Close and Open Fire Ranges, with sizes and prices free on application.

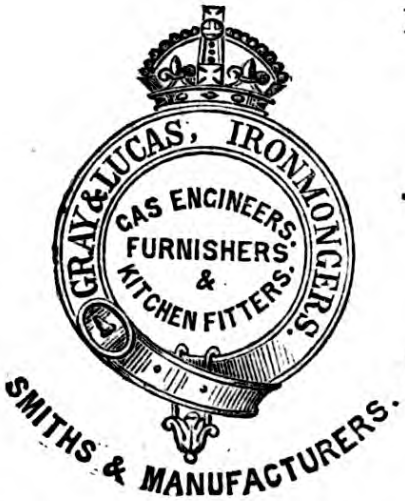

Kitcheners of all Descriptions repaired or re-set, or fitted with Fire-Lump Linings, &c.

Plans and Estimates for Bath and Hot-water Work will be furnished upon request, and orders by post will receive prompt attention.

ESTABLISHED  100 YEARS.

W. E. WILLIAMS,

SADDLER AND HARNESS MAKER,

HIGH STREET, WANDSWORTH,

BEGS leave most respectfully to inform the Nobility, Gentry, and the Public, that he has invented an entirely new system of manufacture of the HORSE COLLAR, whereby horses are enabled to work perfectly free from the Liability of Galled Shoulders, however tender and delicate their skin may be.

Gentlemen and Ladies having young and valuable horses are earnestly solicited to give these Collars a trial; and no charge will be made if they do not prove to their satisfaction at the end of one month's trial.

Hoping to secure a public patronage for this useful invention, he begs to observe that the price is only a few shillings more than the ordinary Collar.

N.B.—MERCHANTS AND THE TRADE SUPPLIED.

Extract from the South London Chronicle, November 3, 1866.

"An invention produced by Mr. Williams, saddler and harness maker, of High Street, Wandsworth, deserves to be tried upon its merits, by reason of the ease it gives to carriage-horses. The ordinary collar, padded with straw and altogether unyielding, bears against only a small portion of the neck and shoulders of the horse, and of necessity galls the animal's skin. Mr. Williams rids the horse of pain and discomfort, and reduces even the pressure of the collar by the use of an elastic frame, properly covered with cloth and leather, which adapts itself to the anatomical structure of the neck. The saving of horse-flesh, and the prevention of cruelty are not the only advantages of the patent; its durability effects a further saving in the cost of the harness itself. We are gratified to learn that Mr. Williams' good aims have been so far appreciated that since the beginning of the year he has completed 400 collars upon his improved plan, and that the carriage-horses of the Lord Mayor elect will wear collars and harness made by him."

THE VITRIFIED PORCELAIN STREET TABLETS,

Manufactured by Messrs. C. Pillivuyt and Co., of Mehun, Foëcy, Noirlac, Paris, and 2, Hatton Garden, E.C.

These Tablets, being formed of the finest Porcelain China, are imperishable; when properly fixed to the wall, indestructible; and, from their very low price, want only to be better known in this kingdom to be universally used. They are approved by the Metropolitan Board of Works, and adopted as STREET INDICATORS by the District Boards of Wandsworth, Hackney, Shoreditch, Poplar, Battersea, St. George's, Hanover Square, &c., &c.; and also by the Cities of Paris, New York, St. Petersburg, &c. From their handsome appearance they are peculiarly fitted for VILLA NOMENCLATURE.

Specimens submitted for inspection on application by post, and their general effect can be seen on the walls of the above Districts.

COOPER, COOPER, & Co.,

(EXCLUSIVELY) TEAMEN,

63, BISHOPSGATE STREET WITHIN, LONDON, E.C.,

HAVE determined to furnish a complete and satisfactory answer to the universal question, "Where can we get really good tea?" The recent reductions in the duty, coupled with an enormous increase in the imports, have made tea so cheap that the choicest black tea the world produces can be sold to the public at a price which is so low as to render the sale of inferior qualities unnecessary. When the best black tea can be bought at 3s. a pound it does seem unwise to buy poor, washy, tasteless tea at a few pence a pound less money. Cooper, Cooper, and Co. have therefore resolved to avoid all second or third class tea, and to confine their business to high-class tea alone. It is well known that all high-class teas are those which are gathered in early spring, when the leaves are bursting with succulence: these are first-crop teas, full flavoured, rich, and juicy; whereas low-pr ced teas are gathered, or rather raked from under the trees, in autumn, when the leaves are withered dry, and sapless. The difference between first-crop tea and inferior descriptions is something marvellous when tasted side by side —the one brisk, pungent, and juicy; the other stale, flat, and insipid. There is a great difference even in first-crop tea, some chops possessing much more strength and a finer flavour than others. There are also several varieties; the most esteemed being Souchong, Moning, and Kyshow Congous. These three classes, when really fine, are, beyond compare, the best of all teas; and of these the Kyshow stands pre-eminent as a prince among teas. Now, it must not for one moment be assumed that the teas ordinarily sold bearing those titles are these teas, pure and simple in their integrity. A small portion of some one of them is sometimes used in the manufacture of that incongruous mixture which is so loudly lauded in grocers' shops, but we venture to say that they cannot be obtained genuine and unmixed in half a dozen establishments in London.

Cooper, Cooper, and Co. claim for their system of business another feature, viz., that there can be no mistake in the price or quality of any teas bearing their name on the wrapper or parcel, as they pledge themselves to sell first-crop tea only at their warehouse.

List of Choice Teas—Black.

1. The finest Lapsang Souchong, 3s. a lb.—strong burnt flavour.
2. The finest Moning Congou, 3s. a lb.—full ripe Pekoe flavoured, very strong and choice.
3. The finest Kyshow Congou 3s. a lb —the prince of teas, true Kyshow flavour.
4. The finest Assam Congou, 3s. a lb.—very strong tea, of Indian growth, draws a deep red liquor, and is very pungent, but not equal in flavour to the above.
5. The finest Oolong, 3s. a lb. This tea is much more esteemed in America than in England; in fact, the Americans drink hardly any other tea. It draws a pale liquor, and resembles green tea in many respects.
6. The finest Canton scented Pekoe, 3s. a lb.—a fine, wiry leaf, strongly scented tea.
7. The finest Foochow scented Pekoe, 3s. a lb.—a small, closely-twisted leaf, scented with jessamine.
8. The finest scented Caper, 3s. a lb.—a shotty leaf, very compact and heavy, drinks very brisk and pungent.

No other price for black tea.

List of Fine Green Teas.

9. The finest Cowslip Hyson, 4s. a lb.—this possesses the finest flavour of all green teas, but is not so strong as Gunpowder. This tea is principally consumed in Russia.
10. The finest young Hyson, 4s. a lb.—very strong, almond-flavoured.
11. The finest Moyune Gunpowder, 4s. a lb. This tea is much esteemed in England; it has a very strong, high burnt flavour.
12. The finest Ping Suey Gunpowder, 4s. a lb. This is a very small leaf tea, very handsome in appearance, but hardly so pungent as Moyune.
13. The finest Imperial, 4s. a lb. This is a large, knotty leaf tea, very fine and strong.

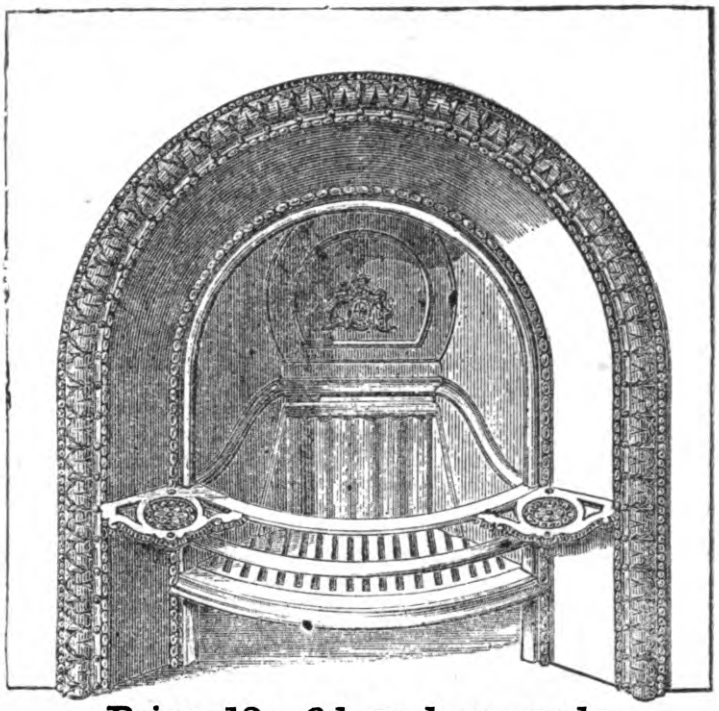

No other price for green tea.

Cooper, Cooper, and Co., in offering teas at these prices, must rely for success on a very large amount of public support. They charge only a small commission on the prices actually paid to the importers, and rely on their thorough knowledge of the trade to select such teas only as the public will approve of, and they rely on the appreciation of the public to support their endeavours. Cooper, Cooper, and Co. will charge 3d. a package (of any size) for delivering their teas within five miles of the Royal Exchange, or at any of the railway stations in London, thus putting all on an equality, those who send for their tea, and those who require it sent.

Cheques to be crossed, "National Provincial Bank of England."

REGISTER GRATES.

Price, 12s. 6d. and upwards.

GRAY & LUCAS' Stock of Register Stoves comprises a variety of Modern Patterns in all the usual sizes, with Iron or Fire-brick Backs, from 12s. 6d. to £10.

PATENT VESTA REGISTER GRATE.

PRICE, from £3 3s. upwards.

It is well known to those who are acquainted with the "Deep-cheek Arch Plate Reflecting Grates," that although most efficient they have yet two great defects. The one being the unchecked rush of air over the fire into the chimney, often causing it to burn black on the top. The other, the projection of the principal heat of the fire directly to the ceiling of the apartment. These serious defects, the Patent Vesta Register Grate entirely remedies; the first, by the introduction of a central door, which can, and is intended to be kept shut when the fire has burnt up, thus completely checking the rush of air to the chimney, the outer door or rim being at the same time left open (or partly open) is sufficient to carry off the products of combustion without permitting any unnecessary waste of heat. The second defect is remedied by the adoption of a concave instead of a flat reflecting arch above the fire, the chief heat from which, viz.—that given off by the upper part or concave surface is projected parallel with the floor instead of directly to the ceiling, as is done by the flat surface of the arch of the Stephen's Reflecting Grate, while the heat projected from the splay sides or cheeks of the Vesta Grate is dispersed in a fan-like direction, thus thoroughly warming the lower atmosphere and floor of the apartment.

Berlin Black and Steel Ashes-Pans, Fenders, Fireirons, &c.

Illustrated Catalogues of Drawing and Dining-Room and other Grates, Fenders, &c., will be forwarded, post free, on application.

PREFACE.

THE Compiler of this Directory hopes that the result of fifteen months' assiduous labor is the production of a thoroughly useful and convenient volume, suited for general reference, either for Visiting, Commercial, or Correspondence purposes.

He submits the book to the public, as supplying a want universally felt, and assured of that very general circulation throughout the district which alone can remunerate him for so considerable an investment both of time and money.

It will be observed that the Directory contains nearly double the number of Names and Addresses, together with a much larger variety of information than was promised in the original Prospectus; nevertheless, accuracy has been the special aim of the Compiler, even in preference to extent of matter. And on this point (being resident, and very intimately acquainted with the district) he invites comparison with any other Directory at the time of publication. The information has been obtained entirely from original sources, every house having been personally visited by the Agent—in some cases several times; and corrections to the present date have been made whilst the volume was in the press.

Should a future edition be printed, it is intended to include a Map, and some other valuable additions.

Suggestions for correction or improvement will be gladly received by the Publisher.

GRAY & LUCAS invite the attention of Gentlemen desiring additional convenience for Watering their Gardens, to the superior quality and workmanship of their GARDEN ENGINES and WATER BARROWS, BRASS SYRINGES, &c. They have a selection of these articles, which for durability and convenience they can confidently recommend.

Brass Syringes, from 6s. 6d. to 15s.; the celebrated Hydropult, 32s. 6d. to 42s.; Reads' Patent Syringes, from 18s. 6d. to 27s.; the New Aquaject, 18s. to 30s.

VULCANISED RUBBER WATERING HOSE,

Of the best material and manufacture, at the following low Scale of Prices. In lengths of 60 feet or upwards—smaller quantities than 60 feet charged ½d. to 1d. per foot extra:—½-in. diameter of bore, 1 Ply quality, 6d.; ⅝-in. ditto ditto, 7d. per foot; ¾-in. diameter of bore, 2 Ply quality, 1s. per foot.

One Ply is not intended to stand great pressure, but is for ordinary purposes—durable if care be taken to avoid drawing it along gravel walks or rough ground more than is necessary.

Two Ply is a substantial quality, can be had in larger or smaller sizes, suited to the purposes for which it may be required. Brass Nozzles, with Jets or Roses, and Unions for attachment to the Vulcanised Rubber Hose always kept in Stock.

These Hose Pipes are not liable to injury from damp, and are not affected by cold nor by heat under 300° Fahr. Unlike leather, cotton, or hemp, they do not require drying after use, consequently they will not rot or leak.

They are admirably suited for Gardening or Agricultural purposes.

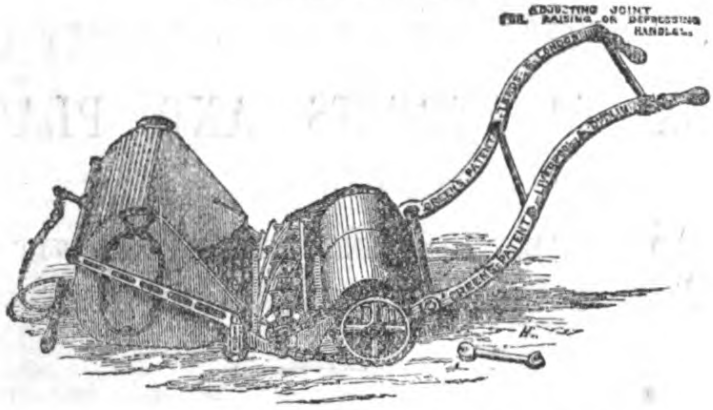

Brass Branch Pipe, with Rose, Screwed Bottom, and Stop Cock ..... ½-in. 3s. 6d., ⅝-in. 5s., ¾-in. 6s.

Taper Branch with Registered Spreader ... ½-in. 4s. 9d., ⅝-in. 5s. 3d., ¾-in. 6s., 1-in. 7s.

Improved TRAVELLING REELS for discharging, collecting, and protecting, when out of use, long lengths of Rubber Hose, £1 1s. each.

GRAY AND LUCAS,

LAWN MOWING MACHINES.

GRAY & LUCAS

Have a considerable assortment of LAWN MOWERS in Stock, of various sizes and descriptions. Every slight improvement which the practical working of their Machines can possibly suggest has been embodied by the various Patentees in their New Patterns. They therefore surpass in appearance, lightness of draught, and efficiency in working, those of any former year.

