PREFACE.

IN introducing this Directory to the public of Bridgwater and the neighbourhood, the publishers desire to express their thanks for the encouragement received from subscribers, and the patronage of advertisers.

The work has been undertaken to meet the want, long felt and often expressed, of a local Directory in a small compass and at a moderate cost. It is obviously impossible to guarantee perfect accuracy in a book of this kind, but they have spared no pains to render it as reliable as possible, the particulars of each parish having been carefully corrected down to the date of going to press.

The general information has been collected and arranged with a special view to the requirements of business men; suggestions for the practical improvement of future editions will be valued.

The heartiest thanks of the publishers are tendered to the clergy, overseers, postmasters, and other gentlemen who have so willingly assisted them in the collection and revision of local information.

Cornhill, Bridgwater,

May, 1883.

“SWEET ARE THE USES OF

WE venture to call attention to the advertisement pages of our Directory, in which will be found the announcements of enterprising men in various departments of business. It may fairly be surmised that those who go to some expense and trouble to attract the attention of the public will seek to prove themselves worthy of continued patronage.

Successful advertising stands in close relation to printers' ink; the business man of the present day pushes trade by circulars, hand bills, posters, and advertisements in the Press. Judicious advertising of good things is sure to pay, if the matter and manner of the advertisement are sufficiently attractive to ensure its being read and remembered.

Having special facilities, as Printers by gas power, and Stereotypers, we undertake the printing of cards, circulars, folders, price lists, hand bills, placards, &c., and endeavour to give satisfaction as to style, time, and price.

We are also prepared to estimate for the folding, wrapping, and addressing of circulars for postage to residents in this district, or to any trade, profession, or class throughout the United Kingdom.

We undertake the insertion of advertisements at scale prices in any London or local Papers, and shall be happy to advise to the best of our ability as to suitable media for particular announcements.

Extracts from criticisms in the "Paper & Printing Trades Journal."

"Messrs. WHITBY & SON have always done good work, but recent specimens show a steady advance both in artistic composition and beauty of presswork."

"Every one of Messrs. WHITBY & SON's specimens shews that their staff use their brains, and are encouraged to think for themselves."

"A fresh selection of exceptionally tasteful examples of letterpress work has been received from Messrs. WHITBY & SON, Bridgwater, who continue to sustain their well-earned reputation for high artistic and technical execution. .... Much good taste is shewn in combination of ornaments and plain and curved rules."

Mr. O. C. SMITH,
ARTIST & PHOTOGRAPHER.

MR. SMITH being one of the few trained Artists practising Photography in this County, can therefore produce work of first-rate excellence. Having had over twenty-five years' experience, he feels confident that any one wishing to give their friends a likeness worth accepting will avail themselves of the opportunity of being taken by an Artist, who would represent them in a natural and graceful position, and with a pleasing expression—points totally beyond the powers of untrained and inexperienced Photographers. He also wishes to call attention to the fact that, having passed examinations in Chemistry, he can guarantee permanency to a very great extent, and would caution the public against the work of Photographers who have no chemical knowledge whatever.
