P R E F A C E.

AN authentic, technical Directory of the Staffordshire Potteries has long been felt as a necessity to do justice to its requirements.

This, the first edition, is therefore submitted to the trade, and the usefulness of its aim and objects being seen, we feel assured of being able, on a future occasion, to supply such deficiencies as may be found in the present issue.

The Editor makes his sincere acknowledgments to the numerous gentlemen and firms who have so obligingly rendered assistance, and which has enabled him to compile a work that will, he trusts, from the technical and exclusive information that is supplied in its pages, prove of much practical utility, as a book of reference, to the various branches of the trade, and to buyers at home and abroad.

The Editor also offers his best thanks for the suggestions with which he has been favoured, all of which shall be attentively considered, with a view to develop the usefulness of future editions of this Directory, as it is proposed to continue its publication annually, at the beginning of the year; therefore, meanwhile, any information respecting alterations of names and addresses, additions of new names, particulars as to class of goods produced, or any other information, or items tending to add to its usefulness, will be esteemed a favour by

THE EDITOR.

All communications to be addressed to the EDITOR of the STAFFORDSHIRE POTTERIES' DIRECTORY, 31, Bucklersbury, London, E C.