G. and L. supply, carriage free and in warranted condition, the Machines of the most eminent Firms, at the Manufacturers' own Advertised Prices, viz.:

	10-in.	12-in.	14-in.	16-in.	18-in.	20-in.	22-in.

HISTORICAL AND DESCRIPTIVE INTRODUCTION.

MUCH that is interesting of a descriptive and historical character might be written concerning that portion of the South-Western suburbs of London which this Directory comprises, would its limits permit, but a few leading facts only can be noticed. This part of the county of Surrey is situate from four to eight miles south-west of London, on the banks of the river Thames, which is its northern boundary. Adjoining it on the south are Merton, Mitcham, and Streatham; westward are Richmond Park and Coombe Wood; and on the east Brixton, Stockwell, &c. Several of the metropolitan railways traverse the neighbourhood. Particulars respecting the various lines, stations, &c., will be found under the heading "Railway Information."

Before the days of steam locomotion, there were many "railways" in England. These were simply tramways with rails of iron or wood, so placed as to make it easy work for one or two horses to draw a train of heavily-laden trucks or carriages. They were crudely formed, slow and tedious, and were little used for passengers. But they were serviceable in their day; and the first such line of railway was formed between Wandsworth and Merstham, viâ Croydon, &c., its principal use being the conveyance of lime and chalk from Merstham to the Thames. It was opened in 1801, and was in use, more or less, upwards of forty years.

There are no canals or lakes available for commercial purposes, but there are numerous valuable wharves on the Thames bank, and the various junctions of the Wandle with the Thames at Wandsworth. The river Wandle serves the uses of numerous extensive mills and factories. It is said to turn a greater number than any river of like size in England. The trout of this river (the "Vandalis" of Pope) was formerly abundant and of celebrated quality. That renowned angler, Izaak Walton, delighted in its "fishful qualities," and it is said that the great Lord Nelson, who had residences at Merton and Carshalton, enjoyed much of his leisure in fishing in the Wandle.

Probably few will lament the more profitable uses to which this once beautiful stream is now applied; nevertheless, it reflects much upon those residing near it, that in these days of sanitary improvement and of cultivated taste, its waters are not only suffered to be completely poisoned, but offensive odours and disgusting appearances have now for many years marked its course as it approaches towards the Thames. It is to be hoped that the completion of the great Metropolitan Drainage Works, now so long in progress, will be marked by a greatly altered condition of the Wandle, and that from either footway of a well-designed bridge, a more pleasing aspect will present itself to every passing pedestrian through the High Street, Wandsworth, and another much needed improvement for the accommodation of the greatly increased traffic of this important thoroughfare effected.

The recent report of the Metropolitan Board of Works states that the waters of the Thames are so far benefited by the main drainage scheme, that already living fish have returned in considerable numbers to parts of the river much nearer London than has been the case for many years. Whether these effects have been accurately observed at Putney or Wandsworth we are not informed. It is said that a fishery was established at Putney prior to the Norman Conquest, and that salmon and smelts have been taken in the spring even in recent years. Sturgeon, if caught here, is the property of the Lord of the Manor, and is usually presented by him either to the Sovereign or to the Lord Mayor of London. This part of the river Thames has an attraction for the thousands of spectators of all ranks, and for the many who are variously concerned in the great University and other boat races which annually take place here. The ugly wooden bridge at Putney possesses no interest except its age. It is one of the oldest of the Thames bridges. It must have had charms for the eyes of early beholders, although a petty toll seems to have been quite as grudgingly paid 130 years ago as it is now, for a gentleman writing in 1742 says, "It is a handsome wooden fabric, and as convenient, by its many angular indentings, for foot passengers, as for horses and coaches. A toll is paid for every one that passes it, let it be ever so often in a day, and the rate pretty much the same as the ferry used to be. And as the proprietors are said to divide £10 or £12 per cent. from the profits of it, 'tis pity, methinks, that foot passengers, who cannot wear the bridge, should pay at all."

The suspension bridge, affording communication between Barnes and Hammersmith, was erected about thirty-five years ago, and is a commodious and ornamental structure. A bridge, to be called the "Albert Bridge," to connect Wandsworth with Fulham and Chelsea, has been some time proposed, but the project is not yet matured. Battersea Bridge is not more creditable than the one at Putney.

The prevailing character of the soil in this part of Surrey is of a light gravelly kind. Water for domestic use is supplied by the Chelsea and the Southwark and Vauxhall Waterworks Companies. Immense reservoirs of the first-named company are situated on Putney Heath, a lofty eminence with commanding and pleasing views. Several other charming elevations occur in the district, as the Ridgway, Wimbledon, East and West Hills, Wandsworth, also at Clapham and Roehampton. From some of these eminences, on clear days, extensive and beautiful views are obtainable.

Manufactures are more extensively carried on in Wandsworth and Battersea than elsewhere in the vicinity. Employment is given to many thousands of workers in the extensive factories and mills. They include, with many smaller concerns, the large candle works of Price's Company, the silk ribbon factory of Cornell, Lyell, and Webster, the starch factories of Orlando Jones and Co. and W. C. Davies and Co., Messrs. Watney's extensive distillery, Fownes and Co.'s glove factory, several important chemical works, numerous large corn and flour mills, copper mills, paper mills, &c. The paper mill of Mr. McMurray is of immense extent. There are also several breweries, lucifer and vesta works, a flock and horse-hair manufactory, calico printing, dyeing, and cleaning works, &c. The latter are chiefly at Garratt and Merton. Calico printing was first introduced to this district by Francis Nixon, who was buried at Merton in 1768. The only bolting-cloths without seams for dressing flour are those from the celebrated factory of the Messrs. Blackmore, at Frogmore, Wandsworth, where they have been woven for a long period of years.

The Dutch established the manufacture of brass kettles and pans. Their factory is said to have been near Garratt; and some years later hatting and dyeing were introduced by numerous Protestant refugees from France.

Sufficient evidence is thus given of great commercial activity. In addition, the numerous and elegant shops of Clapham, and others in Wandsworth, afford proof of extensive trading; but greater enterprise and liberality on the part of the smaller tradesmen, especially in Wandsworth, Putney, and Wimbledon, would promote the increase of local business and vastly benefit themselves. The rapidly-increasing population, and the improved means of daily communication with town, afford scope for greatly enlarged retail trade. Want of public spirit and enterprise is not confined to tradesmen, however; otherwise many local schemes would be projected and successfully carried out, and better management of public affairs would result. One obvious public want is a well-conducted and influential Newspaper, as a ready means of discussing all matters of special interest in this locality. Such an organ would be serviceable in promoting such desirable objects, for instance, as the establishment of a commodious and capacious Public Hall, suited for musical and other entertainments, lectures, parochial and other meetings, with convenient rooms and offices attached for various purposes. An edifice of this kind in a convenient situation is especially needed in Wandsworth, as also are public Baths and Washhouses for the convenience of the poorer classes. Nor should grievances be left untouched: the state of the river Wandle (previously mentioned), the rapid enclosure and absorption of Wandsworth Common, the arrangements of the Post Office,* the regulations of the Gas and Water companies, the proceedings of the Board of Works, and numerous other subjects, demand a convenient organ for discussion.

Much has been said of late respecting the value of the open spaces around London; not only for the health and recreation of the resident population, but for that of the metropolis itself.

Public spirit, coupled with the needful subscriptions, has been successful hitherto in preserving Wimbledon and Tooting Commons. We have not heard as yet of any attempt to enclose the noble and well-kept Clapham Common; but unless active steps be speedily taken to preserve the portion of unenclosed land which still remains as Wandsworth Common, it is greatly to be feared that in course of a very few more years not a vestige of it will be left for the enjoyment of the public. Indeed, there appears every prospect that every available space will be devoted to coal heaps, goods sheds, and railway sidings.

It is greatly to be doubted whether the people of Wandsworth and Battersea have in Earl Spencer a lord of the manor of a like spirit to Sir Thomas Maryon Wilson, who has appeared so determined to carry out his designs upon the celebrated Hampstead Heath. On the contrary, it is almost certain that so amiable and generous a nobleman would readily consent to sell all his rights in respect of

* That these are not very satisfactory, one need only mention the fact that the collection of general letters at the office in the High Street, Wandsworth, takes place much earlier than it did fifteen or twenty years ago. The box now closes at 4.15 p.m., without advantage for an extra stamp. Formerly, the box closed at 4.30, or at 5 p.m. for letters bearing an extra stamp; and the first morning delivery of letters now takes place so late, that gentlemen are unable to see their private letters until evening, after their return from business in the City.

Wandsworth Common upon easy and liberal terms. It is therefore earnestly to be hoped that the public spirit of the inhabitants will be speedily aroused, and that, assisted by the subscriptions of all classes proportioned to their means, and the active efforts of the District Board of Works, a complete purchase of the estate of the late Mrs. Wilson, including the beautiful lake known as the Black Sea, and all the open portions of the Common, will be promptly made.

If some small outlying portions, with certain eligible frontages, were let upon building leases, much of the purchase money would be recoverable; and for a comparatively small outlay a beautiful and park-like appearance might be given to the whole of the space still reserved, which would not materially suffer in beauty or convenience by the intersection of the railway, the proximity of the County Gaol, or the existence of the Royal Patriotic Asylum in the centre.

The remarks we have made respecting that of Wandsworth apply in good degree also to Barnes Common.

The largest piece of water in form of a lake is that in Wimbledon Park, which often presents a beautiful appearance, being an ornamental sheet of water thirty acres in extent.

The Black Sea, before alluded to, when frozen over, is a favourite resort for skaters, as are also the small lakes on Clapham Common.

In the year 1660 a mineral well, the waters of which were long held in estimation, was discovered at Streatham. For at least a hundred years or more it was resorted to every summer by large numbers of the poor of London, being within the compass of a morning and evening walk. A remarkable well also existed upon Wimbledon Common, the waters of which, it is said, were never frozen.

Public benevolent and charitable Institutions, Hospitals, Schools, &c., abound. Some of them are not surpassed in extent or importance, or in architectural appearance, by any similar institutions in the kingdom. These demand notice beyond simple mention by name.

The Royal Hospital for Incurables, at West Hill, near Putney Heath, is the last of the noble memorials of the actively benevolent efforts of the renowned Dr. Andrew Reed. It occupies, with the most important and extensive additions, the fine old mansion known as Melrose Hall, and is situate in spacious grounds of surpassing beauty, abounding in the richest foliage; yet, from the elevated position of its site, it is airy and healthy, and commands delightful prospects, well calculated to cheer the afflicted inmates, whose comfort and relief seem to be in every way attentively cared for. Nothing that skill and experience can suggest, as likely to promote the welfare of the invalid occupants, appears to be omitted or neglected. It is contemplated to make large additions to the institution, including a new wing for the accommodation of about 180 more beds. Pensions are also granted by the hospital to numerous non-resident patients. Although nearly a new charity, it is gratifying to see the striking results it has produced, and to contemplate the almost immeasurable consolations it daily confers upon hundreds of the deserving afflicted of our fellow-creatures; nor is it less a pleasure to find that a generous British public has come forward with marked liberality to aid the requirements of the hospital, and we believe that many estimable persons in the neighbourhood have at various times manifested their interest in it both by subscriptions and by personal visits to the institution.

The British Home for Incurables, at Clapham Rise, under the patronage of the Princess of Wales, was founded in 1861, and, like the Royal Hospital, is affording relief to numerous in and out patients entirely by the aid of voluntary subscriptions and donations. A glance at the annual reports of these establishments would powerfully appeal to any benevolent mind.

The Royal Victoria Patriotic Asylum, for the education and maintenance of orphan children of soldiers and marines, is a noble foundation, endowed by the Royal Commissioners of the Patriotic Fund, which was raised at the time of the Crimean war, about twelve years ago. The first stone of the magnificent edifice on Wandsworth Common, which accommodates about 300 girls, was laid by Her Majesty the Queen in 1857. A handsome church has recently been erected upon the grounds of the institution, and there are also a chaplain's residence, infirmary, and farm buildings, &c. The cost of these various erections has been little under £50,000 altogether. About 200 boys receive a home and education in a separate institution on East Hill.

The Royal Freemasons' School, where more than 100 orphan girls are at the present time receiving a superior educational training, is an elegant building in the Tudor style, and is situate very near to the Clapham Junction station. It was erected in 1851. The charity was originally founded in 1788, under the auspices of the Chevalier Ruspini. The Institution was removed from Kentish Town to St. George's Fields, Southwark, on the erection of a suitable building, and thence to Wandsworth about sixty years later, on the completion of the present one. It has always afforded a cheerful home and sound education to its numerous inmates, having been liberally supported by this highly benevolent brotherhood.

Numerous other charitable foundations for the purposes of education might be noticed. At Battersea there is a Training College for young men intending to become schoolmasters, in connection with the National Society, also National and British Day Schools. The National School in Battersea Square was founded A.D. 1700 by Walter St. John, Bart. Originally intended for 20, it now affords education to about 150 boys. The present enlarged building was erected in 1859. An extensive and pretty group of new school houses and offices in connection with the Christ Church district has just been completed in the Grove Road.

Clapham, besides an Athenæum, Working Men's Club, numerous parochial and denominational day and Sunday-schools (many of them numerously attended), the Convent of Notre Dame, and St. Joseph's College, possesses also a public grammar-school, founded A.D. 1648, and rebuilt by subscription A.D. 1781. It occupies a convenient site in the High Street, and is under the superintendence of the Rev. Arthur Wrigley, M.A.

At Wandsworth are national and infant schools in connection with All Saints', St. Ann's, and St. Mary's churches; also British and Sunday-schools connected with the various chapels. In addition there is a school called the Boys' Home, a reformatory institution, with upwards of 100 inmates, situate near the bridge, in the High Street.

In 1710 William Wicks built and endowed what is called the Green Coat School. It is now incorporated with the National Society's schools in Love Lane.

Considerable taste and judgment have been displayed in the erection of several of the new school-houses in various parts of the district, the money subscribed for which having evidently been well expended.

In Putney we find a similar variety of schools for the children of the poorer classes, and there is a Free School, founded by Thomas Martyn in 1684. It is intended for the children of poor watermen, the founder, a London merchant, having, it is said, been rescued from drowning by a Putney waterman. Instead of boarding the children, as in former years, the trustees pay a fee of £30 with each child when apprenticed.

At Wimbledon there is an important Grammar-School, under the care of the Revs. J. M. Brackenbury, M.A., and C. J. Wynne, M.A. There is an Industrial School on the Ridgway, a well-directed and efficient Working Men's Club, with excellent lecture and class rooms, and supported by a large number of the resident gentry. In addition are the usual National and Infant Schools, as also at Tooting, Summers Town, Garratt, Barnes, &c. There is a large industrial school for boys, situate near the southern extremity of Wandsworth Common, in connection with the Union of St. James', Westminster.

The Young Men's Christian Associations, and the several auxiliaries of the British and Foreign Bible Society in the district, are referred to in another place.

The almshouses of the Fishmongers' Company, styled St. Peter's Hospital, are an elegant range of buildings, erected about fifteen years ago, forming three sides of a large quadrangle, and contain forty-two houses in all, besides a handsome Episcopal Chapel. In addition to the spacious lawn seen from the public road, there are extensive and well-kept gardens in the rear, forming a cheerful and pleasant resort for inmates whose age or infirmities preclude a more extended walk. With allowances proportioned to the wealth and liberality of this well-known guild, and thoroughly convenient residences, all the comfort for their declining years which institutions of this kind can bestow, is afforded to its inmates. Another noble group of almshouses, called the Holborn Estate Charity, and belonging to the parish of St. Clement Danes, Strand, is also situated within our district, at Summers Town, Lower Tooting. A description very similar to that given of St. Peter's Hospital also applies to these almshouses. There is the central chapel, &c., and both blocks of buildings are modifications of the Elizabethan style of architecture.

At Clapham are Carroun's Almshouses for seven poor women. They are situated in the Fentiman Road. Sir Abraham Dawes, knight, was the founder of almshouses for six poor men and six poor women at Putney in 1629. His charity has been assisted by the benevolence of many subsequent benefactors. There are other smaller groups of almshouses at Plough Lane, Battersea Rise, Dovedale Place, Battersea Fields, &c.

Among the many great public buildings in this locality is the County Gaol on Wandsworth Common, which, however, is of sightly appearance, and so situated with respect to the roads and other portions of the common, as to cause little annoyance by its proximity.

The Surrey County Lunatic Asylum is a very extensive and handsome range of buildings in red brick and stone, at Lower Tooting, near the south-western angle of Wandsworth Common. It is built in the Elizabethan style, and was erected about twenty-five years ago, at a cost of £63,000, and contains about 900 inmates.

The Wandsworth County Court, the jurisdiction of which extends to the greater part of the district, is at South Street, near its entrance from High Street, Wandsworth, and is a commodious and substantial building.

The Wandsworth Branch of the London and South-Western Bank, established about three years since, has proved beneficial to the tradesmen of the district, as well as to the resident gentry, who find it most convenient to have their banking account, and the advantage of secure strong rooms (for the occasional safe keeping of their valuables) at their service. These facilities for the increasing business of the Bank will doubtless be considerably extended upon the opening of the handsome new building now in course of erection, and which occupies so convenient and commanding a position near the bridge, in the High Street, Wandsworth.

Information respecting the District Board of Works, County Courts, Gas and Water Works, Police Divisions, Public Conveyances, Post Offices, Registration and Tax Offices, Medical Dispensaries, Parochial and other Public Officers, &c., and a complete list of the various Places of Worship, &c. &c., will be found under separate headings in other parts of the Directory.

Although the tide of modern fashion continues to flow farther westward, Clapham, with Balham, &c., can still boast of an influential and aristocratic resident population, especially in the vicinity of the Common.

The wealth and liberality of Clapham are attested by the important size and handsome appearance of its numerous places of worship, its schools, benevolent institutions, &c.

The parish church, situate on the Common, is a noble building, erected about ninety years ago. St. Saviour's, in the Cedars Road, is a handsome Gothic edifice, newly erected at the sole cost of the rector.

St. Paul's, in St. Paul's Close, Rectory Grove, near the Wandsworth Road, is another large church, built A.D. 1814, and having an interesting history. It occupies the site of the old parish church of Clapham.

The other churches are handsome and commodious. Particulars respecting them will be found in the tabular statement of Places of Worship.

The present Bishop of Ripon was incumbent of St. John's, Clapham Rise, some few years since.

The Congregational Church, in Grafton Square, is an elegant Gothic building, with handsome oak seatings and galleries.

There is also an important Roman Catholic Church in the Park Road, and the convent of Notre Dame on the Common.

The new Presbyterian Church in the Clapham Road is very large. It is a substantial edifice of the Corinthian order, and has a bold and effective appearance.

Wandsworth is not behind Clapham with respect to its provision for the public performance of Divine worship. Nevertheless, the inhabitants of the town have been named by more than a few devoted missionary spirits as specially cold and indifferent as to religion. John Wesley, in 1769, spoke of having laboured here for twenty years under the greatest discouragement.

About that time something of a revival appears to have taken place, which, however, probably did not last very long, for, when eighty-six years of age, in 1790, shortly before his death, he writes in his journal: "I preached once more at poor Wandsworth. The house was more crowded than it has been for several years, and I could not but hope that God will once more build up the waste places."

And Thomas Shillitoe, a worthy minister among the Society of Friends, states, in his interesting journal, that when he felt called upon to pay a religious visit to the members of Wandsworth Meeting, in 1793, "great discouragement took hold" of his mind when he saw the "unfriendly" appearance of many of the members and attenders.

Yet few places, if any, could be found marked by so many prominent facts highly interesting to the student of modern religious history, as is Wandsworth—an insignificant place at the time of most of the occurrences to which we refer.

It will be seen by the foregoing that John Wesley preached with frequency here, and that he began his labours in Wandsworth within ten years of the commencement of Methodism. Here Wesley baptised his first heathen convert, a negro, brought over from the West Indies by Francis Gilbert (brother of the then Speaker in the House of Representatives at Antigua), who for a time came to reside at Wandsworth, and who, upon his return in 1760, by his personal and private efforts became the originator and most influential promoter of the West Indian Methodist Missions, which have since become so widely extended.

Miss Vizetelly, afterwards the wife of Mr. Wesley, also resided here. The sacramental cup still in use at the chapel was her gift.

The old chapel, now used as a school-room, in the High Street, marks the place of Wesley's labours in Wandsworth, and we believe that one or more of the present members of the congregation can recollect his powerful appeals. Within the past year or two a new Wesleyan Chapel on East Hill has superseded the old one built in High Street in 1772. The new chapel, erected at a cost of about £6,000, including the purchase of the freehold site upon which it stands, is a Gothic structure of remarkably effective and pleasing design. Both the exterior and interior evidence good taste in architecture and judgment in the furniture and appointments; but the same care and methodical system, so conspicuous in Methodism, has been wanting in what may be termed the official arrangements connected with the chapel. It may not be out of place to mention that the present Lord Mayor of London is a member of this congregation.

But going back two centuries, before the days of Wesley, we find that among the more earnest defenders of the old religion at the period of the Reformation was a Vicar of Wandsworth, named Griffith, who, with his curate, a man servant, and one Friar Ware, suffered martyrdom at Camberwell, on the 8th of July, 1539. They were hanged and quartered, by order of Henry VIII., probably for questioning the royal supremacy. This happened just at the time when Cranmer's English translation of the Bible was first published.

Not more than thirty years later, the first congregation of dissenters was established in Wandsworth, on the spot where the old Independent Chapel now stands, almost immediately opposite the parish church.

The first Presbytery in the United Kingdom was formed here in 1572, by various ministers in the neighbourhood of London, who separated themselves from the Established Church about that time.

Notwithstanding the fierce opposition of Queen Elizabeth, the perseverance and zeal of the congregation—which in those early times consisted of such as had sought refuge from more violent persecution elsewhere, on account of their Puritan principles (including numerous Protestant refugees from France, who settled at Chelsea, Garratt, and other places in the vicinity, immediately after the awful massacre of St. Bartholomew), fairly overcame or tired out the resistance of the Government, and at last, by sufferance, these faithful men were allowed to worship God according to the dictates of their consciences, and thus was settled the first congregation of Protestant Dissenters in this country. Having survived long periods of persecution and trial, and upwards of two centuries of calmer times, it has continued a more or less active Christian church to the present day.

Divine service has been conducted in a chapel upon the same spot until within the last six or seven years, when the new Congregational Chapel, a larger and more convenient edifice, was opened on East Hill. This chapel has still more recently been completed by the addition of an excellent organ by Bevington's, and other considerable improvements.

Hallowed by the memories of Forrest and Field, and other pioneers in the battle of religious liberty, and many whose faith and pious zeal have had much to do with the freedom of conscience now enjoyed, the site on which these sturdy old Puritans used to worship 300 years ago is surely worthy of signal remembrance and respect. In these days of memorial erections, would it be much to consecrate this through coming generations as a spot sacred to the worship of Almighty God? The question appeals to every lover of religious freedom throughout the British Empire; nay, wherever the English language is spoken; and were a movement promptly made, there can be little doubt that subscriptions would pour in from all quarters, and that a noble structure, wanting neither in convenience, beauty, durability, nor magnificence, could be speedily raised, and an ample endowment provided for the perpetual maintenance of the fabric and its furniture. It is an object in which all who esteem liberty of conscience in matters of religion would be able to unite, and, whether Churchman or Dissenter, none would feel it other than a privilege to join. If £50,000 can be easily raised for the restoration of a cathedral spire at Chichester, or £30,000 as speedily collected by Mr. Spurgeon for a Tabernacle at Newington, or, as is now proposed by the Congregational body (which, perhaps, is most immediately concerned in this matter), a sum of £40,000 is required for a Memorial Hall, to be erected in London, for conducting the meetings of its various associations, and transacting the business of its denominational institutions, in commemoration of the ejectment of 2,000 of the ministers of the Established Church in 1662; surely it must certainly be an easy matter in comparison to raise a sum exceeding any of these for so noble a project. In what more fitting manner could the approaching tercentenary of this time-honoured church be celebrated, than by the public inauguration of a noble edifice upon this sacred spot, to be consecrated for ever to the Divine Glory and the freedom of religious thought and worship?

The parish church of All Saints is of great antiquity. It was rebuilt about 1780, with the exception of the tower. This was erected in 1630, having had in former times a steeple. The tower was again almost rebuilt, and considerably heightened and ornamented, in 1841. The church contains a few monuments of interest, including the principal portions of an old brass tablet, supposed to be that of a warrior knight, who died early in the reign of Henry V. Among them, also, is a marble memorial to Susanna Powel, daughter of Sir Thomas Hayward, yeoman of the guard in the reigns of Henry VIII., Edward VI., Mary, and Elizabeth. She died A.D. 1630, and was a considerable benefactor to the parish.

Another, and larger, quaint-looking monument of the period is to the memory of Henry Smith, an alderman of London, of whom there are strange traditions. He died of the plague in 1627, when about eighty years of age. It is said that he made a trade of begging, and, being always accompanied by his dog, acquired the epithet of "Dog Smith," by which he has long been popularly known. It is more probable that he was a City silversmith, having occupied a house in Silver Street, Cheapside. At any rate, he died a wealthy man, and, having neither widow nor children, became a munificent benefactor to numerous parishes throughout the county, and to Wandsworth, his native place, in particular.

There are two very fine marble busts of Sir Thomas and Dame Catherine Broderick, about 200 years old. The parish register records numerous instances of longevity. Among them, Alice Palladaye, who died in 1622, aged 114 years; Thomas Tayer, 1653, aged 101; and Mary Cross, 1760, aged 102 years.

The parish of Wandsworth was divided about seventeen or eighteen years ago, so far as ecclesiastical purposes are concerned; and the parent church of the new parish thus created, on the east side of the river Wandle, is that dedicated to St. Ann. It is an edifice capable of seating nearly 2,000 persons. It was built in 1822-3 by Sir Robert Smirke. It is in the Ionic style, and was consecrated for divine service May 1, 1824. The exterior, like this architect's churches in general, is plain, and far from faultless. The design of the bell turret especially is poor, and the old "pepper-box" simile applies well to it. The interior, however, is very convenient. It is pleasing and effective, and will bear comparison with any specimen of the same style which we have seen.

One cannot but reflect what a pity that so noble a building should have been comparatively deserted on various occasions, owing to the ill reputation or unpopularity of its officiating ministers. In the midst of a neighbourhood abounding with numerous and influential residents, and with religious zeal and activity on the part of the present vicar, who has lately succeeded the Rev. G. R. Harding, there is reason to hope that the recent promising appearances will long continue, and that a permanent and united congregation will become spiritually benefited, and will very shortly subscribe liberally (as doubtless many of the respectable seatholders would gladly have done under different circumstances long ago) to the necessary repair and further adornment of this beautiful edifice.

The other churches are:

Holy Trinity, recently erected on West Hill, upon a site adjoining the Royal Hospital, and which is still minus its tower and its intended southern aisle and transept. These wants will probably be supplied ere long by the wealth of Wimbledon Park and West Hill. When completed the church will form a handsome Gothic edifice, and a conspicuous ornament to the vicinity.

St. Mary's, Summers Town (enlarged a short time since), built in 1838 at the sole expense of the late Joshua Strange, Esq.

St. John's Church, in Union Road, near the York Road, built in 1863, specially intended for the convenience of the surrounding poor population.

The temporary iron church of St. Paul, on St. John's Hill, will probably soon be replaced by a permanent Gothic structure of considerable beauty. A large sum is, we believe, already in the hands of the incumbent and the treasurers for the purpose. The incumbent has himself been a liberal contributor to the funds.

The temporary church is filled to overflowing by the inhabitants of the new town which has sprung up in the vicinity of the Clapham Junction and New Wandsworth stations.

Other smaller churches complete the list for Wandsworth. They are enumerated in the catalogue of places of public worship. There is also a meeting-house of the Society of Friends in the High Street, founded within a few years of the Society's commencement, in the seventeenth century. George Fox, like John Wesley, having himself preached in Wandsworth, probably on almost the precise spot, about a century earlier, as the Friends' burying-ground, presented by one Joan Stringer, A.D. 1697, is separated only by a wall from the old Wesleyan chapel. The meeting-house was rebuilt in 1787, within the lifetime, if not the memory, of one of its living members, a venerable lady who long laboured as a devoted coadjutor of the well-known Elizabeth Fry. The Friends at Wandsworth have a small library of books, chiefly illustrating the history and principles of the Society, and which may be had on loan by application to the caretaker of the meeting-house, at 31, High Street. Among others are several interesting biographies of Quaker worthies.

The Rev. C. H. Spurgeon not only resides within a short distance of the Common, but has left a mark of his religious activity in Wandsworth by having inaugurated a movement in 1859, which resulted, in the course of three or four years, in the erection of a commodious new chapel on East Hill, for the congregation of his Baptist brethren in the neighbourhood, who were brought together chiefly by the efforts of his pupil, the Rev. J. W. Genders, and the influence of his own occasional ministry. There is also an older Baptist chapel, and one for Roman Catholics.

Battersea parish church of St. Mary was rebuilt about 1778. The vicarage is a valuable living, in the gift of Lord Spencer. The church contains a beautiful monument to Henry St. John, Viscount Bolingbroke, and his second wife. A curious poetical epitaph records the giant feats of a Sir Edward Wynter, an East India captain, in the time of Charles II.:—

> "Alone, unarm'd, a tyger he oppress'd,
> And crush'd to death the monster of a beast;
> Twice twenty mounted Moors he overthrew,
> Singly, on foot; some wounded, some he slew;
> Disperst the rest. What more could Samson do?"

Other celebrities are buried here. Thomas Astle, the antiquary, who died in 1803; Arthur Collins, author of the "Peerage," 1760; William Curtis, a botanical writer of eminence, died 1799. Among the vicars of Battersea were the learned Bishop Patrick, who died in 1707; also Dr. Temple, brother of Sir John; Owen Ridley, greatly persecuted by his parishioners; also Joseph Gardner, distinguished by his attachment to the fine arts.

Christ Church is a well-designed and elegant church in the decorated Gothic style, and was built about fifteen years ago. A parsonage house and schools in connection have recently been erected. The schools are a pretty group of buildings in the Grove Road. They are of considerable extent, and cost in erection nearly £5,000.

At Battersea lived and laboured the honored Joseph Hughes, the projector and energetic promoter of the British and Foreign Bible Society. He was for many years one of its zealous secretaries, and for thirty-seven years the esteemed minister of the Baptist chapel in the York Road, as recorded on the neat marble tablet to his memory placed upon its walls. He died in 1833, and was buried in Bunhill Fields. It is well known that the formation of the Bible Society was first contemplated in consequence of the difficulty of procuring a supply of Welsh Bibles; but although a native of the Principality—true to the instincts of a liberal-minded Christian—his large heart could not be satisfied unless an effort were made to place the Holy Scriptures within the reach of the whole human family.

There are also Wesleyan chapels at Battersea, and recently a church has been formed by members of the Congregational body.

Putney Church is dedicated to the Virgin Mary. The present building is a restoration in 1836 of an interesting church of Henry VII.'s time. It contains numerous mural monuments and brasses; among the more noticeable are tablets to the memory of Sir Thomas Dawes, founder of the almshouses in Wandsworth Lane, who died in 1655; of Thomas Martyn, the founder of the Waterman's

School; of Sir John Dick, Bart., who died at Mount Clare, Roehampton, in 1804, and two or three others of the period of James I. That of the Lady Katherine Palmer, dated 1613, displays an eulogistic epitaph which would probably satisfy the most extravagant flatterer of female beauty and virtue. Putney Church has also a beautiful chantry, originally erected by Nicholas West, Bishop of Ely, in the reign of Henry VIII. He was a native of Putney. The deistical John Toland is also buried at Putney.

A handsome Gothic church, recently completed by the addition of the tower and spire, was erected eight years ago on Putney Hill, and is dedicated to St. John.

Union Chapel is a neat Gothic building in the Upper Richmond Road. There is also an Independent chapel in Putney.

Roehampton, in Putney parish, but separated for ecclesiastical purposes, has a small but very pretty Gothic church. Here is also a Roman Catholic chapel, in connection with the Convent of the Sacred Heart.

The parish church of St. Mary, Wimbledon, has a spire beautifully conspicuous throughout the district. The church was handsomely restored at great expense in 1843. It has an altar tomb to the memory of Sir Edward Cecil, grandson of the Lord Treasurer Burleigh in Queen Elizabeth's time; and monumental records of John Horne Tooke, Charles James Fox, Sir Richard Wynne, and others.

The churchyard is equally interesting, and contains monuments of numerous celebrities and persons of distinguished rank. It is well worthy of a visit and close inspection. It is laid out with care and taste, and is beautiful for situation. Archbishop Reynolds was an incumbent of Wimbledon.

Wimbledon having greatly increased in population of late years, accommodation for public worship has been provided by the erection of Christ Church, on the estate of Lord Cottenham, the church of Holy Trinity, at New Wimbledon, also of new Baptist and Wesleyan chapels.

The church of St. Nicholas, Lower Tooting, was built in 1833, in place of a more ancient edifice, that was remarkable as having a circular tower—unlike any other in the county of Surrey. Among other monuments is one to Hepdon, an eminent diplomatist, who died in 1670. Samuel Lisle, afterwards Bishop of Norwich, was a rector of this church.

The Congregational chapel at Tooting was built as long since as James II.'s time, in 1688.

Upper Tooting has recently been provided with a handsome Gothic church, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, built in 1855.

Balham Hill Episcopal Chapel is now called St. Mary's Church. It is conveniently and substantially built in brick, with stone portico, and was opened for Divine service in 1807.

Perhaps the most ancient of the existing churches in our district is the interesting parish church of Barnes, dedicated to St. Mary. It is built with flint and freestone. Among the rectors of Barnes were Bishops Wilson, Hume, and Hare. Hezekiah Burton and Anne Baynard are buried here.

One of the benefactors of this parish was a citizen of London named Edward Rose. He died in 1653, and appears to have had a smack of vanity and eccentricity. He left a certain sum to the poor of Barnes, to be paid annually, upon condition that his monument was kept in good repair, and that his name was emblematically commemorated for ever by rose trees growing around his grave. In what manner this condition has been fulfilled during the two centuries that are past and gone, may be little known, but probably the bequest has not been forgotten. Do those who now administer or partake of Rose's bounty ever interest themselves to see if the living roses are bountifully cared for?

The Castelnau Episcopal Chapel was erected a few years ago, at the cost of Major Boileau.

We have thus noticed the leading features of the district, and briefly referred to its situation and boundaries, its parochial divisions, population, and area, its rivers and lakes, its chief elevations and public lands, its bridges and railways, its manufactures and commerce, its educational and literary establishments, its hospitals, almshouses, and other benevolent institutions, its public buildings and various objects of interest; and enumerated the principal churches and chapels, with particular mention of noteworthy incidents connected with each of the more ancient places of worship. We have also occasionally digressed from the descriptive narrative to make allusion to prominent public wants and grievances.

It remains to complete this introduction by presenting the reader of historical or antiquarian tastes with a short notice of past local events, and those associations of the district which we have not hitherto mentioned, but which he will read with more or less interest.

Those incidents or associations which more especially constitute the religious history of the neighbourhood since the period of the Reformation, have been mostly noted above, in connection with the churches and chapels, and will not, therefore, demand repetition here. To take the various parochial or other convenient subdivisions of the district in alphabetical order, first will come mentioned in Domesday Survey as "Berne." Beautifully situated on the banks of Father Thames, many historic generations have passed over Barnes with perhaps less external appearance of recent change than would apply to some of the surrounding parishes. It is not, however, devoid of many modern conveniences and improvements.

The railway station on Barnes Common accommodates the residents of Roehampton as well as Barnes, and the well-known "iron horse" brings daily, with his oft-repeated visits, a far more numerous following than ever invaded Barnes Common in the Stuart or Georgian days, when often the presence of a few gaudy, but lumbering, old family coaches, airing stately dames, or conveying their royal or noble owners to Richmond, Kew, or Barn Elms, alternated with the not unfrequent attendance of persons, more or less illustrious by birth, to settle, after an old and barbarous fashion, some great affair of honour. Many duels took place here, and perhaps of all that history relates concerning them, no story of profligacy can be found equal to that which resulted in the triple fight that occurred on Barnes Common exactly 200 years ago, when the infamous Countess of Shrewsbury, disguised as a page, held the reins of her paramour's horse whilst he was engaged in slaying her husband. It was in accordance with the manners of the period that the Earl should engage in personal combat with the notorious George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham, who had dishonoured him, even on behalf of so worthless a spouse.

The manor of Barnes is in the possession of the canons of St. Paul's, having, we believe, been held by them ever since it was given them by the Saxon King Athelstane. The place was of considerable note during the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, especially Barn Elms, which for a long period, however, consisted of only two houses built by Queen Elizabeth—the one used by herself as a dairy, and the other given by her to her favourite minister Sir Francis Walsingham, who frequently entertained his royal mistress here in great state. The great expense incurred by these visits of the Queen may have been a prime cause why this celebrated diplomatist was so poor when he died here in 1590. His daughter married three celebrities of the day—Sir Philip Sidney, the Earl of Essex, and the Earl of Clanricarde.

The celebrated Dr. Dee, astrologer and mathematician, who lived at Mortlake, visited Queen Elizabeth at Barn Elms, and was doubtless entrusted by her at times with peculiar and delicate business of a secret nature as a spy or informer. He died at an advanced age in 1608. Cowley, the poet, who died sixty years later; Handel, the renowned musical composer; Henry Fielding, the novelist; Heydigger, the master of the revels in the time of the early Georges; and others of note, were among the occupiers of Barn Elms in the eighteenth century.

It is related of Heydigger that "on a certain occasion his Majesty George II. gave him notice that he would sup with him one evening, and that he should come from Richmond by water. It was Heydigger's profession to invent novel amusements, and he was resolved to surprise his Majesty with a specimen of his art. The king's attendants, who were in the secret, contrived that he should not arrive at Barn Elms before night, and it was with difficulty that he found his way up the avenue to the house. When he came to the door, all was dark, and he began to be angry that Heydigger should be so ill prepared for his reception. Heydigger suffered his Majesty to vent his anger, and affected to make some awkward apologies, when, in an instant, the house and avenues were in a blaze of light; a great number of lamps having been so disposed as to communicate with each other, and to be ignited at the same instant. The King laughed heartily at the device, and went away much pleased with his entertainment."

Besides the more notable of the rectors of Barnes, there lived here also a great preacher, Fernan de Warner; and Jacob Tonson, the publisher, when Secretary of the Kit Kat Club, resided at Queen Elizabeth's Dairy.

Before the days of railway excursions, Londoners in the middle and upper walks of life derived frequent pleasure from boating parties to Barnes and Mortlake. The incidents and characteristics of these excursions on the Thames are graphically and pleasingly described by Pepys in his well-known diary. At Mortlake the first tapestry manufactory in England was established in 1619. It is said that one Beale, by whom the warrant for the execution of Mary Queen of Scots was taken to Fotheringay Castle, and who read it on her scaffold, lived and died at Barnes.

supposed to mean Patrice's-ey, or Patrick's Island, is thought by some writers to have been a residence of St. Patrick, or, at least, among the places visited by him.

Henry St. John, Viscount Bolingbroke (who, like Henry IV., took his title from an insignificant town in Lincolnshire), made a great figure in Battersea about 120 years ago. His noble mansion was partially pulled down about thirty or forty years after his death, which occurred here in 1751, and upon the site was erected, in 1788, a horizontal air mill, of very curious construction, after the model of another, on a smaller scale, constructed at Margate by a Captain Hooper. The part left standing formed a dwelling-house, one of the parlors of which, fronting the Thames, was lined with cedar, beautifully inlaid, and was the favourite study of Pope, and the scene of many a literary conversation between him and his friend St. John. It is said that Bolingbroke House contained as many as fifty rooms on a single floor. Henry Elsynge, Clerk of the House of Commons during the "Long Parliament," was born at Battersea in 1598.

The Archbishops of York had formerly a residence in Battersea parish, near the banks of the Thames, called York House, and eighty acres of land were reserved in their farm leases for the use of the Archbishop whenever he resided there, or within sixty miles of the place. When the Archbishop was sent to the Tower by Queen Mary, in 1553, the officers who apprehended him rifled the house of gold coin, 1,600 ounces of plate, a mitre of fine gold, with two pendants ornamented with fine diamonds and sapphires, together with other goodly stones and pearls weighing 125 ounces, some very valuable rings, a serpent's tongue set in a standard of silver gilt, and graven, the Archbishop's seal on silver, and his signet, an antique, in gold.

The east window, which was carefully preserved at the rebuilding of the church, contains portraits of Henry VII., his grandmother, Margaret Beauchamp, and Queen Elizabeth.

Pigeon-shooting and all the questionable sports of the long-noted "Red House" are now swept away, with advantage to public health and morals; the spot being recently converted into a beautiful public park of considerable extent. A duel, which created much excitement at the time, took place here, in 1829, between the great Duke of Wellington and the Earl of Winchilsea.

CLAPHAM, BALHAM, &c.

The former signifies the "home of Clappa," a lady of distinction in Roman times. One of the great thoroughfares constructed in those early days by the Roman conquerors of Britain, passed by Clapham and Tooting, and doubtless gave its name to Streatham. The ancient history of Clapham is much associated with that of Royal Kennington, or "Kyningtun." Much of the district now known as Clapham, Balham, Tooting, &c., was for several centuries in the possession of the wealthy monks of Bermondsey. Streatham parish includes Tooting Beck, or Upper Tooting, and Balham—the one named so from "Bec," and the other from "Belge" (Belge-ham or Balham), both monks of the twelfth century. Streatham was twice the property of the Bedford family. It belonged to the Crown in the time of Henry V. and Henry VI. The former gave it to his brother, the Duke of Bedford, and it became the inheritance of his grandson, Henry VI. In the early part of the eighteenth century it again became the property of the dukes of Bedford. Lord William Russell, who was murdered by his valet, sold the ancient manor house to Lord Deerhurst early in the present century.

Dr. Johnson made very frequent use of the hospitalities of the rich brewer Thrale and his gay, accomplished young wife at Streatham Park. For the latter the illustrious doctor had considerable admiration, and among his other acquaintances at Streatham Park was the beautiful and gifted Sophy Streatfield and Fanny Burney.

At Clapham resided Bishop Gauden, Dr. Lister, an eminent naturalist, and Nicholas Brady, the well-known psalmodist. The latter was rector of Clapham from 1706 to 1726. Hardicanute died at Kennington whilst banqueting on the occasion of the marriage of a noble Dane. Sir Walter Raleigh and the poet Cowper lived on Brixton Hill.

Reference has been two or three times made in the foregoing to Clapham Common. This favorite and well-known spot was, until the latter part of the last century, but little better than a morass, with roads nearly impassable. The improvements started about that time were chiefly due to the exertions of the late Christopher Baldwin, Esq., whose residence overlooked the common. The necessary drainage, the planting of the numerous groups of ornamental trees, and the repairs to the roads, &c.—effected by a subscription of the inhabitants, and planned with excellent judgment and taste by Mr. Baldwin—resulted in a greatly increased value of the property, so that Mr. Baldwin himself obtained shortly afterwards, for fourteen acres of land adjoining his own house, a sum of £5,000, an amount, however, which would probably fall short of the expectations of the present owner of the land, were he contemplating to bring the same fourteen acres into the market.

LOWER TOOTING AND MERTON.

Lower Tooting, or, more properly, Tooting Graveney, takes its name from an ancient family of the name of "Graveney," or "Gravenall."

A priory of Black Monks formerly existed here. On March 24th, 1600, that "bright, occidental star," Queen Elizabeth (whose brilliancy occasionally illuminated almost every part of her kingdom), displayed her illustrious presence to the good people of Tooting, being the guest, it is supposed, of her faithful subject, Sir Henry Maynard. Tooting was a place of considerable activity fifty or a hundred years ago, when numerous coaches passed through, en route to Worthing and other parts of Sussex.

The neighbouring village of Merton, or Meretun (the town of the lake), is famous for its ancient abbey, and the important historical events with which it has been connected.

In 784 Kenulph, or Cynewulph, King of Wessex, was murdered here, when visiting one of the ladies of his august court.

A.D. 871 one of the renowned Alfred's great battles with his Danish foes occurred at Merton, in which, however, the invaders were finally victorious.

The Abbey was founded A.D. 1117, by Gilbert Norman, sheriff of the county. Its existing remains are chiefly the east window, and some portions of the old walls. Built at first of wood, a more substantial structure of stone was erected about A.D. 1130. The parish church of Merton was also founded by Norman. In the early days of Merton Abbey it gave home and education to Thomas-à-Becket, and here, exactly one hundred years after it was founded, a treaty of peace was signed by Henry III. and Louis the Dauphin, son of Philip, King of France. During the preceding year or more, Louis had committed great ravages throughout the county, having taken the Castle of Guildford, and received oaths of fealty from the barons, and also the Castle of Farnham; the latter, however, being speedily recovered by Henry.

About twenty years after this event, Henry's celebrated minister, Hubert de Burgh, being disgraced, fled for sanctuary to Merton Abbey, whence the king ordered him to be dragged. Through the intercession of the Earl of Chester and the Bishop of Winchester, Henry was appeased, and restored De Burgh to favor.

The famous Parliament of Henry III., in which the "Statutes of Merton" were made, was held here in 1236. They are remarkable as being the most ancient body of English laws, "Magna Charta" only excepted. It was on this occasion that the proud barons told their king, "We will not change the laws of England."

Merton College, at Oxford, takes its name from Walter de Merton, Bishop of Rochester, who was its founder, in the year 1264.

Merton Abbey, like an endless number of other ecclesiastical monuments of piety and of history, came in for the ruthless treatment of the Puritan soldiers of Cromwell's time. In 1648 the abbey was made secure against the Royalist party by order of the House of Commons. In 1680 what remained of it was advertised to be let. It then consisted of several large rooms, and had a fine chapel. The former appear to have been used for calico-printing or other manufacturing purposes, and the latter remained entire until 1733. What happened it at that time we are not informed, but for nearly a century calico-printing has been extensively carried on, employing on an average about 1,000 persons, within the precincts of the old abbey, the walls enclosing formerly an area of about sixty acres in extent. The first works for the printing of calicoes were established here in 1724, and another in 1752.

PUTNEY, ROEHAMPTON, &c.

Putney (anciently Putelei) was the residence of several conspicuous personages in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and was the birthplace of some who, from an humble station, rose to positions of wealth and dignity. Among the latter were Nicholas West, Bishop of Ely, previously mentioned, who was the son of a baker. He became a favourite adviser of Henry VII., and was an eminent statesman also in the succeeding reign. Thomas Cromwell, who was the son of a Putney blacksmith, was born about the year 1498, and became a man of great learning and ability. He became the confidential servant of the great Wolsey, and after his death still enjoyed the capricious favour of Henry VIII. Being taken into the royal service, he was shortly knighted; in 1534 he was made Secretary of State and Master of the Rolls. In 1539, nine years after the fall of his old patron, the cardinal, he was ennobled by Henry as Earl of Essex; but he only enjoyed this dignity for a very brief period. Having incurred the King's displeasure for the part he took in promoting his marriage with Anne of Cleves, he was disgraced, and condemned for treason without a hearing, and beheaded on 28th July, 1540.

Another unfortunate Earl of Essex, Robert Devereux, the well-known favourite of Queen Elizabeth, is supposed to have resided at Putney previous to his unsuccessful expedition to Ireland, which resulted in the loss of his head on Tower Hill, February 25th, 1601. In order to follow the King in his flight after the battle of Brentford, in 1642, the commander of the Parliamentary forces, a third Earl of Essex (Robert Devereux, son of the last-named), constructed a bridge of boats from Fulham to Putney. He ordered the erection of forts on both sides of the river, and other means of defence against the Royalists. A second Cromwell—the great Oliver himself—made Putney his head-quarters a few years later, in 1647. His officers held their councils in the church, and sat round the communion table. On the 1st of November, 1647, Cromwell's propositions for the future government of the kingdom being completed were sent from Putney to Hampton Court, where Charles I. was then staying.

On the 13th of the same month, two days after the removal of the King to the Isle of Wight, the army, under General Fairfax, who succeeded the Earl of Essex in command, left Putney, and the ramparts, bastions, and other fortifications of 1642 were destroyed.

"Essex House," "Cromwell House," and "Fairfax House" serve to connect these historical characters with the Putney of the present day.

In 1684 Charles II. reviewed his forces on Putney Heath, and on 25th May, 1767, George III. reviewed the Guards at the same place. On the latter occasion a vast concourse of spectators assembled, and £63 10s. was taken for tolls on Putney Bridge, the largest receipt ever known in one day.

Richard Mounteney, a lawyer and classical editor, was born here in 1707, and Edward Gibbon, the distinguished historian, was born in 1737, in the same house in which Robert Wood, the author of "Ruins of Palmyra," and "Description of the Ruins of Baalbec," afterwards resided.

This celebrated traveller was born near Trim, in the county of Meath, and was buried in 1771, in the cemetery in the Upper Richmond road. This cemetery was opened about eight years previously, the ground having been given by the Rev. Roger Pettiward, D.D., in 1763. The new cemetery, on Putney Lower Common, was opened about ten years ago.

Bowling Green House, previously occupied by Archbishop Cornwallis, was the residence of William Pitt, son of the Earl of Chatham, and Prime Minister of England, when only in his twenty-fourth year. He died here January 23rd, 1806, a few months before Chancellor Thurlow died at his mansion on Knight's Hill, Streatham.

An obelisk on Putney Heath, a few yards to the right off the main road to Kingston, is doubtless a matter of curiosity to many a passer by. It was erected by order of the House of Commons, to commemorate an invention for the preservation of houses from fire by means of plates fixed between the floors and ceilings. A grant of £2,500 was also made to David Hartley, Esq., for this invention, which was tested in a house still standing near the spot, now known as "Fire-proof House," a residence three storeys high, built by Mr. Hartley for the purpose. No less than six trials of the invention were made in the year 1776, when, on one occasion, their Majesties George III. and Queen Charlotte, and other members of the royal family, were in a room on the first floor whilst that immediately under them was furiously burning.

Roehampton has been an aristocratic part of Putney parish for the last 200 years or more. Putney Park—or, as it seems to have been often called, Roehampton Grove—was granted by Charles I. to Sir Richard Weston, afterwards the great Earl of Portland, who in 1625 built a magnificent mansion here. His son alienated the property, which then came into the hands of Christina, Countess of Devonshire, a woman of great celebrity and very remarkable character. She was devoted to the Royalist cause, and held a very conspicuous position in the "society" of that day.

Roehampton House—now the residence of the Earl of Leven and Melville—was erected in Queen Anne's reign, about 1710 or 1712. The ceiling of the saloon was painted, like many of the Hampton Court ceilings, by Sir John Thornhill.

Besborough House was built by Sir William Chambers for Brazenby Ponsonby, an Earl of Besborough. "Mount Clare" was erected in 1772 for George Clive, Esq., a relative of the celebrated Lord Clive, who called it Mount Clare, as a compliment to the General, who then resided at Claremont.

"Clarence" is so called as having been a residence of William IV., when Duke of Clarence. Downshire House, now the mansion of David Barclay Chapman, Esq., was formerly the Marquis of Downshire's. Many other seats of the nobility might be named in the vicinity, for instance, Dover House, the seat of the Viscountess Clifden; Roehampton Priory, the residence of the late Right Hon. Sir Knight Bruce; and Granard Lodge, the temporary residence of the present premier, the Earl of Derby, K.G. If tempted to stray towards Sheen, we come to Temple Grove, an estate of great beauty and magnificence in the time of its first celebrated owner, the great Sir William Temple. The gardens, laid out with much care according to the rules of the conventional Dutch style which prevailed in England among the aristocracy of that day, were famous for fine orange-trees, and a great variety of choice fruit and flowers.

William III. frequently visited Sir William at this place, and when his patient was lame with gout, Swift, in attending his Majesty, became acquainted with the beautiful daughter of Sir William's steward, the accomplished "Stella." It was within the walls of the Carthusian Priory founded by Henry V. in 1414 at Sheen, that Perkin Warbeck sought an asylum. Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, Queen Elizabeth's favourite, lived also at Sheen, his son Robert being born here in 1573.

WANDSWORTH.

Or, as it appears in Domesday Survey, Wandlesworth—from the Wandle and "sworth," signifying shore—is a place of historical interest on other accounts besides those we have already mentioned. Probably here, or at Putney, Julius Cæsar embarked when he finally left our island. Here, it is thought, many a contest occurred between the Saxons and their Danish invaders. With some of these struggles the great Alfred stands connected. It was in or near Wandsworth that Richard II., being met by a numerous deputation of the influential citizens of London praying for the renewal of the civic privileges which had been suspended by the royal order, not only yielded to their request, but invited them to a grand banquet at Westminster Hall.

Queen Elizabeth frequently came to Wandsworth, or passed through it on her way to Richmond and other places. It is probable that she caused a new bridge over the Wandle to be constructed here at her own expense, as much to suit her own purposes as for any love she had for Wandsworth or its inhabitants.

This bridge, from the description we have heard of it, must have been a miserably narrow and inconvenient structure, even after widening and other improvements. It was finally taken down, and the present bridge erected in 1820.

Behind the old church resided the well-known Jane Shore. "Armoury Court," where the house was situated, became the head-quarters of the Wandsworth corps of volunteers, not of the present day, but of that which was enrolled in 1745 to resist the supporters of the young Pretender, Charles Edward Stuart.

In the excavations on Wandsworth Common for the construction of the South Western Railway, numerous beautiful shells and other petrifactions of fossil remains were discovered, the principal of which are now, we believe, in the possession of the Rev. Canon Moseley.

On East Hill is an old cemetery, the use of which is discontinued.

Another, in a very low and unsuitable situation in South Street, was opened in 1808, and will probably soon be closed. A convenient cemetery, on a drier and more elevated spot, is wanted in Wandsworth. The walls surrounding the first-named burial-ground, although frequently patched and mended, are nearly always in a dilapidated state, as also are many of the tombs. It would be more to the credit of the authorities if means were taken to keep in something like order this neglected-looking spot, which is undoubtedly the resting-place of many who have had an active part in creating the present commercial prosperity of Wandsworth.

Opposite this burying-ground is an old mansion, formerly belonging to the family of Porter, afterwards the residence of the Hon. Edward Digby, whose sons, Earl Digby and Admiral Robert Digby, were born here. It was subsequently in possession of Sir James Sanderson, Bart. Near this spot also, some years ago, were two considerable Quaker schools, in one of which the excellent magistrate, citizen, and senator, Sir John Barnard, received his education.

Garratt, on the road to Lower Tooting, was formerly a single house, "GARVATT," belonging to Sir William Cecil, who afterwards removed to his new mansion at Wimbledon. It was for many years after the residence of the Broderick family, but was pulled down about a century since.

The well-known popular farce composed by Foote, in 1763, called the "Mayor of Garratt," owes its origin to the fact that about 110 years ago several persons who lived near Garratt Lane, had formed a kind of club, not merely to eat and drink, but to concert measures for removing the encroachments made on that part of the common, and to prevent any others being made for the future. As the members were most of them persons with limited means, they agreed at every meeting to contribute a trifle, in order to make up a purse for the defence of their collective rights; and, having acquired the requisite amount, they placed their cause in the hands of a very worthy attorney in the neighbourhood, who brought an action against the encroachers, in the name of the president (or, as they called him, the Mayor) of the club. They gained their suit, with costs; the encroachments were destroyed; and, ever after, the president, who lived many years, was called "The Mayor of Garratt." This event happening at the time of a general election, the ceremony of choosing out-door members for the borough of Garratt, at the time of every Parliamentary election, was long continued, to the great enrichment of the publicans of Wandsworth, who subscribed to all the incidental expenses attending this mock election.

Dunsford, an ancient manor in the parish of Wandsworth, belonged, until the dissolution of the monasteries, in Henry the Eighth's reign, to the Abbots of Merton. Henry gave it to Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, who married the King's sister. By him it was sold to Thomas Cromwell, who possessed also the manor of Wimbledon adjoining. On his attainder, it again reverted to the Crown, and Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, received it from Queen Elizabeth.

Melrose Hall, now the Royal Hospital for Incurables, as before stated, was a fine mansion, built very substantially by John Anthony Rucker, about the year 1780. It afterwards was the residence of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, by whom the pleasure-grounds were greatly beautified. George IV. was entertained here with great magnificence, and frequent receptions of the nobility and gentry were given by her Grace in distinguished style.

The late Viceroy of Egypt, when visiting the Exhibition of 1862, occupied the mansion for a short time, prior to its purchase by the committee of the Royal Hospital.

WIMBLEDON AND COOMBE.

The manor of Wimbledon (anciently called Wibbandown, or Wibbandune), adjoining and formerly included in that of Mortlake, was exchanged by Archbishop Cranmer for other lands granted him by Henry VIII. It has been held by numerous personages of high distinction, among whom were Thomas Cromwell, Earl of Essex; Queen Catherine Parr; Cardinal Pole; Sir Christopher Hatton; Lord Burleigh; his son, Sir Thomas Cecil, Earl of Exeter; Edward Cecil, Viscount Wimbledon and Baron Putney; Queen Henrietta Maria; and General Lambert, of the Parliamentary army. After the accession of Charles II. it was restored to Queen Henrietta Maria, by whom it was sold to George Digby, Earl of Bristol. From him it passed to the Duke of Leeds and Sir Theodore Janssen, Bart. It was then purchased for £15,000, by Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, who pulled down the old mansion erected by Sir William Cecil (afterwards Lord Burleigh) in 1588. The new house, which was built for the Duchess after a design by the Earl of Pembroke, was burned down on Easter Monday, 1785. The Duchess of Marlborough left the estate to her grandson, John Spencer, Esq., whose son, the gifted Earl Spencer, came next in possession. It was he who built the present house, and vastly improved and ornamented this extensive park.

It is related of Charles I. that he was so little anticipating his cruel fate, that only a few days before he was brought to trial he ordered some seeds of Spanish melons to be planted in the gardens of Wimbledon House. The old manor house occupied a site near to the church, and a portion of the offices of the Duchess of Marlborough's mansion which escaped the fire of 1785 are still to be seen.

At the south-west angle of the common are indications of a military encampment, covering an area of about seven acres. Camden, in whose time this camp was called Bensbury, is of opinion that this was the site of a battle between Ceaulin, King of Wessex, and Ethelbert, King of Kent, A.D. 568. Here lived and died the much respected Marquis of Rockingham; also the celebrated Horne Tooke. Douglas Jerrold was for some time a resident of Wimbledon.

There is little doubt but that Wimbledon is one of the most ancient historical places in England; and it is supposed that Julius Cæsar encamped here almost immediately after his first invasion of Britain.

The name of Robin Hood is associated with Wimbledon Common, and both highway robbery and duelling have been frequent here in the "good old times." These, and many other charms of past days, have given place to modern civilisation, and such amusing old customs as the public ducking of scolds and the burning of witches are annihilated. But now we have grand annual entertainments on a monster scale on Wimbledon Common, which is the chosen spot for the great competitive gatherings of the National Rifle Association. One old custom still prevails in Wimbledon—viz., "borough English" as it is termed—i.e., the descent of property to the youngest son.

The great proportion of those who will consult this Directory are likely to be tolerably well acquainted with the appearance and general characteristics in the present day of the places to which the foregoing pages refer, and the leading points in the past history of which we have endeavoured in a simple manner to jot down. It may be more interesting, therefore, to conclude with the remarks of an eminent topographer, who wrote them 130 years ago, rather than to attempt, in a feeble dissertation of our own, to sound their present praises.

This is what he says:—"It is not easy to describe the beauty with which the banks of the Thames shine on either side of the river, from Richmond to London, much more than our ancestors, even but one age ago, knew anything of.

"If, for pleasant villages, great houses, palaces, gardens, &c., it was true in Queen Elizabeth's time, according to the poet, that what may be said of it now, when, for one fine house to be seen then, there are, for aught I know, an hundred, even as you sit in a boat and pass up and down the river.

'The Thames with royal Tiber may compare,'

"First, beginning from Ham House as above, Richmond Palace salutes the eye, being formerly no more than a lodge in the park, but now makes a royal figure.

"From Richmond to London the river sides abound with villages, and those villages so full of beautiful buildings, charming gardens, and rich habitations of gentlemen of quality, that nothing can equal it; no, not the country for twenty miles round Paris, though that, indeed, is a kind of prodigy.

"It is impossible to view these countries from any rising ground and not be ravished with the delightful prospect. For example, suppose you take your view from the little rising hills about Clapham. If you look to the east, there you see the pleasant villages of Peckham and Camberwell, with some of the finest dwellings about London. Then, turning south, we see Loughborough House, near Kennington, the Duchess of Bedford's, at Streatham; other fine seats about Croydon; a whole town of fine houses at Cashalton; Sir Nicholas Carew's, and others, at Beddington; Sir Theodore Janssen's, and that lately built by the Duchess Dowager of Marlborough, at Wimbleton; other fine houses at Tooting, besides a very great number in Clapham itself.

"On the south-west, also, you have Mr. Harvey's, at Coombe—formerly the palace of the make-king Earl of Warwick, and from him called Coomb-nevil; with all the villages mentioned above, and the country adjoining filled with the palaces of the British nobility and gentry. Looking north, behold, to crown all, a fair prospect of the city of London, the most glorious sight, without exception, that the world at present can show, or perhaps could, since the sacking of Rome!"

Public Buildings, Entrance Halls, Green-houses, Conservatories, Forcing-Pits, Vineries, &c.,

HEATED BY HOT WATER,

On Scientific and well-tested Principles.

SMALL Conservatories and other Apartments may frequently be economically and conveniently heated by a system of Pipes in connection with the Boiler of a Kitchen Range, or from one suitably constructed to heat from the fire of a Register Grate.

The use of Hot Water Apparatus, for diffusing artificial heat, has now become general, and its merits are universally acknowledged.

It is perfectly safe, free from any unpleasant smell, and may be efficiently managed by any person of ordinary intelligence.

The hot water circulates through Iron Pipes. The whole of the water in the Apparatus passes successively through the boiler, and communicates the heat which it thus receives from the fuel, to the various buildings and apartments where the warmth is required. There are no buildings, however large, to which it cannot be advantageously adapted.

The arrangements vary greatly, according to the nature and construction of the building. For halls and staircases, pedestal coils are frequently used which may be concealed by an ornamental trellis enclosure, surmounted by a marble or metal slab.

The pipes may also be placed out of sight, and the warm air introduced through the floors or skirtings of the apartments.

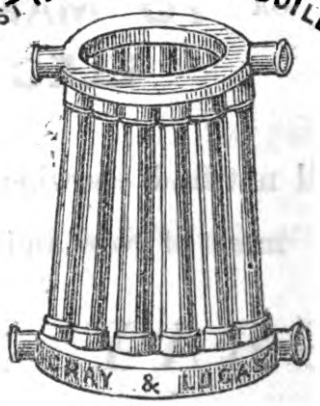

In all cases where it is inconvenient to attach the pipes to the boiler of a range or other grate in daily use, and where the expense of a Saddle or Tubular Boiler, erected in suitable brickwork, with a brick chimney, &c., is objectionable, GRAY and LUCAS confidently recommend the use of their Improved Independent Cylinder Boilers, which are powerful, efficient, durable, convenient, compact, neat in appearance, and complete in themselves. These Boilers require very little attention, and they are very economical in use, complete control over the fire being afforded by means of the brass screw, E, on the ashes door, no draft being admitted at the bottom.

INDEPENDENT CYLINDER BOILER

Price from £5 to £16.

CAST IRON TUBULAR BOILER

Price from £3 10s. to £10 10s.

Builders, Smiths, and Engineers supplied with Boilers, Tanks, Hot Water Pipes, Valves and Fittings, at Thames Street Prices.

HALL LANTERNS, LOBBY LIGHTS, GASELIERS AND GAS FITTINGS.

GRAY & LUCAS will be happy to furnish estimates for larger or smaller works in Gas Fitting, &c. They have in their employ steady and experienced Workmen under their own personal supervision, and reliance may be placed upon good workmanship, combined with a scale of charges suited to meet the great competition existing in this department of their Trade.

Consequent upon the reduced price and improved quality of Gas in this neighbourhood, its use throughout the houses of residents in this locality has become widely extended, and the demand for Fittings so much greater, that GRAY & LUCAS are enabled to keep in stock a large assortment of Glass Lustres, Gaseliers, Brackets, Pendants, and General Fittings. They have to hand a number of New and Elegant Designs, superior in taste and lower in price than heretofore. They include Glass Lustres and Brackets, Hall Lanterns and Globe Lights, Gaseliers in Ormolu, Florentine, Artistic, Steel and other Bronzes, as also a large stock of new patterns in Glass Moons, &c.

INFORMATION RESPECTING THE RAILWAYS AND THEIR STATIONS IN IMMEDIATE CONNECTION WITH THIS DISTRICT.

The London, Chatham, and Dover Railway, and the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway Companies, having, by means of their several stations at Clapham Junction, Battersea, Kensington, King's Cross, and Ludgate Hill, provided so efficient a means of transit for passengers, &c. &c., to or from all places in Great Britain north of the Thames to those in the southern counties and the Continent, a few hints for passengers may not be unacceptable. Passengers, &c., to or from all the principal stations on the London, Brighton, and South Coast lines to or from all places on the London and North Western lines can book through at stated times, and travel without changing carriages, viâ Clapham Junction and Kensington. Those to or from places on the Great Western line book through, but change carriages at the Clapham Junction or Kensington Stations, or both; those also to or from all places on the London, Chatham, and Dover, and London and South Western lines, to or from all places on the Great Western and London and North Western lines, book through, but have to change carriages at the Clapham Junction or Kensington Stations, or both. Those to or from places on the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway to or from places on the London and South Western Railway can book through, but have to change carriages at Clapham Junction Station.

Passengers to or from all places on the Great Western, Midland, or Great Northern Railways, to or from all places on the London and South Western, and London, Brighton, and South Coast Railways, may be booked through, but change carriages at the King's Cross or Farringdon and Clapham Junction Stations per Metropolitan Railway. Those to or from the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway do not travel viâ Clapham Junction Station, except to places on the new Kingston and Windsor lines.

Passengers, &c., on the Great Eastern and Tilbury and Southend lines can re-book at the Stratford Station of the North London Railway, and so proceed southward per the North and West London Extension Railways.

As the times of arrival and starting of the trains at the stations in the district vary occasionally, and according to the regulations of the respective Railway Companies made for the convenience and safety of their passengers, reference must be made to the time tables as issued monthly by the respective companies. Messrs. Gray and Lucas will have great pleasure in presenting gratuitously a neat, correct, and portable time table, containing such information for the guidance of passengers to or from London on any of the railways in the district, on application at "THE METALLURGICON," 12, High Street, Wandsworth.

A carriage is always reserved for ladies when required. Special compartments for parties of not less than four 1st class or six 2nd class can be reserved on proper notice being given in writing of the day and train by which they are required.

Invalid Carriage.—Double fare is charged for each invalid, with a minimum rate of four fares, and in addition a single fare for each person travelling with invalid.

Workmen's trains are run by this Company.—See Time Tables.

CLAPHAM JUNCTION.—From this station, which is situate between St. John's Hill and Falcon Road, New Wandsworth, a junction is effected with every railway, not only in the metropolis, but in the kingdom; but we shall refer to those only which pass and re-pass to the several termini having stations at this Junction. For the greater convenience and facility of communication with the various lines of railway at this junction, a subterranean corridor is provided, from which, by the means of staircases, access or egress to or from the several trains is gained, thus: at the north end, by Nos. 1 and 2, the trains passing to or from the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway and its junctions, and those of the West London Junction Railway, in connection with the London and South Western Railway Company, are reached; No. 3 is the entrance to the up lines, and No. 4 to the down lines, of the Loop and Windsor branches of the London and South Western Railway, whilst No. 5 leads to the up trains running on the main lines of the same Company, also to the booking offices and refreshment rooms; and No. 6 leads to the down lines and Telegraph Offices. A staircase on the left opens on to the platform for trains passing en route to the Victoria Station; whilst by No. 7 is the approach to the down trains of the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway, the Crystal Palace Railway, and the West London Junction Railway, up which, as also on the outside of the station, are the booking offices of the said railways. By Nos. 1 and 7 staircases, the trains are reached which convey passengers to all stations north of the Thames, and to Kent and East Sussex. Mr. Alexander Greaves, master, L. & S. W. Railway; Mr. Banks, master, L. B. & S. C. Railway. Average time of journey to Waterloo Station, thirteen minutes. Fares: 1st class, 6d; 2nd class, 4d.; 3rd class, 3d. Return tickets, 1st class, 9d.; 2nd class, 7d. Season tickets to Waterloo, Vauxhall, or Kensington: 1st class, £9 twelve months; £7 10s. nine months; £5 10s. six months; £2 17s. 6d. three months. 2nd class, 25 per cent. less. Return Tickets: 1st class, 1s. 6d.; 2nd class, 1s.; 3rd class, 9d.

Feet Warmers may be procured at the principal stations during the winter months. To prevent gratuities being solicited a charge of 6d. will be made. No feet warmers will be supplied to passengers in trains which travel a less distance than 30 miles.

Invalid Carriage. — A 1st class carriage, fitted with couch, ante-room for attendants, and other accommodation necessary for invalids, is kept at the Waterloo Terminus, and can be sent to any part of the line, unless previously bespoken, free of additional expense. To prevent disappointment, application should be made to the Superintendent's Office, Waterloo, at least 48 hours before the carriage is required. The charge is the ordinary fare for not less than five 1st class passengers.

Saloon Family Carriage.—A 1st class saloon family carriage, with ante-room and suitable fittings, is kept at the Watertoo Terminus, and can be sent to any part of the line, unless previously bespoken, on application being made to the Superintendent's Office, Waterloo, at least 48 hours before the carriage is required. The charge for the use of this carriage will not be less than for eight 1st class adult fares, the minimum being 80s.

Compartments of Carriages can be reserved, for not less than four passengers 1st class, or eight 2nd class, by giving a day's notice. Upon application ladies will be placed in a compartment appropriated to their use. An attendant for ladies is in the waiting-rooms at Waterloo, Southampton, Portsmouth, and the principal stations.

To avoid delay and confusion at Stations, passengers with much luggage are respectfully requested to be at the station in good time. This particularly applies to the country stations. The company's arrangements would be much facilitated if a day's notice could be given to the respective country station masters by families or parties intending to travel with large quantities of luggage, horses, or carriages by any particular train.

Notice to Invalids.—A 1st class railway carriage, constructed expressly for invalids, is in readiness at the principal termini, fitted up with full-length sofa couch, capable of being elevated from the level to any degree of incline, with anteroom for attendants, supply of water, and every accommodation required for an invalid. The charge for the use of the invalid carriage is double 1st class fare for the invalid, and single 1st class fare for accompanying passengers. The carriage will be sent, on requisition, to any part of the line, free of additional expense; such requisition, to prevent disappointment, should be made at least 24 hours before the carriage is wanted.

Also for the convenience of invalids requiring to be conveyed from house to house without being disturbed, an invalid road carriage has been built, to travel on the road with horses, and on the railway upon a carriage truck, in the same manner as a private carriage; it is fitted up with every regard to ease and comfort; the couch is constructed so as to be moved out of the carriage, if required, and thus it may be moved into the invalid's apartment, whence the invalid may be conveyed thereon, without change of position, to any part of the line or country.

The invalid road carriage may be secured on application to either of the Superintendents of the London Termini (London Bridge, Victoria, and Kensington) and the Brighton Terminus, the charge for which, exclusive of post horses, 1st class fares for the invalid and each attendant, will be 1s. 3d. per mile, with a minimum charge of 40s.; the carriage to be returned within 24 hours, an extra charge of 21s. per day after that time being made.

Feet Warmers for the use of 1st class passengers are provided at London, and the principal stations throughout the line, without charge. Application for same to be made to the respective station masters, or to the guard in charge of the train.

OMNIBUS INFORMATION.

Times of Starting, Routes, and Fares of Omnibuses proceeding from this District, or passing the Railway Termini in connection with the District, or nearly so.

The fares given are those written on the inside of the doors of the omnibuses, for the conveyance of passengers, without luggage, which must be paid for extra. A small portable bag, box, or parcel, excepted.

Baskets of fish, bulky packages, or dogs, when objected to by the passengers, are not to be admitted inside. Children, occupying seats, must be paid for at the same rate as adult passengers.

Property found in an omnibus must be immediately handed to the conductor, who is to deliver the same at the nearest police-station, whence it is forwarded to the Lost Property Office, Scotland Yard, where all inquiries in reference to missing articles should be made.

On some roads the fares are increased after 8 p.m. on Sundays. The fare is charged to the time the passenger leaves the omnibus; thus, if a passenger enters the omnibus at 7.30 p.m., and leaves at 8.5 p.m., the increased fare is chargeable.

If required, the name and address of the proprietor of an omnibus may be ascertained at the Metropolitan Stage Carriage Office, Somerset House, giving the plate number of the vehicle as a means of identification.

A conductor cannot retain a seat for any rider unless the fare be prepaid, which may by that means be engaged by the week or otherwise.

RATES OF POSTAGE.

(WITHIN THE UNITED KINGDOM.)

The rate of postage, to be prepaid, is 1d. for every half-ounce, or fraction of half an ounce.

Postage, if not paid in advance, is double the foregoing; and if the payment in advance be insufficient, double the deficiency is charged.

Every re-directed letter is liable to an additional postage (at the prepaid rate), unless the re-direction be made by an officer of the Post Office to a place within the same free delivery, as the original address; but the unpaid additional postage on re-directed letters is not doubled.

A registered letter, when re-directed, is liable to the same additional charge as an ordinary letter; and if re-posted, a second registration fee must be paid with it.

If the weight be exceeded to the smallest extent, even though the balance be merely turned, the letter becomes liable to a higher postage; therefore it is well to allow a little margin, or pay the postage of the next greater weight.

NEWSPAPERS, PERIODICALS, AND BOOKS.

All periodicals and newspapers, published in the United Kingdom, at intervals not exceeding thirty-one days, and bearing the old newspaper stamp, may, under certain regulations, be sent and re-sent through the post within the United Kingdom, free of postage; but are subject to the same restrictions as to the number of sheets and superficial extent as formerly applied to newspapers only, thus—

Amount of Stamp.	Number of Sheets.	Superficial extent of Letterpress on one side.
One Penny	Two	2,295 inches
Three Halfpence	Three	3,443 ,,
Twopence	Four	4,591 ,,

No publication, or portion thereof, can pass through the post unless the inpressed stamp be of 1d. value, or more, and it is posted within fifteen days from the printed date of issue.

For further regulations on periodicals, vide "British Postal Guide."

The following is an abstract of the regulations of the Inland Book Post, which includes daily and weekly newspapers, and other periodicals. The postage is 1d. for every quarter of a pound, or fraction of a quarter of a pound. The whole postage must be prepaid, by postage stamps fixed outside the packet or its cover, which must be open at the ends, or tied at the ends with string.

PATTERNS AND SAMPLES POST.

The following are the rules of the Inland Pattern and Sample Post:—

The postage is 2d. for every quarter of a pound or fraction of a quarter of a pound, which must be prepaid by means of postage-stamps, and no packet must exceed 24 oz. in weight. Any packet above that weight is sent to the Returned Letter Branch.

There must be no other writing or printing on the packet or its cover but the address of the person for whom the packet is intended, the address of the sender, a trade mark and numbers, and the prices of the articles, which must in all cases be given on small labels attached to the samples or the bags containing them, otherwise the packet is treated as a letter. Any loose enclosure is taken out and forwarded to the address on the packet, charged with the full postage as an unpaid letter, together with an additional rate of a penny. There must be no enclosure other than the samples themselves.

The patterns or samples must be sent in covers open at the ends, so as to be easy of examination. Samples, however, of seeds, &c., may be enclosed in boxes, or in bags of linen or other material, fastened in such a manner that they may be readily opened; or in bags entirely closed, provided that they are transparent, so that the officers of the department may be able to satisfy themselves as to the nature of the contents. If this rule be infringed, the packet is treated as a letter.

If a packet of patterns or samples be posted altogether unpaid, it is charged with double the postage which should have been prepaid. If a portion of the postage be prepaid, even although only a penny stamp be affixed, the packet is charged with the amount of the deficiency, together with an additional rate of twopence.

In order to prevent any interruption to the regular transmission of letters, a packet of patterns or samples may, when it is necessary, be kept back by any head postmaster for twenty-four hours beyond the time when, in the ordinary course, it would be forwarded.

The rule which forbids the transmission through the post of any article which might injure the contents of the mail-bags or the officers of the Post Office is so far relaxed as to permit the transmission of scissors, knives, razors, forks, steel pens, nails, keys, watch machinery, metal tubing, pieces of metal or ore, and such like, as samples, provided that they be packed and guarded in so secure a manner as to afford complete protection to the contents of the mail-bags and the officers of the Post Office, while at the same time the samples may be easily examined. If any packet containing such articles as these be posted, which is found not to be sufficiently guarded, it is stopped, and a notice of its detention is sent to the person to whom it is addressed, or to the sender, who may then obtain it upon personal application; but the packet is charged with a fine equal in amount to the postage to which it was liable as a packet of patterns.

In every case in which the postage chargeable under these regulations is greater than the letter rate, the latter postage is substituted.

Patterns and samples can be sent at the rates inserted in the Table of Colonial and Foreign Postage to such colonies and foreign countries as are marked in that Table with the letter "P." The conditions in these cases are for the most part the same as in the case of the Inland Pattern and Sample Post, the following being the only important exceptions:—

A packet of patterns or samples sent to France, or to Turkey, Syria, or Egypt, by French packet, must not exceed eighteen inches in length, width, or depth; a packet to any other place abroad must not exceed twenty-four inches in length, or twelve inches in breadth or depth.

A packet of patterns or samples sent to Germany, Russia, or Belgium, or to any place viâ Austria, must not exceed eight ounces in weight.

None of the articles named above may be sent as patterns or samples to any place abroad, except Germany, Belgium, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, and the British Colonies, and not to these places when addressed "viâ France."

Bags entirely closed, even though they be transparent, must not be used for the transmission of seeds to foreign countries; and samples of intrinsic value must not be sent to foreign countries.

LONDON DISTRICT POST.

The London district is divided into ten postal districts, each of which is treated, in many respects, as a separate post town, viz.:—

Northern	N.	South-Western	S.W.
North-Eastern	N.E.	Eastern	E.
North-Western	N.W.	Eastern Central	E.C.
Southern	S.	Western	W.
South-Eastern	S.E.	Western Central	W.C.

By adding the initials of the postal districts to the addresses of letters for London and its neighbourhood, the public will much facilitate the arrangements of the Post Office.

The portion of each district within about three miles from the General Post Office, is designated the town delivery; the remainder, the suburban.

There are seven despatches daily to the suburban districts.

1st at	7 0 A.M.	To all places in the London district. Delivery completed from 9 30 to 11 0 A.M.
2nd ,,	9 15 ,,	To places within four miles of the General Post Office.
3rd ,,	11 45 ,,	To all places with a few exceptions.
4th ,,	2 45 P.M.	To places within six miles, isolated places excepted.
5th ,,	4 45 ,,	To all places, and delivered the same evening, except in remote places.
6th ,,	6 0 ,,	To places within four miles of General Post Office.
7th ,,	7 0 ,,	Letters posted at the town receiving houses and pillar boxes by 6 0 P.M., or at the chief office of the district to which they are addressed by 7 30 P.M. are delivered the same evening at all the principal places within six miles of the General Post Office; at more distant places, early the following morning.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

Prepayment of inland letters, newspapers, books, &c., must be by labels or embossed stamps. By using embossed envelopes all risk of the stamp being detached may be avoided. But when labels are used, see that they adhere firmly; to accomplish which, wet the corner of the envelope slightly, and the front as well as the gummed side of the stamp, and then gently press the stamp till it is firmly fixed. The practice of dipping the stamp in water is objectional, because, if the excess of moisture be not removed, the gum may be washed off, or the stamp may be rubbed off the letter. Neither should the envelopes to which they are affixed be too highly glazed, since if the stamps fall off, the letters are charged with postage, and that at the unpaid rate; while, as respects letters addressed to many places abroad, the transmission is stopped altogether. Labels should be placed on the address side of the letter, and on the right-hand upper corner, but not on the previously used stamps on re-directed letters. Receipt, or other Inland Revenue stamps cannot be used in place of postage stamps; nor can postage stamps which have been torn, cut, or otherwise rendered imperfect, be used. Every Head Postmaster is required to keep for sale the various postage labels and envelopes. The present labels are of the respective values of 1d., 2d., 3d., 4d., 6d., 9d. and 1s. The envelopes are of four sizes, and sold at one for 1¼d., two for 2¼d., four for 4½d., six for 6¾d., eight for 9d., and twelve for 1s. 1½d., and at that price for every further complete dozen.

REGISTRATION.

By the prepayment of a fee of fourpence, any letter, book packet, &c., on which the postage has been paid in stamps, may be registered to any place in the United Kingdom or the British colonies, or to Italy, but, with the exception of letters to a few other countries, nowhere else. Every letter to be registered should be presented at the post-office, and a receipt obtained for it, and on no account dropped into the box; for if a letter marked "registered" be dropped into the letter box without having been registered, it will, if an inland letter, be liable to a registration fee of eightpence instead of the ordinary fee of fourpence. A registered letter if re-posted as an ordinary letter, with the word "registered" unerased, or erased in pencil only, will be liable to a registration fee of eightpence. At all post-offices the latest time for posting registered letters, on the payment of the ordinary fee, is entered in the notice exhibited in the office window. Registered letters must be prepaid, as regards both postage and registration fee; and if the letter be inland, such prepayment must be by stamps.

MEMORANDUM.—See that every letter, &c., sent by post is securely folded or fastened—sealing wax will not adhere easily to the gummed portion of an envelope. Write the address legibly, especially the post town, omitting the name of the county, except when there are towns of the same name in different counties, or in the colonies. Post all letters, &c., as early as possible.

FOREIGN MAILS.

Mails are dispatched to France, Belgium, and the Continent generally, twice every day (Sundays excepted), at 5 a.m. and 6 p.m. The rates of postage, and dates of departure of the Mail Service, to the Colonies, and more distant parts of the world, are regularly published in the "British Postal Guide."

LONDON CAB FARES.

A SHORT ABSTRACT OF THE ACT RELATING TO HACKNEY CARRIAGES.

ALL fares for Hackney Carriages are according to distance or time, at the option of the hirer, as arranged at the time of hiring, and if not otherwise expressed the fare will be charged according to distance; but no driver is compellable to take a fare according to time after eight o'clock in the evening, or before six o'clock in the morning.

Agreement with driver to pay him more than legal fare is not binding, and the sum paid beyond such fare can be recovered back, nor can a driver charge more than the sum agreed on for driving a distance, although such distance may be exceeded by him; and also if a proprietor or driver agree before hand to take any job for a sum less than the proper fare, he will be subject to a penalty of 40s. if he demands more than the sum agreed upon.

A driver is entitled to, and may demand, a reasonable sum as deposit when required to wait, during such hiring, over and above the fare to which he may be entitled to for driving his fare, but he is subject to a penalty of 40s. if he refuses to wait or goes away before the expiration of the time that he agreed to wait, for which time of waiting the deposit shall be of sufficient compensation; he is subject to the same penalty if he refuses to account for the deposit. And any hirer refusing to pay the fare, or for any damage and compensation for loss of time, may be committed to prison.

The number of persons to be carried by any hackney carriage shall be distinctly marked on such carriage, as the Commissioners of Police shall direct, and the driver shall, if required by the hirer, carry by such carriage the number of persons marked thereon, or any less number.

The fare for any distance within, and not exceeding, one mile, is sixpence; and for any distance exceeding one mile, and for any part of a mile not completed, at the rate of sixpence per mile; but when a hackney carriage is hired by time, the fare for any time within, and not exceeding one hour, is two shillings, and sixpence for every fifteen minutes, or any part of fifteen minutes not completed, above one hour.

When a hackney carriage is hired by time, the driver may be required to drive at any rate not exceeding four miles in one hour; and if required to drive more than four miles in one hour, then he shall be entitled to demand, in addition to the fare regulated by time, the fare by distance for every mile or part thereof not completed exceeding four miles.

When a hackney carriage is drawn by two horses, one-third above the fares above-mentioned is to be paid.

When more than two persons are carried by any hackney carriage, the sum of 6d. is to be paid for each person above the number of two, for the whole hiring, in addition to the fares by distance or time for two persons.

One or two children under ten years of age to be counted as one adult.

No driver is entitled to any sum by way of back fare, whether hired by distance or time, for the return of the carriage from the place at which discharged; but if discharged beyond a radius of four miles from Charing Cross, he is entitled to one shilling for every mile or part of a mile beyond such radius.

When the driver, who is to be paid according to distance shall be required by the hirer to wait, the driver may demand and receive a further sum (above the fare to which he shall be entitled, calculated according to distance), of sixpence for every fifteen minutes completed, that he shall have waited as directed.

Every driver shall, when hired, deliver to the hirer a card; on which shall be printed the number of the Stamp Office plate on such carriage, or such other words or figures as the Commissioners of Police may direct. Penalty for omission, 40s., or one month's imprisonment.

A reasonable quantity of luggage is to be carried in or upon the carriage without any additional charge, except when more than two persons are carried inside any hackney carriage, with more luggage than can be carried inside the carriage, a sum of 2d. for every package carried outside the carriage is to be paid.

All property left in any hackney carriage shall be deposited by the driver at the nearest Police Station within 24 hours, if not sooner claimed by the owner; such property to be returned to the person who shall prove that the same belonged to him, on payment of all expenses.

SOLAR AND LUNAR ECLIPSES, 1867.

IN this year there will be two eclipses of the Sun and two of the Moon. I. An annular eclipse of the Sun, March 6, visible at Greenwich and throughout England; beginning at 8.17 a.m., the greatest obscurity will be at 9.32 a.m. and ending at 10.52 a.m., when the Sun will be three-fourths obscured. II. The Moon will be partially eclipsed, March 20, invisible at Greenwich. III. A total eclipse of the Sun, August 29, invisible at Greenwich. IV. A partial eclipse of the Moon, September 13-14, visible at Greenwich. The first contact with the penumbra takes place September 13, at 9.43 p.m.; first contact with the shadow and beginning of eclipse at 10.57 p.m.; middle of the eclipse, September 14, at 0.26 a.m. (when rather more than two-thirds of its diameter will be obscured); last contact with the shadow, and end of the eclipse, September 14, at 1.55 a.m.; last contact with the penumbra, September 14, at 3.9 a.m.

LIGHT, CHEAP, AND DURABLE ROOFING.

AS ADOPTED VERY LARGELY BY HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT.

CROGGON & CO.,

63, NEW EARL STREET, 34, BREAD STREET, CANNON STREET, LONDON, E.C.,

59, George Street, Glasgow, and at 2, Goree Piazzas, Liverpool,

Beg to call the attention of Noblemen, Gentlemen, the Trade, and the Public, to their

PATENT ASPHALTE FELT,

FOR ROOFING,

Patronised by

Her Majesty's Woods and Forests.
The Ordnance Department.
The Royal Agricultural Society of England.
The Leeds and Manchester.
The London and North Western.
The Liverpool and Manchester.
The Chester and Holyhead.
The Norfolk, and other Railways.
The Corporation of the City of Edinburgh.
The Duke of Buccleuch.
The Marquis of Anglesea.
The Marquis of Westminster.
The Birkenhead Dock Company.
The Dock Trustees of Liverpool.
Most of the Nobility, Gentry, and Agriculturists,

And many Members of the Royal Agricultural Societies of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

The FELT has been extensively used and pronounced efficient, and particularly applicable for warm climates:—1. It is a non-conductor. 2. It is portable, being packed in rolls, and not liable to damage in carriage. 3. It effects a saving of half the timber usually required. 4. It can easily be applied by any unpractised person. 5. From its lightness, weighing only about 42 lb. to the square of 100 feet, the cost of carriage is small.

Under Slates in Church or other Roofs the Felt has been extensively used to regulate the temperature.

INODOROUS FELT,

For Damp Walls and for Damp Floors, under Carpets and Floor Cloths; also, FOR LINING IRON HOUSES. Price, One Penny per Square Foot.

CROGGON & Co.'s PATENT FELTED SHEATHING, for covering Ships' Bottoms, &c., and DRY HAIR FELT, for covering Steam Boilers, Pipes, &c., preventing the radiation of Heat, and saving 25 per cent. of Fuel.

Samples, Testimonials, and full instructions on application to

CROGGON & CO.,

FAMILIES WAITED UPON DAILY.

Carter's Patent Ventilating Chimney Tops

WILL CURE SMOKY CHIMNEYS,

Whether they are below high Buildings, or in the most exposed positions.

Thousands are doing useful service.

Among the numberless Inventions for the attainment of the CURE of SMOKY CHIMNEYS, none have been so numerously or successfully tried as those known as

CARTER'S PATENT TOPS.

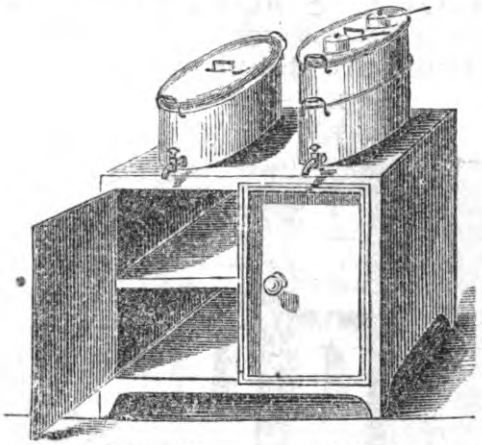

They are constructed on new and different principles to any others. Whilst they are extremely simple and durable, with no liability to get out of order, they are well defined in shape, and present a somewhat ornamental appearance, which is not unharmonious with a variety of architectural designs.

These Chimney Tops offer no obstruction to the Sweep's Machine, are thoroughly cleansed by the same in its passage up the flue, and the harder the wind blows on them the more they will tend to cause upward draught.

GRAY and LUCAS invite the public attention to an article, the want of which must be very generally felt; they can speak with confidence as to the value of these Chimney Tops, which are very extensively in use—many thousands having been fixed on the mansions of the nobility and gentry throughout the country. They are substantially and neatly made, in strong riveted Galvanised Iron, at 30s. each; or in Zinc, ditto, at 27s. each.

Agents—GRAY & LUCAS, The Metallurgicon, Wandsworth, S.W.

STEAMING APPARATUS.

Hot Closet with Oval Steamers and Gravy Saucepans.

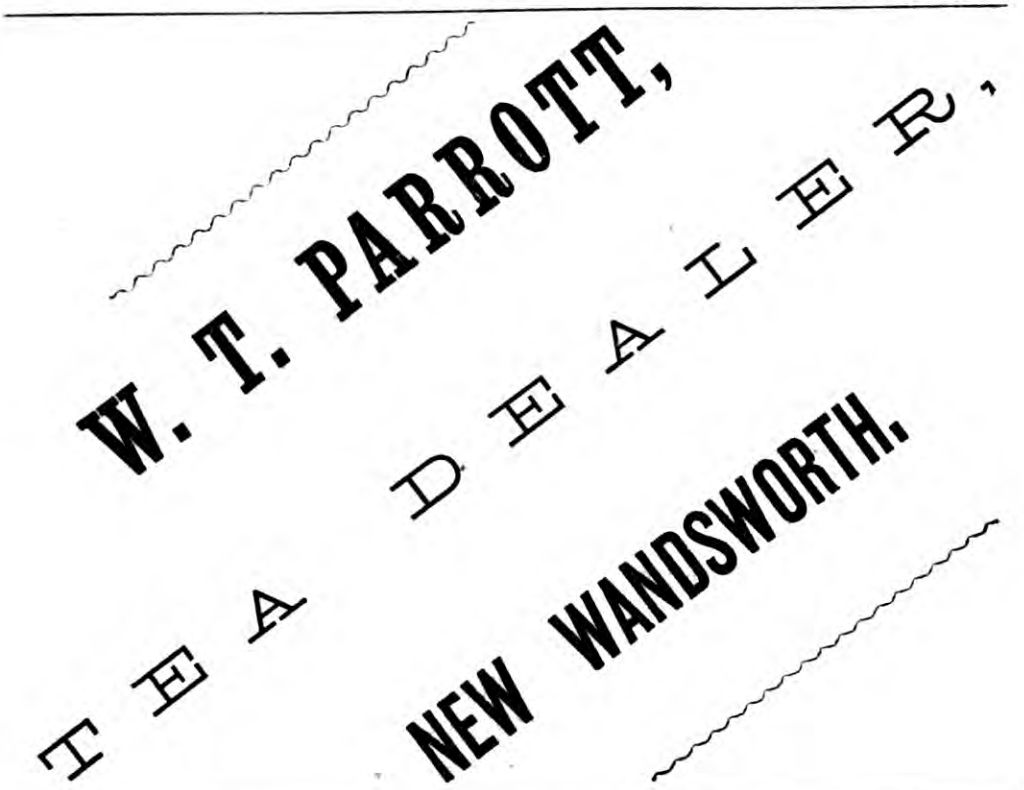

MAY be readily applied to any description of Kitchener or Open-Fire Range, if provided with a Wrought-Iron Boiler. The convenient, durable, and comparatively inexpensive method adopted by GRAY & LUCAS cannot fail to commend itself to Proprietors of large Private or Public Establishments, and to Committees or Managers of Institutions where Economical Cooking upon a large scale is required. It will be readily seen that the capacity of a range provided with suitable Steam Apparatus in which meat, fish, vegetab'es, puddings, &c., may be cooked, without interfering with the other operations of the range, and without extra firing or other expense, or any additional trouble to the cook, is not only greatly enlarged, but the economy and convenience of the arrangement cannot be overrated. The same fire, without increasing the consumption of fuel, will furnish the requisite supply of steam, and by GRAY & LUCAS'S simple mode of constructing and fitting up their Boilers, perfect safety is secured.

SELF-ACTING OPEN FIRE RANGES.

GRAY & LUCAS have an assortment of Open Fire Self-Acting Ranges, fitted with Oven and Boiler, Sliding Cheeks, Wrought Iron Bars, Brass Cock, Bright Mountings, &c.

GRAY & LUCAS will be happy to forward their new Illustrated Descriptive Catalogue of Open Fire Ranges and Patent Kitcheners post-free on application.

WINE AND SPIRIT MERCHANT,

ROSE AND CROWN INN,

HIGH STREET,

And at 1, WEST HILL, WANDSWORTH.

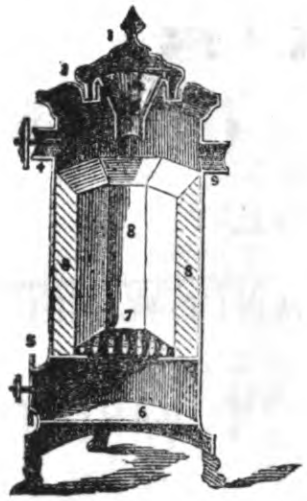

E. MORGAN begs to return her sincere thanks to the Inhabitants of Wandsworth and the Public generally, for the favours bestowed on her late husband during the thirty-three years he was connected with the above business, and, in succeeding him, assures those who may honour her with their patronage that they may depend upon being supplied with the best and choicest articles at the lowest remunerating prices, trusting, by unremitting attention to the wishes of her customers, to merit a continuance of their support and recommendation.

LIST OF PRICES ON APPLICATION.

PATENT VENTILATING STOVES,

FOR

CHURCHES, HALLS, SHOPS, &c.

This Stove continues to give such universal and unqualified satisfaction, that GRAY & LUCAS feel particular pleasure in drawing special attention to its merits, feeling assured, from past experience, that each sale will ensure the recommendation of the purchaser, and tend to promote its general adoption.

It is made of various sizes, and is thoroughly adapted for Churches and other Public Edifices, School Rooms, Halls, Offices, Shops, and most other situations.

1. Loose Cover, or Top.—2. Feed-Funnel.—3. Groove.—4. Ventilator.—5.—Ash-Pit Door, with Regulator.—6. Ash-Pit.—7. Fire-Place.—8. Fire-Brick Lining.—9. Flue.

It is much admired for the simplicity of its construction, the facility afforded for lighting and supplying the fire, its cleanliness, great economy, the regularity of its combustion, and the impossibility of explosion, to which many other Stoves are liable. It is strong, powerful, and durable, and will burn from Eight to Fifteen Hours without attention, varying according to the size, and the quantity of air admitted.

It is large and important in external appearance in proportion to its price; whilst, from the thickness and form of arrangement of the interior fire-brick linings, great warmth is obtained from a very small and steady fire, which, whether of Coal or Coke, burns with entire freedom from smell.

DESCRIPTION.

The top is a loose cover, which may be readily removed, and, from the formation of the feed-funnel, which prevents any escape, the fire can be supplied with fresh fuel without the issue of smoke or dust. The feed-funnel also acts, to a great extent, as a smoke consumer, and thus adds materially to the economy of the Stove. The inside is lined with strong fire-brick. In the ash-hole door is a ventilator to regulate the combustion. Near the top of the Stove is a second ventilator, for the admission of a current of air, which, passing over the fire into the flue, prevents any accumulation of gases, promotes a more uniform draught, and assists the ventilation of the room.

GRAY & LUCAS'

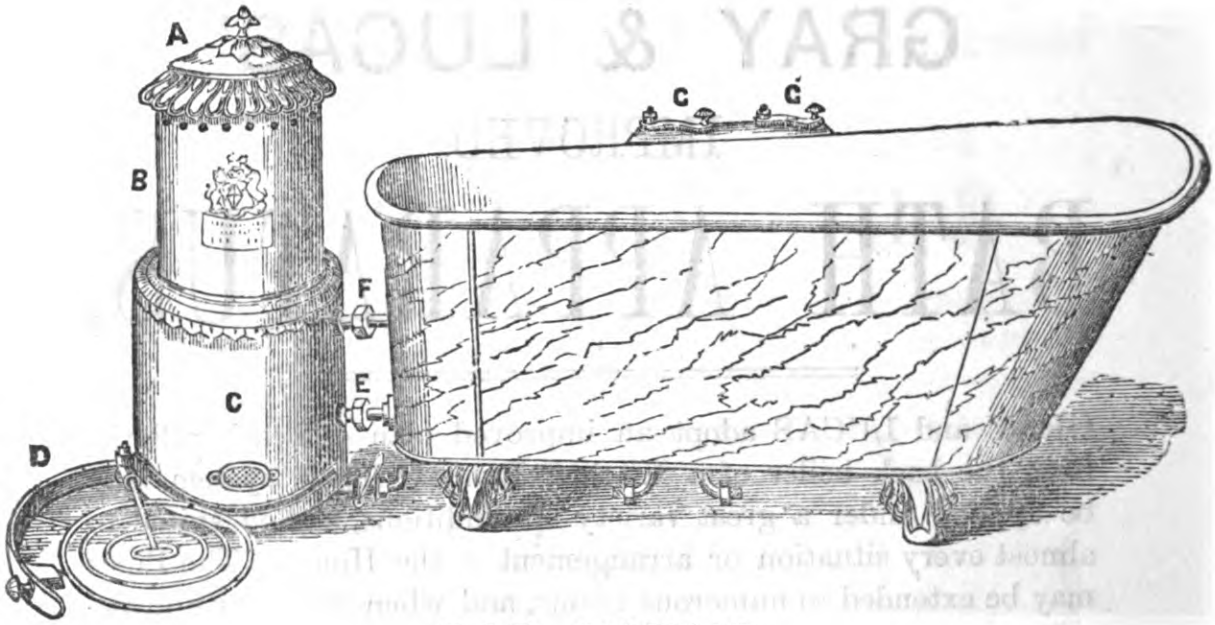

IMPROVED

BATH APPARATUS.

GRAY and LUCAS adopt an improved plan of heating Baths from the back boiler of a Kitchen Range. Their system may be applied under a great variety of conditions, and is suited to almost every situation or arrangement of the House. The Pipes may be extended to numerous rooms, and when fitted with draw-off taps, will furnish a constant supply of hot and cold Water for Nurseries, Bed-rooms, Bath-rooms, Dressing-rooms, or to any part of the House without in any way interfering with the kitchen arrangements. The saving of time and labour thus effected is too evident to require explanation. Hot water may also be supplied for Bath and other purposes from a Boiler of suitable construction, fitted to a Register grate instead of the Kitchen Range when desired; or, if neither be convenient, it may be procured by means of an independent Boiler of copper or welded wrought iron, or a Gas furnace attached to the Bath.

GRAY and LUCAS will be happy to furnish estimates for any Apparatus required, and having thorough personal knowledge and experience in this branch of their business, they beg to remark that whilst good workmanship and efficient arrangements may be depended on, a great saving of trouble and expense will be effected by gentlemen, architects, builders, and others who may favour G. and L. with their commands, instead of calling in the aid of London tradesmen, whose exorbitant charges for work of this and similar descriptions are notorious, but are commonly acquiesced in, as being unavoidable.

Illustrated Prospectus free on application.

EXTRACT FROM "THE BUILDER."

"We were shown a short time since a bed-room fitted up by an earl for his own occasional occupation at the sea-side, in which every piece of furniture, save the iron bedstead, was made of the white wood in question. Dressing Table, Washstand, Drawers, Towel Rails, and Chairs, were as spotless as the crests of the waves beating on the shore, and the very height of cleanliness seemed attained."

FURNISHING DRAPERY.

For more than a quarter of a century ATKINSON & Co. have rigidly adhered to the plan of keeping only the goods supplied by the best manufacturers, and hence they offer a market second to none in the kingdom for the supply of every description of Builders and Contractors supplied with Ranges, Kitcheners, and Stoves of every description on the most advantageous terms.

GRAY & LUCAS, WANDSWORTH, S.W.

THE "DOUGLAS" RANGE.

The "Douglas" is admitted to stand first among Kitcheners in two particulars, extreme simplicity of management and remarkable economy of fuel. It combines all the conveniences of other Ranges at a very moderate price. Its action is regulated by one damper only. It is strongly made and so simple in construction that except by wilful negligence the "Douglas" Range cannot get out of order.

With oven, boiler, hot plate, skirtings at the back and sides, flue with damper, soot doors, ashes pan, sliding register, scraper, flue brush, plug key, brass tap, dripping pan, meat stand, and gridiron.

NEW INVENTION!

TRADE  MARK.

THE AMMONIA SOAP COMPANY

Beg respectfully to solicit a trial of their

AMMONIA SOAP

(HOOKER'S PATENT),

Which will be found to possess very decided advantages over any Soap at present in use.

FOR WASHING AND HOUSEHOLD PURPOSES there is really nothing to equal its cleansing and softening properties. It renders Linen beautifully White, RESTORES FADED COLOURS, and will not in the slightest degree injure even the most delicate fabrics. Soda or washing powder is not required, nor should be used, as either of these substances will only tend to injure the clothes.

Clothes rubbed in over night with Ammonia Soap, will be found to require very little labour, therefore For Machine Washing this Soap will be found Invaluable.

Two Pounds of the Patent Ammonia Soap will go as far as Three Pounds of any other kind.

N.B.—All Bars and Tablets stamped with Trade Mark, without which it is not genuine Ammonia Soap.
